ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, June 12; Madras and Allahabad, June 10; Calcutta, June 9.

THE reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending June 1 state that rain was plentiful in British Burma and Mysor, and general in Assam, Bengal, and Madras. In Bombay, Berar, the Central Provinces, Central India, the North Western Provinces and Oudh, Rajputana and Punjab, the rain that fell was slight and more or less partial. In Bengal cultivation has been impeded in places by rain. Autumn sowings are progressing satisfactorily. Agricultural prospects and the public health continue generally good. Later telegrams to the Meteorological Reporter appear to show that the monsoon had set in on the Malabar coast, in Burma, and at the mouth of the Hooghly by the 2nd June.

THE general health reports for the same week are:—Bombay: Health good. Bengal: Small-pox and cholera still in places, and fever in Chittagong Hill Tracts; public health otherwise good. North West Provinces and Oudh: Cholera continues in Benares, and has reappeared in Parthagarh, but decreasing in Gorakhpur and Allahabad; health otherwise good. Punjab: Health fair. British Burma: Small-pox abating; general health good. Mysor and Coorg: Fever continuing. Hyderabad: Fever and small-pox in one taluka only. Rajputana and Ajmere: Health good. Kalmandur: Cholera still prevalent.

WE have received the following telegram from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, JUNE 26.—From Cabul, reported Muhammed Jan in Logar, but collection with him small. No opposition anticipated to Gough's brigade in Lughman. Ghazni field force returns (to?) Logar owing to difficulty of supplies near Cabul for so large a force. Principal religious leaders said to be now working in favour (of) British to disperse gatherings of Ghazis, which are nowhere formidable. Brother of Jellalabad Governor being hard pressed by Mulla Fakir in Lughman. Force moved to assist him. Object effected without fighting. No further disturbance in Khyber. Malcontent leaders quarrelling among themselves. Wali Kandahar at Girishk. All quiet in province, but rumours of early movement of troops from Herat in Kandahar direction. Quetta report, country generally quiet. Only few gang robberies on Hurnai route."

THE reply of Abdul Rahman, which has been received at Cabul, assumes that, the plainest statements on our part notwithstanding, he has been offered the whole of Dost Mahomed's dominions. This has occasioned bitter mistrust of his intentions. The recent telegram states that the Ghilzais have attacked our convoys. A gang of dacoits which have infested the line of railway in Pishin has been dispersed. We may expect important news from Kandahar, and an uneasy feeling is said to prevail at Simla with regard to Afghanistan.

ACCORDING to a Reuter's telegram, dated yesterday, conflicting accounts have been received at Simla as to the number of the enemy in the Maidan, Logar, Kohistan, and Kohdaman districts, but on the whole the country is reported quiet. The hostile parties in Lughman have been dispersed.

THE Bombay correspondent of the Standard telegraphed yesterday that Ayoub Khan, with eleven regiments of infantry, thirty-six guns, and a strong force of cavalry, has arrived at Furrab. His advanced guard of cavalry, which is commanded by the former governor of Turkestan, is some way ahead of him on the Kandahar road. Ayoub tells the troops that the British have spent millions of rupees in Kandahar, which will all be their property after they have driven out the English. A Kandahar telegram states that a column comprising all arms moves on Girish directly to support the Wali.

THE rebellion of the Nyungoke prince has collapsed, although last week reported as having gained a success, and being on the advance he has been completely defeated and driven back. In crossing the frontier he was taken charge of by the British police at Thayetmyo, and is probably now on his way back to Calcutta.

NOTWITHSTANDING the official repudiation of the rumour, which recalls similar experiences as to the Turkoman victory, there can be little doubt that the story brought by Khokandis from Ura Tepe to Cabul, and telegraphed on Wednesday from Simla, of the defeat of the Russian army in the Teek Pass, is true. The retreating Russians were pursued and again attacked at Kizil Kurghan and forced to retire to Osh. As a comment on this we read in the Daily News a St. Petersburg telegram of Wednesday as follows:—

"Intelligence from Cronstadt reports that the cruiser Russia will leave to-day for Vladivostock, calling at Port Said, Singapore, and Nagasaki. She carries two torpedo boats and seventy-six first class and 1,200 third class passengers. Amongst the first, we understand, are four generals, eleven colonels, and about sixty officers. The remainder of the complement is mostly composed of sappers and miners, artilleryists, and other men of the scientific branches. A large number of non-commissioned officers have, I am informed, already started to form the cadres of the regiments. Considerable preparations are evidently being made to meet all contingencies. The Pacific fleet altogether comprises twenty-six large vessels, thirty torpedo boats, and a number of transports. General Lessofsky's appointment as commander of the Pacific squadron, although not gazetted, is quite recognised. He will leave for his post via Odessa."

THE Indian papers state that although there were no large public demonstrations during the journey of H.E. the Marquis of Ripon to Simla reports agree in saying that the Viceroy made as favourable an impression on the people of Khundwa, where he accorded a private interview to his Highness Maharaja Holkar, of Cawnpore, and other places as he created in Bombay. His Excellency was received with all the accustomed ceremonial at Simla, the chiefs of Pattiala, Jheend, and Nabha being present among the other dignitaries, and was duly installed on June 8. A telegram states that Earl Lytton and family left Bombay this morning by mail steamer.

THE Marchioness of Ripon has allowed her name to be added to the list of vice presidents of the National Indian Association.

MR. LEPEL GRIFFIN has been summoned to Simla to confer with the Viceroy respecting the state of affairs in Afghanistan.

WE hear that it is the intention of the Marquis of Hartington to visit India during the recess.

IN reference to the statement that the Right Hon. W. Adam would probably be the next Governor of Madras we have received the following:—"The announcement in some of the papers that the Right Hon. W. Adam has been appointed to the Governorship of Madras is altogether premature. No arrangement has yet been decided upon as to the successor of the Duke of Buckingham, whose term of office will not be completed until November."

WE give elsewhere an extract from General Stewart's despatches reporting on the recent actions near Ghuzni. The Viceroy conveys his own and the Government of India's sincere and grateful thanks to Sir Donald Stewart and his troops, stating that their services will be submitted for recognition by the Crown.

A HOBART TOWN paper says that Lieut. Col. Angelo, of Latrobe, will be appointed to the command of the volunteer forces of Tasmania. The commandant elect is a retired Indian officer; he is about forty years of age, and has seen active service both in India and in the Crimea.

OUR contemporary, Life, asserts emphatically that, notwithstanding the telegrams from St. Petersburg and Berlin, the Marquis Tsing, Chinese Ambassador at the Court of St. James, has not only not gone to Berlin on his way to St. Petersburg, incognito or otherwise, but that his Excellency has not even left London, and has no present intention of doing so. He has accepted social invitations in London for this evening. No doubt he intended some time ago to visit St. Petersburg in the hope of effecting a reconciliation between his Government and that of the Czar on the great Kuldja Question, but the march of events in Eastern Turkestan has been too rapid for diplomacy.

THE resignation of her Majesty's Bengal Civil Service by the Hon. Louis Jackson, C.S.I., is gazetted. Mr. C. D. Field is appointed to the judgeship in the Calcutta High Court vacant by his retirement.

THE Government of India have accepted the offer of Mr. E. Buck, C.S., president of the Melbourne Exhibition Committee, to visit Melbourne while on furlough in the interests of Indian collections. Mr. O'Connor also represents Government. Mr. D. A. Sibthorpe goes "to represent tea interest." Mr. J. Inglis, author of "Maori," a well-known sporting book, has, it is said, accepted the duty of writing an official report on the Indian exhibits.

A GOVERNMENT resolution of some interest to engineers is published in the Gazette of India. In order to restore promotion to the former standard, but on a more satisfactory basis, it has been decided, subject to the approval of the Secretary of State, that an addition shall be made to the permanent number of officers in each of the higher grades of executive engineers and the first grade of assistant engineers, so as to allow of the promotion of a number of officers from the junior grades of those classes corresponding to the normal number of officers on furlough. It is added that the numbers to be added in the several lists to the grades indicated will be published in a separate order.

THE Government of India have recently issued a resolution to the effect that for the present, and until further orders, all officers serving beyond the North Western frontier shall be allowed the privilege of remitting their salaries, either in whole or in part, by means of transfer receipts at par, to any Presidency town in India. The Comptroller General will issue the necessary instructions to the Treasury officers at Quetta, Peshawar, and Kohat, or any other treasuries which may be established to the westward of these stations.

TELEGRAMS report that the P. and O. mail steamer Venetia, which left Suez on June 25, grounded on the 29th in thick weather on the north side of Tebel Zooghur, the largest island in the Red Sea, lat. 14 deg. N. The mails and passengers were brought on to Aden by the Princess Amalia. The Venetia, after jettisoning coals, floated off and proceeded to Aden, where she re-embarked the passengers and mails. She started yesterday for Bombay.

A PARLIAMENTARY return, due to the motion of Sir George Balfour, contains the instructions given by the Secretary of State in Council to the Government of India, directing the cost of the frontier railways and other charges to be entered as part of the war expenditure. The continuation of the Punjab Northern Railway from Jhelum to Rawul Pindi is considered to be a work of a permanent character, calculated to be of material benefit to the surrounding population. The Government of India wished to consider the "railways towards Kandahar, Kashalgarh, and Peshawar" as State railways, to be charged as such. The Secretary of State insisted on their being debited to war charges, with the exception of the Rawul Pindi extension.

THE sum of £3,661 has just been forwarded from India to the Princess Alice Memorial Fund, being contributed chiefly by native princes and gentlemen. The fund now amounts to over £7,000.

THE list of presentations to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales at Wednesday's levee included the following. By the Secretary of State for India:—

Major O. Barnes, 10th Bengal (Duke of Cambridge's Own) Lancers; Col. H. F. M. Boisragon, Bengal Staff Corps, commanding 4th Sikhs Punjab Frontier Force; Col. T. W. R. Boisragon, Bengal Staff Corps, commandant 30th Regiment Punjab N.I.; Major J. Browne, C.B., on appointment; Khan Sahib Inayat Ali Khan; Major Graham Mayne, assistant agent to the Governor General at Baroda; Lieut. A. R. Porter, 28th Punjab Native Infantry; Surg. Gen. G. H. Ray, Bengal Army; Major B. G. Vyvyan, 7th Bengal Native Infantry; Mr. Mahomed Hameed Ullah; Mouvi Sameeulla Khan; Lieut. Gen. Montgomery, C.S.I., on promotion and return from India; Major James Waterhouse, Bengal Staff Corps; and Lieut. Col. E. F. H. Armstrong, Madras Staff Corps, by his father, Gen. Edward Armstrong, C.B.; Mr. Isaac Swinburne Bond, member of the Legislative Council of the Straits Settlements, by the Secretary of State for the Colonies; also Lieut. E. B. Coke, R.F.A., on return from active service in Afghanistan, by the Deputy Adjutant General, R.A.; Lieut. Col. E. Tanner, 8th (The King's) Regiment, on promotion and return from Afghanistan, by Major Gen. G. W. Powlett Bingham, C.B.

THE recent reports from Darjiling state that the tea gardens were suffering not only from the "red spider" but from the "green blight." The Indian Government, at the request of a number of planters, has determined to institute a thorough inquiry into the nature and the best preventive of the former pest of the tea industry. As the causes of this blight are not well understood, it has been resolved to send Mr. Wood Mason, curator of the Indian Museum, to visit the tea districts and investigate the circumstances under which it appears. He will afterwards go to Europe to study the recent discoveries whereby fungi are used to extirpate the phylloxera.

THE Banks of Bengal and Madras, at their meeting on June 10, reduced the rate of interest 1 per cent. all round.

THE value of merchandise, including Government stores and treasure, imported from foreign ports into India in April last was Rs.5,10,64,068, as compared with Rs.4,55,09,286 during the corresponding month of last year. The total value of the exports to foreign ports was Rs.7,52,18,866, against Rs.6,64,64,283 in April 1879.

THE Times of India gives the following obituary of the week:—Mr. T. E. Vaughan, Bengal S.C.; Mr. J. Paul, agent of the Indian Gold Mines Company; Mr. R. Hammond, M.R.C.V.S.L.; Captain John Dixon.

THE SIAMESE EMBASSY.

THE Queen held a Court at Windsor Castle yesterday to receive his Excellency Chow Phya Bhanuwongse Maha Kosa Tiboditi Phraklang, the Siamese Ambassador, accompanied by the members of the Embassy. After presenting his credentials his Excellency presented to her Majesty a letter from the King of Siam, and delivered a short address, of which the following is a translation:—"Your Majesty,—His Majesty the King of Siam, my august Sovereign, desiring to give a proof of his Majesty's high esteem and regard for your Majesty, has appointed me, his Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary, to offer to your Majesty in his Royal name and person the most exalted and distinguished Royal Order of the White Elephant of Siam. Your Majesty,—It is the wish of my Sovereign that the amicable relations so happily subsisting between the kingdoms of Siam and of Great Britain and its dependencies under your Majesty's rule should be fostered and perpetuated in increasing happiness and prosperity. As Ambassador of my august Sovereign to your Majesty, duly charged to convey his Majesty's high sentiments of respect for your Majesty, I beg permission to offer the expression of my profound respect and good wishes for your Majesty's increasing prosperity and happiness." Her Majesty returned a gracious answer. His Excellency then, in the name of his Majesty the King of Siam, presented her Majesty with the insignia of the Order of the White Elephant, which was borne by the Secretary of the Embassy on a cushion. The Queen then invested his Excellency with the insignia of a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and conferred the honour of knighthood upon him. Her Majesty also conferred the honour of the Companionship of the Order of St. Michael and St. George upon Prince Prisdang, the secretary of the Embassy, Sir Albert Woods, Garter King of Arms, bearing the insignia of the two degrees in the Order on the cushion. The following members of the Embassy were then presented to her Majesty by the Ambassador—viz., Prince Pr dang, secretary and interpreter; Phra Sri Dhramasa, attaché; Phra Sutam Maitri, attaché; Hluong Kosa Nukarn Swatdi, attaché; Nai Sanbha Vichai, attaché; Chamun Vichit Chai Sakdawoot aide de camp to the King of Siam; Lai Sa interpreter; and Mr. Thomas Windsor, interpreter. Phya Ratua Kosa, first secretary of the Embassy, was prevented by indisposition from being present. Mr. W. A. Cockerell, who is specially appointed to attend upon the Embassy, was presented to her Majesty by Earl Granville. The Ambassador and suite then retired.—Court Circular.

THE BATTLE OF AHMAD KHEL.

A CONSIDERABLE amount of space in the Gazette of India is occupied by the despatches of Sir Donald Stewart and General Macpherson on the actions near Ghuzni. They are prefaced by the following appreciative notification:—"His Excellency the Right Hon. the Viceroy and Governor General in Council has high gratification in directing the publication of the following despatches from Lieut. General Sir D. M. Stewart, K.C.B., reporting the success of her Majesty's arms at Ahmad Khel on April 19, and in the neighbourhood of Ghuzni on April 23, 1880. The Governor General in Council fully appreciates the enduring value of these successes, which are no less attributable to the skilful direction and decision of the commander than to the courage and endurance of the troops under his orders. It will be the Viceroy's pleasing duty to bring the services of Sir Donald Stewart and his force to the marked notice of her Majesty's Government, and to request that they may be submitted to the Crown for that full and gracious recognition which her Majesty never withholds from loyal and brave service. Meanwhile, on his own part and on the part of the Government of India, the Earl of Lytton tenders to Lieut. General Sir Donald Stewart, and to all who served under his orders, his sincere and grateful thanks for the distinguished and valued service they have rendered to their country." The Commander in Chief likewise, through the adjutant general, expresses his sense of the admirable manner in which the operations under Sir Donald Stewart, including the march to Ghuzni, and the engagements now reported, had been conducted:—"The whole of the arrangements for the march which has terminated so successfully were excellent; and in a country deserted by its inhabitants, where supplies are scarce and transport difficult, everything proceeded with a regularity which showed how well and carefully the preparations had been made. In regard to the engagement at Ahmad Khel, Sir Frederick Haines feels sure that the Government will concur with him and Sir Donald Stewart that the conduct of the troops was beyond praise, and will consider that great credit is due to Sir Donald and to the officers under him for the judicious dispositions and successful handling of the men under their command in circumstances of exceptional difficulty, when attacked by a large number of desperate men entirely reckless of their own lives." Sir Donald Stewart concludes his despatch referring to his action as follows:—"The casualties during the engagement amounted to—killed, seventeen; wounded, 124, of whom nine are officers. More than 1,000 dead bodies of the enemy were counted on the field, and their loss is estimated at from 2,000 to 3,000. Taking into consideration the character of the attack, led as it was by swarms of fanatics determined to sacrifice their own lives, the conduct of the troops engaged was beyond praise. I now desire to bring to the notice of his Excellency the Commander in Chief and of the Government excellent service performed on this occasion by Brigadier Generals R. J. Hughes and C. H. Palliser, C.B., on whose brigades the brunt of the action fell. The resolute firmness with which the key of the position was held by the 2nd Sikh Infantry and the 3rd Goorkha Regiment under Brigadier General Hughes' direction, when the right of the line was pushed back, is evidence of that officer's soldierlike qualifications. The judicious and vigorous manner in which the cavalry was handled in the open country on the right of the line reflects the highest credit on Brigadier-Gen. Palliser, C.B. I am much indebted to Brigadier Gen. R. Barter for the rapidity with which he brought up his brigade, a distance of six miles from the rear. To Lieut. Col. E. F. Chapman, deputy adjutant and quartermaster general, I am much indebted for the able assistance which he uniformly affords me in his responsible office. My thanks are also due to Major A. G. Handcock, assistant adjutant general; Capt. A. Gaselee, assistant quartermaster general, and Capt. L. T. Bishop, deputy assistant quartermaster general; whose zeal and activity merit high commendation. At the most critical period of the action I observed Capt. Gaselee encouraging the retiring line, and I believe that the gallant example he set the men by advancing towards the enemy and calmly shooting down some of the most forward of them had the very best effect on the soldiers. I have to thank Col. A. C. Johnson, Royal Horse Artillery, commanding the Royal Artillery, for the amiable disposition of the batteries under his command. The arrangements for the immediate care of the wounded reflect the highest care upon Deputy Surgeon General A. Smith, C.B., the principal medical officer with the force; and the exertions of the subordinate medical staff deserve my warmest acknowledgments. To Capt. E. M. Larminie, R.E., officiating commanding royal engineer, Major C. Cowie, R.A., commissary of ordnance, and Capt. R. F. C. A. Tytler, deputy judge advocate, I am much indebted for the ready assistance they have always given me in their respective departments. Capt. Tytler, has, moreover, been most useful to me as an orderly officer in action. My aide-de-camp, Capt. N. R. Stewart, Bengal Staff Corps, has performed his duties to my entire satisfaction; and I desire to thank him as well as Lieut. J. E. Dickie, R.E., superintendent of army signalling, for their services in conveying my orders. To Capt. W. V. Ellis, provost marshal, as well as to Capt. W. A. Lawrence, general transport officer, and his assistants, I am under special obligations; for it was by their unremitting attention that the enormous mass of transport animals and followers was kept under control during the action. As the baggage and trains were massed within a short distance of the fighting line any confusion among them would have been most calamitous, and would probably have led to a serious disaster. Owing to Capt. C. F. Hughes, Bombay Staff Corps, deputy assistant commissary general, having been incapacitated by an accident, the duties of principal commissariat officer with the force devolved on Lieut. B. L. P. Reilly, Bombay Staff Corps. My thanks are due to him and the officers temporarily employed with the Commissariat Department for their exertions in supplying the force under very difficult circumstances. To Major C. B. Euan Smith, C.S.I., the chief political officer with the force, who was in attendance on me during the action, I am under the deepest obligations. The tact displayed by this officer in his relations with the chiefs and people with whom we were brought into contact calls for my warmest approbation. Major Smith was ably assisted in his important duties by Major R. C. R. Clifford, 2nd Punjab Cavalry, an excellent and energetic officer of great merit, who also acted as my orderly officer during the day. The attentions to the wounded of the Rev. T. L. J. Warneford and the Rev. Father J. Allen, Roman Catholic chaplain, deserve special mention; it affords me much pleasure to bring their services to notice. I would submit, for the favourable consideration of his Excellency the Commander in Chief, the names of the following officers commanding batteries and regiments, whose services have been brought prominently to notice by their respective brigadier generals:—Major H. de G. Warter, commanding A-B. Royal Horse Artillery; Major Sir J. W. Campbell, Bart., commanding G-4th Royal Artillery; Major J. A. Tillard, commanding No. 6-11th, Royal Artillery; Major N. H. Harris, commanding No. 11-11th Royal Artillery; Lieut. Col. C. S. Maclean, commanding the 1st Punjab Cavalry; Col. T. G. Kennedy, C.B., commanding the 2nd Punjab Cavalry; Lieut. Col. J. J. Collins, commanding the 2-6th Rifles; Lieut. Col. G. R. Hennessy, commanding the 15th Sikhs; Lieut. Col. J. W. Hoggan, commanding the 25th Punjab Native Infantry; Lieut. Col. J. J. Boswell, commanding the 2nd Sikh Infantry; Col. H. H. Lyster, V.C., commanding the 3rd Goorkha Regiment; Lieut. Col. A. Copland, commanding the 19th Punjab Native Infantry; Capt. L. F. Brown, R.E., commanding No. 10 Company Sappers and Miners; Lieut. P. Haslett, R.E., commanding No. 4 Company Sappers and Miners; Lieut. A. Davidson, 2-6th Rifles, commanding the lieutenant general's escort. The following officers are also favourably mentioned:—By Brigadier-Generals commanding brigades:—Major M. H. Nicolson, Bombay Infantry, brigade major 2nd Infantry Brigade; Lieut. F. Stevenson, 19th Bombay Native Infantry, Capt. E. B. Bishop, 3rd Goorkha Regiment, orderly officers to Brig.-Gen. Hughes. The gallant behaviour of Lieut. and Adjutant S. Watson, 59th Foot, and of Sub-Lieut. H. M. Twynam, 59th Foot, is brought specially to notice. Major G. C. Bird, 1st Punjab Cavalry, brigade major, Cavalry Brigade; Lieut. W. E. G. Forbes, 2-6th Royals, Lieut. A. C. Batten, 2nd Punjab Cavalry, Lieut. C. Hoskyns, R.E., orderly officers to Brig.-Gen. Palliser, C.B.; Major J. R. B. Atkinson, Captain D. S. Cuninghame, Lieut. H. A. Deane, Rosaldar MacAlam Khan, 1st Punjab Cavalry; Major F. Lance, Capt. J. H. Broome, Capt. J. R. Campbell, Kasalgar Lahrassal Khan, 2nd Punjab Cavalry; Capt. G. M. Abbott, Lieut. E. Bruce, Ressaldar Jowahir Singh, Jemadar Mahomed Khan, Jemadar Gulab Singh, 19th Bengal Lancers; Capt. R. Corbett, Royal Horse Artillery; Capt. H. T. Lugard, Royal Artillery; Capt. C. F. Call, Royal Engineers; Capt. R. Chalmer, 2-6th Rifles, brigade major, 1st Infantry Brigade; Lieut. C. Hope, 2-6th Rifles, Lieut. R. E. W. Copeland Crawford, 2-6th Rifles, Lieut. R. E. Golightly, orderly officers to Brig. Gen. Barter."

A nominal roll of killed and wounded is appended. The number of British soldiers killed was four, namely, Private George Rutherford, 59th Foot; Colour Sergeant J. H. Chessum, Private W. Blake, Private H. Ward, 60th Rifles. Among the wounded were Captain Richard Corbett A-B Royal Horse Artillery (dangerously); Gunner Peter Woods (severely); Gunner William Middleton (slightly); Col. P. S. Yorke (slightly); Lieut. E. A. Young (dangerously); Lieut. Harry S. Massey, Lieut. Stewart D. Gordon (slightly);

Capt. J. H. Broome (slightly); Lieut. C. J. L. Stuart (severely); Brevet Lieut. Col. Lawson (severely); Lieut. and Adjutant S. Watson (slightly); and Private J. Wood (mortally, died 20th).

QUALIFICATIONS FOR PROMOTION.

THE following general order by his Excellency the Commander in Chief has been issued at Simla:—"Instances having been brought to the notice of the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief of officers being reported on War-office Form 1,114 (now Army Form B 194), as having qualified professionally and educationally for promotion, without due care having been taken to ascertain that they have passed all the requisite qualifying tests, the Commander in Chief in India has been desired by his Royal Highness to instruct commanding officers to report specially, and as early as possible, the time and place of the examination and the subjects in which each officer has passed, or quote the general orders in which the result was notified, so as to remove doubt and obviate the references which very frequently create much inconvenience. The reports in duplicate, in form attached, to be sent as early as practicable to the office of the Adjutant-General in India, whence the necessary communication will be transmitted to the Horse Guards for the information of his Royal Highness. A report in similar form, showing the qualifications of all officers, not shown as fully qualified in previous reports, and accepted as such in this department is to be submitted on January 1 annually. His Excellency has been further desired to invite the attention of commanding officers to the number of officers in their regiments, many of considerable standing, who, having had opportunities afforded them, have not yet qualified for promotion. It should be pointed out to all such that, whenever doubt exists as to officers being qualified, promotions are not made without reference to the director general for information on the point: it is merely as an indulgence that his Royal Highness recommends the provisional promotion of unqualified officers to the Queen, instead of selecting their juniors who have qualified for advancement."

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

THE SOLVENCY OF INDIA.*

IT is a noteworthy fact that the magazines of the month, with scarcely an exception, deal in one way or another with the finances of India. Mr. Hyndman describes her as bleeding to death. Others take a more hopeful view. Mr. Probyn has contributed not an article, but a pamphlet, which is worthy of perusal. Taking the true test of the solvency of a Government to lie in its ability without oppressive taxation to pay interest on its debts and keep its liabilities from increasing, he discusses the twofold question whether India will stand this test, and, if not, whether the preventing causes are temporary or permanent. He does not regard the taxation as oppressive, but carefully examines the increase in Indian liabilities, which in seven years have increased nearly seven millions. He shows that this is due to exceptional causes—the famine, loss by exchange, and, in a very small degree, to the war. He further argues that the actual increase of liabilities almost exactly corresponded with the loss by famine, which must be considered as exceptional, and, even if famines recur in their predicted regularity, is not likely to be at all as heavy. For his views, sensible and practical, about the expansiveness of the revenue and the question of exchange we refer our readers to his pamphlet. One suggestion is worth quoting, in reference to the apportionment of the Afghan war charges between England and India. "It seems a fairer and more equitable way of England and India balancing their accounts would be if England would advance money herself for the prosecution of public works in India either directly or by a guarantee." He refers to the Suez Canal shares as admitting the principle of such an investment.

THE NATIONAL INDIAN ASSOCIATION.*

THE monopoly of salt in India is attacked in this month's Journal by Mr. U. Dutt as retarding the development of manufactures, among which he specifies soda, soap, and paper. He will watch Messrs. McCorquodale's enterprise with interest and instruction. As to his arguments about the glass trade, India is scarcely in need of Crystal Palaces and plant-houses. A review of Sir Salar Jung's administrative reforms, though only a sketch of his work, is good as far as it goes. The members of the Northbrook Club have inspired Miss Dora Greenwell with some pretty domestic lines. The elder Niebuhr's account of Bombay is continued, and the Professor of Sanskrit at St. Petersburg describes his impressions of the points of strong resemblance between the religious institutions of Russia and India, which must be read to be appreciated.

CORRESPONDENCE.

COL. WHITE'S "REMINISCENCES."

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—For the honour of the Divine Founder of the Christian religion I am most desirous to set you right on one most important part of your review of my "Indian Reminiscences." I allude to the following passage:—"Col. White certainly contrives to demonstrate that a sincere Christian may be intensely uncharitable and unforgiving." Now, my dear Sir, it is quite impossible that I should be both a sincere Christian and intensely unforgiving; because love and forgiveness are the essence, yea, quintessence, of the religion of Christ, who, in his first recorded sermon, declared "But if ye forgive not men their trespasses neither will your Father forgive your trespasses" (Matthew vi., xv.). If, therefore, I am intensely unforgiving, it is then quite clear that I cannot be a Christian at all, but that I must be a self-deceiver, if not a downright hypocrite. But allow me to ask, Have you not jumped rather hastily to a conclusion on this point? Surely the mere recording in my autobiography a faithful account of my wrongs does not necessarily imply that I still feel bitterly towards the wrongdoer. I am, at all events, very sorry if this has been the impression conveyed thereby; for I can truly say that I do not feel any resentment whatever to any who either hindered my professional advancement, or who wrongfully occasioned me the loss of hundreds of pounds, or who endeavoured to get me expelled from the service. But since my book is a kind of history of India in a narrative form, at least from the Sikh campaign to the suppression of the great Sepoy revolt, I therefore claim my right, as an annalist, to censure the dead according to their merits. There is only one inadvertent passage in my book which seems to give some colour to the present entertainment on my part of a little soreness of feeling. It occurs at page 174, in the following remark on my sentence to be cashiered in December, 1857:—"I have no patience, even at this distance of time, to speak of the hard-heartedness of several officers composing the minority of the members of the court who, by declining to join in the recommendation to mercy, condemned an innocent man as far as they could to temporal ruin. I consider their conduct worse than the bitterest enemies I have ever had in my whole lifetime." This passage, which had better have been left out, betrays, I must candidly confess, a certain degree of dislike. But at all events these officers, for all I knew to the contrary, may be yet alive at the present time, and assuredly were they to ask my forgiveness I should frankly accord it without a word of reproach.

Secondly, Are you not putting the case too strong, are you not subjecting my statements to a magnifying process, in saying that I have attributed the deaths of brave men to their having taken part against me in some petty quarrel? Referring to the statements in my book, I find I have not said so; but there is merely a remark at page 55 that I could not help regarding it as "a remarkable circumstance" the deaths of two officers from cholera who had taken part against me; and there is another at page 174, where I speak of the extraordinary deaths of four officers who were concerned in bringing me to a court-martial in December, 1857, within a few months afterwards, as being "very remarkable." But all that can be legitimately drawn from this is that I regard it as a very remarkable coincidence, which I certainly do. But it is not right, it is not logical, to deduce a fact from one or even two coincidences.—I remain, dear Sir, yours truly,

S. DEWE WHITE, Colonel,
Late Bengal Staff Corps.

Southsea, June 23.

[We gladly give Colonel White the opportunity of assuring our readers, who may or may not also be readers of his work, that he would, if asked, have forgiven any surviving opponents. His letter is a valuable appendix to his book, as his views of unforgetting forgiveness would be to a work on casuistry. With regard to an unpublished portion of his letter, we readily assure him that we did not seriously imagine him to have represented the "Protestant," or any other martyrs, as mad dogs, and beg to call his attention to the meaning of the verb "seems," and the context of the passage which he controverts. We must add that we did not deduce a fact from Colonel White's "remarkable coincidences," but an opinion as to his own meaning, which his own words justify to any ordinary readers, and which we congratulate him on having repudiated.—ED. A.I.M.]

THE CARWAR RAILWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—The passage in the blue-book mentioned by your correspondent "T." drew my attention at the time, and I concluded from it that the influences which had caused the Carwar Railway scheme to be recommended by the Governor General's Council during the interregnum in 1872 had again been at work. I cordially join in your correspondent's "protest against civilians, unacquainted with war, being permitted to pooh-pooh the construction of works upon which the existence of our Indian Empire may depend;" but I also protest against State money being expended upon costly works, on the plea of their usefulness in a military point of view, until the military authorities responsible for the safety of the country have recognised and declared that the works are needed.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant, J. DACOSTA.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE COTTON FRAUDS LEGISLATION.

THE object of the various cotton frauds Acts was not especially to protect the exporting merchants, but to "guard the country from the misfortune of losing one of its most valuable export trades." This argument, however, like many old saws, cuts both ways. It is clear that if the establishment of the Cotton Frauds Department was not maintained for the particular benefit of the Bombay merchant that there could be no just reason in saddling him with the cost, which, in this instance—as Bombay cotton alone was taxed—could not, like other taxes, be passed on to the consumer's shoulders. Protection against fraud, although the right of the merchant, so far as the law can secure it, is not so much needed by him as it is by the ryot, who finds the value of his produce falling because his neighbour has taken to swindling. Adulteration may be, in fact, a source of positive gain to the purchaser, who buys for a price diminished in a greater ratio than the loss of value resulting from the adulteration. When, then, it is said "why should not the grower be allowed to mix his cotton when he deceives no one, and only succeeds in getting a much lower price for his mixture than he could have done for the staples in their natural state," the answer is plain. Because he, by his attempted fraud, also depreciates the value of his more honest neighbour's produce and helps to drive away trade from the country. The adulteration of cotton cannot serve any useful end, it can only be intended as fraud. The fact of the fraud being generally unsuccessful, as far as the swindler's own interests are concerned, does not tend to make the swindle less. We therefore consider the Secretary of State's reasoning sound, when he declines to permit the repeal of all special legislation in the Bombay cotton trade. In India particularly, as in other more advanced countries, morality often follows the law. The abolition of all legislation in this matter would have been understood by the ryots as an intimation that fraudulent practices might in future be carried on with perfect impunity. The result would have been certain. The permanent welfare of the many would have been in this matter, as it has been in others, sacrificed to the shortsighted greed of a few. However, all fraudulent practices are still to be forbidden by law. A bill is now being prepared for introduction into the Bombay Legislative Council to repeal the last Cotton Frauds Act No. VII. of 1878, and re-enacting the substance of Bombay Act IX. of 1863, with the omission of the provisions relating to the export fee and the special establishment. By this arrangement the objectionable provision of the last Act, by which cotton found adulterated might be seized at any time and in any hands, and by which injustice might be easily inflicted upon innocent purchasers who had already suffered, will be repealed. The law will still render fraud and adulteration penal, and action may be taken either by the injured party or by the magisterial authorities. No objection can be taken to this except by those who argue that the penal code as it stands provides sufficiently for cases of fraud of all kinds, and that special legislation is therefore superfluous. Whether in practice this would be found to be the case is another question which is open to discussion. If the clauses of the penal code relating to fraud are not sufficiently comprehensive they might be made so, and thus the necessity or the pretext for special legislation would be obviated. The great scandal against which we always protested was the maintenance of a special department which, under pretence that it looked after the interests of the merchants—who declared that they did not need its help—mulcted the trade of two annas on every bale of cotton. That grievance is at an end. Since a new Act is now to be passed continuing the provisions against the adulteration of the raw material, it is almost a pity that the opportunity is not to be taken to render the adulteration of manufactured goods illegal as well and to prohibit the importation of adulterated piece goods from abroad.—Bombay Gazette.

THE INDIAN TEA TRADE.

THE Indian tea industry has reached a point when, the supply exceeding the demand, prices naturally fall. Hitherto, the more limited quantity has been taken off by the mixing market and at enhanced rates. When, however, Indian tea from sheer quantity has to be put on the ordinary market—level with China and Japan—the prices realised are so low that there is little or no margin for profit left. To this Indian teas are rapidly coming, and unless they can be sold at a profit at eight annas a pound all round, it is to be feared production must be curtailed. This, however, with labour at its present price, is impossible. Of all the items of cost that demand attention that of "labour" is the most important; indeed, it immensely outweighs all others combined. With a view to its reduction the chief desiderata appear to be:—1st. The removal of the many obstructions that exist in the way of local recruiting in Bengal, and the opening out of districts at present closed to recruiters. 2nd. The minimising of Government interference en route, so as to enable coolies to be landed (in Upper Assam say) at Rs.20 or Rs.25 per adult, which, if private passengers can go for Rs.18, as we are assured is the case, should be enough. 3rd. The substitution of five for three years' contracts, which would not only save the planter a large sum in bonuses, but give the new coolie a greatly enhanced prospective value in the eyes of importers. 4th. The issue of rice at cost price, the saving from which alone would almost equal a dividend (some estates lost last year Rs.20,000 under this head.) These are matters deserving the attention of Government. There are others, however, which more specially call for that of planters, proprietors, and agents, such as the need of a tea committee, authorised to offer high rewards for the cure of blights. It seems to us that, until some handsome sum is subscribed, it is useless to reckon on any one who may hit on a cure offering it pro bono publico. An effectual and cheap cure for "spider" should be worth at present some two lakhs of rupees, and one for tea bug, or the green fly, a similar amount. It has been suggested that Government should appoint a State entomologist to investigate and report on these blights; but it should be remembered that knowledge of the structure and habits of an insect blighting tea by no means necessarily implies knowledge of a cure. This is far more likely to be the result of some happy thought of an assistant tempted by the prize to try experiments in his daily work. Another matter which deserves the attention of those in tea is the removal of the great and valid objection to the introduction of Indian tea that is found in the multiplicity of small breaks of varied quality put upon the home market. This is a difficulty which bids fair to increase yearly, and to such an extent as to constitute a serious obstacle to the sale of Indian teas. There can, we think, be little doubt that unless something is done to reduce the cost of production the tea industry will receive a most serious check. There can be as little doubt that the only effectual cure is to, so far, reduce the main item of "labour," as to enable Indian teas to compete on a permanent basis with those of China and Japan, when the result need not be very doubtful.—Englishman.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At the general meeting of the Simla Bank Corporation, held at Simla, May 20, the dividend for the past half-year, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, declared by the directors, was confirmed. The surplus profits of Rs.27,518-11 were disposed of to credit of the bad and doubtful debt account. Baboo Ram Chunder, the accountant at the Umballa agency, who has become totally blind while in the bank's employ, was granted a compassionate pension of Rs.60 per month for life, he having done good services for over twenty-three years. The following gentlemen were elected by ballot directors for the coming half-year:—At Simla—Col. W. C. Gott, Mr. C. J. Marsden, Mr. James Craddock, Mr. W. M. Towelle; and at Umballa—The Rev. R. Hine. The balance-sheet for the half-year ended Dec. 31 showed liabilities to the public of Rs.5,62,073; to the shareholders (including balance of profit and loss, Rs.79,518), Rs.14,22,077. The assets were Rs.29,84,151.—At the general meeting of the Great Eastern Hotel Company, held May 29, a final dividend of 3 per cent., or Rs.7-8 per per share, aggregating 5 per cent. for the year, was declared.—At the general meeting of the Singell Tea Company, held May 31, the managing agent's report was passed.—Englishman.

THE MEDICAL SERVICE.—A question of some importance to the Covenanted Medical Service has recently been raised as to whether the staff pay granted to a medical officer for certain additional duties—pending some future arrangements—which is an extra charge upon the State, is to be considered a permanent allowance, and whether he is entitled to 50 per cent. of that allowance when on furlough, as in the case of other staff allowances, or whether this pay is to be allowed in full to the officiating incumbent who actually performs that additional duty during the officer's absence from India. It appears that Surgeon Major J. Picthall, examiner of medical accounts, now on furlough, was in receipt of a staff salary of Rs.400 a month as such, in addition to the military pay and allowances of his rank. After the death of Mr. E. G. Dunbar, the examiner of fund accounts, a further allowance of Rs.300 per mensem was granted to Dr. Picthall in 1877 for performing the additional duty of the examiner of public accounts, presumably on the understanding that this expenditure, which was then considered to have been an extra charge, will be recouped by the savings to be effected by the abolition of the office of the assistant examiner or superintendent of the fund office after the retirement of the present incumbent. Now, the question is whether Dr. Picthall is entitled to a moiety of the allowance during leave, or whether his locum tenens is to be allowed the full staff pay of Rs.300. The case has been referred to the comptroller and will most likely be submitted to Government for final disposal.—Indian Daily News.

WELL-MERITED HONOURS.—The Governor General has, we see, conferred the title of Nawab upon our well-known fellow-citizen Maulvi Abdul Latif Khan Bahadur, as a personal distinction. If for no other reason than the unceasing efforts of the Maulvi in the cause of Mahomedan education in Bengal, the honour is well deserved.—Englishman.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH OF THE SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA.—The mortuary returns of the suburbs of Calcutta for the month of April, 1880, show the number of deaths to have been 770, viz.:—Ten Christians, 450 Hindus, and 310 Mahomedans. The ratio of mortality per 1,000 of the population per annum is 35.93, and the causes of the disease were cholera, 120, small-pox five, fever 315, bowel complaints 124, and the rest from all other causes. The number of deaths in the previous month was 899, and in the corresponding month of the last year was 1,093, showing a decrease of 129 in this month from the former, and 323 from the latter. The number of deaths in the hospitals, gaols, and other public institutions is 116, viz.:—nine Christians, seventy-seven Hindus, and thirty Mahomedans; the ratio of deaths per 1,090 of the population per year is 5.41.—Bombay Gazette.

THE HEALTH OF CALCUTTA.—The memorandum of the health officer says:—There were 556 births registered in April against 591 in the preceding month, but the number exceeded the corresponding monthly figures of the past decade, excepting 1875 and 1877. The increase of 128 births over those of the corresponding month of the previous year is shared by all classes of the community. The mean number of the past decade was 478. There were 804 deaths registered against 1,042 in the preceding month, giving a ratio of 22.4 against 29.1 per 1,000 of population per annum. It is satisfactory to note that the deaths in the month under review fall considerably short of those which occurred in the corresponding periods of the past decade, with the exception of the years 1871 and 1872, and of the decennial average by 220. This marked diminution is due to a falling off in all the principal causes of death except "other causes," and is observable among all races except non-Asiatics.—Ibid.

THE MARQUIS OF RIPON has, it is announced, consented to give a Viceroy's Cup as usual to be run for at the Calcutta race meeting.

LIEUT. COL. G. H. W. HOGGAN, Bengal Staff Corps, has been reappointed to the command of Fort Abazai, for three years.

THE HOT WEATHER.—Cholera has been less prevalent in Calcutta during the past hot weather than in any year since 1872. We understand that only three cases of heat apoplexy, two of which ended fatally, were admitted from the port into the General Hospital, Calcutta, during the year 1879, against forty-two admissions and ten deaths in 1878. Dr. Lynch, the health officer of the port, attributes the decrease to seasonal influences, but the Lieutenant Governor is inclined to attribute it partly to the rules for guarding against and treating sunstroke drawn up by Dr. French.—Indian Medical Gazette.

MURDER BY A SEPOY.—A sepoy of the 37th Native Infantry at Naini Tal shot a comrade dead on the 4th June and escaped with his rifle and a number of cartridges. A party under Captain Balderson came up with him, where he had taken his post on a spot commanding the pathway. After firing several shots at them he blew out his brains before he could be captured.—Pioneer.

THE FIELD TELEGRAPHS.—Mr. Luke, C.I.E., superintendent of field telegraphs, who, during the present campaign, has been in charge of the telegraph line between Lundi Kotah and Cabul, returns to India on leave, all possibility of further extension being at an end. Sir Donald Stewart, in a divisional order, expresses "his high sense of the energy and ability displayed by Mr. Lucas in the discharge of his onerous duties."—Pioneer.

KASHMIR.—Mr. Archer Vincent Roberts has been selected by the Government of India, at the request of his Highness the Maharaja of Kashmir, for the post of engineer in chief in that State.—Pioneer.

A PROVINCIAL CHURCH COUNCIL.—At a conference of representatives of the Church Missionary Society at Chupra, in Bengal, it has been decided to establish a Provincial Church Council, to be composed of delegates from each church in the Presidency. Five hundred persons were present and the mission compound resembled a camp. It was, says a contemporary, a singular spectacle to see the missionaries from the West sitting cross-legged on the ground side by side with their brethren of the East without thought of the difference in social standing.—Times of India.

DEATHS FROM SUNSTROKE.—During the first week in June the heat at Allahabad was terrible. The mess waiter of H.M.'s 2-22nd Regt., named Farriington and several others died of sunstroke.—Indian Herald.

MR. DOWDING, late principal of the Rajshahye College, has been appointed assistant tutor to the Nizam, and has arrived at Hyderabad to take up his duties.

THE KATTYWAR STATE RAILWAY.—The first train on the Kattywar State Railway ran from Kattywar to Wudwan, a distance of 105 miles, on the 7th. The survey of the railway was only begun fourteen months ago.—Times of India.

H.E. THE GOVERNOR.—His Excellency the Governor reached Guneskhind on June 11. Lady Fergusson is progressing favourably towards recovery, but it is considered advisable that she should remain in the hills as long as possible.—Times of India.

INDORE.—The firm of Messrs. Dinshaw Framjee Wadia and Company have established a cotton press factory at Indore, and it is said that the great saving of freight from Indore to Bombay has already had the effect of running up the price of cotton in the Malwa district to the extent of about 7½ per cent.

EURASIAN EDUCATION.—A sketch of Archdeacon Baly's report on Eurasian education, now before the Government of India, has been furnished to one of the Indian papers. Its general bearing is said to be a reiteration of the recommendations in the preliminary report, which the archdeacon considers to have been fully justified by his later inquiries. He now formally recommends the establishment of central free schools at Allahabad and Lahore, or rather the enlargement of the existing schools for about 300 and 200 children respectively. The cost of the building required at Allahabad would be Rs.1,70,000, and at Lahore Rs.1,00,000. The net monthly cost at Allahabad would be Rs.1,740, and at Lahore Rs.1,300. Also the establishment of a training college at Naini Tal for forty male students, in connection with the diocesan schools at that station. The building required would cost Rs.75,000, and the monthly cost of the institution would be Rs.2,400. Also the formation of aided day schools at Monghyr, Serampore, Dacca, and Cuttack in Bengal; at Goruckpore, Bareilly, Moradabad, Saharunpore, Meerut, and Lucknow, for the North West and Oudh; and at Delhi and Pindi for the Punjab. Also the levy of an educational rate in stations where the required school cannot be established by voluntary effort. Also the introduction of some measure of compulsory education.—Times of India.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN DIXON.—It is with regret we announce the demise of Captain John Dixon, the well-known nautical authority, who died on board a P. and O. vessel in the Indian Ocean at the age of about fifty-five years. The deceased had for some time previous to his death been suffering from heart disease, and at the advice of his medical man he took passage on May 24 for Point de Galle, but he expired the day previous to the arrival of the steamer at Galle. He was surveyor to Lloyd's Agency, and his opinion was held in great value by the authorities at Lloyd's and by the Liverpool Underwriters' Association, by whom he was frequently consulted on matters of difficulty and with reference to shipwrecked property. He was a warm supporter of the Royal Bombay Yacht Club and held prominent offices in the club at different times. At the time of his death he was a member of the Bombay Municipal Corporation and a justice of the peace. He was also a prominent Freemason, and was Master of the Lodge "Truth" for two years, on his retiring from which post he was presented with a silver cup and jewel in recognition of his services to the Order. Another masonic appointment he held was that of Past Grand Senior Warden of the District Grand Lodge. The deceased was a man widely known and generally esteemed and respected in Bombay, and the announcement of his death will be received with regret by his numerous friends.—Times of India.

MADRAS.

HONORARY SURGEONS.—We congratulate Apothecaries P. Anderson and P. Kinsley, of the Madras Medical Department, on their promotion to the rank of honorary surgeon, which is announced in the London Gazette of May 8. Both these officers are well worthy of the honour conferred on them. Mr. Anderson has held many posts of trust, and is now in civil medical charge of a large station. He was for a long time connected with the Monegar Choultry, where his devoted attention to his patients so endeared him to them that the severance of his connection with that institution was greatly deplored. Mr. Kinsley possesses abilities which have won for him well deserved esteem. He, too, has been in posts involving great responsibility and much labour. At one time he held the rank of sub assistant surgeon, and did duty in the vaccination department. He is now in civil medical charge of Chicacole. The Government do well in investing men on whom they can implicitly rely, and to whom they entrust such important charges as large civil stations, with some dignity. In this particular there is more in a name than we are apt to imagine. An honorary surgeon, as civil surgeon, has more influence than an apothecary holding the same post.—Madras Times.

HONORARY SURGEON GODBIER.—The friends of this gentleman will be glad to learn that he has been promoted to the honorary and local rank of surgeon major. Mr. Godbier has been in the service for several years, and through sheer dint of perseverance and energy climbed the ladder of the Subordinate Department.—Ibid.

THE LATE INSPECTOR MANTLE.—All who have occasion to visit the Egmore Presidency Magistrates' Court, and who must have noticed the mild and courteous demeanour of Mr. Mantle, the inspector of that court, will hear with regret that that police officer died after a short illness the other day.—Ibid.

INSPECTION OF CIVIL HOSPITALS AND DISPENSARIES.—Dr. Cornish, as previously stated, has left for Ootacamund on inspection duty; but as the circle of inspection, consisting of about 200 dispensaries, which was hitherto performed by six deputy surgeons general, cannot possibly be completed by one individual—the surgeon general alone—a scheme, we hear, has been set on foot, which is now under consideration, by Government to appoint the civil surgeon of each district the inspecting officer of the minor dispensaries in his district. The civil surgeon will submit a report of his inspections to the Surgeon General, C.M.D. The surgeon general will then have the inspection of the larger dispensaries and hospitals which are under civil surgeons and officers of the commissioned ranks.—Ibid.

THE CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE.—The anniversary of this institution was celebrated on May 30, when Lieut. Love, the principal of the college, read the report, from which we extract the following passage:—"Statistics.—At the commencement of the session of 1879-80, which closes to-day, the numbers of students on the college books were as follow:—First department, 8; second department, 1st class, 32; second department, 2nd class, 21; surveying class, 28; drawing class, 40; total, 129. Owing to the termination in December of the collegiate session, to voluntary withdrawals, and to dismissals from the college, the corresponding numbers at the end of the session are:—First department, 4; second department, 1st class, 31; second department, 2nd class, 17; surveying class, 25; drawing class, 33; total, 110. The number is not as high as it has been in previous years, and the cause may be traced to an impression which until lately prevailed among the classes from which students are drawn that the college is about to be abolished. This impression first made its appearance on the re-organisation of the Public Works Department in 1878, and, notwithstanding an indication of policy on the part of the Government of India, marked by the establishment of a new civil engineering college in another Presidency, to meet local wants, and the fact that as long as a Public Works Department exists in this Presidency, so long must an institution for the education of its subordinates remain, the rumour received the support of a portion of the press. The effect was so marked by the small number of applications for admission for the ensuing session that it was suggested that an authoritative contradiction should be issued. All doubts regarding the stability of the college have been dispelled by a recent order in which Government see no reason to anticipate any sensible falling off in the demand for qualified men, and entertain every desire to foster the interests of the Civil Engineering College to the extent that may be compatible with the demands for professionally trained men." The Government add that "owing to its being desirable to re-engage men holding college certificates who have lately been thrown out of the employ of the Public Works Department and the South India Railway, it is not improbable that some decrease may be experienced in the number of candidates for admission to college during the next session, and this is not to be regretted." Lieut. Love paid a well-deserved tribute of praise to the late principal, Col. Rogers.—Madras Times.

THE MELBOURNE EXHIBITION.—As the preparation of articles for the Melbourne Exhibition is now far advanced, Dr. Bidie, officiating honorary secretary to the committee for the International Exhibition, requested the sanction of his Grace the Governor in Council to print a brief catalogue to accompany the exhibits. He mentioned that the collection of raw products will be an extensive and excellent one, as planters generally have willingly responded to his requisition for specimens. Private exhibitors have also sent superior collections of tobacco, cheroots, and grains. A manufacturer of Vizagapatam ivory and sandalwood work has sent a very fine collection of his ware, worth about Rs.2,000, and Dr. Bidie has got, or will get, on payment, collections of Tanjore, Tripati, and other metal ware. There are also good collections of Palghat mats and Masulipatam palampores. The gaols have, with one exception, refused to give any assistance unless the articles are at once paid for. Dr. Bidie offered to arrange for their exhibits being sold and proceeds remitted, but the Inspector General did not encourage the proposal. The printing of a brief catalogue as proposed has been sanctioned by the Government, and the work is to be done at the Government Press. The Government are glad to learn that so large a number of private contributions have been received. Their transmission at Government expense has already been sanctioned, and orders in regard to the shipment of all articles sent by Surgeon Major Bidie issued in the Marine Department.

12TH ROYAL LANCERS.—The retirement of Lieut. Col. Le Quesne from the command of the 12th Royal Lancers after the expiration of five years was the occasion of a demonstration, or rather two, unique in their way and highly noteworthy. The officers of the regiment gave a farewell dinner to their old commanding officer, and the non-commissioned officers of the corps, headed by the regimental surgeon major, formed themselves into a guard of honour to receive him at the mess house. They were drawn up on horseback fully equipped and accoutred, and, on the arrival of the guest of the evening, presented arms, the band playing the while. The gallant colonel was no less surprised than pleased at the compliment, and, in expressing thanks for the honour done him, he said that during the twenty-four years he was with the regiment there was no moment of which he was so proud as the present one. He spoke feelingly of his leaving the regiment, and the parting from his non-commissioned officers, and, shaking hands with Regimental Sergeant Major Saunders, he wished it would be taken as shaking hands with the whole of them. Next morning, notwithstanding the heavy shower of rain, the non-commissioned officers formed themselves up again at the railway station as a guard of honour, and received the colonel, who left Secunderabad by the train amidst the hearty cheers of his men.—Deccan Times.

A LADY DOCTOR.—Miss Dora White, a graduate of the Madras Medical College, and the resident medical subordinate of the Military Female Orphan Asylum, who recently proceeded to Bharg, Cutch, to attend on her Highness the Maharani of Cutch, returned last week to Madras, after having successfully treated the Maharani, whose failing health had given occasion for some anxiety. Miss White's services obtained for her the special thanks of her Highness the Maharani's family.—Madras Mail.

THE Opium Act came into force in the Madras Presidency on the 1st ult.

THE RAMPA REBELLION.—The 17th Regiment has arrived at Koraput in the Jeypore District and will move out into the Mulkangherri taluk as occasion requires. The Rampa country is quiet; the entire tract is occupied by the military and police; the rebels in consequence have no place to move without being attacked. The Nursapatam hills also are quiet, excepting Gudem, where Veeriah Dora still continues to lurk. The military and police are on his track. The three rebel prisoners under sentence of transportation for life, who escaped from the Vizagapatam Gaol on the night of the 3rd June, were recaptured by the police of Viapagunta and Subbavaram about eight to ten miles from Vizagapatam.—Times of India.

BOMBAY.

DREDGING KARACHI HARBOUR.—The new and powerful dredger Nearchue and hopper barges Sindhi and Baluchi, recently imported from England at considerable expense for the purpose of improving the harbour of Karachi, have been successfully tried in the presence of the Commissioner in Sind and all the leading officials of this station. The Commissioner alluded to the improvements devised by Mr. Price, our talented port engineer, during so many years of patient and thoughtful labour, and wished him every success in their execution.—Correspondent Bombay Gazette.

THE ADEN CLUB.—Aden is to have a club. This important question, which has been so often raised, and so often dropped during the last few years, is settled at last. It will probably be called the Aden United Service Club, and will be established at Steamer Point, near the main pier, in premises rented from Mr. Manockjee Ruttonjee Patel. Col. Stevens, commanding the Aden troop, Col. Watts, brigade major, Capt. Maxwell Heron, R.N., Capt. Hunter, assistant political resident, and other officers, and gentlemen of various departments, held a meeting on the subject recently, and it is anticipated that the new club will start with about forty members. There will be this advantage among others about the club, that when one's friends pass Aden, going to or coming from England, it will be a handy and convenient place to ask them to.—Ibid.

CAMBAY.—From accounts received from Cambay we learn that the congratulations of Government to the new nawab, H.E. Jaffir Ali Khan Sahib Bahadur, were conveyed to him in Durbar on the 31st May by the political agent, Mr. Sheppard. We are glad to hear that some very necessary reforms are being introduced into this State, and that the new chief has commenced his rule by making some wholesome changes in his administrative staff. A gentleman of good education and politics, Mr. Shamrao Narain Laud, of Bombay, brother of the chief Karbhari of Sucheen, has been appointed dewan, and the civil court has been placed under an officer of considerable experience and legal training. A survey of the State is under contemplation, and altogether the prospects of Cambay appear brighter than for many years past. We wish the new chief a happy and prosperous reign.—Ibid.

CEYLON.

WE take the following from the Ceylon Times of June 7:—

COFFEE EXPORTS.—Our exports of coffee to date amount to 541,928 cwts., as compared with 711,617 cwts. at the corresponding period of last year. The shipments of native coffee forming a portion of the above were 36,111 cwts. and 39,954 cwts., so that the falling off has been entirely with plantation kinds.

FLOOD OUTLETS.—We are glad to receive very satisfactory accounts of the working of the Talpitiya flood outlet, which, it may be remembered, was completed last year, and was designed to carry off the flood waters of the Kaluganga flowing from Ratnapura and Kalutara. By enlarging a channel through which these waters made their way into the Balgadda lake, and reopening the old Talpitiya canal, connecting the lake with the sea, it was contended that the rising of the river and the flooding of the adjacent boundry would be prevented, and a vast amount of misery and suffering on the parts of the Rayagam Korle cultivators would be averted. The heavy rains of the latter part of May have proved these calculations to have been correct; although an enormous quantity of flood water passed down the river, there has been no overflow of the banks and no submerging of fields, and the stream passing through the flood outlet at Talpitiya has been running steadily at the rate of four miles an hour. What volume of water it has discharged may be imagined when we state that the outlet is one hundred feet wide and that the stream has been mostly four feet deep. The outlay in this work will undoubtedly be returned to the Government many times over in the far increased paddy rents, as well as in the improved condition of the people, who will be enabled to contribute in others and in less direct ways to the general revenue.

GOVERNMENT NOTIFICATIONS.—Last Saturday's Gazette contained the following notices:—"Mr. William Henry Jackson is appointed as justice of peace and additional coroner for the district of Anuradhapura. Heads of departments are authorised to accept the signature of Mr. W. Halliley, on behalf of the treasurer, during the absence of the Hon. G. Vane, from the 26th inst. A census of the island will be taken on the night of March 25 and 26, 1881."

THE "ELDORADO."—This well known steamer left our port on last Wednesday, with the following passengers from Ceylon:—Messrs. Henry Hubybertsz George Maitland, Col. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, and six children, Rev. A. R. Cavalier, Mrs. Cavalier, two children and European nurse, Messrs. Edward, Henry Johnstone, Thomas H. Cargill, Trotter, Fowler, and Mr. and Mrs. Webb.

DEATH OF A FAITHFUL MINISTER.—We regret to have to record the death on May 31 of the Rev. Robert Edwards of Manaar. In 1842 he was appointed catechist of Trincomalee; in 1843 of Batticaloa. He was ordained deacon in 1851, and was made chaplain of Manaar the following January. He was admitted to priest's orders.

THE CHURCH IN INDIA.—The Rev. Alfred H. Barrow, M.A., for nearly five years past curate of Acton, has been appointed Government chaplain on the Madras Establishment.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, JUNE 28.

FLOGGING IN INDIA.

Mr. THOMPSON asked the Secretary of State for India if he would lay upon the table a return of the offences for which 72,650 of our Indian fellow-subjects were punished with flogging in the year 1877.

Lord HARTINGTON said, in addition to other punishments, 6,200 were punished with flogging within the time referred to in the Presidency of Madras. The returns asked for could not be given in consequence of the judicial statistics not giving the particular offences for which flogging was inflicted. They merely gave the totals. Sufficient information on the subject, however, would be found in a return in the library.

A SOLDIER'S INSANE CHILD SENT TO A WORKHOUSE.

Sir H. WOLFF asked the Secretary of State for India whether the insane child of a soldier in India, and a soldier's wife, had been brought from India to Portsmouth in Indian troopships, and left chargeable on the rates of that borough; in the latter case the soldier having been sent on to his depot, and leaving his wife destitute and chargeable; and whether the mere fact of the Indian troopships coming to Portsmouth justified the authorities in taking the course adopted in these cases.

Lord HARTINGTON, in reply, said that the statement was substantially true. The insane wife and infant child were placed in the poor house in Plymouth, and made chargeable to the rate of the union under the provisions of the 16 and 17 Vic, c. 97.

RAILWAY BRIDGES IN INDIA.

Mr. ANDERSON asked the Secretary of State for India whether the report on Indian Railways for 1877 correctly stated the name of the firm who contracted for the railway bridge across the Nerbudda River; whether that firm were not also contractors for the principal ironwork of the Tay Bridge; and whether, under these circumstances, he had considered the desirability of providing that the Indian Government should institute an investigation as to the quality and kind of iron used for the Nerbudda Bridge, and also extend their inquiry to the Indus Bridge and other bridges built or being built on the Guaranteed and State Railways of India.

Lord HARTINGTON replied that the contracts had been entered into before the Tay Bridge accident of last year. On the occurrence of the accident special directions were given to the authorities in India to be very careful in the carrying out of the contracts in respect to the quality of the iron. No complaint as to the quality of such iron had been made. More than one examination of the iron had been made, and the most conclusive tests applied. He should, however, make further inquiries into the subject.

COLONELS' ALLOWANCES.

Mr. TREVELYAN asked the Secretary of State for India what was the amount of money paid yearly by the Indian Exchequer under the head of "Colonels' Allowances," and what was the number of officers at present in receipt of those allowances.

Lord HARTINGTON: The amount of money paid in the year 1879-80 by the Indian Exchequer under the head of "Colonels' Allowances" was £214,980. The number of officers in receipt of such allowances on April 1, 1880, was 348.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, JULY 1.

BURMA.

Mr. BRYCE asked the Secretary of State for India what was the present state of diplomatic relations between the Government of India and the King of Burma; and whether, having regard to the conciliatory disposition evinced for some months past by the King of Burma, her Majesty's Government would consider the propriety of directing the British Envoy to return to Mandalay.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON was understood to say that, in consequence of the attitude of the Government of Burma to the British Resident and other causes, the relations of the Indian Government to the Government of Burma last year were extremely strained, our representative was recalled, and Colonel H. Browne was immediately despatched to succeed him. But, in consequence of the difficulty of transacting business, that gentleman also was recalled, and an assistant Resident appointed in his place. The latter found his position at Mandalay so precarious that it was impossible for him to remain any longer without danger to his own life and that of his assistants, and he also was directed to leave. Demands for redress had been addressed to the Government of Burma, but the result was not yet known. The Indian Government would consider the propriety of appointing a British Resident as soon as certain stipulations which it was considered right and necessary to insist upon with regard to the treatment of the mission should be accepted. A special mission had been sent by the King of Burma to the frontier; but, although it was said to have full powers, it appeared that the Envoy had not power, or had not been able to assent to the preliminary conditions which the Indian Government considered indispensable to the establishment of a British mission at Mandalay. The whole question of our relations with Burma was now under the consideration of the Government of India, and no doubt the Viceroy would be greatly assisted by the advice of a gentleman who had lately been appointed a provisional member of the Council of the Governor General.

PUNISHMENT IN INDIA.

Mr. A. M. SULLIVAN asked the Secretary of State for India whether the Government would take any and what measures to abolish punishment by the lash or bamboo among Her Majesty's Indian subjects.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that corporal punishment in India was inflicted under different regulations in the different provinces, not with a "cat-o'-nine-tails," but with a light cane; certainly in all cases of juvenile offenders, and even when the punishment was inflicted on adults, it was of a very mild and light description. The experiment of discontinuing the punishment had been tried on several occasions, both partially and in the whole of India, from 1862 to 1864. During that time complaints were made by all the local Governments of the difficulty experienced in the interval. Penal servitude and solitary or separate confinement were impossible, owing to the mortality which occurred being very high in crowded gaols among prisoners who had been accustomed to spend almost their whole lives in the open air. All he could undertake to do was to call for full reports from the Government India and the local Governments as to the circumstances in which the punishment was inflicted, and ask their opinion either as to its modification or continuance. (Hear, hear.)

EAST INDIAN RAILWAYS.

Mr. NORWOOD asked when the report of the Departmental Committee on East Indian Railway Freights, &c., would be laid on the table.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that since a question was put at the end of May he had, as he promised he would, communicated with the members of the committee and examined the report and the evidence on which it was founded. Much of the evidence was obtained under the promise of secrecy. The members of the committee were of opinion there would be no objection to produce the report with certain omissions, and they had obtained the assent of most of the gentlemen who gave evidence to this course being taken; yet permission had not been obtained for the production of the evidence obtained under the promise of secrecy. Much of the evidence was taken in such a manner as to render it impossible to produce it. Only a portion was taken down in shorthand, and the rest was taken in the form of notes not suitable for forming part of a parliamentary paper. Under these circumstances, and finding the committee had discussed with some freedom the system of management of some of the guaranteed companies, he thought it would not be to the public advantage, but rather the reverse, to lay this report on the table unsupported by the evidence on which it was founded; and he regretted, therefore, that he was unable to do so. It was, he might say, the conclusion of the committee and of the India-office that the guaranteed companies would be decidedly favoured by obtaining freight by patent charters. It had been decided to continue that system, and it was determined to extend it to the guaranteed railway companies.

THE PORT OF GOA AND BRITISH INDIA.

Mr. M. SCOTT asked the Secretary of State for India whether negotiations had been entered into by the Supreme Government of India and the Portuguese Government for the construction of a railway to connect the port of Goa with any town within the territory of British India, and whether such negotiations were completed; and whether he would be so good as to lay the agreement between the two Governments and other papers connected with the subject upon the table.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that a treaty had been concluded between Great Britain and the Portuguese Government, by one of the articles of which it was agreed that whenever the Portuguese Government gave notice to the British Government that a joint-stock company had been formed for the construction of a railway to connect the port of Goa with any town in British India, and that the Portuguese Government had granted a concession to the company, with sufficient capital, the British Government would grant the land for making the undertaking, so far as it lay in British Indian territory, and would give special facilities for carrying it out. Since the conclusion of the treaty some correspondence had passed between the India-office and the promoters of the proposed company which had been forwarded to the Government of India. The treaty between the British Government and Portugal appeared in the London Gazette of Oct. 4, 1879. Until the correspondence with the proposed company was completed it would be premature to lay it on the table.

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

Sir STAFFORD NORTHCOTE: I wish to put a question to the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, as it is in reference to a matter of considerable public interest. Can the hon. baronet give the House information as to whether there is any foundation for the report that hostilities have broken out between Russia and China.

Sir C. DILKE said that a week ago a report reached this country that the Chinese had crossed the Russian frontier and captured a fort; but that rumour was afterwards declared to be wholly unfounded. Her Majesty's Government had received no official information as to the report appearing in that morning's papers in reference to a collision between Russian and Chinese forces, but they had received information from St. Petersburg that afternoon to the effect that it was believed there that there was no foundation for the statement.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY, JULY 2.

THE BRITISH BURMA COMMISSION.

Mr. WARTON asked the Secretary of State for India whether it was a fact that several young civilians from India had been placed on the British Burma Commission over the heads of military officers who had served in that commission for many years, and who had relinquished their position in the army on the faith of promises of assured promotion in the said commission.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON had no knowledge of the matter to which the hon. and learned member referred, nor could he ascertain that any such promises as suggested had been made by the India-office.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1880.

THE STATEMENT OF INDIAN TRADE.

It has been pointed out by several correspondents of the daily papers that the instructive review of the trade of British India for the year 1878-79 loses much of its value by the fact that the trade and navigation returns of 1879-80 have previously appeared. This seems a somewhat depreciatory view to take of the valuable volume in which, with his accustomed ability and clearness, Mr. O'Connor has presented a conspectus of the various branches of internal and external trade, their fluctuations, and their losses or profits. We hear often enough of the expenditure on returns and useless papers regarding India, which critical members of Parliament are by no means unapt to increase. But the material history of the Empire of India is year by year chronicled in such works as the "Review of Trade" or the "Report on Indian Railways." The respective importance of the five great ports of India is one of the first topics dealt with, both in their past and in their possible future development. The future of Calcutta is considered by Mr. O'Connor to be not only unaffected by the probable diversion of trade to Bombay and Karachi, but, in consequence of the completion of the Northern Bengal Railway and the connection with the Valley of Assam, is likely to show a greater increase of commerce than Bombay. The latter must, indeed, continue to be the great portal of the East; but, while Karachi is likely to compete, and successfully, with it for a portion of the direct European trade, it can only partially rival Calcutta in wheat and seeds, while its cotton trade cannot enable it to equal the other exports of indigo, tea, jute, rice, &c., that are shipped from the Hooghly. The figures for each port show that, whereas the Bengal imports of the last five years, ending with 1879, had, as compared with those ending 1864, increased from eleven to seventeen and a-half millions, those of Bombay and Sind had only increased two and a-half millions. We are not so much desirous of comparing figures and quoting tables as of presenting some of the interesting results chronicled in the report. The comparative view of the ports leads to the observation that Rangoon is relatively the most thriving commercial place in the Indian Empire, its import trade having increased 195 per cent., and its exports 278 per cent., in eleven years. The reviewer remarks that it is a notable fact that, whereas the habits of the people of other parts of India are opposed to the extension of a demand for articles that are almost daily necessities of life for Europeans, the Burmese spend their earnings freely on articles such as are only used in India by the Anglo-Indians. The inhabitants of British Burma, although Mr. Stewart seems to think they need paternal protection, earn money freely, and spend it freely in personal comforts, being, in the latter respect, very much to the ordinary Indian population as the inhabitants of Lancashire are to the Irish of Kerry. Proceeding to the consideration of the foreign trade of India as a whole, it is a striking fact that the proportion of the trade which is carried on directly with England is not increasing, but slowly declining. As Sir Frederick Arrow predicted some years ago, the Suez Canal has effected a change which has a tendency to accentuate itself. London still retains its supremacy as the vastest depot in the world, but, on the interchange of merchandise in 1878-79, the percentage of Indian trade with the United Kingdom on the total trade with all countries was 56.25, whereas in 1867-68 it was 66.3. The cities on the Mediterranean are again receiving and profiting by a not inconsiderable share of the Eastern trade, both as regards the shipment of European and British goods to the East and the distribution of Indian produce to the Continental consumers. Of the total trade of about 108½ crores, including treasure as well as merchandise, the single country which, though at a very long distance, came next to England is China, the trade with which in 1878-79 represented 17½ crores. In former years opium, which is still nearly the whole staple of the export trade, had only raw cotton added to it in the trade to China. Of late years India has developed an export of cotton twist from Bombay, which has grown in ten years from a value of Rs.3,80,375 to Rs.75,89,914. It is predicted that the time will come when the Chinese will spin for themselves, although they will still be obliged to import raw cotton. But Mr. O'Connor regards the time as far distant, and considers that China and Japan will continue to furnish a good market for the outturn of the Indian cotton mills. If China develops her power of manufacture so as to dispense with the necessity for importing from India anything but the raw material, it seems probable that India, on the other hand, may, under the new fiscal régime, so increase her manufacture of sugar as to dispense with the Chinese imports of that article. Bengal is declared capable of supplying to Bombay all the sugar taken by that province from China as well as from Mauritius. The same statement can hardly be said to apply to the importation of tea, which has excited the wonderment of some of our contemporaries. It does at first sight seem strange that India, with its annually increasing production of tea, should still import a million and a-half pounds; but this is explained by the fact that it is of a poor and cheap quality, and is consumed by those natives who have not grown accustomed to the flavour of Indian tea. Mr. O'Connor is especially careful to point out the capabilities which India possesses of supplying herself with articles which she now imports. It is difficult, as he remarks, to understand why India should be content to import an average quantity of 1,676,000lb. of raw silk which might be with equal facility and cheapness produced in the country. The suggestion that persons interested in the declining silk industry of Bengal might with advantage turn their attention to supplying Bombay, which uses up the bulk of the Chinese import. Taken in connection with this suggestion, the experimental effort conducted by Mr. Lepper in the Dehra Dun and the Gurdaspore districts to promote sericulture in the North West Provinces and the Punjab must be regarded with great interest. Such efforts by practical men of business to increase the producing powers or to develop new industries in India ought to receive every recognition and assistance. This thought leads us to other instances in which the review of foreign trade is made available for pointing out how India may utilise her own resources. Thus the import trade from the United States is said to mainly consist of ice and kerosene oil. But the new, and, as yet, "small industry of ice manufacture," bids fair to put out of the future returns the values now recorded against American ice. There seems also every reason to agree with Mr. O'Connor that the province of Burma will be able in process of time to supply the Indian demand for mineral oil, though hitherto the American import, which is at once cheap and bad, has too heavily handicapped the product of Arakan and the far stretching oil region. Another important field for further enterprise in India is briefly indicated under the head of imports of coal. Of the nearly half-a-million tons imported in the year reviewed very little reached Calcutta. The local authorities attributed this to the condition of the freight market. However this may be, there is no doubt that in Bengal Indian coal supplied from the fifty-six mines at work in the Ranigunj and neighbouring districts has materially superseded English coal. In the Central Provinces, also, the coalfields of Narsingpur and Chanda have been utilised for the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, and the whole output of Indian coal was in 1878-79 1,015,210 tons. There are other coalfields waiting development, and the Assam mines will doubtless be ere long fully worked. There is, as indicated throughout the review, abundant room for private enterprise and capital. Stimulated, it may be, and assisted by Government to increase the resources and the openings for employment of the people of India, and to take up one or other of the several enterprises indicated in the review, would better befit many, both of the English politicians and economists, or the native declaimers, than prophecies of bankruptcy or petitions for aid. We have already alluded to the need for improving and extending the manufacture of sugar. Tobacco, in like manner, is shown to require an application of skill and capital to make it a valuable item of Indian export. The experimental operations at Ghazipore and Poosah are just enough to show what might be done. The Indian leaf is proved to be for all practical purposes as good as the American leaf; while the cheapness of labour, if properly directed, would make it impossible for America to compete with the Indian exporter, whether of leaf or manufactured tobacco. Yet India imports a million and a-half pounds of the latter. If the English smokers or manufacturer are as yet uneducated enough to refuse the Indian weed, the French and Italians will take large quantities if supplied of a quality suited to their purposes. There seems to be sufficient work for a Department of Commerce and Agriculture, with an efficient head and a proper organisation, to do for the benefit of India; and, after reading Mr. O'Connor's report, the thought irresistibly arises that it is a foolish economy to curtail or abolish it.

PUSHTO.

SPECULATION has run riot in devising an origin for the Afghan race. Their own notion is that they came from the West; and this has led to the idea that they are of Israelitish origin. Indeed, they look upon Saul, King of Israel, as their progenitor. There are circumstances which favour this notion besides the voice of tradition, such as their features, their geographical position, and known dissemination. They have also some curiously Jewish customs, as the Passover-like practice of killing an animal and smearing the doorway with its blood to avert calamity; they regularly offer up sacrifices; they stone blasphemers to death; and even hold their agricultural land on a peculiar tenure not unlike that of the Jews. From these premisses some have concluded that the Afghans are undoubtedly a remnant of the Lost Tribes. The fact is, however, that Jews, Armenians, Persians, and Afghans have all much the same cast of countenance, and may be ethnically allied to each other. The name by which the Afghans are known is as uncertain in its origin as are the people themselves. They call themselves Afghan and Pukhtana; but they use these terms with discrimination, the more westerly tribes being Afghan proper, and the easterly tribes being Pukhtana, or Pathan. Notwithstanding this recognised distinction the word Pukhtana can be used as a general name for both sections of the race. This has led to the inference that the Afghans represent the first converts to Islam, while the Pathans are those who for a longer period maintained their idolatrous practices. A native authority says that Afghan is deduced from the Persian word nighan, "lamentation," because their primæval ancestor was a cause of lamentation to devils, jinns, and mankind. Tradition also asserts that Pukhtana is derived from Pihtan, a "rudder," a title conferred on the first convert from the race by Muhammad himself; but, as Herodotus speaks of the Paktues a thousand years before Muhammad was born, no great weight can be allowed to that tradition. A more reasonable suggestion is that the word is connected with pakhta, a "hill," the derivative having the sense of "highlander." Another suggestion has been offered, that as the word Afghan is found on the Persian side of the country, the word fugh, "an idol," may be its base. From fugh proceeds fughan, "idols," and fughistan, "an idol-temple;" thence fughanistan, "temple of idols;" and Afghanistan, "place of idols." If this prove correct, the Afghans would get their name from their idolatrous practices, a notion by no means improbable.

Whatever haze may envelop the people and their name none can now be admitted to exist as to their language. This is beyond question Indo-Germanic, and the only doubt connected with it is its greater or lesser antiquity and independence of origin. Is it a linguistic offshoot from the Persian side or from the Indian side, or is it an independent development from some hitherto unascertained stock? In the opinion of the present writer the balance of evidence is in favour of an Indian basement for the language, with a Persian superstructure, and Semitic and Turanian bonding material. In border lands language is no more than an indication of race, and it may be freely admitted that the Afghans are more Semitic than Aryan in race, while it is contended that they are more Aryan than Semitic in language. Major Raverty, who is by far the ablest scholar in the language, has made the mistake of comparing Pushto with Urdu, to prove that the former owes little to India, as its literature is, at least, one or two hundred years older than that in Urdu. But he should have compared Pushto with Hindi, which starts with the poet Chand in the twelfth century (not in the seventeenth century, as is the case with Urdu), and which is; furthermore, connected by the mediæval Prakrits with the classical and Vedic Sanskrit. Dialects of the vernacular now known as Hindi have been from remote antiquity and, still are, extended over the whole of Northern India and the bordering highlands, and have to be searched for alliances with Pushto. Beyond these speculative questions, the Pushto language has a practical aspect to a considerable number of Englishmen; for in 1873 the Government of India decreed that Pushto should be acquired by every officer employed on the borders of Afghanistan. Text-books were at once in demand; and the works of Major Raverty, which had been neglected for twenty years, acquired a market value. With great diligence, and from mere affection for the subject, that able scholar had produced a series of works on Pushto, which enabled those who so desired to acquire a perfect knowledge of that little known tongue. These works comprise a "Grammar," which supports the rules it lays down by quotations from Afghan writers, thereby introducing the learner to the literature of the country. The Gulshan-i-Roh is a reading book containing selections in both prose and verse from the most admired authors, a work which received unstinted praise from the careful Pushto scholar, Dr. Dorn, of St. Petersburg. The famous Pushto Dictionary of Major Raverty appeared in 1860, and completed the needful aids for the study of the language. Not contented, however, the major brought out a translation of Æsop's Fables, which illustrate the humorous aspect of the Afghan language. This work had been preceded by his "Selections from the Poetry of the Afghans," the object of which was to awaken interest in the literature of Afghanistan by presenting to English readers translations from nine esteemed poets. Major Raverty's last book on this subject is his admirable "Manual of Pushto," which we recently noticed. There can be no doubt that Pushto literature is of considerable interest and value, especially in an historical point of view. So long ago as A.D. 1417, a history of the Yusufzi tribe and their conquest of the Peshawur Valley was written in Pushto, and this was shortly followed by the works of Khan Kaju. But even these early works refer to former Pushto authors whose works may yet be recovered; and since their time a long succession of excellent writers have made the literature of Afghanistan well worthy the attention of the studious. In all probability, however, a colloquial knowledge of the language will be the desideratum for some time to come. It is of the greatest possible importance that every English officer brought into connection with Afghans should be able to speak their language with ease first, because they are notoriously treacherous, and it is therefore essential that every officer should be armed against deception in every possible way; and, secondly, because they are a highly impressible people, whose hearts can be reached by touching on subjects in which they feel an interest. The present remarks cannot be better ended than by the following quotation from Mr. Thornburn's "Banner," page 89, and his statement is supported by Dr. Bellew and others who have mixed with the people:—

"The delight of a Hill Pathan in being addressed by a sahib in his mother Pushto is always genuine and irrepressible; his whole face, which ordinarily wears a fixed touch-me-if-you-dare, almost defiant expression, breaks into one broad grin as he wonderingly asks you—'Eh, you talk Pushto, how did you learn it?' It is just the sort of question a Highlander would ask did a southerner address him in Gaelic. The gain is personal influence, besides other advantages, which an ability to converse directly with the people gives an Englishman amongst Pathans is so obvious that I need not dilate on it."

MESSRS. CASSELL, PETTER, AND GALPIN'S monthly publications for July are to hand. "European Ferns," which has now reached Part II, contains another instalment of the introduction dealing with the practical questions of the management and drying of specimens, and a continuation of the chapter on the Cheilanthes species. The last page of this number commences an interesting article on the Parsley fern. Part 32 of "Science for All" deals with the fall of a stone, the rivers of the sea, snails and slugs, a water-wheel, and the chemistry of a colour-box. Part 63 of "The Library of English Literature" contains a further description of and extracts from Spencer's works, and thence goes on to Shakespeare's "Venus and Adonis," Dame's "Civil Wars between the two Houses of Lancaster and York," and Drayton's "Barons' Wars." With Part 30 our old friend, the "Great Industries of Great Britain," is brought to a close with a frontispiece and general index of the whole work. The "History of England" is, in Part 58, principally concerned with the Revolution in France, of the stirring incidents in which several illustrations are given. Mr. Robert Brown still keeps his readers among the temples and luxuriant animal and vegetable life of India. Referring to the Wynaad district, the author contends that "sooner or later gold mining must be established as an important industry in Southern India."

THE OVERLAND ROUTE.—We hear that the Italian Government have, after many experiments, approved the contract between the Meridionali Railway and the Pullman Palace Car Company, and that the service will now continue regularly between Bologna and Brindisi.

MORE STEAMERS FOR THE PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.—The Barrow Shipbuilding Company have received an order for the construction of two high class steel steamers of about 4,000 tons for the above company.

THE INDO-EUROPEAN TELEGRAPH COMPANY announce that the Japanese Telegraph Administration have given notice that on and after the 1st of July next their terminal charge for Nagasaki will be the same as for other stations in Japan. The charge of 11s. 3d. per word hitherto applicable for messages to Nagasaki over this company's line will therefore, from that date, be raised to 12s. 2d. per word, being the tariff charged for all other places in Japan. The charge of 10s. 8d. per word as far as Victoria, for New Zealand, and the additional charge of 8s. 6d. for every ten words, and 10d. for every word thereafter, has been abolished, and a word rate of 11s. 10d. per word introduced. Since the opening of the cable to Manila messages for that place are charged at the rate of 10s. per word. The cost of transport from Henjaum for messages to Lingah, Bassidore, and Bunder-Abbas, and South Persia has been fixed at 8s. 4d. per telegram.

THE INDIAN TEA COMPANIES.—The Daily News says that a singular concurrence of adverse circumstances weighed upon the profits of Indian tea companies last year. Some reports have lately been issued, which tell uniformly of depression. That of the Jorehaut Company (Limited) states the average price at which the crop was disposed of at an average of 1s. 2¾d. per lb., being 4¼d. below the estimate formed last January; the Luckimpore Company (Limited) obtained an average of 1s. 4½d., being less by 3¾d. than that of the preceding season; the Boral Company (Limited) obtained an average of 1s. 5½., being 4¼d. under that of the last year; and the Dejo Company (Limited) 1s. 5¼d., or 2¾d. less than the previous year's average. These companies, nevertheless, managed to declare small or moderate dividends; but unless the depression in the tea market be relieved their prospects can hardly be considered satisfactory. The adverse circumstances last season may be thus enumerated. According to the Jorehaut report the quality was inferior to that of 1878 owing to climatic vicissitudes; an unforeseen addition of two million pounds to the supply on the market accentuated the fall of prices; the recoil of the speculative mania led to sales on this side "without reserve;" and, finally, the depression of trade and agriculture on this country reduced the consumption of tea. No reference is made to the possibility of the production in India being permanently excessive, and data on that point would be very desirable. As to the present season the Jorehaut Company report heavy rain last March, which has diminished the production.

RELICS OF A WRECK.—The Natal Mercury says:—"Mr. Sydney Turner, of Durban, and Lieut. Beddoes, late of the Natal Pioneers, have been at work for several weeks endeavouring to recover valuable things said to have gone down in the wreck of the Grosvenor, Indianman, which occurred, we believe, in 1782, on a point of rocks about twenty-five miles on the Natal side of St. John's River, where the sea breaks very heavily. There is an old rumour that on board the vessel were General or Col. Campbell and two daughters. These daughters are said to have been made wives of by the natives, and it is told of them that when their friends after some time found them out they refused to leave from feelings of shame. Certain it is that near the Umgazi River are living a small clan of light-coloured Caffres, many of whom are supposed to be descendants of some Europeans wrecked near St. John's River. Mr. Turner has shown us the articles recovered from the rocks, chiefly by dynamite blasting. There are about fifty gold coins, about 100 silver, and several copper ones. Many of the coins were found cemented into oxidised iron, the ship having been ballasted with pig iron. The gold pieces are about the size of a sovereign, but are much thinner; and, although they have been so long exposed, several of them are in a wonderfully good state of preservation. The larger gold coins are supposed to be Portuguese. On one side there is a representation of two standing figures, one holding a staff surmounted by a crucifix. The reverse side is not unlike the spade side of an old guinea. In somewhat of a diamond shape there is another standing figure having a halo round the head and encircled by stars. The designs are similar in most of the gold coins, but the inscriptions vary. On one side of the best specimens are the following letters and words, as far as we can distinguish them:—"S.M. Venet, Franc, havred, D.V." On the other side there appears to be 'Regis Islib Luca, Sit. X.P.B. DAT. Q.T.V.' A number of little gold coins are quaint-looking pieces, not unlike ordinary sized shirt studs. They bear the effigies of Indian gods, and a large copper token has the world on it with the zodiac. The silver coins are nearly all of one size, that of a shilling, and they appear to be of very ancient date. They are very thick, and bear on them Indian characters, which we have had translated to us by a competent authority in Durban as 'Akbar Shah,' the name of the first king of the Delhi dynasty. The date is not distinct on any of the coins, but as that personage flourished 1,200 years ago, it may be concluded that the coins left their primitive mint a long time back. Some Spanish coins appear to bear a date either about the year 1740 or 1770. Above high-water mark at the spot are large piles of charcoal and remains of large fires where the Caffres have burnt the wreckage, probably to extract the bolts, &c. There is an idea in the minds of the local Caffres that a box of treasure is buried near the spot where the Grosvenor came ashore, but although a stone is said to have been marked to show where it is, there is as yet little clue to the whereabouts of the hidden prize. Nine of the cannons carried by the Grosvenor are lying among the rocks, as well as large quantities of iron ballast."

SOCIETY OF ARTS.—The one hundred and twenty-sixth annual general meeting of this society was held on Wednesday. The business consisted of the election of new members of the society, numbering sixty-six; the election of the new council, and the reading of the report for the past session. The Prince of Wales was re-elected president of the society, an office he has held since 1863. Mr. H. Trueman Wood was re-elected secretary. The names of the vice-presidents and members of the council who have not served the office before were:—Sir Rutherford Alcock, K.C.B., Sir Frederick Leighton, president R.A., W. H. Perkin, F.R.S., Lord Reay, William Spottiswoode, president R.S., Andrew Cassils, Rear Admiral Mayne, Admiral Sir F. W. Nicolson, Bart., C.B., W. H. Preece, Lieut. Col. Webber, R.E., and as treasurer Owen Roberts, M.A. The report dealt with the action of the society during the past year. A large number of papers had been read at the ordinary meetings, and at the meetings of the sections devoted respectively to matters connected with India, the Colonies, chemistry, and physics. Three courses of lectures have been delivered under the endowment of Dr. Centor, and a conference had been held on the progress of public health. The society has had at work a number of committees, the proceedings of which were set out in the report. The report concluded with a summary of the financial condition of the society, which was stated to be in a satisfactory condition, more so, in fact, than it had been for many years.

ROYAL COLONIAL INSTITUTE.—The annual meeting of this institute was held on Wednesday at their rooms in the Strand. The Duke of Manchester, K.P., chairman of the council, presided. The report, which was adopted, stated that the institute is successfully doing the work for which it was founded, though it has not attained that full and complete development and organisation which it is desirable to attain. During the past year 77 resident and 149 non-resident fellows have been elected, making a total of 226. The present number of fellows of the institute is 1,131—viz., 528 resident, and 603 non-resident. Valuable additions to the library have continued to be made by the colonial and other Governments, and by various public bodies and private individuals. The fact was adverted to, that the institute is becoming recognised as neutral ground, upon which those differing as to all other principles may meet in support of the policy of maintaining the unity of the empire, and the council recorded as a gratifying fact that at the recent general parliamentary election all parties vied with each other in asserting their desire to maintain and strengthen the colonial connection. As to the finances it was stated that the increase of the past year was £2,317, and that there was a balance in hand of £756.

INDIAN COUNCIL DRAFTS.—The tenders for Rs. 30,00,000 in bills on India were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs. 28,44,000, average rate, 1s. 8½d.; to Bombay, Rs. 1,56,000, average rate, 1s. 8½d. Tenders on both Presidencies at 1s. 8¼d. will receive about 15½ per cent., above in full. The rate thus obtained is ¾d. lower than last week, when tenders at 1s. 8¾d. received 37½ per cent. of the amounts applied for. This fall may be attributed to a reduction in the demand for remittance consequent upon the subscriptions to the new loan being completed. Next week thirty lakhs are again to be put up for tender.

SOUTH INDIAN RAILWAY.—The warrants for the half-year's interest on the stock of this company have been forwarded to the proprietors, and are now payable at the Union Bank of London. The interest on the debenture bonds of the company is also payable on presentation of the coupons.

INDIAN APPEAL CASES.—In the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on Tuesday, before Sir James Colville, Sir Barnes Peacock, Sir Montague Smith, and Sir Robert Collier, the case of Juggurnath Bhramarbar Roy v. Ram Gobind Juggodib was heard. This was an appeal from a decree of the High Court of Calcutta of Sept. 12, 1877, reversing a decision of the subordinate judge of Cuttack, in the Bengal Presidency. Mr. Cowie, Q.C., and Mr. Doyne were counsel for the appellant. The subject matter of the suit was a claim by the respondent to be the custodian and to perform the worship of an idol called Buldeb Jeo and to receive the offerings made by the worshippers. This he claimed as the son and heir of the last shevait or custodian. The idol, however, and the offerings had been formally made over by deed to the appellant by the widow of the late shevait. The respondent, by the concurrent judgment of the courts below, had been found to be the illegitimate son of the shevait by a maid servant of inferior caste, and the question that remained for decision was whether the High Court, in opposition to the view of the original tribunal, but not without some hesitation, had rightly established from the evidence the existence of a family custom, opposed to the ordinary Hindoo law, under which an illegitimate son of shevait, who had died without legal male issue, was entitled to succeed to his father's rights, and to set aside an alienation of them made by his father's childless widow in pursuance of her husband's injunctions. Their lordships reversed the decision of the High Court, and affirmed that of the local tribunal, before whom the case originally came. The appeal was therefore allowed.—On Thursday judgment was given in the case of Kamarunnissa Bibi v. Hussein Bibi. This was an appeal from a decision of the High Court of the North West Provinces of India, sitting at Allahabad, of March 2, 1877, reversing a decree of the subordinate judge of Jaunpur. Mr. Doyne was counsel for the appellant; Mr. Leith, Q.C., and Mr. C. W. Arathoon for the respondent. The suit was instituted by the appellant as the niece of one Mehdi Ali, deceased, and as his heiress under the Mahomedan law of the Sheah or Imamea sect, to recover all his immovable property from the respondent, who was the widow of the deceased, and who claimed it in accordance with an oral deed of gift made to her by him three years before his death. The appellant questioned the making of the gift, and alleged that if it was ever made the donor was insane at the time. The subordinate judge held that Mehdi Ali had no knowledge of the pretended gift, and that the transfer of possession to the respondent had not been proved. The High Court, however, held that the deceased did make the gift; that he was, without doubt, sane when he did so; and that possession had been transferred to the donee. Their lordships, without calling upon the counsel for the respondent, affirmed the decree of the High Court, and the appeal was therefore dismissed, with costs.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.—The following gentlemen were called to the bar June 9:—Mr. Dinsha D. Davar (Bombay), Mr. Sayyid Nurul Huda (Patna), St. John's College, Cambridge, Mr. Syud Muhammad Sharafuddin (Patna), all of the Middle Temple; Mr. Syud Abdur Rahman, F.S.S., F.R.C.I. (Faridpur), of the Inner Temple; and Mr. Krishna Nath Mitra (Calcutta), of Lincoln's-inn. Mr. George Nundy, Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, passed, June 19, in the special examination in natural sciences for the ordinary B.A. degree (Chemistry, 2nd class). Mr. G. N. Chatterjee, Christ's College, Cambridge, has been elected to a scholarship in Arabic and Persian, £30. A prize in mathematics has been awarded to Mr. Devendra N. Das, at Clare College, Cambridge. Mr. E. J. Khory, of the Inner Temple, satisfactorily passed the examination in Roman law held in Trinity term. Mr. P. Mukerji, Dacca, has gained a certificate in chemistry at University College, London. Mr. Chunder Nath Banerjee has joined Lincoln's-inn. Arrivals.—Moulvi Sameeullah Khan, sub judge, Moradabad, on furlough, and Mr. Hamidullah Khan, his son, for the Indian Civil Service; Mr. Hamid Ali Khan and Mr. Mahomed Rafique, both for the bar; Mr. O. C. Mullick, pleader, Bagalpur, on a Privy Council case; Mr. U. K. Dutt, Calcutta, for the Indian Medical Service; Mr. Syed Abdur Rub, late sub deputy collector, Bengal, and Mr. Syed Mahomed Israil Khan-Bahadur, deputy magistrate and deputy collector, on leave, both for the bar; Mr. Tamiz Uddin Ahmed, of Julpigori, for the Indian medical service, and his brother, Mr. Tahrir Uddin Ahmed, for the bar. Departures.—Mr. Mohammed Hussein Hakim and Mr. Dinsha D. Davar, barristers-at-law, for Bombay, June 12.—Journal of the National Indian Association.

THE INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—The awards made by the Council of this Society for original communications read at the ordinary meetings during the session 1879-80, or printed in the minutes of proceedings, without being publicly read and discussed, have just been announced. In accordance with custom, a contribution from a member of council, Mr. H. Hayter, descriptive of the works of "The Amsterdam Ship Canal," was not considered in the adjudication of premiums. Telford medals and premiums have been awarded for "Portland Cement Concrete and some of its Applications," by E. A. Bernays; "The Purification of Gas," by H. E. Jones; "Iron and Steel at Low Temperatures," by J. J. Webster; "The River Nile," "Cleopatra's Needle," and "The Practical Strength of Beams," by B. Baker; and "The Hydro-geology of the Lower Greensands of Surrey and Hampshire," by G. Lucas. Telford premiums have been bestowed for "Explosive Agents applied to Industrial Purposes," by Professor Abel; "Portland Cement: Its Nature, Tests, and Uses," by J. Grant; "The Manufacture and Testing of Portland Cement," by Major General Scott, C.B., and G. R. Redgrave; "Tunnel Outlets from Storage Reservoirs," by C. J. Wood; "The Use of Asphalte and Mineral Bitumen in Engineering," by W. H. Delano; "The Delta of the Rhine and the Meuse in the Netherlands," by H. Siccamo; "Description of a Bridge over the Monongahela River at Port Perry, Pennsylvania," by J. M. Wilson; "The Thames Steam Ferry between Wapping and Rotherhithe," by F. E. Duckham; and "The Platelaying of the Jacobabad or Broad-gauge Section of the Kandahar Railway," by G. Moyle. The Manby premium has fallen to G. Chatterton, M.A., for his account of "The Main Drainage of Torquay." It has been decided that two of the papers read and discussed at the supplemental meetings of students shall appear in the proceedings. One of these, "Small Motive Power," by H. S. Hele Shaw, has received the Millar Scholarship (£40 annually for three years); the other, "Description of a Light Draught Steel Paddle Steamer," by J. A. Thompson, has obtained a Miller prize, and Miller prizes have likewise been adjudged to H. D. Fabricius, jun., H. Allen, and L. Burnet.

LAND MORTGAGE BANK OF INDIA (CREDIT FONCIER INDIEN).—The annual general meeting was held on Monday at the City Terminus Hotel. Mr. J. R. Boyson, the chairman and managing director, presided, and in moving the adoption of the report, said he fully realised that on that occasion they must be very greatly disappointed, as the board were. Their later sales of tea, so far from improving their average price, reduced it from 1s. 4½d., as it was in December last, to 1s. 4¼d. at the end of the season. In looking at this result he would ask them to bear in mind that the disappointment which they all so greatly regretted had arisen entirely from one cause—a short tea crop and an exceptionally depressed market, with the lowest range of prices Indian teas had ever known. They still considered the reduction in their debenture liability a matter for congratulation, inasmuch as the bank's original scheme had been abandoned, and the sooner they got quit of the liability the better, as it bore 5 per cent. interest. After the 1st proximo this liability would stand at £420,470, and he hoped the next statement would show that it had been reduced to about or below £400,000. A careful review of their Satsoykia holding warranted his telling him that there had been a decided improvement in the position of this asset during the past year, although the improvement fell somewhat short of his anticipations. None of their assets were realised during the year, as owing to the financial condition of India it was impossible to get anything like a fair value. Since the report was circulated they had sold a small property in the neighbourhood of Calcutta for as much as they valued it at in their last balance-sheet. Their holding in Indian Government securities had been increased by 4,000 rupees, and now stood at eight lakhs of 4½ per cent. paper. With regard to tea, on the whole the present season had hitherto been favourable, though there had been, as usual, some drawbacks to complete success. The estimated outturn of 1880 he considered very moderate—1,136,000lb.—and he was inclined to think they might reasonably expect more. A telegram received on Friday informed them that up to the date of the latest advices that had reached Calcutta from the gardens the quantity of tea made was 300,400lb., being 60,000lb. in excess of the quantity made at the corresponding period of the previous year. The suggestion from some shareholders that they should sell tea retail on the London market was altogether impracticable. One of the assets in the balance-sheet was bills receivable on account of tea not actually sold on the 31st of December last. That item, amounting to £30,563, had been realised excepting between £800 and £900, and had been passed to the bank's credit. Mr. H. G. Bainbridge, a director, having spoken of the position of the tea estates and the condition of the tea market, Mr. R. P. Harrison seconded the motion, and it was carried unanimously. A dividend of 1s. per share, absorbing £4,781, was declared, leaving £1,166 to be carried forward. The retiring director and auditors were re-elected.

ASSAM COMPANY.—The annual general meeting was held on Monday at the City Terminus Hotel; Mr. Walter Prideaux presiding. The report referred to the prejudicial effect of the unfavourable weather on the results of the year's working. The first portion of the crop yielded a fair average price, but from January to within a few weeks past prices had gone down, the result being that the average of the crop was but 1s. 5¼d. per lb., against 1s. 9½d. per lb. obtained for the crop of the previous season. The new cultivation was commencing to yield. The quantity of tea made and shipped in 1879 was 2,134,223lb., or 54,577lb. less than that estimated, but 14,510lb. in excess of that made in the previous year. The expenditure in India was £127,071. The net proceeds of the tea sales amounted to £135,027; the tea seed sold in India realised £929, and the profit on exchange was £17,481. The total expenditure had been £139,334, and the net profit was £14,899. Could the directors have anticipated this result in December last they would certainly not have declared an interim dividend. The total profit had not met the amount then divided, and the board had been obliged to debit the reserve fund with £3,816 to meet the difference. They felt it would not be prudent to touch the reserve fund beyond what was necessary to make up the 10 per cent. dividend paid in January last. The superintendent estimated the crop of manufactured tea for the current year at 2,239,700lb., and the expenditure at £120,289. The chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said there had been few occasions during the last twenty years in which the board had met their fellow-shareholders with keener feelings of disappointment, but this was owing to a bad season and low prices, over which they could have no control. There was nothing to complain of in the working of the establishment; the tea was manufactured as well as ever, and the expenditure was £5,000 less than in the previous year. The prices realised by their produce had been lower than had ever been known before. He thought they might very reasonably anticipate a substantial improvement in prices; but, supposing there should be no improvement, the question arose, could they not materially lessen the cost of production? He thought that question could be answered in the affirmative, and their attention was most earnestly directed to the subject. They had received the following telegram, under date the 25th inst. :—"Increase leaf 4,000 maunds, packed 201,372, first 67. Weather good, blight going, prospects good." The increase of 4,000 maunds represented, in point of fact, 90,000 pounds of manufactured tea in excess of the quantity of last year. The motion having been seconded, a discussion ensued, principally connected with the starting of a tea company by some of the assistants in India, and much dissatisfaction was expressed by several of the shareholders with the proceeding, though the chairman said, while regretting the course which had been taken—which, however, was within the rule laid down by the board—he thought they had nothing to fear from it. The report was unanimously adopted, and subsequently, on the motion of Mr. C. B. Denison, a resolution was passed expressing the displeasure of the meeting at the "direct promotion of a rival tea company by its own paid servants." The retiring directors and auditor were re-elected.

SIND, PUNJAB, AND DELHI RAILWAY.—The half-yearly general meeting of this company was held on Wednesday at the offices, Gresham-house, Old Broad-street. Mr. W. P. Andrew, the chairman, presided, and, in moving the adoption of the report, said their system, instead of losing traffic, had increased both in passengers and goods, notwithstanding that they had very much lowered the fares. This showed that their system had been more and more availed of by the population of the country. Not only had they been of the greatest use in promoting the public traffic, but also to the Government, in the conveyance of troops and warlike stores of all kinds. Up to May 24 last they had carried for the late and present campaigns the following gross military traffic booked under Government warrants:—336,428 troops and followers, 80,702 horses, ponies, and mules, 11,816 bullocks, 9,577 camels, 414 guns, artillery, and engineers' carriages, 2,749 boxes commissariat, ordnance, and military stores, and 681,653 maunds of railway material, requiring an estimated number of 1,500 trains, 525 of which were special troop, live stock, and material trains. There was no system of railway anywhere so fraught with political, strategic, and other benefits to the empire. We had now a new frontier—Beluchistan and Afghanistan—between us and Persia and Russian Turkestan, and from the way in which the standards of England had always advanced they would see that the time ought to come now when those standards should cease advancing, and that precaution should be taken more with the view for defensive than for aggressive purposes. He was happy to say that the normal commerce of the country, irrespective of the Afghan campaigns, had gone on increasing and promised to increase in a most satisfactory manner. He referred to the importance of efficient communication direct between London and Karachi. That harbour itself was susceptible still of further improvement; but he was happy to say that the Admiralty had lately ordered that the larger troopships conveying the troops to and from India were to enter the harbour instead of the harbour of Bombay. He referred to the presence of Sir Richard Temple, and the interest he had always taken in their railway, and said he would kindly favour them with some remarks.—Mr. Edward Thornton, the deputy-chairman, seconded the motion, and spoke of the assistance they had rendered in facilitating the military operations of the Government of India on its north-west frontier.—Sir Richard Temple said he had been among them on three occasions—the first time in 1857, and on the second occasion Sir Bartle Frere was present. One could not help being struck by the immense progress which the railway had made in the twenty-three years which had since elapsed, and the important national results to which it had contributed. In India he had also been present on several occasions (which he mentioned) of importance and consequence to the railway, which had accomplished a long series of administrative achievements. He had been asked to point out defects which had occurred, but he might almost say there were none. The difficulties connected with the bridging of the rivers Sutlej and Beas had been successfully surmounted, and they must not suppose that because those bridges had so frequently been broken through there was any fault in the original design—any inexcusable fault. The force of the torrents and currents of the Punjab rivers was something which could only be thoroughly understood after lengthened trial and experience. As to the blocks in the traffic, military and general, during the late war, the State railway, which had to carry the traffic on beyond Lahore towards the Indus, was quite as much responsible as the company's officers; but he believed, as to the blocks, that their railway was no exception to the rule which affected all the railways of India. The fact was that the rolling-stock of the lines was kept at too low a scale during times of peace to be efficient for emergency, civil or military. He had never ceased in his official capacity to press this point on his supreme official authorities. The extension of the State railway from Lahore to Peshawur was of immense consequence to the working of the railway. The extension for some time past had been carried as far as Jhelum, to which last year the blocks of traffic had been transferred from Lahore. One consequence of this was that the Government of India had recently determined to push on with every possible speed the railway from Jhelum to the Indus, and had also made arrangements for speedily bridging the Indus itself at some point near Attock. If the arrangements which the Government of India made last winter should be fully carried out he had no doubt before long that they would have a railway extension to the Indus and across it, which would very beneficially affect the company. Sir Richard next referred to the vast services which the railway had performed in the Punjab by conveying its surplus grain, and especially cereals, from the Upper Valley down to the mouth of Karachi. As to the Indus Valley, the gap between their two pieces of their line—the main piece in Punjab and the lesser piece in Sind—was at present filled, but he hoped only temporarily, by the Indus Valley State Railway, the management of which they had hoped would have been intrusted to this company before now. He referred to the advantages of this amalgamation, and expressed his belief that its being carried out was only a question of time. In dwelling on the importance of bridging the railway over the Sukkur, he said, when he left India, this arrangement was also in course of being carried out. As to the proposed alternative line from Rohri, opposite Sukkur, on the Indus, many people thought it should have been carried on on the left bank of the Indus towards Hyderabad. If that extension should be carried out, they might be sure there was a practical extension from Hyderabad across the Sind desert to Goojerat, north of Bombay. Meantime the Indus Valley State line, on the right bank of the Indus, notwithstanding the effects of the floods, had great political and commercial advantages. Nothing could be said in exaggeration of the extreme importance, commercial and political, of the situation of Karachi. If it only had a first-rate harbour like Bombay, or even as good a harbour as Calcutta, it would become, perhaps, one of the greatest ports in Asia. He then referred to the Kandahar line, and, after speaking of its importance, said that, if constructed to Kandahar, he ventured to affirm that there would be a great deal of traffic between Southern Afghanistan and the province of Sind, and then ultimately to other parts of India and of the world. But the value of the traffic was small as compared with the political and civilising effects of the line on Southern Afghanistan. He then referred to the eminent services rendered by various of the officers in the past twenty-five years, and concluded by alluding to the value of the system of guaranteed railways in India, and by quoting from a speech made by Mr. Andrew in 1857, at a deputation to Lord Palmerston, advocating communication with the Bholan and Khyber passes.—Mr. David Ross, the traffic manager, afterwards spoke of the condition of the traffic and its future prospects, which, he said, were highly satisfactory.—The report was unanimously adopted, and votes of thanks were passed to Sir Richard Temple and Mr. Ross for the interesting information they had furnished to the meeting. The retiring directors and auditor were re-elected.

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.—The annual meeting was held on Thursday at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C.; Mr. R. W. Crawford, the chairman of the company, presiding. The chairman said that was the first meeting of annuitant holders to whom by Act of Parliament was committed the administration of the affairs of the company in its new form as regarded its relations with the Government of India. Their proceedings would therefore be somewhat of a formal character, as the accounts, which would have been presented under ordinary circumstances at the time, would be submitted to a meeting in November to those who alone had any interest in them. From January 1, 1880, the business of the company was taken up by the deferred annuitants. As the half-quarter only terminated on the previous day, they had no accounts to exhibit, but, thanks to the telegraph, they were able to give something in the shape of results. In speaking of the results in sterling money, he used for the purpose of comparison the exchange of 1s. 10d. per rupee. It appeared from their telegram that the earnings of the company might be expected to reach £2,001,250; last year they were £2,162,582, but that was a prolific year. In the year before the earnings were £1,958,505, so that they were better now than in the year before last. In 1877 the figures were £2,132,019. The charges for the present year amounted to £641,666, for the last year they were £722,514, and in the year before £664,775. The net results for the half-year now dealt with amounted to about £1,368,582, last year it was £1,440,000. These comparisons were not calculated to lead them to believe that business had not been so economically and well conducted as before. At the present juncture of affairs, when the division of the money earned would take place upon a novel principle, many persons would probably like to know what the outcome was likely to be after deducting from the profits the difference between the exchange of 1s. 10d. and the amount at which they would get money here. Taking the exchange at the low rate of 1s. 8d., and deducting all the charges under the new contract, they would arrive at a sum of money one-fifth share of which would give them in January next, in addition to the 2 per cent. received, about £1 3s. 6d. for the half-year. He concluded by moving the adoption of the report, which was seconded by the Deputy-Chairman (Mr. George Lyall), and carried.

SOUTH EAST WYNAAD ESTATES AND GOLD MINING COMPANY.—A meeting has been called for the 14th inst. for the purpose of altering the denomination of the shares from £2 to £1 each.

IN RE HORSLEY, PALMER, STIRLING, AND CO.—Messrs. John Carolus Stirling and Francis William Macan have presented a petition for the liquidation of their affairs. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manila, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st Dec., 1884.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July, 1884.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanied each bottle.

BENGAL UNCOVENANTED SERVICE PENSION FUND.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The attention of subscribers to the above fund resident in England is earnestly invited to the recent vote carried by a majority of 49 subscribers, whereby the Directors are compelled to refuse to incumbents coming on the fund after the 1st May, 1880, payment of their pensions otherwise than in rupees in India or at the current rate of exchange, if the pensions are payable in England. As in the opinion of 499 subscribers this action of the majority constitutes a breach of faith, which can, it is believed, be successfully resisted in a court of law, a defence committee has been formed, with the object of securing payment to incumbents in England at 2s. per rupee in respect of risks incurred prior to 1876, and each subscriber is asked to co-operate with the Committee. Messrs. Grindlay and Co., of 55, Parliament-street, S.W., will supply, on application, copies of a circular, stating what the Committee purpose to do, and enclosing forms of protest, to be sent by each subscriber to the Secretary to the Fund, in order to protect his individual interest. Contributions to the Defence Fund will be received by Messrs. Grindlay and Co.

A RIDE TO KHIVA

CAPTAIN FRED. BURNABY,
Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 18:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheikh, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five

COCKLE'S PILLS

will never fade from my memory; and a friend of mine, who passed through the same district many months afterwards, informed me that my fame as a 'medicine man' had not died out, but that the marvellous cure was even then a theme of conversation in the bazaar."

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, JULY 12, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, June 10; Madras and Allahabad, June 17; Calcutta, June 16.

The following is the report of the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending June 8:—Rain has been general in British Burma, Assam, Bengal, Madras, Mysor and Coorg, and Bombay; in the first three provinces and on the Malabar coast it was plentiful. In Berar and Hyderabad, the Central Provinces, Central India States, North Western Provinces and Oudh, and Rajputana slight showers fell. In the Punjab there was rain only in the Peshawur district, where one-tenth of an inch fell. The monsoon has appeared in Bombay, on the Malabar coast, in part of Bengal, in Assam, and in Burma. Agricultural prospects and public health remain good.

The health reports for the same week are as follow:—Bombay: Public health generally good; but fever and small-pox prevalent in Sind. Bengal: Public health generally good; some cholera in Dum Dum and Baraset; Fever in Durbhunga. North West Provinces and Oudh: Cholera decreasing, and health generally good. Punjab: Fever continues in Delhi, and small-pox in Dera Ismail Khan; health otherwise good. Central Provinces: Small-pox continues in all districts. British Burma: Small-pox continues in deltaic districts of Pegu; public health otherwise good. Mysor and Coorg: Fever continues. Central India States: Cholera increasing at Rewah; elsewhere health good. Rajputana: Good. Kamandu: Cholera continues.

We have received the following telegrams from the India offices:—

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 7.—Cabul reports, latest news. Abdurrahman was at Doshak, on north slope of Hindu Kush. Gathering at Chakri continues. Hashim Khan with the Ghilzais appears now meditating hostilities. A force was sent on the 4th from Pezwan and Gandamak to punish villages of Mirgosais for raids. Village stubbornly held, but enemy completely dispersed; our casualties, four wounded. Abdurrahman writes from Akohasma that he will reach Kinjan Friday, thence move into Kohistan by regular marches. Accurate records of the gathering in Maiden are that it numbered 16,000 last week, but since reduced by dispersion to 5,000. Kohistan quiet. Kandahar reports assembly under Mahomed Aslam Khan near Khelat-i-Ghilzai; small force sent out dispersed them without infantry coming into action. Kandahar.—Reports from camp on march to Girishk say supplies plentiful, weather cool. Wali has withdrawn nearer Girishk; most of his forces now beyond Helmand. Has no precise news of Ayoob, but Luniah (?) with cavalry was at Bakwa. Ayoob's regulars supposed seven battalions, about 650 each. Quetta reports desertion of large numbers of Khan of Khelat's sepoys. Heavy rain having caused break in railway between Jacobabad and Sibi, some delay is caused in bringing up reinforcements for Kandahar line of communications from reserve."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 8.—Reported from Kandahar yesterday that advance brigade under General Nuttall reached Karez-i-Ak, morning 6th, all well. He had no news from the Wali that day."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 9.—Letter received on 7th by Griffin, at Cabul, from Abdurrahman, announcing his speedy arrival at Kohistan. He is expected at Charikar to-day with escort of about 1,000 cavalry, 800 infantry, eight guns. Stewart has ordered brigade to proceed four miles west of Cabul to check possible movements from Maidan. Our brigade in Kohdama reports country quiet and supplies plentiful. Hashim Khan gone towards Logar from Kandahar. Reports received of British cavalry brigade arrived, all well, at a place forty-three miles from Kandahar towards Girishk. Infantry nine miles in rear. Ayub's cavalry reached banks of Khashrud; some in Bakwa."

The telegrams from Cabul state that Abdul Rahman has not yet arrived in Kohistan, being detained on the northern side of the Hindu Koosh, partly for want of transport, and also because of the hostility of the Sheikh Ali Harani. Abdul Rahman had only 1,000 horse and foot and six mountain guns. Mir Butoha has gone to Kohistan to join him. Many of the sirdars at Cabul have written tendering their allegiance. The excitement probable on the sirdar's arrival has always been foreseen, and measures are being taken in anticipation. General Macpherson's brigade, which is encamped eight miles to the north west of Cabul, covers the Chardeh Valley and threatens Maidan in case of an outbreak there. General Gough's brigade occupies a commanding position to the north of Cabul. It moves to-morrow (Tuesday) to Zimmen, twelve miles from Sherpur, where it will control the roads leading to Kohistan. The Ghazni field force remains in Logar and the position round Cabul itself is adequately maintained. There is great distress and scarcity in the city of Cabul, but the harvest is expected to bring relief.

The following is dated Camp, Logar, July 10:—

"General Palliser's cavalry action on the 1st inst. has had an excellent and widespread effect. It is true that Mahomed Jan has arrived in Logar with 700 or 800 men, all Wardaks, who are encamped at the extreme end of the valley awaiting events, and that a combination is probable between that leader and the Sirdars Hassem and Abdullah Khan, who have come in to Zurnat. It is also true that the Zurnatis are re-collecting; but these demonstrations are not, for the present, against the English, but are intended rather to show a bold front against Abdul Rahman on his arrival at Cabul. The whole of the chiefs and maliks of Logar are loud in their declarations against Abdul Rahman and for Yakooob Khan or his son. The latter party are sorely perplexed by the formation of a fresh party by the Sirdar Hashim Khan. The inhabitants of Logar have consistently adhered to the promise they gave Colonel Euan Smith, and have abstained from joining the Ghazis or assisting them. The weather is cool and splendid, and the troops are healthy. Captain Barrow is rapidly recovering from his wounds."

The latest news from Southern Afghanistan is that the cavalry and horse artillery of the brigade sent to support the Wali Shere Ali against Ayoob Khan had arrived at Kooshki Nakhoond on Wednesday and were expected to reach Helmand on Friday. The infantry was one day's march behind. Ayoob Khan's cavalry is said to have recrossed the Khash River boundary between the Farah provinces and Kandahar.

The latest news from Burma is contained in a Calcutta telegram as follows:—

"Mr. Bernard has taken over the chief commissionership from Mr. Aitchison, who has proceeded to Simla to take his seat in the Supreme Council. Prior to his departure he and his successor were entertained at a dinner by the Rangoon community. Mr. Bernard's speech on that occasion was looked for with some interest, as it was believed that he had received definite instructions from the Government as to the policy to be adopted towards Upper Burma. He did not, however, give any indication as to that policy, except that it would not be one of annexation. The Nyoungoke Prince has arrived at Calcutta under arrest. The Indian Legislative Council has passed an act authorising the temporary appointment of an additional recorder to assist the recorder of Rangoon. The object of this measure is to provide for the disposal of what are known as the Commissariat fraud cases, in which Captain Leigh Hunt and several subordinate Commissariat employees are charged with receiving illegal gratifications from a contractor. The cases are now proceeding before the magistrate, and, as they are both numerous and heavy, it has become necessary to appoint a special officer to try them."

MALARIOUS fever is said to have broken out among the British troops at Mhow, a large military station in Central India.

The Marquis of Lansdowne has resigned the office of Under Secretary of State for India.

The Central News says that General Stewart has brought Lieut. Watson and Second Lieut. Twynham, 59th Regt., to the notice of the military authorities as fitting recipients of the Victoria Cross, on account of distinguished gallantry displayed in recent operations before Ghazni.

A CORRESPONDENT at Indore informs the Times of India that the Maharaja Holkar had received a letter from the Earl of Lytton, in which the ex-Viceroy, while cordially thanking his Highness for his desire to have an interview with him at Khundwa, on his way to Bombay, to say good-bye, asked to be excused the meeting, as, being no longer Viceroy, such meeting might be impolitic. For the same reason he had been compelled to decline several similar kind offers from other princes.

THE Secretary of State has sanctioned the grant of a compassionate pension of Rs.500 a year to the unmarried sister of the late Brevet Major John Cook, V.C., 5th Goorkhas, who died of his wounds on Dec. 19 in Afghanistan.

SIR ANDREW CLARKE took his seat at the Council board on June 8. Major General A. Fraser has consequently resumed his duties as secretary in the Public Works Department.

MR. C. W. HUGHES, J.P., for Melbourne, has been appointed to act as a commissioner for the Government of India at the Melbourne International Exhibition of 1880.

THE Straits Legislative Council has unanimously voted a pension of £100 a year to Bishop Chambers, formerly Anglican bishop of Labuan and of the Straits Settlements.

LIEUT. A. V. H. BROOKE, 33rd Regiment, having been pronounced insane, has been confined in the Colaba Lunatic Asylum pending arrangements for his removal to England.

HER MAJESTY'S troopship Himalaya, with Lord and Lady Lytton and family on board, now on her homeward voyage, is expected to reach Aden on the 14th inst., and to leave on the 17th. She will proceed thence to Suez, Port Said, and Malta, at which places she will probably arrive on the 22nd, 24th, and 28th inst. respectively. She will leave Malta on August 1 for Lisbon, where she is expected to arrive on August 7, and whence she will sail on the 9th for Portsmouth, arriving about the 14th.

A RECENT telegram stated that the Madras papers report the occurrence of a mutiny among the sepoys in the French settlement of Pondicherry. The men appear to have been dissatisfied with a recent order reducing their pay and increasing the period of service for a pension. They drew up a memorial to the Governor, and the six men presenting it were dismissed the service. Thereupon fifty others threw down their arms and refused to serve the Republic any longer. Matters are still unsettled, but it is believed that the Governor is inclined to give in and promise to lay the grievances before the French Government.

THE revenue of the Hughli Bridge shows a balance of Rs.10,717.

A NATIVE boat club has been formed in Calcutta. The members practise in English out-rigged four-oared boats.

THE opening of the Northern Punjab State Railway to Rawul Pindi, which was expected to be effected this month, has been postponed, owing to a portion of the Sohan Bridge having been washed away by the floods. It will probably be some months before the damage can be repaired.

THE report of the working of the Post-office of India for the year 1878-79 shows an increase in covers carried of 2.239 per cent., and a reduction in newspapers of 6.57 per cent. There is a large increase in the use of the embossed half-anna envelope.

It is reported from Madras that upwards of twenty lakhs have been spent on the attempts to suppress the disturbances in Rampa.

THE subscriptions towards the Irish Famine Fund have, in Calcutta, reached Rs.100,393, and in Bombay Rs.92,595. A telegram has been received from Dublin requesting that the subscription lists may still be kept open.

THE amount of money in the public treasuries and at credit of the Government in the Presidency banks and their branches on the last day of the month of May, 1880, was Rs.10,98,70,000. The corresponding figures on the same date in 1879 were Rs.13,61,92,000, and in 1878, Rs.13,14,83,000.

THE trade and navigation reports of British India for the first two months of the current financial year show an improvement on last year of over 82 lakhs of rupees in imports and over 199 lakhs in exports. The number of vessels entered and cleared in the two months was 1,506, of 948,310 tons, against 1,395, of 850,399 tons last year. The returns for April show the gross amount of import duty collected at Rs.28,59,446, and of export duty at Rs.7,71,816. In the corresponding month of 1879 the import and export duties collected were respectively Rs.30,12,114 and Rs.8,44,886.

THE amount of salt duty collected in April last was Rs.53,78,000, as against Rs.55,90,000 collected in April, 1879.

THE Daily News correspondent telegraphs from St. Petersburg that it is reported from Kuldja that the Russian traveller Prjevalsky, with the members of the expedition, are prisoners in the hands of the Chinese. It is further reported that a Russian caravan was attacked on the Chinese frontier, two Russian traders killed, and twenty camels driven off. The Chinese Embassy in St. Petersburg gave an official banquet on Tuesday. The representatives of all the foreign Powers were present. It is noteworthy that the Russian Foreign-office was unrepresented, and not a single Russian was present.

THE Officiating Comptroller General gives the following particulars of the result of the allotment of the Three Crores and Thirteen Lakhs Loan:—

Aggregate amount of tenders	Rs.26,29,49,700	0	0
Minimum rate of accepted tender	103	3	0
Tenders at that rate received per cent.	Nearly 50	0	0
Total amount of accepted tenders	3,13,00,000	0	0
Total amount to be received by Government	3,22,97,721	14	0
Average rate at which loan is issued	103	3	0
Whole loan, except Rs.500, is issued at	103	3	0

THE Indian papers state that the authoritative announcement that, with the exception of Rs.500 subscribed at Rs.110-1, the whole of the loan of 313 lakhs had been taken up at the high rate of Rs.103-3, gave great satisfaction throughout the country.

THE following notification has appeared in the Gazette of India.—"In continuation of notification No. 960, dated June 5, notice is hereby given that loan certificates, with coupons payable to bearer, will hereafter be issued at the option of holders in exchange for scrip receipt granted under clause 15 of notification No. 461, dated May 14, published in the Gazette of India Extraordinary of the same date, or for promissory note issued under the same notification. As some delay may occur in the preparation of such loan certificates in needful preliminary legislation it is impossible to fix the exact date on which they will be ready, but no avoidable delay will be allowed in their preparation."

THE Chief Commissioner of Assam, in the Government resolution upon the administrative report of the Assam prisons for the year 1879, observes:—"There has been considerable increase in the proportion of punishments by whipping. The views expressed by the superintendent of the Tezpur Gaol on the subject of gaol punishments would appear to require a certain amount of qualification. Whipping, solitary confinement, and reduced diet can never be considered as equivalent punishments which can be adopted indifferently. The most frequent offence of performing an insufficient task, proceeding, as it frequently does, from a want of energy, cannot, where this is the real cause, be corrected by a reduction of diet, acting as that does to the still further diminution of energy. Where, however, a prisoner is rebellious, it is often almost the only immediately effective remedy. As the characteristic failing of Assam prisoners is probably want of energy, and active resistance to authority is comparatively rare, reduced diet seems to be a punishment which need rarely be resorted to."

THE Post-office of India report for the year 1878-79 shows that in spite of the reduction made in the cost of carriage of books, patterns, inland parcels, and letters, and in the extra charges for insufficiently paid parcels, besides the loss sustained through the abolition of the charge for re-direction postage and the severe strain that the Afghan campaign inflicted, the progress of the department is steady and satisfactory. The system of insurance is stated to be a financial success, Rs.1,96,786 having been collected in fees, and the loss by insured articles being Rs.25,092. The number of letter-boxes, post-offices, and village postmen has been considerably increased. The increase in the number of covers carried was 2.39 per cent. The number of newspapers was greatly in excess of 1876-77. The Russo-Turkish war and Indian famine caused the number last year to be abnormally large. The results of the operation of the dead letter-office were very satisfactory. The net revenue of the foreign parcel post shows an increase of Rs.12,440. The exchange of letters and newspapers with Great Britain has advanced by respectively 5.9 and 8.5 per cent.; that of books and patterns, owing to the increased use of the parcel post, have decreased 12.5 per cent. The demand for the embossed half-anna envelope is very large, the returns give an increase on the last year of Rs.1,78,407. The net revenue of the department was Rs.1,27,898, and the reduction is mainly due to the reductions of postage and the abolition of redirection charge.

DURING the month of April the imports of gold into India were Rs.29,75,052, and the exports Rs.7,825 only, leaving the net import at Rs.29,67,227. Of silver there was imported Rs.82,80,641, and exported Rs.12,19,318, leaving a net import of Rs.70,61,323. The net import of precious metals, therefore, during April was Rs.1,00,28,550.

FROM the figures relating to the coinage during April, furnished by the Press Commissioner, we see that Calcutta received Rs.3,31,505 of coin and bullion, whilst the Bombay Mint received Rs.39,55,880, making a total for both mints of Rs.43,07,385. The amounts coined were—Calcutta, nil; Bombay, Rs.44,99,280. The remittances to the Home Treasury for May were £1,167,542, costing Rs.14,00,000. The rate secured was 1s. 8.01d., against a Budget rate of 1s. 8d. The loss by exchange during the month was Rs.23,24,580. Taking the two months, April and May, the remittances aggregated £2,954,325, costing Rs.3,55,00,000, and entailing a loss of Rs.59,56,750. Against the Budget rate of 1s. 8d. the average rate secured was for the two months 1s. 7.97d.

THE total value of merchandise imported into Bengal during the year 1879-80 is estimated at Rs.18,64,40,947; of merchandise exported at Rs.29,67,70,336. In 1878-79 the exports and imports were valued respectively at Rs.28,80,64,311 and Rs.16,53,47,943.

THE new P. and O. steamer Ravenna, with English mails, arrived in Bombay on the night of June 13, having accomplished the voyage from Southampton in a little over twenty-five days. This is the fastest passage on record.

MR. MURRAY announces "India in 1880," by Sir Richard Temple. Mr. Clements Markham promises a book on a subject he has made peculiarly his own: "A Popular Account of the Introduction of Peruvian Bark into British India and Ceylon," and he will give particulars of the progress and extent of its cultivation.

DURING the week ending June 5 there were 144 deaths in Calcutta, being a death-rate of 17.4 per 1,000 per annum. In Madras for the same week the deaths numbered 255, giving a rate of 33.3 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay, for the week ending the 8th May, the deaths were 404, a death-rate of 30.58 per 1,000 per annum.

THE Times of India contains the following obituary of the week:—Dr. Stannan (Bengal); Mr. W. William Mr. E. J. Ravenshaw; Mr. W. G. Templeton; Captain J. Barr, 17th (The Loyal Poorbeah) Regiment N.I.; Mr. R. G. Currie, Bengal Civil Service; Raja of Calicut Honorary Captain D. Vint (Bombay).

THE SKIRMISH AT PADKHOW.

THE Times correspondent last week gave the following account of the skirmish at Padkhow, which was quoted by Lord Hartington on Thursday night as substantially correct:—"The following is from Camp Zargun Shahr, dated July 2: 'Learning that the Ghazni Field Force was returning from Chasbi towards this place on the 26th, the whole of the tribesmen which had collected in the Logar Valley with hostile intentions dispersed to Zurmat, Charwar, Maidan, and Wardan. The Logaris themselves had steadfastly refused to join them. Three days ago, however, the political officer, Colonel Euan Smith, learnt that under the influence of Sirdar Mahomed Hassan Khan, the late Governor of Jellalabad, the Zurmat men had again collected to the number of 800 or 900 at the large village of Padkhow, where they had been joined by the above Sirdar. It was further learnt that in this new movement Sirdar Hassim Khan and Abdullah Khan, whose flight from Cabul was noticed last week, had joined. These latter Sirdars had sent into Logar offering large rewards for men and arms, and requesting the people to assemble and await their arrival. They promised to bring a large following from the vicinity of Khoul, Cabul, and stated that they would be joined by 12,000 men from Maidan. As the collection at Padkhow, therefore, seemed likely to become the nucleus of a large gathering, it was determined to break it up at once. Accordingly, General Hill ordered a cavalry brigade, under General Palliser, to reconnoitre early on the 1st inst. towards Padkhow, directing that officer, if he found the enemy, to give the best account of them possible. The brigade consisted of the 1st and 2nd Punjab Cavalry and the 19th Bengal Lancers. On arriving at Padkhow it was found that the enemy had taken flight. They were overtaken about three miles off, trying to reach the shelter of the hills. They numbered some 800 and had been deserted, as usual, by their leaders. When they found that escape was impossible they stood at bay and died bravely. The pursuit was continued for six miles, and 200 of them were killed. Our casualties were four troopers killed, and Captain Seymour Barrow, who accompanied the cavalry as a volunteer, and twenty-four men wounded. Four horses were killed and several wounded. There were some hairbreadth escapes, as the insurgents reserved their fire until the cavalry were close to them. Colonel Yorke, of the 19th Bengal Lancers, had a bullet through his helmet; another bullet grazed his eyebrow, and his orderly was shot dead at his side. Major Atkinson, of the 1st Punjab Cavalry, and Captain Leslie Bishop, of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry, are specially mentioned by those present as having displayed signal gallantry for which the hand to hand fighting afforded many opportunities. The cavalry, about 500 sabres all told, did not return to the camp until 6 p.m., when the whole division turned out and cheered them. They had been fifteen hours in the saddle, and had ridden over forty miles since the morning. A recent deserter from the sappers was killed in the enemy's ranks and his carbine recovered. He did not attempt to fight, but threw down his arms and begged for mercy. The blow thus struck has for the moment broken up the new combination, but the punishment inflicted has not been so severe as to prevent the insurgents from reassembling hereafter. It is distinctly stated that none of the tribesmen defeated yesterday were favourable to Abdurrahman. All engaged came from Zurmat. Mahomed Hassar Khan fled to Charakh, and will probably join the fugitive sirdars from Cabul. As it was expected that the Logar tribesmen might leave their homes en masse, terrified at the results of yesterday's encounter, Col. Euan Smith has sent letters to the principal Malikis, telling them that they have nothing to fear while they remain quiet in their homes, and directing them to send in for treatment to the English camp all the wounded left by the enemy."

THE SHEKABAD ACTION.

MAJOR GENERAL ROSS, in his despatch with reference to the action near Shekabad on April 24, speaks in the highest terms of the able manner in which Lieut. Col. Rowcroft carried out the attack. Lieut. Col. Rowcroft mentions the following officers who accompanied him and gave every assistance:—Capt. the Hon. C. Dutton, assistant quartermaster general; Capt. A. Broadfoot, Hazara Mountain Battery; Major R. G. Woodthorpe, R.E., Survey Department; Capt. J. W. Ridgeway, political officer; Major J. Hay, commanding the wing of the 4th Goorkhas; Capt. C. M. Stockley, commanding the detachment of the 2-9th Foot; 2nd Lieut. J. L. Govan, 2-9th Foot, who shot down a Ghazi who had killed one of the Goorkhas; Lieut. H. M. Sandbach, R.A., Hazara Mountain Battery; Major G. W. Willock, commanding the troop of the 3rd Bengal Cavalry. Major Combe, deputy assistant quartermaster general, who commanded the Shekabad party, is said in the despatch to be deserving of praise for the good judgment he displayed. He received valuable assistance from Capt. P. H. Wallerstein, commanding the three companies of the 24th Punjab Native Infantry, and also from Lieut. L. J. E. Bradshaw of the same corps, who led the advance company in the attack.

THE OPERATIONS AT CHARASIAB, APRIL 25.

IN the despatches from Lieutenant General Sir F. S. Roberts, published in the Gazette of India, the following officers are reported as having done good service on this occasion:—Lieutenant Colonels G. H. Parker, commanding the 92nd Highlanders; R. B. P. P. Campbell, commanding the Corps of Guides; F. M. Armstrong, commanding the 45th N.I.; G. Stewart, commanding the Cavalry of the Corps of Guides; Majors G. White, commanding a wing of the 92nd Highlanders; G. Swinley, commanding No. 2 Mountain Battery; R. G. Kennedy, deputy assistant quartermaster general; Captains L. C. Singleton, 92nd Highlanders; A. H. Turner, 2nd Punjab Infantry, political officer; R. E. C. Jarvis, 67th Regiment, brigade major; A. D. McGregor, 92nd Highlanders, orderly officer; W. Hill, commanding the detachment of the 2nd Goorkhas; M. A. Alves, Royal Engineers; Lieutenants the Hon. J. S. Napier, 32nd Highlanders; J. H. Wodehouse, F.A., Royal Horse Artillery; S. Grant, Royal Engineers; F. F. Ramsay, 92nd Highlanders; C. H. Manners Smith, deputy assistant quartermaster general; Surgeons J. Lewtas, M.B., Corps of Guides; J. J. Morris, M.D., 92nd Highlanders; Ressaldar Major Ghulam Nakshband Khan, late 19th Bengal Lancers, political officer; Subadars Mahabir Bhist, 2nd Goorkhas; Sher Singh, Corps of Guides. Brigadier General Macpherson, in his despatch, says:—"For some special mark of honour I would bring to favourable notice Captain L. C. Singleton, 92nd Highlanders, and Captain W. Hill, 2nd Goorkhas. Both these officers commanded the first line of their respective regiments, and led the attack in a most determined manner in storming the orchards. Lieutenant Colonel Parker makes favourable mention of Lieutenant F. F. Ramsay for his conduct in bursting open the doorway of a house in which a number of the enemy had taken refuge and were preparing to make a stand. He relates the circumstance in the following terms:—"A party of the enemy who had been firing at them were seen to enter a building, and on Lieutenant Ramsay's rushing up he found the place locked. He immediately ordered one of his party to blow the lock off by discharging his rifle into it, which was done, and, forcing an entrance, they killed six of the enemy." Lieut. Col. Parker further brings to notice the name of Lieut. and Adjutant C. W. H. Douglas, who, he states, was most energetic throughout the whole of the operations. I beg also to submit the following extract from Captain Hill's report:—"One man, however, was making good his escape, when Subadar Mohabir Bhist (in spite of his thirty-four year's service) pursued the man, and, after racing for about 300 yards, came up with him, and in a hand-to-hand conflict cut him down with his sword. I would beg to bring the gallant conduct of the subadar to the favourable notice of the brigadier, and also to mention that throughout the day Subadar Mahabir Bhist was as untiring in his careful handling of his men as he was forward and gallant whenever opportunity offered." With reference to the above I would bring the name of Subadar Mahabir Bhist specially to the notice of the Lieutenant General for favourable consideration."

THE MANDALAY "GAZETTE."

THE last two numbers of the Mandalay official Gazette that have reached India gave hardly any indications of the perilous extremity to which King Theebaw's Government is fast approaching. The issue of May 14 describes at length the royal ceremony which recently took place to propitiate the nats or devas of the kingdom. Nat worship is no doubt prevalent among the Burmese, but is opposed to pure Buddhism, and has never been hitherto officially recognised, either by the hierarchy or the Crown. The present ruler, however, has systematically disregarded the element and beneficent precepts of his national faith; he has estranged and affronted the priesthood, and is now degrading the religion. Of course, no mention is made of the human sacrifices which accompanied the rite; but there can be no doubt that many occurred, and those nights of terror which preceded the last water-festival will long be an abiding recollection among the Burmese under the Golden foot sole. The next issue of the Gazette (that of May 25) announces some minor appointments, all of which appear as made directly by the sovereign, the Lord of Righteousness, the Arbiter of Existence, the Master of White Elephants and Magic Weapons, Owner of the Chaddan, Chief among Elephants, Monarch of Earth and Water, the Prince of Infinite Glory—to quote his official titles. A paragraph then narrates how in February last the Emperor of China despatched a mission to Mandalay, consisting of eleven dignitaries of Yunnan and Yangchan, who were in charge of a golden letter from the Emperor to the King. On the mission arriving a day's journey from the Chinese frontier they were joined by two Chinese military commanders, Sontalo and Sintalo, who announced their intention of attaching themselves to the service of Theebaw. The men were probably Panthays, and as they had upwards of 100 followers the Chinese could not well decline this company. On their arrival at the capital the King accepted their offer of allegiance, and after they had been fully instructed in the use of arms he granted them each a title and a red silk umbrella. It is not improbable that they will have an opportunity of showing their loyalty and courage. A royal order is published next containing instructions for the great annual levee. It is issued from the High Court, and is signed by the three chief nobles, the Khanpat, the Gun, and the Yo Ministers. It is addressed exclusively to the Shan feudatories of the kingdom, some of whom are summoned and others excused from attendance. The Jhenni chief, who has been in revolt for years, and whose daughter and grandson, the wife and child of the late king, were infamously butchered last year, is as usual conspicuous by his absence. An account, which follows, of a recent elephant-catching, within the great enclosure at Amarapura, mentions that no less than eleven casualties took place, owing, apparently, to the spectators being imperfectly protected. Among the minor paragraphs the following two are worthy of notice. The first announces that the alarming rumours which have arisen in Calcutta concerning a revolt in the outskirts of the kingdom are absolutely false and without foundation. The second gives the names of the new Liberal Ministry. Our readers will find some difficulty in recognising Galatsatan, Garanwila, Chilada, and Nothabhywat; while Selabhon and Hahhengatan will probably remain an unsolved mystery.—Times of India.

THE AFGHAN WAR EXPENSES.

A PARLIAMENTARY paper was issued on Saturday containing "further correspondence relating to the estimates for the war in Afghanistan." There is a long minute by Sir John Strachey, dated May 20, on the causes of the error in the estimates, and another by Lord Lytton commenting on Sir John Strachey's statement. Lord Hartington also writes on June 7, replying to the letter from the Indian Government of May 4, and stating that he is awaiting the promised explanations. The latest documents in the papers are a series of telegrams which have passed between the Secretary of State and the Viceroy, which are summarised in the following memorandum by Mr. Henry Waterfield, Financial Secretary at the India-office, dated July 2, 1880:—"The total cost of the war in Afghanistan, excluding the expenditure on frontier railways, was given in the financial statement as £676,381 expended in 1878-79, £3,216,000 estimated for 1879-80, and £2,090,000 estimated for 1880-81, making a total of £5,982,381, or say £6,000,000. In the telegram of June 22 the total gross cost (that is, without allowing for extra receipts from railways and telegraphs) is estimated at £15,000,000, showing an excess of £9,000,000 over the former estimate. If a reform which has been suggested by the financial member of council be carried out, by which the military expenditure would apparently be brought into account at a much earlier date than before, the portion of the excess so brought to account in 1879-80 would be £5,500,000. By this alteration the sum of £71,164,000 shown (on page 47 of the correspondence laid before Parliament) as "Imperial expenditure" in that year would be increased by £5,500,000, a corresponding reduction being made under the heads of "other deposits repaid and advances made" and "balances." Thus the war expenditure brought to account to March 31 would be nearly £9,500,000. The cash balance in India was, on March 31, about £1,183,000 below the estimate in February. It has since been strengthened by the loan in India, of which the proceeds will amount to about £3,229,770. On the other hand, the war disbursements in 1880-81 would, under the suggested reform, be £5,500,000, instead of £2,090,000, or an excess of £3,410,000 over the provisions in the Budget. Adding this last £5,500,000 to the former expenditure of £9,500,000, the total becomes £15,000,000 in the three years. To this excess of £3,410,000 must be added £260,000 granted for frontier railways; but an extra receipt of £300,000 seems to be expected from railways and telegraphs. Thus there will be a total amount of £3,370,000 to be provided in the current year if the present estimates of the Government of India regarding the war should be realised, and if in other respects the anticipation of the Budget estimate should prove correct. It is uncertain what amount of bills will be drawn in 1880-81; but, on the assumption that the drawings will be reduced to £15,000,000, the cash balances in India on March 31, 1881, are now estimated at £12,000,000, or about £566,000 higher than the estimate of February last.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

INDIAN INDUSTRIES.*

THE apology for yet another book on India, tendered to the public by Mrs. Eliot James, is her great interest in the prosperity and future well-being of India. As she has, with success, essayed to guide her less experienced sisters in the unknown ways of Indian household management, so now she seeks to interest British readers in the welfare of India by setting forth the chief industries, either prosperous or decaying, native or foreign, new or old, which prove the resources of Indian wealth. Her work is itself a monument of Indian industry, and deserves credit for the accumulation of facts and figures which can only be the result of assiduous labour that has evidently been a labour of love. Mrs. James is not a passionless compiler, an impartial encyclopædist. She loses no opportunity of impressing upon the inquirer who comes to her for information on the subject, say of "rice," that in her opinion the "ryot" is in a very bad way, and that he and his industry are only to be rescued from ruin by the prompt intervention of an Agricultural Department, which shall take upon itself the duty of inculcating by precept and example an improved, though not high, system of farming, and also of providing capital by way of loan, or otherwise, for the development of the new ideas by redeemed cultivators. We agree with Mrs. Eliot James, as she will see by referring to our article in last week's issue, that it is most important that the Department of Commerce and Agriculture should have full scope and encouragement. Still, we are sorry to see sound and sensible advice mixed up with those pessimist laments of which the public has heard too much, and which awaken an echo of discontent where no natural utterance or feeling exists. Taking Mrs. James's work as it imports to be, a book of reference wherein the un instructed may find all information on the subject of myrobalam, coir, cutch, &c., or the raggi, jowari, and other food grains that perplex special correspondents and legislators in search of an Indian grievance, we discover it to be a useful, though not quite perfect, encyclopædia.

The alphabetical arrangement adopted has its advantages, though at first sight the place assigned to "beer" is somewhat bewildering. We do not see the utility in a work intended for technical information, of launching into the question of cotton duties, and would have preferred some data as to the working of the cotton frauds legislation and the exact outturn both as to quantity and quality of the Indian mills. We note, too, that although an ardent sympathiser with the ryots, whose wants and wrongs are discussed in season and out of season in her pages, Mrs. James curtly dismisses the question of legislation for the factory hands. She has avoided, however, the danger of a disquisition on the question of indigo cultivation. We are somewhat surprised to find the information on the subject of "gold mining" scarcely up to date, even allowing for the time needful for passing a work through the press. The reader of pages 212-214 would not be made aware that the important questions of mining rights and tenures have been nearly, if not quite, decided. There is, however, a large amount of valuable knowledge in this compact and useful volume, and the author cannot be said to have omitted any topic on which an inquirer might seek information in these pages. We trust that her object, viz., of attracting the attention of more of our countrymen and countrywomen to the fact that the resources of India are as numerous as they are varied, will be attained. We are sure that her work is calculated, notwithstanding the shadows of Indian deterioration that gloom over its pages, to diffuse a great deal of useful knowledge, imparted in a pleasant and readable form.

RECENT BOTANICAL WORKS.*

THE English student of botany is to be congratulated on the possession of Dr. Prantl's admirable textbook in a form which will enable him to make easy use of its contents. There are few works on the subject in any language so fitted to initiate a beginner in botanical science to the mysteries it presents as that we have under review; and Dr. Vines has done a real service in assisting to bring it within the reach of those to whom, in its German dress, it could not be accessible. The plan of the work is eminently scientific, and throughout its contents are marked by the scholarly accuracy which has made Sach's handbook the favourite it has become with advanced students. Indeed, Prantl's botany is essentially an introduction to the larger manual. In both the most modern views respecting vegetable anatomy and physiology are incorporated, delineations of structure, and the descriptions of formation being thoroughly in accordance with the evolutionary history of the organisms.

* (1) "Elementary Textbook of Botany." Translated from the German of Dr. K. PRANTL; the translation revised by S. H. VINES, M.A., D.Sc., &c. London, 1880: Swan Sonnenschein and Allen.
(2) "A Dictionary of English Plant Names," Part 2, by JAMES BRITAN, F.L.S., and ROBERT HOLLAND. London: Trübner, 1879.

In his preface Dr. Vines explains that he has preferred to adopt the classification of the Thallophyta suggested by Sachs, rather than reproduce Professor Prantl's own arrangement. In this he will be followed by most English readers, to whom, as well as being more familiar, the plan is likely to commend itself on purely scientific grounds. This group of plants is likely for long to remain a favourite one, especially with the working microscopist, who experiences endless new delights while pursuing the wondrous life history of the myriad beautiful forms that occur within it. Much yet remaining to be learnt in respect of their growth and reproduction, it is desirable that a classification should be retained for the group which will be likely to assist the acquisition of new knowledge about it. Considerations of this kind have, doubtless, weighed with Dr. Vines, and rightly so. The histological and physiological sections of the book are beautiful demonstrations; the language is clear and terse, and the illustrations are neither too numerous nor too elaborate. They are calculated to teach. The chapters on systematic botany, too, are written in a way to make this difficult part of the subject easily grasped. Spite of the many books for students' use already before the public it must be said this latest addition to botanical literature is the best elementary textbook we have. The translation is an excellent one, and the volume is handsomely presented.

Part 2. of a "A Dictionary of English Plant Names," has been delayed somewhat in publication, but it ably supports the reputation gained by its predecessor. The English Dialect Society deserves unqualified praise for its spirited determination to collect the curious and interesting information to be found regarding plant names in the work. There is, besides, a usefulness that is not apparent on the surface in the fulfilment of an attempt like this, for often information of practical therapeutic value is to be obtained by comparing and estimating the old-time descriptions of herbs. By means of them the resources of the pharmacist are enlarged, and, at the same time, his appreciation of the drugs he employs is intensified. For the simply curious the dictionary will possess a particular value; but, from the admirable way in which the editors have fulfilled their duties, all readers alike will cordially welcome this second instalment of an important work.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

RAILWAYS AND COMMERCE.

WE think it is a great pity in the interests of the trade of this Presidency that no address was presented to Lord Ripon during his stay here on the subject of railways. We believe that such an address would have been gladly received, and, more than that, we believe that the views of the people of this Presidency on the subject of the break of gauge would have found a sympathiser in Lord Ripon. The question of internal communication was referred to generally in the address of the corporation, and anything more definite could not have been expected from that body, but more might have been said by those merchants who already find it difficult to get their goods from the narrow gauge Rajputana Railway. Sir Andrew Clark, who accompanied his lordship, was as strong an opponent as any one in Bombay to the Strachey arrangement of the Rajputana line; and nothing would have been more opportune than to have shown him conclusively, that while five days are allowed for the transport of grain from Ahmedabad to Bombay, at least ten days must be allowed for the transit from the nearest stations on the Rajputana lines. This delay in the present state of the season is not only vexatious, but it actually prevents business in those articles of produce in which this newly developed district abounds. If the community is really in earnest as to the evils of the break of gauge no opportunity should be lost in impressing the facts on those on whom will lie the responsibility of the deciding of the gauge of future railways and of making the necessary changes to avoid present evils. The Raipore Railway, now under construction, should have its gauge altered from the metre to the broad gauge; not only will its principal traffic be in grain, which cannot stand much handling, but it must ultimately become the main line between Bombay and Calcutta. If we remember rightly, the Chamber of Commerce have already urged the importance of continuing the line from Nagpore on a uniform gauge with that of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, and the matter should be pressed on the attention of the new Government. We have been led to the consideration of this subject by the important recovery in the trade of Bombay as shown by the large increase in the exports and imports of this year compared with those of last year's, and this, too, not in consequence of small crops in other countries, but in spite of very heavy crops. The cotton crop in the United States is the largest ever produced there, but this does not operate to discourage shipments from this country, as we have shipped this year 432,000 bales against 282,000 bales for the first four months of 1879. Again, the wheat crop of America is the largest ever known there, and yet, in spite of its nearness to the European markets and consequent cheaper freight, Bombay has exported this year 6,400 tons while there were no shipments from January to May of last year. Thus in two of its chief staples Bombay comes into competition with the most enterprising and the most prosperous nation of the world, and at a time when that nation has gathered prodigious crops, and yet India can and does compete successfully, and this, too, in spite of the fact that we have a very imperfect railway communication, one indeed that consists of two main lines without any branches to feed them. In wool we have shipped in the four months of this year 37,700 bales, while in the same months of 1879 only 22,700 were exported. Here is a gain of 66 per cent. In seeds there have been shipped this year 41,000 tons against 31,000 tons last year, or an increase of 33 per cent. All the other minor articles of produce show equally good results. And trade has been, we understand, fairly profitable; in wool and skins large profits have been made though the tide has now turned and prices are falling at home. On the whole, our exporting merchants are cheery and have nothing to complain of regarding this year's business thus far. If we turn to imports we find an equal improvement, and this, too, in spite of the large increase in the production of our local manufactures. All our cotton mills have been hard at work, and, with the aid of falling prices of cotton and good demand for manufactured goods in India and China, have not only increased their supplies but have made good profits as well. Yet we find that our imports of cotton goods largely exceed those of last year. Of grey shirtings and longcloths 1,801,000 pieces, this year against 1,105,000 last year; of white 126,000 pieces against 87,000; and the same increase is maintained in jaconets, madapollams and all the varieties of the manufactures of cotton. This trade, too, has been profitable, more so than for years past. On all sides business is looking up, and only requires communications to make it grow beyond the belief of any now engaged in it.—Times of India.

INDIAN MILITARY PENSION RULES.

THE Madras Times hopes that the Marquis of Hartington will perceive the unprofitableness and the expense of further procrastination in this business. Four years ago the Marquis of Salisbury, then Secretary of State for India, promised to change the antiquated rules of the year 1796, still extant, for something more modern and reasonable, and for four years the matter has been under the consideration of the India Council without having proceeded any further than its initial stage; if the Council could only be induced to see it the whole difficulty, if there is one, lies in a nutshell, and can be remedied at once—first, by abolishing the restrictions on furlough, and permitting (as is done in the British Army) all furlough granted by competent authority to reckon as service counting towards pension; and, secondly, by affixing a certain pension to every rank from colonel to lieutenant, and upon a scale more in accordance with the purchasing power of money now than is to be found in the one designed for the year 1796, or the last century. It is indeed, singular that while the officers of her Majesty's British service and the officers of the late East India Company's European regiments have been brought under pension and retirement rules that are liberal, and in accordance with the spirit of the times, the officers of the Indian army alone are still relegated to the last century in all that concerns them in this matter, and apparently with no more profit than to fill the Indian army with field officers.

SUNDAY WORK.—Referring to Lord Ripon's order that the practice of doing official work on Sunday shall be discontinued, the Madras Mail says this is a sop to the Exeter Hall Cerberus, which may, perhaps, soften the irritation that has been caused by the appointment of the Marquis to the Indian Viceroyalty. But officials who are compelled to obey the order for the rigid observance of the Sabbath will be disposed to say that the Government must not complain if official work now falls into arrear in many departments. Officials, no more than non-officials, like making Sunday a day of work, and if they could catch up their work without doing any portion of it on Sunday they would be only too glad to have that to themselves and to make a thorough "day of rest" of it. They are not such gluttons for work that they cannot keep themselves away from their office boxes on Sunday. But they had to devote the greater part of the day to office work, for the cogent reason that it has been out of their power to complete the discharge of the duties that have devolved upon them in the six previous days.

THE TRANSPORT SERVICES.—Three thousand transport animals, said to have been left at Peshawur not long since for Cabul, are reported to have disappeared. No trace of them can be found. Captain Collin, assistant to Sir Michael Kennedy, rode all the way from Peshawur to Sherpur, but could get no tidings of them. Fourteen thousand maunds of potatoes were sent to Safed Sung by the Commissariat Department from India at a cost of Rs.56 000. On arrival at their destination they were found to be unfit for human food and had to be buried in pits covered over with lime to prevent disease spreading.—Correspondent Times of India.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

OPIUM SALE.—Result of the opium sale held at the Government sale room, No. 2, Bankshall-street, on June 2, 1880:—Behar, 2,350 chests, Rs.34,06,140 proceeds; Benares, 2,350 chests, Rs.21,54,450 proceeds.—Indian Daily News.

THE FOREIGN TRADE OF BENGAL 1879-80.—The total value of merchandise imported from abroad was Rs.18,64,40,947, as compared with Rs.16,58,47,943 in the previous year; Rs.19,36,25,769 in 1877-78; Rs.16,66,74,247 in 1876-77; and Rs.17,73,98,820 in 1875-76; while that of merchandise exported to other countries was Rs.29,67,70,336, compared with Rs.28,80,64,311 in the previous year; Rs.30,99,69,884 in 1877-78; Rs.26,45,34,814 in 1876-77; and Rs.23,55,74,690 in 1875-76. It will be seen from these figures that the growth of exports during the five years has been much more marked than that of imports, and there is every indication that this will continue to be the case; so that, however this circumstance may be regarded from an economic point of view, the augury as regards the future of exchange is distinctly favourable. The most important fluctuations in the imports are:—Increases—Coal, 4½ lakhs; cotton manufactures (dutiable and free), 1 crore 78¼ lakhs; camphor, over ½ lakh; quinine, 1½ lakhs; aniline dyes, 1 lakh; khopra, 2¼ lakhs; hops, ¾ lakh; jewellery, &c., exceeding ½ lakh; liquors, 1¼ lakh; metals, over 22½ lakhs; oils, 13¼ lakhs; salt, nearly 10¼ lakhs; shells, about ½ lakh; silk piece-goods, over 1¼ lakhs; sugar (refined) nearly 1 lakh; tea, over ½ lakh; and woollen goods, about 3 lakhs; against decreases—in books and printed matter, 1 lakh; building materials, nearly 2½ lakhs; cotton twist, over 8 lakhs; chemicals, 1 lakh; cocoanuts, nearly 1¼ lakhs; ice, about 1¼ lakh; machinery and millworks, nearly 4 lakhs; railway plant and rolling-stock, over 17¼ lakhs; spices, nearly ¾ lakh; and umbrellas, over 3¼ lakhs. In exports the increase is principally due to—Cotton, raw, advanced by nearly 1 crore 17 lakhs; wheat, 34¼ lakhs; hides and skins, 63¼ lakhs; jute, raw, nearly 50½ lakhs; jute bags, nearly 10 lakhs; opium, 13¼ lakhs; saltpetre, 10¼ lakhs; poppy seed, 19¼ lakhs; tilseed, 9½ lakhs; caoutchouc, 3¼ lakhs; Peruvian bark, 2 lakhs; cutch and gambier, about 3¼ lakhs; shellac, 8¼ lakhs; silk piece goods, over 4¼ lakhs; betelnuts, 1 lakh; and wax, nearly 1¼ lakh; while there were decreases—in linseed, 19½ lakhs; rapeseed, 55¼ lakhs; raw silk, nearly 4½ lakhs; tea, over 8¼ lakhs; turmeric, about 4 lakhs; gram, about 3 lakhs; jewellery, nearly 1¼ lakhs; oil cakes, 3¼ lakhs; soap, over 1 lakh; ginger, 1½ lakh; tobacco, unmanufactured, over 2½ lakhs; and wool, raw, 1 lakh; indigo over 42¼ lakhs; and rice, 1 crore 12¼ lakhs.—Englishman.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—We are sorry to hear of the death through a fall from his pony, of Mr. McGregor, manager of the Nuxshellbarrie tea estate.—Darjiling News.

THE CHARDEH VALLEY.—One of the most beautiful views near Cabul at the present season of the year is undoubtedly the Chardeh Valley. On first entering it the gaze is soon withdrawn from the barren rocky hills which surround it on all sides to become fixed on nature's luxuriant growth, consisting of mulberry, plum, willow, and poplar trees, casting their varied shadows on fields of ripening wheat and clover. The scene, taken on the whole, is pleasant and refreshing to the eye, more by the contrasts in colouring than from any intrinsic beauty that the valley itself contains. Irrigation channels containing clear running water are cut through and intersect the valley in all directions. The high mud walls of the many villages and forts peep through the variegated foliage of orchards, reminding one that all is not peace, though plenty abounds, the habitations of the people being all defensive works which dame Nature has done her best to hide by enveloping them in her most luxuriant embrace. In spite of the fair landscape, however, the scenery can hardly be said to remind one of home. No green lanes or lovers' walks abound, and an attempted ramble across country would soon be converted into a species of steeplechase, owing to the very deep and broad watercourses supplied from the Cabul River as it winds its way like a narrow silver streak through the bright, far stretching verdant pastures which lie between Argandeh Hills and the western heights of Cabul.—Englishman.

FLOODS.—The advent of the south west monsoon was signalled by very heavy falls of rain in several districts of Bengal last week. At Bankoora no less than 16·76 inches were registered during the week; the low country was flooded, and considerable damage was done to houses and bridges, and some injury to the cotton, indigo, and other crops is anticipated. In Furreedpore 10.46 inches of rain fell during the week, of which more than 8 inches were registered on the 5th; and at Julpigoree the fall amounted to 9.86 inches. The crops generally promise well, but sowing has been retarded in some places. In the 24-Pergunnahs there is a considerable increase this season in the area sown with jute.—Statesman.

OPIMUM POISONING.—On Wednesday, May 9, the coroner and a set of jurors met at the court-house to inquire into the death of Mr. William Henry Trotter. The additional chemical examiner to Government, who analysed the contents of the stomach of the deceased, said that he found traces of opium. Wm. Trotter Stewart said that he went to spend a few days with his uncle when this accident occurred. His uncle, after taking laudanum, desired him to call his two daughters, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Hood. They arrived about mid-day. Dr. Anderson was then sent for, and he attended upon the deceased; when his daughters came he was speechless. He was a broker by profession. The witness could not assign any cause which could induce the deceased to poison himself. Another witness said he had ascertained that the deceased had been heavily involved in debt, and of late appeared very much depressed on account of losses in shares. The jury recorded the verdict that the deceased died from opium poisoning.—Times of India.

THE BLECHYNDEN CASE.—We understand that Mr. Arthur Blechynden, who, as our readers may remember, was honourably acquitted in the case of homicide brought against him at the last Criminal Sessions, has been obliged to abandon his business in the sugar line at Harpur in the Darbanga district in consequence of the hostile attitude assumed by the villagers and other natives in the vicinity. The bungalows and all the works, such as they are, must of a necessity go to ruin, and a trade with a great future before it has been nipped in the bud. One important conclusion which may be drawn from this and similar cases is that, unless Europeans are more efficiently protected by the authorities in the employment of their capital, it is idle to expect a full development of any industry likely to benefit themselves or the State.—Englishman.

DR. COLLYER.—We hear that Sir Ashley Eden has declined to remit any portion of the sentence of imprisonment recently passed on Dr. Collyer, who is now at the Hazareebaugh Gaol.—Statesman.

DEATH OF MR. R. G. CURRIE.—The death is announced of a Bengal civilian, Mr. Robert George Currie, who arrived in this country in 1857. At the time of his death he was sessions judge of Aligurb. A North West paper says:—"Mr. Currie, or, as he is better known among his friends, 'Bob Currie,' is a man who will be much missed from the ranks of the Civil Service of these provinces, for he was good-tempered and courteous to a degree, and as an officer he was full of zeal and devotion to work. In Shahjehanpore especially his name will long be remembered in connection with the settlement and general administration of the district. One of the most painful circumstances in connection with Mr. Currie's death is that he leaves behind him a family of eight young children, motherless as well as fatherless."—Times of India.

NABHA.—The old Raja of Nabha, having no heir, has resolved to adopt as a successor the younger brother of the Maharaja of Patiala.—Ibid.

THE BHOPAL BATTALION.—The Government has sanctioned the establishment of a band for the Bhopal battalion on account of its services in Afghanistan.—Ibid.

THE CALCUTTA MEDICAL INSTITUTION.—The report for the year 1879 on the Medical Institutions of Calcutta has been published, and contains many facts of general interest. The general health condition of Calcutta during the year in question was better than in 1878, the municipal returns showing the death rate to be, in 1879, 30 per 1,000, and 38 per 1,000 in the previous year. Except during the first quarter of 1879 there was no exceptional prevalence of small-pox as there had been the year before, and the great fever mortality of 1878, which was evidently connected with dear food, was not repeated. This improvement in the general health condition of the city naturally led to a falling off in the numbers requiring hospital treatment, the total number of patients treated being 265,018, being some 21,500 less than in 1878, and 34,500 less than in 1877. Mahomedans and Hindus are, of course, the classes of the community from whom the great bulk of the patients are drawn, but the surgeon general remarks that the table showing races is not of much value as a test of the prevalence of disease among the different classes of the community, owing partly to the indefinite way in which Eurasians and native Christians are returned both in the hospital books and the census papers, but chiefly because hospital admissions, being regulated by the available accommodation, cannot be a safe guide to the health conditions of the classes represented by the patients received. Malarious fevers proved less fatal than in 1878, as well as less prevalent. Diseases of low condition and debility were of equal prevalence, but much less fatal in 1879. Cases of dropsy presented themselves in usual numbers, but were very fatal. Respiratory affections, though equally prevalent, were less fatal than in 1878. Cases of dysentery and diarrhoea were less numerous than in the former year, but showed a very high death-rate. A fatal form of dysentery is particularly noted among seafaring men, although by no means confined to them. Besides the hospital cases, a high death-rate from dysentery distinguished the year 1879 throughout the city and suburbs. The returns for 1879 are silent as to the "acute cedema," supposed to be beri-beri, which has attracted so much attention in Calcutta in the present year. On the whole, it appears that although there has been a slight relative improvement in 1879, Calcutta has, since 1874, become more unhealthy, as regards serious fevers, than it was in 1871-73.—Ibid.

RAILWAY COMMUNICATION IN ASSAM.—A scheme for the construction of a line of railway to connect Dhaka with Maimansing on the one hand, and Aircha, on the river Padma opposite Goalando, on the other, will, it is expected, shortly receive the sanction of the Lieutenant Governor of Bombay.—Englishman.

A CONVICTION.—A European seaman named Nairnes was last Wednesday convicted in the Calcutta High Court of the murder of a native policeman and sentenced to death. The murder seems to have been most brutal and unprovoked. The prisoner, with some shipmates, was returning to his ship about midnight, when they met the deceased, who was on duty. They asked him the way, and then, without any apparent reason, Nairnes knocked him down, drew his sheath knife, and cut his throat. The jury recommended the prisoner to mercy on the ground of his previous good character and because the murder seemed to be unpremeditated. There is some talk of a petition for the commutation of the sentence, but it is not likely to meet with much support.—Times Telegram.

NEW RAILWAYS.—Another step has been lately taken in the important work of connecting the hill stations with the Indian railway system. The Government has granted a concession to a company to construct a line from Bareilly to Raneebagh at the foot of the Nynee Tal hills. The terms of the concession are a payment to the company of an annual subsidy of Rs.40,000 for ten years and a postal subsidy of Rs.10,000. The company is also allowed to charge for the conveyance of troops and Government stores at full rates. The Government retains the right of purchase of the line after ten years at 20 per cent. over the market value of the shares for the preceding three years. It is hoped that a similar concession may be obtained for a railway from Saharunpore to Dehra, and a preliminary meeting has been held at Mussooree for the purpose of forming a company. A committee has been appointed and a portion of the capital subscribed.—Times Telegram.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—At date of mail the disengaged tonnage stood at 32,421 tons. London via Canal: The market closed weak at £2 10s. to £2 12s. 6d. for rice or wheat, £2 12s. 6d. for linseed, £2 17s. 6d. for rape, £2 15s. for jute, cotton, hides, and tea. Via Cape: Wheat at £2 18. 3d., linseed and jute at £2 5s., rape at £2 8s. 9d., and poppy at £2 10s., which may be considered the closing rates. For Liverpool via Suez Canal: Rice or wheat £2 12s. 6d. to £2 15s., nominal, linseed £2 15s., oil £3 5s., gunnies £3, measurement and other light freight £2 17s. 6d. to £3 5s. For Liverpool via Cape: Rice or wheat £2, linseed £2 21. 6d., jute £2 2s. 6d., gunnies and oil, £2 2s. 6d. to £2 5s.—Englishman.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At the general meeting of the Bengal Coal Company, held June 12, a dividend of 20 per cent. per annum, or Rs.100 per share, was declared. An extraordinary meeting was held subsequently to alter and amend the articles of association.—Englishman.

MADRAS.

MADRAS HARBOUR.—From the latest official report on the progress of the Madras Harbour it appears that the north pier is now 2,804½ ft. in length, or within 96 ft. of completion. The length of the south pier is 2,235 ft. The works have successfully resisted the monsoon so far.—Englishman.

PATENTS.—There have been received in the office of the Chief Secretary to Government copies of the specifications of the inventions of which the following are brief descriptions:—Mr. Jarig Philippus Vander Ploeg, engineer, Netherlands, India—"For an improved process of and for machinery for decorticating, cleaning, separating, and preparing the fibre of reha and other fibrous plants while in a green state." Col. H. C. Z. Claridge, Madras Staff Corps—"The Claridge trigger for the discharge of firearms by pressure," and Mr. C. Nickles—"For utilising the waste water from indigo vats, &c."—Madras Times.

THE NEW CIVIL SERVICE PROBATIONER FROM MALABAR.—K. C. Manavedan Raja, the new civil service probationer, has lately been to Ootacamund on a visit to the Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, and he left Calicut for Mangalore on the May 28 to join his appointment. Mr. M. Watters, the collector and magistrate of Malabar, had issued orders to all the tansidars en route to make suitable arrangements for his journey.—Western Star.

MADRAS MOFUSSIL MUNICIPALITIES.—The local Government thus review the Mofussil municipal reports for 1878-79:—The reports for 1878-79 were submitted to Government with greater punctuality than those for the previous year; but the date prescribed, viz., June 1, was observed in only a few instances. The presidents should adopt measures to ensure punctuality in future, and the annual audit of the accounts should be completed before the reports are drawn up. There were during the year forty-eight municipalities administered under Act 3 of 1871, this number being the same as that of the previous year; but the Mettupalayam

Municipality was abolished on April 1, 1878, as a proved failure, and its educational and sanitary requirements are provided for from local funds, while, on the other hand, Anakapalle, in the Vizagapatam District, with a population of 13,044, was newly constituted a municipality. The constitution of the boards of the several municipalities (as to the number of Europeans, natives, officials, and non-officials) were as follows:—

	Eur.	Nat.	Off.	Non-off.	Total.
1878-79 ...	301	507	310	438	808

The average number of commissioners for a municipality was about the same as in the previous year—viz., sixteen; and 45 per cent. of the aggregate number were officials. Statement I shows that the legal proportion of official members was exceeded in five municipalities. In Vizianagram this disproportion was noticed in the previous year also. The presidents concerned will strictly and carefully carry out the provisions of the law on this point. The following abstract shows the receipts for 1878-79 under the various heads in comparison with those for 1877-78:—

The total expenditure, excluding imperial license tax charges, amounted to Rs. 11,03,120, or Rs. 8,497 short of the current receipts; but the actual closing balance was in excess of the opening balance by Rs. 11,424, the difference of Rs. 2,927 representing compensation for the work connected with license tax transactions, the receipts and charges for which amounted to Rs. 1,37,590 and Rs. 1,34,663 respectively.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.—The bill to exempt certain persons and property from municipal taxation, which threatens to make the Madras municipality bankrupt, was introduced into the Viceregal Legislative Council on May 31, and is now before a select committee. By a section of the Cantonments Act, 1880, the Governor General in Council is empowered to prohibit the levy of any tax in a cantonment, or to exempt any person or class of persons from the operations of any tax leviable there. This power was conferred chiefly with a view to the exemption of military men in cantonments situate within the limits of municipalities from certain descriptions of municipal taxation. There are, however, cases in which, owing to the want of accommodation in cantonments, or to some other cause, military men are compelled to reside within the limits of a municipality, but out of cantonments. In such cases the power in question is inapplicable; and it was accordingly proposed by the select committee on the Cantonment Bill that the defect should be supplied by a provision to be inserted in the bill for the control of municipal taxation, for the introduction of which leave had then been granted. As, however, that bill is not at present to be proceeded with, it has been thought desirable to make the necessary provisions in a separate bill, and the present bill has accordingly been prepared for this purpose. The bill also provides for the exemption of Government property from municipal taxation, recent experience having, it is said, shown such a power to be necessary.—Times of India.

THE INSTALLATION AT TREVANDRUM.—The new Maharaja of Travancore was installed at Trevandrum on June 17. He said, in reply to the Resident's congratulations, and after the proclamation had been read, that he hoped for the continuance of the support of the British Government which his predecessors had received, but, while anxious to continue the good works of his predecessors, he would follow the example set by the Viceroy at Bombay, and make no large special promises or lay down any programme.—Ibid.

THE ANNUAL EXODUS.—There is a report that the Madras natives are getting up a memorial to Parliament praying that the annual exodus of the Government to the hills may be prohibited.—Ibid.

THE AGRI-HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The income of the society in 1879 was Rs. 12,701-3-10, and the expenditure Rs. 12,736-2-3. The number of subscribing members at the end of 1879 was 100, and of absentee members twenty; as against 105 and fifteen at the end of 1878. The introduction of Liberian coffee into Madras and its neighbourhood may, the committee think, be declared a failure. The plants in the gardens have most of them perished in spite of every care, and those that survive still maintain the character of shrubs rather than of trees, though now upwards of three years from the seed having been received in the gardens from Kew, in July, 1877. The healthiest plants the society now possesses are from cuttings made from what the planters call expressively "Gormandising suckers." The plants in the ground amongst the shrubs in the ornamental garden are still in better health than the survivors of those that were planted in the open in the experimental garden; but they grow very slowly, and, though they have two or three times flowered, any fruit which has set hitherto has burned black and fallen.—Madras Times.

THE NEW MAHARAJA OF TRAVANCORE.—The successor of the late Maharaja is his Highness Rama Varma, first Prince of Travancore. He is now forty-three years of age and is the most accomplished native prince in India. He can write English like an Englishman; his views are liberal; he is beyond doubt clever, in every sense of the word; and, notwithstanding his physical fibre, he has a colossal intellect. He has never as yet made a political manifesto, so that it is extremely difficult to say what his views exactly are, and in what direction his sympathies lie. But that he will be a Maharaja of Maharajas we have not the slightest doubt whatever.—Ibid.

THE S.I. RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—The Southern India Rifle Association will hold their annual meeting this year in Bangalore only. Last year the competitions took place at the several military stations in the Presidency, and the results compared and tabulated at headquarters, Bangalore. This was found to be necessary owing to the drain of troops for the war, which prevented regiments at outstations from sending squads to compete at Bangalore. The decision of the Council to confine the competition this year to Bangalore only has not found favour with Sir Neville Chamberlain, as squads can no more be spared this year than in 1879, and his Excellency has accordingly withheld his annual subscription of Rs. 200 to the prize fund of the association. The September meeting of the S.I.R.A. threatens, on the whole, to prove a dismal failure.—Correspondent Times of India.

RECRUITING FOR THE NATIVE ARMY.—The order of the Commander in Chief of Madras, dated the 19th May, establishing recruiting depots in the Madras Presidency, marks a new epoch in Indian military history. For the first time since the establishment of our sepoy army in the days of Clive we have been obliged to offer a bounty, and a pretty large bounty too, to obtain recruits for its ranks. The innovation of giving a bounty to native recruits is to be deprecated for several reasons; it is introducing the thin edge of a wedge which it will be difficult to withdraw, and it is a measure which must increase the expense of our already costly native army. It may introduce the crime of desertion, hitherto unknown in the Madras Army.—Madras Mail.

THE RAMPA REBELLION.—The latest news from Rampa is that Col. Macquoid entered Pareh without the slightest resistance, the rebels, who had shown a bold front at the beginning, having taken to their heels and cleared into the Bustar country. A curious fact, which needs explanation, is that the insurgents seem to have had possession of a large number of Snider ammunition, which Col. Macquoid luckily came across, thus saving further mischief. The Raja of Bustar has furnished a party of two hundred of his men to guard the fords on the Savery at Dernajolly and Koota in order to cut off all communication between the insurgents and the villages round about his country. The police inspector who was lately shot at Pareh in an engagement with the rebels had his head cut off and exhibited in the villages, apparently with the object of inciting the peaceably inclined to take part in the rebellion, Saman Dora, it is said, was presented with the inspector's rifle; it is this ringleader who was the chief instigator when the Pareh station was attacked and burnt down, as he had offered a reward of a gold bangle worth about two hundred rupees to any one who would set fire to the station house. The offer was accepted by a daring rebel, who stealthily approached the station house, achieved the work of destruction, and received his reward. It was at this critical moment that the inspector and six constables were shot.—Madras Times.

BOMBAY.

THE Rev. F. L. Sharpin, acting archdeacon, has been confirmed in his appointment as senior presidency chaplain.

SUBJECT to the confirmation of her Majesty's Government the Viceroy and Governor General in Council has recognised the appointment of Mr. Charles Kapp as acting consul for the Austro-Hungarian Empire and as acting consul for Sweden and Norway at Bombay during the absence on leave of Mr. J. Janni.

THE MEKRAN COAST.—The following notification appears in the Gazette of India:—"Whereas by treaty, capitulation, agreement, grant, usage, sufferance, and other lawful means, the Governor General of India in Council has in divers places, beyond the limits of British India, power and jurisdiction to administer justice among and over British subjects: now it is notified that in exercise of such powers and jurisdiction, and of the powers conferred by the Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1879 (Act XXI. of 1879), the Governor General of India in Council hereby appoints Mr. B. Finch, deputy director of telegraphs in the Persian Gulf, to be a justice of the peace for the coast of Mekran. The Governor General of India in Council directs that the High Court of Bombay shall be the court to which the aforesaid justice of the peace shall commit for trial."

THE GOVERNOR.—Sir James Fergusson must be gratified to find that his "debut in Puna," to quote a local paper, "has created a most favourable feeling." His Excellency, accompanied by his daughters, went to hear the band play at the Soldiers' Gardens on Saturday night, and we are told that his "courteous salaming to the natives" on this occasion, "by removing his hat repeatedly, convinced them of the attractiveness of a real British gentleman." Sir James, it is added, inspected the gardens, and seemed pleased with all that met his eye.—Times of India.

LOSS OF BAGGAGE.—It is stated that Captain Rose, 10th Hussars, who recently went home to become an equerry to the Prince of Wales, is about to institute a suit against the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company to recover damages to the extent of Rs.8,000, being the value of baggage, &c., destroyed whilst in transit between Rawul Pindi and Bombay.—Times of India.

THE PUNA BOAT CLUB.—At the annual meeting, held in the Gymkana on June 15, it was decided to hold the regatta on August 31 and the two following days. It was also decided not to allow sliding seats. Major Rowlandson was elected regatta secretary.—Correspondent Times of India.

THE KATTYWAR STATE RAILWAY.—The line from Bhownuggur to Wudhwan Civil Station is 106 miles long. It passes by some of the largest towns in this part of Kattywar, Botad, Ranpur, Churn, Limri, and Wudhwan. The survey was begun last year about the end of May, and now (June 8) all the earthwork has been completed, and the whole of the rails between Bhownuggur and Wudhwan Civil Station have been laid. The nullahs are passed by diversions. The road is in very good order, and engineers' trains are run daily at an average speed of fifteen miles an hour (B., B., and C.I., Kattywar Branch, please note this). The total cost of the railway as at present ready between Bhownuggur and Wudhwan Civil Station is about £2,500 per mile, of which about £1,700 is on account of permanent way material. The estimated cost when complete will be, including rolling-stock, about £5,500 per mile. The Dhoraji branch will only cost about £3,500. The whole of the platelaying of these 106 miles has been done with one set of thirty-five wagons, which have run day and night without ceasing for three months. The last fifty-four miles of the platelaying has been done in thirty-four days, part at one and a-half miles a day regularly, and the remainder at one and two-third miles a day, and this in the tearing hot season. The number of men employed on the platelaying never exceeded 550 and carts 50. During the last fourteen days the men used to lay regularly a train load of one and two-third miles in five hours, and each day's work was always ready for the next day's train to pass over to the very end. This is better progress than even the Sibi line, where 3,800 men and over 1,000 carts were employed. In fact the Kattywar State Railway line of 106 miles has been surveyed, the earthwork completed, the rails laid, and the road got ready for work in one year and two months. All honour, then, to Mr. Alexander Izat and his able and energetic staff, Messrs. Rehnke, Gilchrist, Way, Wynne, Montague, Knox, and Lang. This would have delighted Sir Richard, and it may well please the Government of Bombay and India. The staff employed was two executive engineers and four assistants, and right well have they done their duty. The exposure they have been subject to has been most severe, but they have shown that Cooper's Hill can turn out men who are made of the right stuff, men to whom difficulties are simply obstacles to be surmounted or driven through, and to whom duty, although conducted under most trying circumstances, is nothing more than stern delight. On June 7 Mr. Wynne, executive engineer, Botad Division, and his assistant, Mr. H. Knot, accompanied the first train into Wudhwan Civil Station, and many of the residents occupied places on the other engines and in the carriages which followed. Major and Mrs. Nutt rode with Mr. Wynne on the first engine. On the second engine were Mr. Knot, Mr. Beadle, Mr. Bulkley, and Mr. Haridas Viharidas, joint administrator of the Wudhwan State, and on the third and in the carriages were many well-known faces in this place and Bhownuggur. The appearance of the train was very festive, the engines being prettily decorated with flowers, flags, and evergreens. At the terminus a large concourse of people was gathered together to see the train come in, and great enthusiasm prevailed, the railway officials and employees receiving a hearty welcome.—Times of India.

A REUTER'S telegram states that the Bank of Bombay has declared a dividend of 5 per cent. for the half-year, which absorbs £50,000, and carried forward £3,100 to the reserve.

THE projected railway from Marmagao to Hubli has been sanctioned by the Portuguese Government.

A BAND OF ARMED KABULI ROBBERS.—Captain Jose Joaquim Correa Da Silva, who was deputed by the Goa Government to report about the descent of an armed gang of strangers, said to be Kabulese, who have caused an alarm in the country, reports that, after consulting Lieutenant King, of the political agency at Sawantwari, he found at Sawantwari several encampments of the roving band of strangers, who allege that they belong some to Kabul and others to Madras. They have riding horses and are armed with swords, knives, &c. They admit they have committed robberies on their way in villages destitute of political supervision. They say they are dealers in pearls, of which several specimens were displayed. They resemble Arabs in their dress, having a loose tunic and a turban. There is no difference in the dress of the men and that of the women to distinguish one from the other. The women are reported to have "manly" features, and they ride on horseback like men. The authorities at Sawantwari have detached the whole gang into three groups, which they intend to send to Condal, Belgaum, and Vingorla, to prevent the alarm which would be occasioned if the whole gang, armed as they are, were allowed to pass through villages of helpless inhabitants.—Bombay Gazette.

THE AMRAOTI RAILWAY.—The total receipts of the Amraoti Railway for the month of April last are Rs.6,656 against Rs.11,434 for the corresponding period last year: showing a total decrease of Rs.4,778. There has been a great falling off in cotton and grain; the latter is attributable, it is asserted, to the universally plentiful harvest, so that little is being carried by railway. On the Khamagon Railway during the same period (April) the earnings were last year Rs.8,434, and in the present year Rs.4,530, exhibiting a decrease of Rs.3,904, which is due to the short exportation of cotton and grain.—Bombay Gazette.

THE GOA SALT PANS.—The mixed commission at Goa presided over by Mr. Macdonald, C.S., to settle the claims of the proprietors of salt pans, who had declined to accept the figure offered by the British Government for the purchase of their salt, have closed their labours and awarded Rs.90,000 per annum as compensation to the various proprietors of salt pans which are to remain closed.—Ibid.

THE RAJPUTANA RAILWAYS.—A Government order in the last Gazette directs that from the 1st of October the administration of all metre gauge railways in Malwa and Rajputana shall be placed under the Bombay Government. The network of State railways in Rajputana is being rapidly pushed to completion and the final links connecting Bombay and Agra will soon be opened.—Times Telegram.

DEATHS AT ADEN.—We learn with great regret from Aden of the death, within a week, of two officers at that station. Captain A. H. Harrison, senior captain of the 1st Battalion 6th Royal Regt., died on June 1. The deceased officer had been ill for a few days with fever, but the attack was not a serious one, and his death was sudden and unexpected. He was universally liked and respected in his regiment and his death has cast a gloom over the whole station. On Sunday night, June 6, about nine o'clock, Captain Gordon, 14th Regt. N.I., died of heat apoplexy very suddenly. He, too, had been ailing and was on the sick list, and was about to appear before a medical board with a view of going home to England sick, when he was seized with heat apoplexy and never rallied. He belonged to the general list of the Bombay Army and served for a considerable time in political employment in Kattywar under Colonel Keating, V.C., who had a very high opinion of his talents, and he was very popular in his regiment. The untimely deaths of these two officers has caused a very painful impression in Aden. We understand that a private of the 6th Royals also succumbed to heat apoplexy on the 3rd June. The general health of the troops at Aden, however, is stated to be excellent.—Bombay Gazette.

THE following is an extract from district orders by Brigadier General C. T. Aitchinson, C.B.:—"Bombay, June 18. The Brigadier General regrets to have to announce the death of Honorary Captain D. Vint, ordnance department."

THE RAMPA REBELLION.

It has been a matter of surprise to many that no inquiring mind in the House of Commons has been directed to the subject of the little war in the Rampa district, which has dragged its weary length along, has—as we noted some time back—produced its own deficit, and has had its own small bill of killed and wounded, or rather disabled by sickness. A year ago we drew attention to the periodical recurrence of local disturbances in the zemindari of Rampa. We briefly pointed out the fact that the past history of each successive “fituri” repeated itself, both as to cause and effect, progress and results. The population were left to the tender mercies of the Mansabdar, and in due time his progressive exactions produced a rising. The forces employed suffered much from jungle fever, but eventually the superior power prevailed and law and order were restored. It is no secret that at Madras the growth and duration of the present troublesome and expensive hill warfare, if it can be dignified with the name, has been attributed to unwise interference, in the first instance, on the part of the Governor of Madras. However this may have been, the measures taken latterly to quell the disturbance and restore order have been more vigorous and are tending to success. The most important step taken, however, has been the selection of Mr. H. E. Sullivan, the First Member of the Board of Revenue, to proceed to the scene of the disturbance in order to institute full inquiry into the causes of the outbreak, and to report on the remedial measures which should be adopted to prevent, if possible, future irritation on the part of the hillmen, and consequent recurrence of the disorders. We gather from the Madras journals the substance of Mr. Sullivan's able and exhaustive minute, which is an indirect impeachment of the European officers of the district for their neglect of this outlying tract. Briefly, the causes of the discontent, which culminated in what we hope will be chronicled as the last “fituri,” are as follow :—First, the taking under his own control of eight estates, or muttas, by the Mansabdar, who also raised the quit rents of others. He had also, by gradual encroachments during the last twenty years, augmented his revenue by the imposition of fuel rents, grazing taxes, and unauthorised cesses. Under his unchecked rule also the toddy tax is shown by Mr. Sullivan to have become a grievance pressing more heavily year by year as the demands of the sub rents increased; while the Mansabdar, not content with conniving at and profiting by the exactions and illegal proceedings of the Abkari subrenters, threatened to levy an additional toddy tax for himself as superior landlord. The toddy tax grievance was the last straw and the proximate cause of the outbreak which expended its first violence on the police. It is satisfactory to learn that Mr. Sullivan considers it is to the credit of this scanty force, left uncontrolled by European officers, that complaints of their misconduct have not been more numerous. It is evident, from the circumstances attendant on the outbreak, which will be in the recollection of such of our readers as have paid attention to this petty rising in an obscure corner of the Madras Presidency, that there were some aggravating cases of misconduct on the part of the police. This is admitted, and some of the delinquents paid the penalty with their lives. What is made plain by the uncompromising minute of Mr. Sullivan is, that the miserable inhabitants of the hills of Rampa have been left for twenty years to the tender mercies of a grasping and unjust Mansabdar. The same causes were at work in 1862 to produce the same effects. Mr. Morris, in his able work on the Godavery District, shows that a rebellion was then excited by the action of the Mansabdar, whose very presence “occasioned such irritation that he had to return more speedily than he went.” He had been reinstated in his zemindari on conditions negotiated with the Government by the twenty-four Muttadars, who would not negotiate with himself. He then bound himself to levy no more than the prescribed quit-rents under any circumstances whatsoever, and to prevent disturbances under penalty of the Government resuming his whole estates. As it is properly pointed out by a Madras contemporary, during the gradual unchecked career of exaction and spoliation which has at last driven the people into rebellion against the Sirkar, the remedy, of course, was all along in the hands of the local authorities if they had acquainted themselves with the history of the Rampa country and its actual condition. The facts of the case were clear, each Muttadar's assessment being fixed as holding on service tenure of the Government itself. “Should we fail to fulfil our engagements we submit ourselves for the orders of the Sirkar.” No tenement was transferable, the succession being hereditary, but regulated by Government, who, in cases of misbehaviour, would have power either to grant the Inam to another or resume it altogether. Alienation or attachment by the courts, to satisfy debts or otherwise, are altogether prohibited in such cases. Yet, in the face of this, when the people, smarting under the Mansabdar's exactions and cruelty, forced themselves to proceed to the coast to seek redress from the chief district officer, they were told to file a civil suit against their oppressor, “as there is nothing in the matters brought to notice which we (the collectors) can recognise or pass orders on.” It is some satisfaction to learn that a summary step has been put to the illegal impositions practised by the Mansabdar, and that the officials whose absence or neglect enabled him to extend his oppression, and gave scope for the practices of the Abkari subrenters, have been visited by censure; in one case, at least, with removal. We do not hear that the deserved doom of forfeiture has been pronounced on the Mansabdar, but we may fairly expect that the reforms suggested will be carried out vigorously and effectually, and that, as we have already said, this will be the last rebellion or disturbance which will cause loss of valuable lives, to say nothing of the waste of public money.

HOME NEWS.

THE Archbishop of Canterbury has conferred the degree of Doctor in Divinity on the Rev. Charles Egbert Kennett, principal of the Theological College at Madras, on account of his missionary services in India, especially among the Tamil-speaking population. The Queen has been graciously pleased to confer upon Phya Ratua Kosa, First Secretary of the Siamese Embassy, who was prevented by indisposition from being present at Windsor Castle on the 2nd inst., the Companionship of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

COLONEL GORDON.—At the time Colonel Gordon resigned his appointment as private secretary to Lord Ripon, he had no intention of going to China. Colonel Gordon resigned by letter on June 2; it was accepted on the morning of the 3rd. He then thought of going to Zanzibar. On the night of June 4 he got a telegram from Pekin asking him to go to China, and he at once made up his mind to go, and he left Bombay on June 12.

THE INDIAN AND AUSTRALIAN MAIL SERVICE.—The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company have contracted for four more steamers, to be built of steel, of great size and power. These vessels will be of about 4,100 tons register, with engines of 750-horse power, and will be capable of maintaining high speed. The contracts have been given to Messrs. Denny and Co., of Dumbarton; Harland and Wolfe, of Belfast; and the Barrow Shipbuilding Company. The Peninsular and Oriental Company have now building eight steamers, aggregating nearly 35,000 tons and 6,000-horse power.

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.—A report of the directors which has just been issued states that at the forthcoming special meeting the subjoined resolution authorising the division of the surplus profits will be submitted:—"That the sum which shall be found to stand at the credit of the account of surplus profits on Dec. 31, 1879, as finally settled with the Secretary of State, be distributed as nearly as may be by way of dividend to the proprietors on the closed register of Nov. 1, 1879 (after providing for sundry expenses incidental to the final closing of the old contracts), together with the balance of the separate assets amounting to £21,750 17s. 4d.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England for Rs. 30,00,000 in Government Bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs. 29,10,000; and to Madras, Rs. 90,000. Tenders on both Presidencies at 18.8 3-16d. will receive about 17½ per cent., above that price in full. Compared with last week this price shows a fall of 1-16d. The same amount will be tendered for next Wednesday.

INDIAN APPEAL CASES.—In the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on Tuesday, the case of Rhada Gobind Roy v. Kristo Dhone Ghose, which was an appeal from a judgment of the High Court of Calcutta of April 4, 1878, reversing a decree of the Subordinate Judge of Dinagepore, in the Bengal Presidency, was decided. Mr. Leith, Q.C., and Mr. Graham, Q.C., were counsel for the appellant; Mr. Cowie, Q.C., Mr. Macnaghten, Q.C., and Mr. Doyne for the respondent. The question in dispute was as to certain narrow strips of land in the Poorena district, on the margin of a lake that had partially dried up, and the point, as to which the Indian Courts had come to conflicting opinions, was whether such lands, which might originally have formed part of the bed or soil, belonged to the respondent, who was the admitted owner of the fishery of the lake, or whether the appellant, to whom belonged the contiguous land, was entitled to them by reason of his possession and cultivation of them for more than twelve years before the suit. The lands on the margin of the lake, together with a portion of its bed, are submerged every year during the rainy season, and they reappear in December after the rains are over, when they become fit for the cultivation of a kind of rice, which is sown in January and reaped in May. This rice, called "boro dhan," grows abundantly in the marshy lands and forms the staple food of the people of that part of the country. Hence these lands are highly valued by cultivators and are always eagerly taken up by them. Their lordships, at the conclusion of the arguments, affirmed the decision given in favour of the respondent by the High Court, and dismissed the appeal, with costs.—On Thursday the case of Mahashoya Shoshinath Ghose and others v. Srimati Krishna Soondari, which was an appeal from a judgment of the High Court of Calcutta of Feb. 5, 1878, affirming a decree of the district judge of Bhagulpore, in the Bengal Presidency, was decided. Mr. Cowie, Q.C., and Mr. G. H. P. Evans were counsel for the appellants; Mr. Doyne and Mr. J. T. Woodroffe for the respondents. The suit was instituted by the appellant, Shoshinath Ghose, to establish the fact of his adoption by the respondent, who was the widow of Dwarkanath Ghose, a zemindar of considerable estate, living near Bhagulpore, and a leading member of the caste of northern Kaists, and to recover from her possession of her husband's estate, to which, failing issue, she had succeeded. The litigation had been pursued for some considerable time, the case having, in one form or another, undergone—even before the present suit was commenced—inquiry and consideration by four courts in succession, beginning with the Principal Sudder Ameen and ending with the Judicial Committee. The suit in its existing shape had come before two Indian tribunals, one being the High Court, and they had concurred in holding that the appellant had failed to establish his allegation as to the disputed adoption. From those judgments the case now came on appeal to her Majesty in Council. Their lordships, at the close of the arguments for the appellants, affirmed the concurrent decisions of the High Court and the court at Bhagulpore, and dismissed, with costs, the appeal.

A DIVORCE CASE.—The case of Wheatley v. Wheatley and Finlay (the Queen's Proctor intervening) was before the President and a special jury on Wednesday. The petitioner, who is a retired surgeon major in the Indian Army, married the respondent, who was also in a good position in life, at Leith, in Scotland, in July, 1865. She accompanied him to India, where they lived and cohabited together, and there were three children, two sons and a daughter, issue of their marriage. Differences arose between them towards the end of 1872, and it was arranged between them in consequence that Mrs. Wheatley should return with her children to her parents in Scotland, and that the petitioner should make her an allowance of £25 per month. They again met at Genoa, in Italy, in the autumn of 1875, after Dr. Wheatley had retired from the Indian service; and in December of the same year they finally parted under a deed which was drawn up by the British Consul at Genoa. In the following year Mrs. Wheatley presented a petition in this court for a decree of judicial separation on the ground of her husband's adultery and cruelty, and later on filed a supplemental petition, in which she prayed for the further and larger relief of a dissolution of her marriage. Dr. Wheatley denied the charges alleged against him, and filed a cross petition for divorce on the ground of the respondent's adultery with the co-respondent. A verdict was found in his favour, and the Court pronounced a decree nisi, with costs. The Queen's Proctor, acting on information which subsequently reached him, and by direction of the Attorney General, filed pleas in which he alleged that the petitioner himself had also been guilty of adultery, and this was the question which was now submitted for the determination of the jury. It appeared from the evidence adduced in support of the Queen's Proctor's charge that Dr. Wheatley made the acquaintance at Genoa, in 1875, of two Dutch ladies of good position and some fortune, named Van Berkhout; that a friendship, which soon ripened into intimacy, sprang up between them; and that Miss Amy Van Berkhout, who nursed him during an attack of paralysis in February, 1876, came to England with him in the course of that year, and has ever since lived with him as his housekeeper and companion at Kingston-terrace, Shoreham. The jury, after deliberating for a short time, found a verdict in favour of the Queen's Proctor; and the Court rescinded the decree nisi and dismissed the petition with costs.

MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.—In consequence of the appointments of officers of the Royal Marines to the Indian Staff Corps it has been decided to offer eighteen commissions in the Royal Marine Light Infantry to candidates at the approaching examination for admission to the Royal Military College. Applications for commissions should be made without delay. The 1st Battalion of the 10th Regiment, now at Bermuda, will shortly move to Halifax in place of the 97th Regiment, proceeding to the Mediterranean, relieving the 2nd Battalion of the Rifle Brigade, about to return to England. The 1st Battalion of the 10th will probably be succeeded by the 26th Cameronians, now at Chatham. The battalions under orders for India during the approaching relief season—viz., the 1st Battalion 23rd Fusiliers, 38th, 77th, and the 1st Battalion Rifle Brigade—are being made up to the increased strength for foreign service. The 38th and 77th have had transferred to them from their linked battalions—the 80th and 57th—a considerable number of seasoned soldiers who lately returned from Zululand. The 1st Battalion 23rd has been similarly strengthened from the 2nd Battalion, recently arrived home from Gibraltar, and the 1st Battalion Rifle Brigade is being made up to the required strength from the other battalions of the same regiment. All these battalions will embark under favourable conditions as regards the age, physique, and military efficiency of the men. — Times.

OBITUARY.—Lieut. Col. William Charles Newhouse, formerly of the 65th Regiment and 5th Fusiliers, who died a few days since, at St. Kilda's, The Park, Cheltenham, in his eightieth year, entered the army in September, 1815, and served in the light division of the Deccan Army in the Mahratta war of 1817 and 1818 as extra aide de camp to Sir Lionel Smith, commanded a Rassela of the Puna Auxiliary Cavalry, and was wounded and had his horse shot in the cavalry charge at the battle of Ashta, in 1818. For his services at the battle and taking of Puna in 1817 he received a medal. He obtained his commission as lieutenant in 1818, and subsequently served in two expeditions to Cutch, the first in 1819, under Sir William Kier Grant, in which he volunteered with the Grenadier company of the 65th in the storming of the hill fort of Bhooji, which was taken by escalade; the second, in 1820, with the right wing of the 65th, with the force under Col. the Hon. Lincoln Stanhope. He served also on two expeditions to the Gulf of Persia, the first in 1819, under Sir W. K. Grant, and the second in 1821, under Sir Lionel Smith. He attained the rank of lieutenant colonel in 1854.

MAHOMEDAN WOMEN IN INDIA.

A PAPER on the social position and education of Mahomedan women in India was read at the last meeting of the National Indian Association in the rooms of the Society of Arts, John-street, Adelphi, by Mr. Syud Hassan, of Oudh. The chair was taken by Sir John Budd Phear, late Chief Justice of Ceylon. Premising that he was himself a member of the Mahomedan community, the lecturer said he found very erroneous views entertained in England with regard to the social position of Mahomedan women in India, and more especially with regard to the zenana system. He maintained that its seclusion was regarded as a privilege rather than as a hardship by the women. It was a social distinction of the highest order to be a pardah nashin, and if from the force of circumstances an Indian Mahomedan lady had to give up her pardah—to lose the seclusion of the zenana—she considered it the greatest misfortune that could befall her. The zenana system, in short, was not intended to keep women shut up, but to satisfy their own desire of following a custom which had become deeply rooted in the East and to pay deference to their ideas of the requirements of modesty. If those ideas could be changed, if the ladies themselves once began to think that the extent to which they carried their reserve was unnecessary, he had no doubt the zenana system would forthwith be modified to a corresponding extent. After touching upon the origin of the zenana system, and speaking of it as a custom which existed among the Athenians, he said that in India the system had reached its climax. In other parts of the East, in Siam, Java, among the tribal communities of Persia, and even in Turkey, Mahomedan ladies went about much more freely. The zenana system, as he believed had been shown, had neither the sanction of religion nor of reason, though time and usage had impressed upon it all the outward appearances of a religious institution. How far it may be possible to do away with it was a question which demanded the serious attention of all Mahomedan gentlemen who took an interest in the welfare and future prosperity of their nation. After remarking upon the change in public opinion among his co-religionists in India which the acquaintance of his countrymen with England must gradually bring about, the lecturer asserted that an amelioration of the existing system was urgently required, and, moreover, might with tact and resolution be brought about. Setting aside all other considerations, the most elementary laws of health demanded that greater freedom should be given to their ladies. The health of the majority of Mahomedan ladies, he might remark, was very indifferent, and the physical degeneration of Indian Mussulmans might be traced to that cause. In connection with this subject it might be mentioned that in India the demand for lady doctors was most pressing. One or two American ladies now practising as doctors in Calcutta were making very large incomes. If they could only induce their ladies to follow the custom of such Mahomedan countries, as Turkey or Arabia a great step would have been made and the most pressing requirements of sanitary law would have been met. After expressing a hope that some among the Mahomedan gentlemen returning to India from this country would have sufficient moral courage to initiate this change, the lecturer went on to give an interesting account of the position held by Mahomedan ladies in their own households. They exercised very great influence over all members of the family. Among them the art of cooking was generally studied and practised, and they were, as a rule, as proud of their skill in this branch of domestic economy as the grandmothers of the present generation of Englishmen were said to have been. The spare time in the zenana was passed in needlework, embroidery, and the reading of books, which were chiefly of a religious character. Games played with dice were common, and small bets were often made, but cards seldom found a place among these amusements. To the education of girls attention was paid early. In every well-to-do family there was a governess, who must be of good antecedents and character and of the religious persuasion of her employers. Her acquirements, however, were generally limited. Besides teaching the daughters of her employers she had usually to teach some of the children of their poorer neighbours. The system of gratuitous teaching, of indigenous schools, or maktab-khanas, in which the boys of the neighbourhood were similarly taught, had generally died out and had been replaced, in some respects inadequately, by the Government schools, but the education of girls was still carried out to a large extent on this system. The extent of this education varied greatly in different families and in different parts of India. In some cases the girl was taught to read a few chapters of the Koran and of the Hindustani translation. Not uncommonly the pupils read sacred histories. This was the usual extent of the instruction, because the average governess could not go beyond it. Some girls, however, learnt not only to read all ordinary books in their own language, but also the Persian, and, in rarer instances, a high standard of Arabic was acquired. This, at least, was true of Oudh. English was just beginning to find its way among Mahomedan girls. After referring to the high cultivation of Mahomedan ladies during the golden days of the Andalusian Empire, he said that India prior to the downfall of the Mogul dynasty had also produced women of high intellectual acquirements. The lecturer then pointed out ways in which the education of Mahomedan girls might be improved. The indigenous schools might be rendered very useful if secular teaching were added to the religious instruction. Efficient governesses and good text-books for girls were greatly needed. Having explained the position of women with regard to marriage and divorce, he touched upon the question of polygamy, which, he said, was contrary to the spirit of the Mahomedan law and was gradually disappearing among the Mahomedans of India.

The discussion which followed the lecture was opened by Moulvie Syed Ameer Ali, LL.B., who corroborated the statements made by Mr. Syed Hassan as to the status of Mahomedan women, their legal position in regard to independent management of property, custody of children, &c., being far freer than those of English women. As to social matters, he allowed that the Mahomedan institutions required reform, but there was less to condemn than English people are apt to imagine. Amongst other speakers were Mr. Hodgson Pratt, Mirza Peer Buksh, Mr. Abul Hassan Rhan, Pundit Shiamaji Krishnavarma, and Mr. J. Lee-Warner. The Chairman expressed his interest in the graphic paper that had been read, and thanked Mr. Syed Hassan for enlightening the audience on some of the important features of Mahomedan life. He fully believed that the seclusion of the pardah is not endured unwillingly, but is a matter of social distinction. It is satisfactory to find that there is a change of feeling in regard to this custom, but we must look only to gradual changes and not to the action of outward forces before those concerned are prepared for such changes. Sir John Phear referred to the isolation which always attends those who first stand forward to promote especially social reforms, but he was glad to think that in Bengal, especially Calcutta, a considerable body of the community (he alluded to the Brahmo Somaj) were now adopting in some degree European social freedom by allowing women to come from behind the pardah, altering the age of marriages, &c. All parties who combined to make such changes would help to support each other. The chairman said he felt he could fully support Mr. Syed Ameer Ali in regard to his remarks as to the civil rights of Mahomedan women being superior to those of English women. He considered that we are seriously behind the Orientals in this matter. He wished to add an argument to those that had been urged in favour of less social seclusion, to the effect that the zenana life has had the effect of deteriorating the physique of the upper classes of Mahomedan women, and hence of the race. He was glad to find that there were so many gentlemen from India who desired to promote education and progress, and he again thanked Mr. Syed Hassan for his instructive paper. The proceedings closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, JULY 5.
BEHAR.

Mr. MC CARTHY asked the Secretary of State for India whether his attention had been called to a pamphlet entitled "The Ruin of an Indian Province," signed "Charles James O'Donnell, justice of the peace for the provinces of Bengal, Behar, and Orissa," which ascribed the periodical famines and general poverty of Behar not to any natural or unavoidable causes, but to the rackrenting of their tenantry by the landlords, the mismanagement by the Government as court of wards of certain vast estates, and the eviction and oppression of the farmers by European adventurers for the purpose of indigo planting, "often with the support of officials of the highest local position."

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that his attention had been called to this pamphlet, which related in the main to alleged oppression of the ryots by the proprietors and indigo planters. That was a subject which had for a very long time occupied the attention of the Indian Government and legislation had frequently been proposed to remedy the evils. The subject was at present under the consideration of a select committee, whose report was almost immediately expected, and no doubt would be followed by legislation. The pamphlet, however, contained allegations of so grave a nature, not only against the state of the law, but also against the administration of the province, that he would certainly feel it necessary, as soon as he was able to satisfy himself of the nature of the evidence upon which the allegations rested, to make some inquiries and to consider whether an investigation into the matter should not be made.

AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. ONSLOW asked the Secretary of State for India whether there was any truth in the report that Mr. Lepel Griffin had been ordered from Cabul to Simla, what arrangements have been made for the continuance of negotiations with certain Afghan chiefs during the absence of that officer, and when he intended to lay upon the table any further papers relating to our present position in Afghanistan.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said he had received no information to the effect that Mr. Lepel Griffin had been summoned from Cabul to Simla. If that had been the case, Sir Donald Stewart, having the supreme military as well as political command, would continue the negotiations going on with the Afghan chiefs. He did not think, in the present state of the negotiations, it would be possible to lay any important papers on the table which would add to the information which the House at present possessed. It would be his desire, at the earliest possible period, to lay such papers as he could on the table.

THE CASE OF MR. F. G. C. SHAW.

In answer to Mr. A. Sullivan, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that the case of Mr. Shaw has been decided upon by the Government of India and by his predecessor, Lord Crambrough. He had not been able to read all the correspondence and examine it himself, and until he had an opportunity of doing so he could hold out no hopes of a reversal of the decision.

THE FINANCES OF INDIA.

In reply to Mr. Baxter, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that the fuller information promised on June 20 had been received and the papers were immediately placed in the printer's hands. Further telegraphic correspondence explained the financial position at the present moment. It was now understood that the excess of the war expenditure over estimates was £9,000,000, but the greater part of that had been taken out of the balances before March 1 last, though not brought to account. The excess to be provided for this year was £3,307,000.

AFGHANISTAN.

Sir G. CAMPBELL asked whether the Government had any information as to the accuracy of an account which appeared in the Times of that morning, of the pursuit, on the order of General Hills, by a cavalry brigade under General Palliser, of 800 men, of whom 200 were killed.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: I have certainly received no information which leads me to think that the account which appears in the Times of this morning is entirely accurate.

INDIAN FAMINE COMMISSION.

Mr. STANHOPE asked the Secretary of State for India whether he had received the first report of the Indian Famine Commission; and, if so, whether he would lay it upon the table of the House; and, also, how soon he expected to receive the second and final report of the commission.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: The first report has been received and printed, and I hope it will be in the hands of members in a few days. I have taken steps to hasten the final report, which I trust will be ready by the end of July.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

THE INDIAN BUDGET.

In reply to Mr. Birley, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that in the present state of the business of the House he was unable to name a day on which he could make the Indian Financial Statement. He believed it was the intention of his right hon. friend at the head of the Government in the course of next week to make a proposal which would place at the disposal of the Government a larger portion of the time of Parliament—(Hear, hear, and "No, no")—and if that proposal was adopted and the House in the meantime made progress with the Compensation for Disturbance Bill he hoped to be able to find time for making the Financial Statement before the end of the month. (Hear, hear.)

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

Mr. W. H. SMITH asked the First Lord of the Treasury whether, having regard to the present relations between Russia and China, and the recent increase of the Russian naval force in the China Seas, it was intended to strengthen the British squadron in those waters.

Mr. GLADSTONE: We have not received any confirmation of the reported defeat of the Russian forces by the Chinese, and I may add that the reports of such alleged defeat are not believed by the diplomatic representatives of either Russia or China in this country. If a war should unhappily break out between Russia and China we shall avail ourselves of an offer which has been made to us by the Russian Government to enter seriously upon a discussion of questions affecting British interests in Chinese waters. The British naval force in Chinese waters is large at the present time, but the course of affairs will be closely watched by the Admiralty with a view to increasing it if necessary.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE IN INDIA.

Mr. PUGH asked the Secretary of State for India whether it was a fact that the Government of India made an annual profit on the administration of justice in civil and revenue causes and matters, and, if so, whether he could state the approximate amount of such profit.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON—The actual cost of the administration of justice, civil and criminal, is about £2,294,000. The receipts of all kinds connected with the administration of justice are about £2,320,000; so that the profit referred to in the question is about £26,000. It is impossible to distinguish the receipts and charges under the separate heads of criminal, civil, and revenue causes and matters, as, in general, the same courts and establishments are employed upon both civil and criminal work, and court fee stamps are used indifferently for all cases. It is, however, the case that civil justice pays for itself and for a large part of the cost of criminal justice.

THE CONSUMPTION OF OPIUM IN BRITISH BURMA.

Mr. PEASE asked the Secretary of State for India whether he had received a copy of a memorandum forwarded in the spring of this year by Mr. C. U. Aitchison, Chief Commissioner of British Burma to the Government of India, on the consumption of opium in British Burma.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON replied that the paper in question had not been received by the India-office.

AFGHANISTAN.

Sir G. CAMPBELL asked the Secretary of State for India whether there was any truth in the statement in the Cabul correspondence of the Times of July 5—viz., that a gathering of tribesmen having taken place in a village, General Hills, formerly Governor of Cabul, despatched a cavalry brigade with orders to disperse them and "to give the best account of them possible;" and that, on the approach of the cavalry, these people took to flight, but nevertheless they were pursued for six miles and 200 of them were killed; and, if the facts were at all as represented by the Times correspondent, whether there was not so much appearance that the officers concerned had acted in contravention of the orders of the Secretary of State prohibiting unnecessary and vindictive attacks on and slaughter of Afghans as to render an immediate inquiry necessary. Lord HARTINGTON pointed out, that the extracts conveyed generally an accurate idea of what had taken place in the neighbourhood of Cabul. He was unwilling to take up the time of the House by reading very long documents in reply to the hon. baronet's question, but when the character of our officers was attacked it was necessary to put the House in possession of the exact facts upon which the attack was founded. The Secretary of State then read the report from the Times correspondent, and proceeded to say:—While the statement in the Times is that the gathering fled on the approach of the troops, the fact is that an engagement occurred before the enemy were broken. The telegram which I received on July 7 from the Viceroy of India gives a somewhat different account of the affair. It is as follows:—

"Yours, 6th. Facts about Padkhow fight as follow:—On July 1 General Hills, hearing of gathering near his camp at Zargun Shahr, sent out Palliser with 550 cavalry to disperse it. Palliser found the enemy 1,500 strong near Pakhow. Our cavalry attacked and broke them, pursuing some miles, and killing over 200. Our loss, three killed, Captain Barrow and twenty-four men wounded. Enemy were Zurmatees. Stewart thinks fight will have excellent effect. Gatherings numerous and excited greatly by private letter of negotiation with Abdurrahman. It is necessary for military security and supply not to allow ourselves to be hemmed in, and Hills was right dispersing the Zurmatees."

The House will see that it is impossible, as long as our forces remain at Cabul, to permit armed gatherings of the Afghan tribes of this kind to be held in the neighbourhood. Strict orders have been issued that no unnecessary military demonstrations should be made during the stay of our troops in Afghanistan.

CASUALTIES.

The Fidia D., from Java, reports having experienced very severe gales during the passage, which caused a great deal of damage to the vessel.

The Duke of Devonshire (s) on leaving Suez grounded on a sandbank, but was got off again.

Elbano, arrived at Calcutta January 5 from New York, reports that from February 3 to 14, and from lat. 39.32 N. and long. 69.16 W. to lat. 39 N. and long. 47.20 W., the vessel experienced such severe weather that she was compelled to jettison about 1,000 cases of petroleum oil. The ship suffered in her deck fittings to a certain extent, having had her portgallant bulkheads and the fittings of the fore-castle washed away, besides minor damage to running rigging and stores. One boat was also cut away. The captain also reports that during the bad weather the vessel passed a quantity of wreckage consisting of spars painted white, some rigging, several cases of oil, and some boxes supposed to be seamen's chests.

INDIAN RAILWAYS.

We note that the statement of the gross receipts and expenses of Indian railways from January 1 to April 24 show a large falling off in the working of the guaranteed lines as compared with the same period of 1879. In 1879 the receipts were Rs.3,89,30,193, against, in the current year, Rs.3,65,93,964—a difference less of Rs.23,36,229. Only three lines show an increase for the period under comparison, the S., P., and Delhi, Rs.2,44,173; the South Indian, Rs.1,28,621; and the Eastern Bengal, Rs.1,00,796. In the decreases the G.I.P. heads the list with Rs.14,67,688. Then comes the E.I.R. system, with Rs.6,40,031; and the Oudh and Rohilkund with Rs.4,40,392. The Bombay and Baroda has fallen off by Rs.1,51,150; and the Madras line by Rs.1,07,558. Turning now to the State railways we find seven of the smaller lines showing decreases of small amounts, the largest falling off being Rs.9,446 on the Muttra-Hattaras Railway, and the smallest Rs.1,714 on the Mutlah line. There is, however, a net increase on April 24 of the current year, as compared with the same period of last year, in the State lines of Rs.19,20,824. The lines which show an increase of more than one lakh are—Indus Valley, Rs.7,94,760; Punjab Northern, Rs.385,484; Western Rajputana, Rs.1,82,768; Rangoon, Rs.1,70,310; Patna-Gya, Rs.1,50,133; Northern Bengal, Rs.1,26,366. It must be noted that whilst the guaranteed lines, between January 1st and April 24th, earned Rs.3,65,93,964, the State lines in the same period earned only Rs.67,42,547. The total earnings from all railways were for the period under comparison—in 1879, Rs.4,37,52,216; and in 1880, Rs.4,33,36,511. So that the gross receipts exhibit a falling off of only Rs.4,15,705. But there is a falling off in the gross estimated expenses of Rs.2,95,575. So that the net receipts to April 24, as compared with the similar period of the last year, exhibit a decrease of Rs.1,20,130.—Indian Daily News.

ROSS' NEW PATENT SIMPLISSIMUS CHIMNEY SWEEPING APPARATUS

Will Sweep all Chimneys in which the PATENT SHEAVE and WIRE are fixed, which can be done by any Bricklayer in a few minutes. It does not cause soot in the room or on the person using it, and a child can operate with it as well as an adult.

PRICES.

CHIMNEY CAP (each Flue) £0 15 0 | SHEAVE and WIRE (each Flue) £0 5 0
SWEEPING MACHINE for whole House 0 17 6 | COMPLETE for 8-ROOMED VILLAS 2 17 6

Thus for £2 17s. 6d. you have an apparatus which can be used by anyone and will endure your lifetime, and should you remove can easily be applied to your new home; no alteration in the construction of your chimneys, and unseen from in or outside; no damage to furniture, carpets, or curtains, and always at hand for its purpose; preserving soot for roses and other plants and flowers—a most powerful fertiliser. Chimney Cap, 15s. extra, for smoky chimney.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCENT

PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators; also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1878, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates.

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

H. LAMPLOUGH, Consulting Chemist, 113, HOLBORN, E.C.,

Second door from Hatton-garden London, and of all respectable Chemists. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. 4s. 6d. 12s., and 12s.

PROSPECTUS.

1. Institutions on the Co-operative Principle have been established for the Civil Service and for the Army and

Navy, and have proved eminently successful, economical to the consumer, profitable to the Shareholders, and politically beneficial in the encouragement of thrift and prudence, ensuring alike the ready-money principle and the abolition of the baneful system of high prices and long credit.

2. It is an undoubted fact that the requirements of the three branches of Her Majesty's Service, and of the larger portion of the General Public, have not yet been fully met, and there is ample scope for the further extension of the Co-operative system.

It is intended to establish Departments for—

Haberdashery, Tailoring and Uniforms, Boots and Shoes, and every Article of Wearing Apparel, whether plain or fancy.

Groceries, Provisions, Fruit, Drugs and Perfumery and every article of household consumption.

Wine, Spirits, Cigars, and Tobacco.

Carriages, Saddlery, Guns, Cutlery, Hardware Stationery, Books, Plate, Glass and China, Jewellery Games, and Fancy Articles of every description.

Meat, Fish, Poultry, Game, Coal, Hay, Straw, Corn, &c.

4. The marked success of existing institutions, and the fact that there are large numbers of persons who have hitherto been unable to avail themselves of the system of Co-operative trading, convinces the Committee that, having regard to the patronage already promised, they have only to carry out their intention of securing efficient Managers in every Department to enable their Stores to compare favourably, both as to prices and dividends, with any of its best established competitors.

5. The Committee, believing that a large field is open in India and the Colonies for the extension of the Co-operative system, intend to make the supply of goods to Shareholders abroad a special feature of this Association, and, in addition to a liberal allowance towards carriage on all orders beyond a certain amount, arrangements will be made for reduced rates of freight.

6. The principles on which the United Service Association will be conducted are by means of—1st, Shareholders; 2nd, Life Members; 3rd, Annual Subscribers.

SHAREHOLDERS.—The Shares are £2 each, payable in full. Shareholders are entitled to participate in the profits and management of the Association, and have special advantages in the free delivery of goods. (See Section 8).

LIFE MEMBERS.—Any Shareholder shall be entitled to introduce Life Members. Payment for a Life Ticket will be £10.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIBERS.—5s. admission, and 5s. per annum, except in the case of persons belonging to or who have belonged to any branch of Her Majesty's Service, by whom half these amounts will be payable.

Annual and Life Tickets will confer all the privileges of a Shareholder, except participation in the management and profits, and the free delivery of their purchases.

7. There will be Reading, Writing, and Refreshment Rooms for Shareholders and Members, and a special Suite of Rooms for the accommodation of Ladies.

8. Shareholders will have their purchases delivered free of charge within 7 miles of Charing-cross, or if of the value of £1, by goods train, at any Railway Goods Station within 30 miles of London; beyond that distance they will be allowed 1s. 4d. per cwt. towards the expense of carriage. Orders amounting to £2 will be delivered carriage free, as above, within 50 miles; or, exceeding that distance, 1s. 6d. per cwt. will be allowed towards carriage; and purchases of £5 and upwards will be forwarded free to any part of the United Kingdom.

9. The usual Deposit System will be adopted.

10. The only contract entered into is one dated March 22nd, 1880, for acquiring the Leases of the Premises in Leicester-square, made between Mr. Alfred Bompas, of the one part, and the Company of the other part.

11. Only such a sum will be allowed for preliminary expenses as the Committee of Directors may approve.

12. Prospectuses and Forms of Application for Shares may be obtained on application at the Offices of the Company, and at the Bankers and Solicitors.

CO-OPERATIVE STORES AS AN INVESTMENT.

Extract from the Times Newspaper, 24th July, 1879.

"Mr. Charles J. Cox, a principal Clerk in the Admiralty Department, was examining yesterday before the Select Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire into the question of the Civil Service Co-operative Stores, and stated that he was a Director of the Civil Service Co-operative Society (Limited) in the Haymarket. He had been connected with the Society since its commencement in the early part of 1866. An Original Share, which cost £2, was now worth between £77 and £100.

C. H. SHARP AND COMPANY, PATENT INLET PURE AIR VENTILATING WALL FILTER.

C. H. SHARP AND COMPANY special attention to their new Wall Inlet, which is admirably adapted for the Ventilation of Private Dwellings, Churches, Schools, public Buildings, Hospitals, Stables, &c.

It is constructed upon sound scientific principles, and is superior to any other ventilator yet introduced.

ADVANTAGES.

1. It is simple in its construction.
2. It is sensitive in its operation.
3. It is not liable to get out of repair.
4. The air being pure the atmosphere is more healthy and agreeable, as a fog, smoke, dust, and other foreign particles in which the atmosphere of towns abound, are kept back by the Filter, which allows only a supply of pure air to pass through the regulating spaces in an upward direction into the room without causing a draught.

The supply of air can be regulated by partially opening or closing the valve. When closed it is flush with the inside wall, and can be papered or coloured to match the same, which renders it scarcely noticeable. Fixed at 6ft. 6in. from the floor, with an ordinary air brick on the outside size of Filter.

A RIDE TO KHIVA

CAPTAIN FRED. BURNABY, Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 13:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physio—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cocker's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheikh, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, June 26; Madras and Allahabad, June 24; Calcutta, June 23.

The reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending June 15, 1880, state that general rain fell during the week in British Burma, Assam, Bengal, Madras, Mysor and Coorg, and the Central Provinces; in all these provinces it was plentiful, save in Madras, where the fall was moderate. In Bombay, Central India, Rajputana, and the North Western Provinces and Oudh the rain was slight and partial. From Berar and the Punjab no rain is reported. Rain is wanted in the Deccan, the Southern Mahratta country, and the Punjab for kharif sowings. The monsoon appears to be slowly advancing. Agricultural prospects and the public health remain generally good.

The general health reports for the same week are as follow:—Bombay: Public health fair; Bengal: Public health generally good. N.W.P. and Oudh: A little cholera in Benares, Gorakhpur, Allahabad, Lucknow, Sitapur, and Fyzabad, and fever unabated in Meerut; but general health on the whole good. Punjab: Health generally good. British Burma: Small-pox apparently abating. Mysor and Coorg: Public health improving. Hyderabad: No sickness. Central India States: Health good. Rajputana: Good.

We have received the following telegrams from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 11.—Reports from Cabul, 10th, state large number of people going to meet Abdurrahman at Charikar. His arrival there not yet reported, probably retarded by difficulties of troops crossing Hindu Koosh. Asmatullah gone to Kohistan. All districts round Cabul at present reported quiet. Ayoob reached Farah June 30 with entire force. His cavalry patrol up to Khosh River. His plans and intentions not certain. General impression in country that he will avoid collision with British. Kusmore Bund on Indus broke 5th."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 14.—Reported from Cabul that Abdurrahman will be close to Charikar, 15th. Much delayed by bad roads and weak transport animals. The deputation sent from Cabul meet Sirdar to-day. They write in much hope of satisfactory arrangement, say that there is no gathering in Kohistan. All quiet round Cabul. St. John telegraphs from camp on Helmund, apposite Girishk, that brigade arrived there, 11th, all well; supplies abundant, Helmand fordable everywhere. Trustworthy news has arrived that Ayoob's main body was at Saki in Bakwa on 6th, and that Luinab was to turn off from that place with cavalry into Zamindawar. A spy, however, states that Luinab's main body was two days ago at Dilaram, and that his advance guard of 100 men had arrived in Washir. Advanced column of Wali's troops is about twenty miles north-east of Girishk. Nur Mahomed Khan, cousin of Wali, made attempt to excite mutiny in Wali's troops, and, on failing, left Wali's camp. Wali's cavalry gone after him."

"FROM VICEROY.—Following from Candahar, July 15:—Wali's messenger brings following news. Wali's infantry mutinied Wednesday morning, seized his guns, and went off towards Zamindawar. British crossed river in pursuit, overtook them at Shoraki, and completely dispersed them, killing 200 and recovering guns and baggage. The above not yet confirmed by St. John from Girishk, but believed authentic at Candahar."

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, JULY 16.—Following from Girishk, July 14:—Cavalry, Horse Artillery, and eight companies artillery pursued mutineers, who were marching along left bank of river, for several miles, and captured their six guns, which came into action to cover retreat, but after a few rounds from Horse Artillery were abandoned. Majority of infantry had previously dispersed, but a few desperate men held some enclosures and had to be dislodged by infantry. Mutineers' loss not great, may have amounted to forty or fifty; our loss, one man 66th killed, and two wounded, with some horses. Captured guns and wagons brought into our camp. Ayoob Khan probably at Lar, two marches distant."

A REUTER'S telegram, dated Simla, July 14, says:—"Gen.

Burrows is expected to enter Girishk to-morrow. His troops are in perfect health. The Helmand is everywhere fordable, and the supplies are abundant. The bulk of Ayoob Khan's following was at Bakwa on the 6th inst. All the districts within the vicinity of Cabul are perfectly quiet. According to the latest advices Abdurrahman was at Kaoshan, and was expected to reach Tudandara on the 15th inst., a place four miles from Charikar. The difficulty of the roads has impeded his march. The Sirdar Hashim Khan is stated to have left for Kharwar, accompanied by Badsha Khan. Mushk-i-Alam has recalled the Ghazis from Argandeh, and has declared his intention of himself undertaking the punishment of the leaders of the revolt."

The Daily News Cabul correspondent telegraphs that Abdul Rahman has crossed the Hindu Kush with a small following, and arrived at Tutundarra on Wednesday.

A BERLIN telegram asserts that General Von Kaufmann will shortly assume the command over the troops at Kuldja, Vernoye, and Marin, some fifteen thousand men in all. The Russians again complain of robberies perpetrated in the border districts by Chinese subjects. A grievance of this kind is always a pretty sure indication that the frontier is about to be crossed in pursuit of brigands. As to Kashgar and Yarkand, General Abramoff at Khokand is waiting for the order to invade and occupy these territories. To invalidate English remonstrance they are to be placed under Mahomedan Ameers, vassals of the Russian Crown, like the nominal Sovereigns of Bokhara and Khiva.

A REUTER'S telegram states that despatches had been received at Shanghai from Pekin announcing that the sentence of death passed upon Chung How had been remitted, and that the Chinese Government had abandoned the idea of war with Russia. In St. Petersburg this is believed to be confirmed by the departure of the Marquis T'seng from London.

The Pioneer makes the following announcement respecting the report that the late Viceroy had written a minute attacking the Civil Service:—"There seems reason to believe that an otherwise entirely groundless rumour about Earl Lytton had its origin in some misconceptions relating to the note, or minute, whatever it was, that he wrote on the question lately put before the Secretary of State in reference to the Councils of Bombay and Madras. As the government of India is at present carried on these papers are of a kind which never see the light; but we have reason to believe that the document referred to was in no way, as supposed, an attack on the Civil Service."

It is announced that Lord Ripon has given Rs.20,000 towards the erection of the proposed Roman Catholic Cathedral at Simla. The site selected for the Cathedral is the Gorton estate.

We combine two paragraphs from the Times of India, which informs us that Sir Andrew Clarke, who went back to India with the Marquis of Ripon, vacated his seat as a member of the Executive Council a few days ago, and returns to England to-day (June 26) to be Agent General for New South Wales. The Governorship of Madras becomes vacant in November next, and Simla rumours point to Sir A. Clarke as the possible successor of the Duke of Buckingham.

As the result of the representations made to the Chief Secretary for India by Mr. C. J. O'Donnell, late assistant registrar general of statistics in Bengal, in reference to the "Ruin of an Indian Province," the Government has determined to issue a minute to the Government of India, calling its attention to the oppression of the zemindars towards the small tenants, and pointing out the duty of the Government officials to protect the Indian agricultural population against the illegal exactions of the land-owners.

MAJOR GENERAL C. C. Johnson, C.B., and Col. C. M. Macgregor, C.B., C.S.I., on completion of five years' tenures of their substantive staff appointments, have been reappointed deputy quartermaster general and assistant quartermaster general respectively. General Johnson is at present officiating as quartermaster general, and Col. Macgregor as chief of the staff at Cabul.

MR. SOLOMON DAVID SASSOON has been appointed a member of the Bombay Legislative Council. It will give great satisfaction, says the Bombay Journal, not only to the Jewish community, but to the public generally, to find a member of the Sassoon family again occupying a seat at the Council board. Sir Albert Sassoon, it will be remembered, was a member of the Legislative Council from 1868 to 1872.

WE are requested by the committee to intimate to the friends of the late Maharaja Ramanath Tagore that his statue executed in marble for erection in the Town-hall of Calcutta will remain on view for a week from 12 to 4 at Mr. Geflowski's studio, No. 13, Bruton-street, Berkeley-square.

ANOTHER officer has died of fever in Rajamundry—Major Q. S. A. Jamieson. He had been in charge of pensioners and holders of family certificates, Rajamundry and Samulcotta, since 1877.

At the suggestion of the surgeon general with the Government of India the undermentioned designations have been assigned to the officers concerned:—Surgeon general with the Government of India; surgeon general with the Government of Madras; surgeon general with the Government of Bombay; surgeon general, Bengal; surgeon general, North West Provinces and Oudh; surgeon general, Punjab; deputy surgeon general, Central Provinces.

At a recent meeting of the Legislative Council, Mr. Charles Grant moved for leave to introduce two bills "to consolidate and amend the law relating to land revenue and the jurisdiction of revenue officers," and "to define and amend the law relating to the tenancy of lands in the Central Provinces."

THE Governor General in Council has directed that no public officer shall use a free pass for travelling on any railway, State or guaranteed, except when he is travelling on the public service. A public officer travelling on any railway, under a free pass, must deduct from any travelling allowance to which he would otherwise be entitled the fare which, but for his free pass, he would have paid.

THE Pioneer has dropped the spelling "Abdul Rahman" and adopted that of "Abdurrahman," on the ground that "it seems now more usual to call him so." Both ways are correct, but the former is the more correct of the two, for the reason that his name is Rahman and his prænomen Abdul. In Arabic, and other languages which follow Arabic in some respects, certain letters become assimilated with certain other following letters for the sake of euphony. Thus Abdul Rahman is pronounced Abdurrahman, and in writing the "l" is dropped and a sign put over the "r" which signifies duplication. We have noticed that the Times, since Abdul Rahman's name has again come into prominence, has always spelled it Abdurrahman, following their Cabul correspondent in that respect, who is doubtless in the habit of hearing it so pronounced. The example of the Times has been very generally followed by the English Press, but Abdul Rahman has been before the public years ago, and hitherto travellers and writers have written his name after the fashion we still adhere to.

DURING the month of May the lowest daily average of patients treated in the Cabul dispensary was 188, which rose during the last two weeks to 230.

THE Government of India has published a return of all the different races employed on the open lines of railway, and on the river steamer services in that country, on Sept. 30 last, from which we see that there were 3,781 Europeans, 3,481 East Indians, and 141,348 natives thus employed. During the year ended on the same date sixty-seven Europeans and thirty-two East Indians died, 657 and 760 resigned or were discharged, and 340 and 291 were dismissed.

THE Government salt revenue returns for the Presidency of Bombay for the month of April show an increase of Rs. 72,000 on the corresponding month of 1879, being equivalent to an increase of 7,000 maunds. This is an excess of 81,000 maunds on the corresponding month of the year 1876. The Presidencies of Bengal and Madras show an increase on the corresponding month of 1876 of 120,000 and 150,000 maunds respectively; on the other hand, the Presidencies of Sind and British Burma show a falling off of 7,000 and 98,000 maunds respectively for the corresponding month of 1876.

THE Bombay Gazette thinks that Mr. Wedderburn's plans for bolstering up the ryot, like those of many others, are amiable, but mistaken. The Deccan Ryots Relief Bill has not yet been sufficiently long in operation for its results to be seen. As yet its operation is not understood, either by the sowkar or by the ryot. The former is afraid to lend, the latter unable to borrow. What the ryot wants is to be let alone for a while, to be allowed to cultivate his field in peace, and to settle his own affairs with the sowkar. The most effective way of aiding him is by opening up communications by making roads and railways, so as to give him a market for his produce. This will put into his pockets vast sums that are now spent in the transit of goods or wasted by the impossibility of moving his produce, and will enable him to grow lucrative crops, for which there is now no local demand.

THE Englishman says:—"The actual receipts from three sales of Bengal opium and two months' pass duty on opium exported from Bombay have amounted to Rs. 2,17,78,745. This is Rs. 21,19,245 better than the estimates, but the difference would have been much greater were it not that the Bombay pass duty was Rs. 21,14,300 below the estimates, whilst the receipts from Bengal opium were Rs. 42,33,545 above them."

AN interesting memorandum on Persian opium is printed in a lately-published report on the administration of the Persian Gulf Political Agency. For the last two or three years the Persian Government have been extending and improving the cultivation of opium in the country; trying especially to guard against adulteration and carelessness in manufacture. And to a great extent they have been successful. A few years ago a case of Persian opium weighing 140lb. would not fetch more than 150 dollars in China; the prices now realised range between 280 and 350 dollars. The attention of native merchants was first turned to the opium trade twenty-five years ago; but since then there has been every year a gradual increase in the quantity produced—though never till now has this increase been so prominent. The probable yield of the crops for the year 1879-80 was estimated at 6,550 cases, in 1859 the quantity was about 300 cases. Opium is also brought to Yezd from Herat; and, altogether, it was reckoned that in 1879-80 7,000 cases would be available for export through Bushire and Bunder Abbas to China and England. About five-sixths of the whole goes to China, most of the rest goes to England. Small quantities are exported also to Zanzibar and Turkey, and some is smuggled through Mekran and Beluchistan into the Indian frontier provinces.

THERE has been a satisfactory diminution of crime in Calcutta during the past twelve months.

A PROPOSAL is on foot to get out a pack of hounds to Bombay for the next cold season.

THE Standard understands the Right Hon. W. P. Adam has definitely accepted the post of Governor of Madras. No indication has been given as to how the consequent vacancy in the office of First Commissioner of Public Works will be filled up.

FOR the week ending June 12 the deaths in Calcutta numbered 162, being a death-rate of 19.6 per 1,000 per annum. In Madras for the same week the deaths are returned at 283, giving a death-rate of 37.0 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay during the week ending the 15th idem there were 369 deaths, and the death-rate was 28.64 per 1,000 per annum.

The Times of India gives the following obituary of the week:—Mr. W. H. Fluker; Major Q. S. A. Jamieson (Madras).

EARL LYTTON AND THE MAHOMEDAN COMMUNITY.

THE following address from members of the National Mahomedan Association and others was lately forwarded to the Earl of Lytton:—May it please your Excellency,—We, the members of the National Mahomedan Association, and her Imperial Majesty's other Mahomedan subjects in Bengal and Behar, approach your Excellency with feelings of extreme regret at your Excellency's departure from India, after filling with distinction for a period of upwards of four years the high and exalted office of Viceroy and Governor General. The early portion of your Excellency's august administration was signalled by a most important event, which will ever remain enshrined in the grateful memory of her Imperial Majesty's loyal subjects in this country, and will form a bright chapter in the annals of her Majesty's rule in India—we mean the magnificent assemblage at the ancient capital of India, where the assumption by her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen of the title of Empress of India was proclaimed amidst a large gathering of independent princes, native chiefs, and nobility, and the highest civil and military officers of State—an act of graciousness calculated to bind her Imperial Majesty's subjects and feudatories in everlasting bonds of fealty and allegiance. Although the occasion itself, and the gracious act of her Imperial Majesty, could not fail to arouse the highest degree of enthusiasm among her Majesty's subjects and allies in India, we venture to acknowledge, with feelings of gratitude, that the brilliant success of the august assembly at Delhi was mainly due to the personal influence, accompanied by the display of the most generous and benevolent exertions on the part of your Excellency. We also acknowledge with deepest gratitude your Excellency's generous and sympathising solicitude for the amelioration of the social and political condition of her Majesty's Mahomedan subjects in India. The graceful act performed by your Excellency, immediately after the close of the assemblage at Delhi, in laying the foundation-stone of the Anglo-Mahomedan College at Aligarh, the encouraging address delivered on the occasion to a large and influential meeting of the Mahomedan noblemen and gentlemen then present, and the speech delivered at Lahore last year at the Convocation of the Punjab University—all amply testify to the sympathising interest felt by your Excellency in the progress of Mahomedan education and the advance of the social and political condition of our co-religionists. We feel that we should be wanting in loyalty and devotion towards our gracious Sovereign were we to fail in acknowledging the untiring zeal and devotion manifested by your Excellency as her Imperial Majesty's representative in this vast Empire with a view to secure for that Empire a well-defined and secure North Western frontier. And we regret that your Excellency's administration in India should have terminated at a time when the operations in Afghanistan are drawing to a satisfactory close. In conclusion, we most respectfully and sincerely wish your Excellency a safe and happy return to England, and a long life and career distinguished in the future as it has been in the past. We humbly trust that your Excellency, while in England, will continue to take as warm an interest in her Majesty's Mahomedan subjects in India as your lordship has evinced during the past four years of your Excellency's august administration." The above address was signed by Nawab Delir Jung, C.S.I.; Prince Furrakh Shah (Mysor Family), Prince Wahajooddeen (Mysor Family), Prince Bashiroodden (Mysor Family), Nawab Syud Ahmad Ali Khan, Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali Talakoodowlah Bahadoor (Oudh), Zoolfakaroodowlah Bahadur (Oudh), and many others of Calcutta. Nawab Abdool Ghanny Khan Bahadoor, C.S.I., and Nawab Absanoollah, of Dacca. Syud Wellayut Ali Khan, C.I.E., Syud Mahomed Nawab of Patna, and several leading Mahomedans of the Behar districts. The following reply was received:—

"Government House, Simla, June 8.

"Sir,—His Excellency the Earl of Lytton desires me to express to you and the members of the National Mahomedan Association the pleasure with which he has received your farewell address. His Excellency was glad to be able to evince his sympathy in the efforts made to promote educational progress among the Moslems of India by taking part in the interesting ceremony at Aligarh in the month of January, 1877. He is pleased to receive your assurance that the Mahomedans of Bengal and Behar sympathise fully in the success of, and efforts made by, British arms on the North West Frontier of India. Earl Lytton feels convinced that the loyalty to her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress which pervades the address forwarded by your association is really felt by the great majority of her Majesty's Moslem subjects in Bengal and in India generally. The friendly feelings expressed by the Mahomedans of Bengal towards his Excellency personally will always be a pleasant memory to the Earl of Lytton.—Yours obediently, W. H. BRACKENBURY."

A second address was sent to the Earl of Lytton by the Mahomedan Literary Society:—"May it please your Excellency,—We, the undersigned members of the Committee of the Mahomedan Literary Society of Calcutta, on behalf of our society, which had been favoured at your Excellency's hands with a continuation of the countenance and patronage accorded to it by previous representatives of our Most Gracious Sovereign, and on behalf of our numerous co-religionists, whom we are accustomed to represent in public matters and on public occasions, beg leave to approach your Excellency with an expression of our sentiments on your approaching retirement from the Government of this country. The Mahomedans of India feel deeply grateful to your Excellency for the interest your Excellency has always taken in their education and progress, the one being a necessary correlative to the other. The encouragement given by your Excellency to the cause of Mahomedan education in India, by presiding at the laying of the foundation stone of the Mahomedan Anglo-Oriental College of Aligarh, as well as by the prominent allusion you made to it in your address at the convocation of the Punjab University College, shows that your Excellency fully recognised the peculiar difficulties which surround the question of Mahomedan education in this country, a matter which has engaged the attention of this society ever since its foundation, seventeen years ago, and upon which it has been our privilege to address successive Governments, local and imperial. In matters of foreign policy, notably the war in Afghanistan, the Mahomedans of India have always appreciated the intention of your Excellency's Government to promote the security of her Most Gracious Majesty's Indian Empire, and at the same time to establish a strong, prosperous, and independent kingdom in Afghanistan, on terms of active friendship and permanent alliance with the British Government in this country. We feel confident that your Excellency, if your connection with this country had lasted for its natural term, would have succeeded in securing the high objects which have so long occupied your anxious care, and that, as a necessary result, your Excellency would have been in a position to recommend relief in taxation and a relaxation in the measures for the better preservation of peace within the limits of the Empire, which the disturbed state of the frontier had, in the judgment of your Excellency's Government, rendered necessary. We fervently wish your Excellency a prosperous voyage home, and trust that, in the high careers still open to your Excellency, the people and the affairs of this country will continue to receive at your hands favourable consideration and kindly interest." The society has received the following reply:—

"Sir,—His Excellency the Viceroy directs me to express to you and to your association his gratification at the kindly terms of the farewell address you have forwarded. It has always been a pleasure to the Viceroy to evince, by his attendance at your annual gatherings at Calcutta, his personal sympathy in the efforts of your association to promote intellectual and artistic progress among the Mahomedans in India. Lord Lytton has, on occasions, observed with pleasure that the Moslems of India have, during the past two years, evinced a hearty sympathy in the success of British arms, even when those arms were directed against fellow-believers in the faith of Islam. And his Excellency believes that her Majesty the Queen-Empress has few more loyal subjects than the Mahomedan gentlemen of Bengal. Thanking you and the members of your association for your good wishes for Lord Lytton's future career,—I am, Sir, yours obediently,—W. H. BRACKENBURY, Lieut. Col., Private Secretary to the Viceroy."

A PERMANENT TRANSPORT SERVICE.

AT Sherpur the necessity for maintaining a permanent transport service has been much discussed of late, and Lieut. Col. Lowe, chief director of transport with the Cabul Force, has suggested a plan the details of which are explained by the correspondent of the Pioneer. Col. Lowe takes an army of 36,000 of all arms with fifteen days' food as the unit to be treated, this being about the strength of a force which is likely to be mobilised in case of war breaking out, and he believes that under his system transport for such an army could be raised at any time in a fortnight. Taking the mule as the only transport animal in the "first line," he calculates that 7,000 mules (of which number 1,028 would be spare animals) would be required for the 36,000 men, the estimate being as follows:—7,000 British Infantry, 15,435 mules; 1,500 British Cavalry, 6,036 mules; 2,800 Artillery and Engineers, 11,267 mules; 4,000 Native Cavalry, 9,900; 21,000 Native Infantry, 26,334 mules; total, 68,972 mules; spare animals, 1,028; grand total, 70,000. This calculation is made on the Cabul scale of baggage, and each animal would have to carry two maunds only; allowance is made for forage and grain also being carried. The 70,000 mules required would be located in the three Presidencies in the following proportion:—Bengal, 35,000; Bombay and Madras, 17,500 each. The North West Provinces would furnish 9,750; Oudh, 750; and Rohilcund, 2,000. The Punjab would be responsible for 27,500. The system of maintenance would be the division of all the country into a certain number of districts, each of which would have a fixed number of mules ready for the State when occasion might arise. Col. Lowe says:—"The districts would all have been numbered off in the transport books, and I will suppose I am visiting the Rawul Pindi or No. 20 district. The first village I enter might have, perhaps, fifteen mules, nine of which were over three and under fourteen years old. To the owners of these animals I would say: "Government will give you, through me, one rupee per month for each of these animals. Government does not want them now and may never want them at all. Keep them, therefore, and use them as you have been accustomed to. All that Government asks is that you will agree to give the use of the mules in time of war. You must bring them with their saddles, &c., arranging among yourselves that at least one man shall accompany every three mules. On Government calling for the mules you will receive war rates of pay from that day till the animals are discharged, when they will revert to peace rates of one rupee per month. This present agreement to last twelve months, after which notice of three months on either side may end the bargain: the one proviso being that when Government has called for the service of the mules the notice cannot be given until the mules are discharged. Meanwhile the mules must be branded with the district mark 'R 20;' and here is Rs.36, the first quarter's payment, in advance." Col. Lowe states that from his personal knowledge, and from opinions expressed by native gentlemen, he is convinced the people would eagerly accept such a system, as it is one which they could easily understand, and is quite in keeping with their customs and traditions. Col. Lowe suggests that a director, who would have control all over India, should be appointed with staff pay of Rs.1,000 per month. His subordinates in Bengal would be two superintendents (Rs.500 each), and four assistants (Rs.150 to Rs.200); in Bombay and Madras just half this establishment. There would also be a number of native officers and non-commissioned officers, and five sowars would be told off to each district. The staff in Bengal would cost Rs.9,210 per month (in peace time), in Bombay and Madras Rs.4,030 each, or a total of Rs.17,270 for establishment. The premium to owners of Rs.1 per animal would be Rs.70,000, making a grand total of Rs.87,270. When the war broke out the staff would be available for instant service at their normal pay, while the owner of each animal would receive his Rs.12 per month, in all, Rs.8,40,000, or a total expenditure on service of Rs.8,57,270. The second line of transport in a campaign Col. Lowe considers should be wheeled carriages, a certain number of carts being always kept ready at stations near the bases of supply, such as Mooltan, Rawul Pindi, &c.

INDIAN MATERIALS FOR PAPERMAKING.

THE Agricultural Department has issued a "memorandum on materials in India suitable for the manufacture of paper," written by Mr. L. Liotard. It gives a capital summary of articles for papermaking obtainable in the country. There appears to be a great variety of suitable materials for this purpose obtainable in India; trees, plants, straw, and even the most common and noxious weeds, are shown to possess a value in this way. Among the more common plants which can be utilised are the bhindi—the lady's finger—the stalk of which plant is peculiarly tenacious; the sunn grass, the yercum, and among nettles the rhea grass and the common bharg plant. Nor is the stem of the plantain without its value in this way. The most promising article seems to be the bamboo. Mr. Thomas Routledge, of Sunderland, has experimented on this fibre for some years, and paper made entirely of bamboo fibre will bear comparison with any other of similar class in the market. From the many experiments made by Mr. Routledge he was enabled to draw the following conclusions:—"One acre of closely growing bamboo land will yield forty tons of young shoots, such only being suitable; these will, when crushed, yield ten tons of dried produce, three-fourths being removed in the form of moisture. This dried produce yields 60 per cent. of fibrous paper stock, consequently one acre will produce six tons of paper stock. This acre may be cropped every second year—in favourable circumstances every year—so that this ought to be a profitable industry. A large quantity of expensive machinery is necessary to produce the finished fibre, which Mr. Routledge estimates as worth about £24 per ton. This is, of course, an estimate, none being in the market. He also estimates the entire cost of preparing this stock at Rs.150 per ton."—Bombay Gazette.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

CHINESE BUDDHISM.*

DR. EDKINS has for many years been favourably known as a writer on the Chinese language and religions, and although his views on some points do not receive general acceptance there remains in his favour a mass of sound and valuable work. The volume before us, which describes in an exhaustive manner the history of Buddhism in China, how it was introduced into that Empire, and by what means it has held its own and flourished during the eighteen centuries that have elapsed since the arrival of the first Buddhist missionaries at the capital, will certainly increase Dr. Edkins's reputation as a laborious and painstaking writer on his own subjects. It is evident throughout his pages that the propagation of Buddhism among "the materialistic Chinese"—a religion which, as he says, "covered China with monasteries and images"—has exercised a great influence on the mind of our author, who sees in it a precedent and encouragement for the growth of Christianity, now, as Dr. Edkins would contend, fairly introduced into the country. Apart from this conviction, which becomes the less reasonable when we remember that Buddhism has won only a partial victory in China against the doctrines of Confucius and the cult of Laou-tse; the most hypercritical of critics can find nothing to fall foul of in the collection of sketches which Dr. Edkins has gathered out of a personal experience extending over more than a quarter of a century. It was in the first century of our era, when the Emperor Mingti of the Han dynasty was on the throne, that the first Buddhist missionaries arrived in China, when they were admitted to an audience with the Emperor and received other marks of honour. At first the progress made by Buddhism was slow, but in the fifth century it had taken firm root, as was clearly shown by one Emperor leaving the throne to become a monk. From that time it fairly held its own with Confucianism and Taoism, and, as in China there is no State religion, it has been able to hold its own against longer established rivals. Practically, the religion of the Chinese people is composed of the teachings of these three creeds with a very strong admixture of superstition traceable to the ancient mythology of the country. Nor are there wanting in this volume passages of the greatest interest in historical matters; of these none perhaps is more striking than that to be found in the note on pages 116-17. In this an extract is made from the history of the Tang dynasty confirming the gorgeous description in Gibbon of the rivalry between the Byzantine Empire and Chosroes, the Persian king, and showing how much more accurate than is supposed was the Chinese knowledge of the countries of the West. A careful perusal of the volume will bring to light several others of scarcely less interest and value. Dr. Edkins's book, taken in conjunction with those recently published from the pens of Professor Douglas and Dr. Legge, enables everyone to acquire as accurate an idea as is possible of Chinese religions; but whether there is any prospect of Christianity displacing Buddhism, or winning its way to a place among the religions of China, is doubtful. It may even be questioned whether so sweeping a change would be attended with many benefits.

INDIAN TRANSPORT.*

THE attention called to the fatality attendant on the employment of camels in the recent campaign, and the delays and difficulties experienced through waiting for baggage, has proved the occasion for reissuing Sir Charles Napier's letter on the subject of the baggage of the Indian Army. The pamphlet was out of print, and its reissue is opportune and desirable. Sir Charles Napier bequeathed his letter as a legacy to those for whose benefit it was written. "Sooner or later a 'Baggage Corps' must become a part of the Army of India."

INDIAN FINANCE.*

THE object of Mr. Fox's pamphlet is sufficiently important as described by himself. It is to show how we may ameliorate the condition of the people of India while developing an excess of revenue over expenditure sufficient to provide against the diminution and ultimate disappearance of the opium revenue, the abolition of the license tax, the customs duties, except those on spirits, beer, and tobacco, and a considerable remission off the salt tax. Mr. Fox suggests the application throughout India of the system of land settlement adopted in the Punjab.

and N.W. Provinces, "except perhaps where the land has unfortunately acquired a permanent settlement." Improved cultivation and more easy or assured tenure would then make enhanced assessment easy. An agricultural State bank, with branches and sub-branches, should be established everywhere, and Mr. Fox estimates an increase of land revenue at the end of ten years amounting to £4,400,000 per annum, and at the end of fourteen pages of hypothetical arithmetic, in the course of which he takes off half the salt tax, all the opium revenue, and committed other economical reductions, he says:—"We have shown how, at the expiration of ten years, an increase of £4,400,000 per annum may be easily realised—partly through the normal increase of area under cultivation and improved methods of levying the assessment, and partly through the addition of threepence per acre on the acreage assessment throughout India—and we have shown, notwithstanding the nominal increase in the amount of assessment, how the cultivator would be actually relieved to a far greater extent in other ways by the adoption of a measure of an ameliorative and remedial character." It is pleasant to find so promising a candidate for the succession to the next financial vacancy.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE LATE MAJOR R. H. DE MONTMORENCY. TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—As the organ of the Indian services I ask you to insert a few lines in memory of an Indian officer who, though he has not survived to attain high rank, yet has lived long enough to earn the gratitude of the native inhabitants, ryots and zemindars, of an Indian province. Major R. H. De Montmorency, who died at Streatham yesterday evening, was the only surviving son of the late Major De Montmorency, of the 65th Bengal Native Infantry, and entered his father's regiment in time to participate in the stirring scenes of the Indian Mutiny. He also saw service in China; but it is not to his military career that I would draw attention, but to his services in the Oudh Commission. It is some twenty years since he entered this department of the public service as secretary to Sir George Yule, Chief Commissioner, whose esteem and affection he gained by his conscientious discharge of his duties and his gentleness and nobility of character. Since that time he has laboured unsparingly and successfully in the interests of his Government and of the people of his province. Modest, brave, able, and courteous alike to all of every degree, he was the best type of those Indian officers who have acquired and held our Eastern Empire. Had he thought more of his health, the state of which warned him a year ago that he had overtaxed his strength, and quitted India in time, humanly speaking his life might have been spared, whereas he only returned home last month in a dying state. But if it is a good thing to die on the deck or the field of battle in our country's service, it is not less noble to sacrifice one's life in the sacred cause of striving to ameliorate the condition of the native races of India whom Providence has placed under our protection. Many humble mourners in the villages of distant Oudh will feel a pang as they read the record of his untimely death, while the numerous friends of Major De Montmorency in England and India will not soon forget one who endeared himself to them by his many amiable qualities.—Yours faithfully, Kensington, July 16.

THE POSITION OF INDIAN COTTON.

A LONG and comprehensive report has been written by Dr. Forbes Watson on "Cotton Gins and the Quality of Indian Cotton." The report is immediately concerned with a series of trials conducted in part at Manchester, and in part at Broach and Dharwar in the Bombay Presidency, with the object of discovering the comparative efficiency of various machines for ginning cotton, that is to say, freeing the cotton fibres from the seed, to which they are more or less firmly attached. The machines experimented with were of European or American manufacture, and the conclusions arrived at as to the merits or demerits can have but little bearing on cotton-ginning in the villages of Upper India, where the gins used are of the cheapest and most primitive character, and where, from lack of capital, anything but inexpensive improvements must, as a general rule, be impossible. But, in connection with the report on cotton gins, Dr. Watson draws some interesting conclusions as to the respective merits of American and Indian cotton, and as to the commercial prospects of this latter. The trials being conducted partly with American and partly with Indian cotton offered an extremely good opportunity for testing on a large scale the qualities of Indian cotton which are most generally exported to Europe, and the results of these tests form by far the most interesting portions of the report. The cotton usually grown in these provinces, however, does not seem to have been experimented with at all, and the varieties noticed by Dr. Watson are all the productions of Sind and the Bombay and Madras Presidencies.

The cotton which is grown in North West India is nearly all intended for home consumption, in proof of which may be cited the fact that, although the area under cotton in these provinces amounts to about twelve lakhs of acres, the net export during the year 1878-79 only came to one-and-a-half lakhs of maunds. The most noticeable of the Indian cottons which were represented at the ginning trials were Sind, Dharwar (acclimatised American), Hinganghat, Dhollera, Broach, and Kamptee. The most important conclusion arrived at concerning them was that they were not nearly so inferior to the bulk of American short-stapled cotton as is generally supposed. The three chief faults which are usually attributed to Indian cottons are shortness and weakness of staple, undue adhesion of fibres to the seed, whereby ginning is made difficult; and "leafiness," that is to say, the admixture of a large quantity of refuse consisting of pieces of the outer "shell" of the cotton pod. With regard to the supposed shortness of staple, Dr. Watson, so long ago as 1860, was led to the conclusion that the difference in length between the varieties of cotton grown in India and the usual short-stapled American varieties (of which the great bulk of the imported cotton consists) was much less than is usually supposed. An elaborate series of measurements conducted since then have justified this conclusion, proving, as they do, that, whereas the average length of the fibre of American short-stapled cotton is one inch, that of the Bombay varieties of Indian cotton is considerably over nine-tenths of an inch. On the whole, then, it appears that the average difference in length of staple between the bulk of the cotton exports from America and India is less than one-tenth of an inch; for the cotton exports from India to England and other European countries consist almost exclusively of the produce of the Bombay Presidency. The cotton of Upper India does not compare with American cotton nearly so favourably, the average length of its staple not exceeding three-fourths of an inch. But the cotton exported from these provinces and the Punjab is mostly consigned to China and does not enter into close competition with the American article. And not only does the average length of fibre in Bombay and Madras cottons very nearly equal that in America, but 28 per cent. of the former are actually superior to a great portion (about 22 per cent.) of the American exports. The relation of Indian to American cotton is stated by Dr. Watson as follows:—"If the whole of the American and of the Indian samples were each divided into two equal groups, then the inferior half of the American samples would be exactly matched, as regards length, by the superior half of the Indian samples, leaving only one-half of the Indian samples inferior to the shortest American cotton. We thus arrive at the important result that one-half of the whole bulk of American cotton imported into this country could be matched, as regards length of staple, by cotton grown in India." As regards strength of staple, it is shown that the average diameter of Indian cotton fibres exceeds that of American by 1-100th of an inch, and that, although the diameter is not so uniform along the length of the fibre as in American cotton, the Indian samples are, as a rule, the stronger of the two. To the second of the objections usually urged against the Indian cotton, i.e., undue adhesion between the fibre and the seed, Dr. Watson is unable to give so satisfactory an answer. This adhesion is prejudicial in two ways—Firstly, it renders the fibre liable to be torn or cut in being separated from the seed; and secondly, it renders the seed liable to be driven into the gin and crushed into the cotton. It also renders the operation of ginning far more difficult, since the machinery has to be set with more than ordinary care and accuracy. The easiest of all cottons to gin, on this account, is the Egyptian, in which the fibre adheres to the seed with far less tenacity than in either American or Indian cottons. But the adhesion of the Indian cotton fibre to the seed is considerably more tenacious than that of American fibre, although all Indian varieties are not equally difficult to clean in this respect. The third objection to Indian cottons is the great admixture of pieces of the outer "shell" of the cotton pod in them, and to this charge Indian cottons must again plead guilty, though Dr. Watson thinks that they may allege in extenuation that "'tis their nature to." The large percentage of "leaf" found in Indian cotton results from what seems to be a peculiarity of the Indian cotton pod, and not—at all events, to the extent formerly believed—to the carelessness of the Indian cotton picker. "The bolls of the American plant are larger, and open more readily than those of the Indian plant, hence it is more easy to pick the American cotton in a clean condition than is the case with the Indian varieties. . . . Moreover, the leaves of the native plant are smaller and more friable than those of the American variety." The final deduction drawn by Dr. Forbes is similar to that drawn by him in his recent report on Indian wheats—that quite as much improvement can be expected from systematic attempts to improve native Indian varieties as from the introduction of new foreign ones. "There appears," he writes, "to be a natural adaptation of the Indian cotton plant to the dry climate of India, which enables it, by means of its long tap-root, to draw sustenance and moisture from greater depth of soil than is the case with the American variety, with its number of lateral roots spreading near the surface." Hence it is quite as important to proceed with experiments in the improvement of the native staple by selection as to attempt the introduction of "foreign varieties, which, whatever their advantages may be, are not so well adapted to sustain the frequent seasons of extreme drought occurring in India."—Pioneer.

GLEANINGS FROM THE VERNACULAR JOURNALS.

MR. GLADSTONE ON THE AFGHAN WAR EXPENSES.—After reading the recent utterances of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, a feeling of disappointment has overtaken the vernacular papers, and they have begun to doubt if Mr. Gladstone will carry out his pledge to make England bear, either wholly or in part, the expenses of the war in Afghanistan. His assurances on this point given when out of office had left no doubt in their minds that he was the one man in England who, when everybody else might flinch, would, to the last, act up to his determination to cast the burden of the war on the English Exchequer if he had the power to do so. This very conviction it was which made the people of India rejoice in the return of his party to power. And now, if he should forget his promises or flinch from his avowed purpose, the vernacular papers would be the last to forgive him. No consideration would weigh with them; even the unexpected deficit in the Budget, the inheritance of his predecessors, would not palliate his crime; and no mercy would be vouchsafed. The papers are altogether miserable over the apprehended attitude of the Premier to waver in his former resolve; they coerce, cajole, remonstrate, pray, and use all sorts of arts to guard him against the dangerous pitfall on the brink of which they shudder to see him stand. The Akbar-i-Sou-dagar even suggests that the increase in the income-tax in Great Britain is suggested in the Budget with the purpose of convincing the people of India that the British Exchequer is not at all able to pay any part of the war expenses. The Jam-i-Jamsheed quarrels with the people of India for not creating a row on the matter by calling public meetings, for, argues the writer, "even a mother would not feed her child unless it cried for it." The Bombay Samachar believes that there is no way for Mr. Gladstone out of this dilemma save by the fulfilment of his former promises, no matter at what cost, for his very reputation depends on the treatment of the subject. The Bombay Chronicle repeats what it has so often said, that the people of India should guard against trusting too much to the liberality of the British Ministry and the "voluntary gifts" of Parliament. And the Rast Gofar is too much convulsed to do anything else than pray that Mr. Gladstone may be enabled to have the courage of his conviction at this trying time, and save his reputation for honesty and tenacity of purpose by doing an act of justice to the millions of India.—Bombay Gazette.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

HONOUR TO MOULVI ABDUL LUTIF KHAN BAHADUR.—A very interesting ceremony has taken place at Alipore, in the office of Mr. J. Munro, the commissioner of the Presidency Division, namely, the presentation to Moulvi Abdul Lutif Kan Bahadur, magistrate of the suburban police-court at Sealdah, the sunud and khillut of the title of Nawab, which had been conferred upon him by the Government of India in recognition of the public services rendered by the distinguished Moulvi, chiefly in the cause of the education and improvement of the Mahomedan community of India. The khillut consisted of a diamond ring, a valuable supech with kulghi and a sword with richly embroidered belt and shield. Afterwards, Mr. Macaulay, the collector of the 24-Pergunnahs, placed a handsome gold watch guard round the Moulvi's neck, and handed over to him a valuable gold watch, with an engraved inscription to the following effect:—"Presented to Moulvi Abdul Lutif Khan Bahadur, with the title of Nawab, conferred upon him by his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, Calcutta, 12th April, 1880." The commissioner then presented the Moulvi with the sunud of the title of Nawab.—Bombay Gazette.

THE COMING CENSUS.—A set of general rules has been issued for taking the census, next February, in the North West Provinces and Oudh. A preliminary record of the permanent residents in towns and villages will be made; and afterwards, at a time and date to be specified in due course, "a synchronous enumeration" will take place. The Government of India has ordered that, as a general rule, the agency employed in taking the census shall be unpaid. Except police officers, all Government servants, including those of the civil courts and opium departments, will be eligible for census work; and also all respectable persons willing to aid. The preliminary record is to be complete by November 1 next, and between that date and February it will be tested by the district staff. Native gentlemen who wish to fill in the schedule of families will be supplied with schedules for the purpose—that is, if they seem to be capable of filling up the returns correctly. When the last census was made such schedules were frequently found incorrect. During the days immediately following the census the testers will check by actual inquiry as many schedules as they can; they will also scrutinise each schedule, to see if it is properly filled up and legibly written. The village totals will be examined carefully and any disproportion between estimates and results inquired into. Where the tester finds any great disproportion between the numbers of the sexes "he must use tact in making inquiries to check returns." The scrutiny of the schedules will be finished within a fortnight after the census.—Pioneer.

THE ASSAM COMMISSION.—The chief commissioner of Assam has notified that, in consequence of the number of officers in the Assam commission absent, or about to go on leave, he will be unable to sanction any fresh application for leave until after October next, unless such applications be accompanied by a medical certificate.—Indian Daily News.

A SINGULAR CASE.—A case has just been decided by the Chief Court of the Punjab which contains some points of interest remarkable enough to make the foundation of a romance. Some eighteen months ago a resident of Lahore married a widow lady with whom, up till quite recently, he has lived quietly and happily. A short time ago, however, she received a telegram from her former husband, who turned out not to be in the other regions, but in Bombay, in which place he had turned up after an absence of five years! He intimated that he was not only alive, but returning to reside with her. As she had been fully under the belief that he was dead, and herself free to marry again, she informed the present incumbent, who, after consultation with friends, determined to put the whole case before the judges and ask for a declaration of the nullity of the marriage. The case came off before Mr. Rattigan in chambers on Monday. We are glad to say that in his decision declaring the marriage null and void he fully exonerated both parties from any intention of offence, and stated that from the evidence it was clear that the lady had made inquiry and was satisfied as to the reported death of her husband, and that the plaintiff had also made inquiry and satisfied himself that she was a widow. The conduct and position of the original husband are both equally curious.—Civil and Military Gazette.

CENTRAL PROVINCES.—The stewards of the Mhow and Central India races announce their intention of publishing a programme the last week in July. An exact date for the meeting must depend on the return of troops to Mhow, but the amount of added money will be between four and five thousand rupees.—Bombay Gazette.

PRESENTATIONS TO THE VICEROY.—After the reception of the new Viceroy at Simla, the following native chiefs were especially introduced to Lord Ripon by Earl Lytton:—The young Maharaja of Puttiala, the Raja of Jheend, the Raja of Nabha, the Raja of Keonthul, Sirdar Brikama Sing, and Sirdar Atta Sing.—Ibid.

DEATH OF A MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONER.—The death is reported of Babu Jadunath Ghose, one of the municipal commissioners of the town of Calcutta, and for seventeen years principal of Seal's Free College. He was only forty-seven years of age.—Ibid.

THE REPORT ON THE CALCUTTA MEDICAL INSTITUTIONS IN 1879.—The total number of in-door patients treated was less in 1879 by 5,734 as compared with 1878, and by 1,793 as compared with 1877. The surgeon general remarks:—"Though the number of sick persons in hospital was less in 1879 than in the previous very unhealthy year, it was still a high number, and in the Campbell Hospital greatly exceeded the numbers of ordinary years. The cases of small-pox treated were even more numerous than those of 1878; and though the disease became less fatal as the epidemic expired it accounted for ninety-four deaths. Cholera, though less prevalent in the town generally, showed some slight excess in the hospitals, and caused twenty-eight additional deaths. This was due to the reception into the Campbell Hospital in 1879, for the first time, of coolies from suburban emigration depots suffering from cholera. Malarious fevers were less fatal than in 1878, as well as less prevalent. Diseases of low condition, as anæmia and debility, were of equal prevalence, but much less fatal than in 1879. Dropsies were presented in usual number, but were very fatal. It does not appear that the name includes cases of the "acute oedema" which have created some sensation lately; indeed nothing is said of this affection in the hospital reports of the town. Respiratory affections, with equal prevalence, were less fatal than in 1878. Cases of dysentery and diarrhoea were less numerous than in the former year, but showed a very high death-rate. A fatal form of dysentery is particularly noted among the seamen; but it was by no means confined to them. A high death rate from dysentery distinguished the year under review throughout the town and suburbs." Examining the working of each hospital with reference to the foregoing tables and the more detailed statements in the reports, the Lieutenant Governor finds that in the Medical College Hospital the general death-rate of all races in 1879 was 130 per 1,000, against 135, 108, 136, 152, and 125 per 1,000 in the preceding five years. Excluding moribunds, the rate was 93, as compared with 111, 91, 103, 128, and 95 per 1,000 in the previous years. The results were thus, on the whole, better than average. Male European patients died at the rate of 57 per 1,000 treated, against 63 in 1878; females at 39, against 55. Of Eurasians, 79 males died per 1,000, against 59 in 1878; of females, 31 against 80. Of natives, 201 per 1,000 males died, against 230 in 1878; and 129 females, against 183 per 1,000. Both the general and the European death-rates of the hospital were unfavourably affected by the large reduction in the number of European sailors treated (380 against 867 in 1878, nearly all seamen being now sent to the General Hospital. This reduces the number of European recoveries materially, sailors being admitted to hospitals freely, while European residents are only admitted as in-patients when dangerously ill. Of the total number of deaths (559), fever accounted for 52, cholera for 55, phthisis for 37, other respiratory affections 52, dysentery for 41, diarrhoea for 18, liver diseases for 15, parturition for 22, unspecified local diseases for 147, poisons and poisoned wounds for 18, and injuries for 50. The death-rate among natives was lower than in 1878, 1876, and 1875, and higher than in 1877 or 1874.—Official Paper.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—At date of mail the disengaged tonnage stood at 29,572 tons. For London via Suez Canal the market closes very quiet at £2 7s. 6d. to £2 10s. nominal, for rice or wheat, £2 10s. to £2 12s. 6d. for linseed, £2 15s. for hides, tea, &c., jute nominal, cotton, £2 12s. 6d. to £2 15s.; via Cape—the market closed quiet with a downward tendency at £1 17s. 6d., for wheat £2 2s. 6d., nominal for linseed, jute, tobacco, £2 5s. for hides, £2 6s. 3d. for rape, and £2 7s. 6d. for poppy. For Liverpool via Suez Canal, but little doing. Rates close weak at £2 10s. to £2 12s. 6d. for rice or wheat nominal, £2 10s. to £2 12s. 6d. for linseed nominal, light and measurement goods £2 15s. to £3. For Liverpool, via Cape, there has been a large business doing, and the following ships, Eblana, Alexandra, and Mabel have taken the berth, securing the bulk of their requirements at £1 17s. 6d., for rice or wheat at £2. The Ghazepore filled up with linseed at £2. The market closes weak at the above quotations.—Englishman.

THE COMMISSARIAT FRAUDS.—News from Rangoon to the 15th instant informs us that Commissariat Sergeant Langley has been committed to the sessions of the 15th July on charges involving Rs.280. Bail has been accepted for a thousand rupees. Sergeant Weightman was next arraigned. Cohen swore that for two years he paid Weightman Rs.30 monthly, with free rations, besides giving him and family occasional presents. His case had been remanded to the 16th.—Englishman.

THE local paper tells us that the tea bushes in the Darjiling district are recovering, though very slowly, from the red spider blight.

IRRIGATION IN NORTH WEST PROVINCES.—The year 1878-79 will stand in the annals of irrigation in the N.W.P. as a more than ordinarily prosperous one, both considered financially and with regard to the benefits it has conferred on the country. The area under irrigation was larger by 300,000 acres than it had ever been before, the value of the crops irrigated being estimated at Rs.6,81,47,506. The resolution of the Supreme Government on the report praises in high terms the diligence and careful supervision of the superintending and executive canal officers, by which a limited supply of water was made available over so large a space, above 20,700 square miles. As to finance, on the other hand, the revenue exceeded the interest charges by Rs.18,46,454, and as the balance of interest charges at the end of the year only amounted to Rs.50,97,492, it will not take long at this rate to clear off the debt altogether. Since it has been so often said that irrigation works cannot be expected to prove directly remunerative, their success in this respect in the past two years must be all the more inspiring to those concerned in their construction and management. A word of warning, however, against over-confidence in the continuance of this prosperity concludes the report. The two years' drought, which has rendered water necessary and expensive, cannot be reckoned on to last much longer, and irrigation may have an obstinate run of plentiful rain seasons to contend against, when crops will flourish of their own accord, and canal water be a drug in the market.—Pioneer.

ACCIDENT TO SIR ASHLEY EDEN.—We regret to hear from Darjiling that the Lieutenant Governor had a rather serious fall from his horse. It appears that the horse took fright at something in the road and bolted, and, after going some distance his honour fell off, damaging his face and receiving a good many contusions.—Englishman.

THE PORTUGUESE CONSULATE.—Sir Walter Eugene de Souza, who is now in Paris, has resigned his appointment as Consul General for Portugal in Calcutta. The Portuguese Minister of Foreign Affairs has nominated Signor F. Acerboni, of Messrs. F. Acerboni and Co., of Calcutta, to succeed him as Vice Consul, the appointment of Consul General being abolished. Signor Acerboni, who is absent in Europe, will take charge of his new appointment in October next.—Statesman.

INSOLVENCY OF COWIE AND CO.—The judgment delivered in the Calcutta Insolvency Court in re David and John Cowie, partners in the firm of Messrs. Colvin, Cowie, and Co., will be read by many in India with painful interest. It appears that between the years 1871 and 1874 the firm sustained losses amounting to five lakhs, and due to a series of unsuccessful consignments of goods to Europe. In April, 1875, the firm could have paid 12 or 13 annas in the rupee; the assets now bear half that proportion to the liabilities. The court remarks, in the judgment, that it sees no grounds for the suggestion of the opposing creditor—that debts were contracted fraudulently. On the other hand, Mr. Commissioner Wilson remarks:—"I have heard with great surprise and regret from Mr. David Cowie that from the beginning of the century it has been the practice of his firm, and the firm which preceded it in business, to mix the incomes raised by them from trust properties in one common fund with their own moneys. This is a grave breach of duty in trustees." And there was another matter which the court heard with surprise and regret. The insolvents had been in the habit of taking out letters of administration to estates in this country under powers of attorney, for executors and next of kin in Europe, and the moneys of such estates they had mixed with their own funds, "a serious breach of the plainest duty of an administrator." The insolvents had furthermore charged commissions upon estates so administered by them, which is prohibited by Section 56 of Act II. of 1874. In all these matters, however, the court did not consider that any cause for action under Section 51 had been established. But the court was obliged to mark its disapproval of the course pursued by the insolvents in carrying on business after 1874, with only the vague hope that their affairs might improve, or something turn up to save them. "I am constrained to say that I see no excuse for their doing so; and I think that justice and the interests of commercial morality require that the court should plainly condemn trading of this character." The court, therefore, under Section 47 of the Act, has adjourned the hearing of the petition for a year; the effect of such adjournment being to postpone the discharge of the insolvents. The interim protection, however, which was previously granted, has been continued.—Pioneer.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Thomas Steel, a civil engineer, died suddenly on June 20, at the Medical College Hospital. It appears that the deceased gentleman had come down to Calcutta in search of employment, having been engaged in the construction of the works in the Beas Valley on the Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway, and his services being no longer required by that company. Illness compelled him to go to the Howrah Hospital where he remained a considerable time without being cured, in consequence of which he took his discharge. On Saturday morning during the great heat, he with his wife had been driving about town making purchases, and that afternoon he complained of feeling ill and went to the Medical College Hospital, where death speedily followed from apoplexy.—Englishman.

THE DACCA KHEDDAH ESTABLISHMENT.—We learn that the services of Captain Hennessy, 10th Regiment N.I., which were placed at the disposal of the Government of Bengal last year, with a view to his acquiring experience with the Dacca kheddah establishment and conducting kheddah operations in the Julpaiguri Doars this year for the Government of Bengal, have been replaced at the disposal of the Commander in Chief, as Captain Hennessy is not considered to have acquired the necessary experience of the work; and that the services of the Dacca kheddah establishment under Mr. Sanderson have been offered to the Government of Bengal to work kheddahs in the Doars next cold weather, if the Government of Bengal is prepared to bear all the expenses of the undertaking.—Englishman.

A PAINFUL CASE.—A Masuri (Mussoorie) correspondent writes under date June 12:—"A melancholy case of suicide occurred here last week, the first in the annals of Masuri that I can remember. A Miss Gordon, daughter of Major Gordon, a very old resident of Masuri, poisoned herself last Sunday with cyanide of potassium. The cause of the act seems somewhat obscure, but is generally alleged to have been some family quarrel acting on a peculiar temperament."—Englishman.

THE LATE MR. FLUKEP.—A Massoorie correspondent writes:—"We have had another death here. Mr. Fluker, agent of the Bank of Bengal at Agra, died here the day after his arrival. His remains were attended to the grave by Major General Walker of the Survey, who knew him, and other friends."—Times of India.

DEATH OF A DEWAN.—Sheik Feroz-ud-din, Prime Minister of Bahawalpore, who had been ill at Lahore for some time, died on June 29. He belonged to a distinguished family of sheiks, and was popular among the natives of Bahawalpore.—Times of India.

A DIFFICULTY ABOUT THE ARMS ACT.—There is a difficulty in Calcutta about the Arms Act. The commissioner of police says that there is no provision in the law by which the executive can enforce Section 14 of the Act. According to this section persons who are not exempted from the prohibitions and restrictions in the Act are required to take out licenses for the possession of arms. Mr. Souttar brought this point to the notice of Government in July last; but "the Lieutenant Governor could not then, nor can he now, understand wherein the difficulty consists." One would think that when a lieutenant governor and a commissioner of police are thus at variance there must be something wrong in the Act itself.—Times of India.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.—The man O'Rourke, charged at Lahore with the wilful murder of his wife, has been acquitted of the capital offence, but found guilty of culpable negligence. He was sentenced to one year's imprisonment.—Times of India.

A NEW SIKH ASSOCIATION.—The Singh Sabha is a new Sikh association, whose headquarters are at Amritsar, and with whose aims, taken as a whole, it is impossible not to sympathise. These include the spread of scientific and industrial training, the establishment of schools, and the promotion of industrial exhibitions of the various branches of craftsmanship in which this once warlike and now industrious people excel. But, besides these advanced and quite praiseworthy objects, the society has other aims, which, though of themselves unobjectionable, can scarcely claim the support of the public at large or the zealous co-operation of public officers. The revival of the Sikh religion is its first care, and it is upon the strength of this part of its programme that the society has gained its most influential native subscribers. Sikhs of the old stock naturally object to the Brahmanising process which has been going on steadily for the last thirty years, and would like to see the creed of Guru Nanuck restored to its former supremacy. Another great object of the Singh Sabha is to teach Punjabi and to spread its literature printed in Gurmukhi. That there is a Gurmukh literature most people know, but very few have taken the trouble to form an idea of its comparative value. The Adi Granth is perhaps its finest monument, and this is accessible in an English translation. As an accessory to scientific training, it may be thought to leave something to be desired. But, without saying anything disrespectful of a production which is the Bible of a large number of our fellow-subjects, it may be submitted that there are two sides to the question whether a popular agitation for the revival of a dying faith and a semi-extinct literature is a fitting object for the zealous support of officers of Government.—Pioneer.

MADRAS.

THE EURASIAN AND ANGLO-INDIAN ASSOCIATION.—Every one who is interested in the advancement of the East Indian community will have heartily hailed the formation of an association for promoting the welfare of that community. According to the last census report there are 35,000 East Indians and domiciled Europeans in the Madras Presidency, a small number compared with the whole population. As descendants of Europeans speaking English, it may be in many instances of a not undefiled kind. Proud of their European origin, and modelling their social life on the European pattern, the East Indian community constitute an important factor in the population of the Madras Presidency. That fact was years ago recognised and dwelt on by Sir Thomas Munro; in Lord Canning's outspoken sympathetic minute on the condition of this particular community; and the duty of the Government to do something for its improvement was emphasised in an admirable minute penned by Earl Lytton two years ago. That minute displays a breadth of view and kindly sympathy for a class which, under favourable circumstances, might have turned out a real political and social force in India. If there is any section of the community in India which owes a debt of gratitude to the outgoing Viceroy it is the Eurasians of India.—Madras Times.

THE RETIRING DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.—On June 12 Col. R. M. Macdonald completed the prescribed term of thirty-eight years' service as an officer of her Majesty's Indian Army, and has retired from it, and from the office of public instruction, which he has held for the past five years. In the long and honourable roll of Indian public servants there are, no doubt, many who have done more brilliant work, and won for themselves a more distinguished name, but there is no one, we venture to say, who has ever more diligently or conscientiously discharged the duties of the various offices he has held. Most men who have lived laborious and useful lives in India have as much regret as gladness when the end comes and they must put off the familiar harness; but Col. Macdonald, at the close of his day's work, may look back with satisfaction, if not pride, to the career which he has run. No one could possibly have been more painstaking, scrupulous, and thorough, and he has been animated, we believe, by a sincere regard for the welfare of the people. The Department of Education, in which a considerable portion of his services has been spent, is one that contributes as largely as any to the furtherance of India's best interests, and Col. Macdonald, for that as well as other reasons, found in it congenial work. To him, therefore, the high honour belongs of pursuing a disinterested and philanthropic aim by the most unwearied and painstaking labour. The people of this Presidency for whom he has worked owe him a debt of gratitude, and the Government whom he has served cordial thanks as a faithful servant and representative of the right stamp. It is men like Col. Macdonald who make the English name and the English rule respected in the land. A meeting has been held by some of the leading Hindu gentlemen of Madras to determine if the public services of Colonel Macdonald in the cause of education, now that he is to retire from the service, could be suitably recognised by the community. It was decided to hold a public meeting of the Hindu and Mahomedan communities of the city to further the object in view.—Madras Times.

THE OPIUM ACT IN MADRAS.—In exercise of the powers conferred by the Opium Act I., of 1878, the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the said Act shall come into force in the territories administered by the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council on the first day of July, 1880. In exercise of the powers conferred by Section 6 of the Opium Act I., of 1878, the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that duty at the rate of Rs.700 shall be levied on each chest of Malwa opium of 140lb. avoirdupois net weight imported into the Madras Presidency.—Gazette of India.

IRRIGATION UNDER THE GODAVERY.—The following is a memorandum by the Chief Engineer for Irrigation on a statement submitted by Mr. G. I. Walch, superintendent of works, Godavery, showing the approximate areas of lands irrigated by the canals of the Godavery Delta in fasli 1289 (1879-80) and the areas for the preceding year as shown by the Irrigation Department registers. It will be seen that the areas for the whole delta, including wet and dry crops, irrigated in 1879-80 were 560,591 acres; irrigated in 1878-79 502,379 acres. Increase, 58,212 acres. The differences for the several sections of the delta were as follow:—

	Wet and dry crop. 1878-79.	Wet and dry crop. 1879-80.	Difference. Increase.
Eastern Delta	142,772	149,381	6,609
Central do.	96,882	99,609	2,727
Western do.	262,785	311,601	48,816

The Western Delta exhibits a marked increase, in the other sections of this delta being but slight. The increase in the central section would have been considerably greater if the new head sluices had been opened earlier. On the whole the result of the year's irrigation is very satisfactory. Under wet crop the only canals which show a decrease are:—Coconada canal, 60 acres; Amalapuram canal, 12,488 acres. The percentage of decrease being 0.15 and 4.37 respectively on the figures for the previous year. The decrease on the Coconada canal is so small as to be immaterial, while that under the Amalapuram canal is attributed to late supply of water and to partial loss of seed beds. The figures for the rest of the canals in the three sections of the delta exhibit a greater or less increase over those for the previous year. The abstract attached to the statement shows that except fasli 1288 (1878-79) all faslis from 1285 to 1289 show a progressive increase in the area of irrigation.—St. George's Gazette.

"THE UNCOVENANTED CIVIL SERVICE ADVOCATE."—We observe that a journal under the above title is shortly to be published in Madras. Its object is to advocate the rights and claims of that large body of Government servants who are comprehended in the name of the Uncovenanted Service.—Madras Times.

MISS E. I. POGSON, assistant to the Government astronomer at Madras, has been granted by the Secretary of State an extension of three months' leave on medical certificate.

MADRAS BANK.—The local Times announces that the secretary and treasurer, Mr. Frank, is about to visit England for the benefit of his health, and that Mr. Duffield is to act for him.

AN APPEAL FROM A RAMPA REBEL REJECTED.—A Rampa rebel, named Thatan Muttur, was convicted and sentenced by the Government agent of the Godavery District to transportation for life for waging war against her Majesty the Queen. Against this sentence the prisoner appealed to the High Court, but their lordships, after a minute investigation of the proceedings, have confirmed the sentence passed on him.—Times of India.

APOPLEXY.—A Kador correspondent, in a letter dated June 5, says:—"A Wynaad planter by the name of Darling came here a short time ago to settle some affairs of his mother's in connection with the Heracully Coffee Estate; but one morning he was found dead in bed without a friend or relative near to give a helping hand. The medical officer pronounced him to have died of apoplexy."—Bangalore Examiner.

HIS GRACE THE GOVERNOR.—An Ooty correspondent writes, under date June 18:—"A rumour has been circulated during the last few days to the effect that the Ooty season will be brought to an untimely end by the departure of Government for the plains not later than August. Better informed people, however, are confident that it is but a rumour, and that his Grace will stay here until the middle of October, just leaving time for a State ball to be given at Madras, and for the enormous amount of packing which will have to be got through prior to embarkation. His Grace's five years' tenure of office will close on the 23rd November, 1880. He has been a warm friend to some during his tenure of office, and has been severe on others. He is stern in all official matters, and requires 'every man to do his duty.'—Madras Mail.

BOMBAY.

THE BRAHUI CHIEF OF THE BOLAN.—Quetta is to be connected by telegraph with Sibi via Hurnai and Kach. Orders have already been given for the construction of the line from the Quetta end, and as the line is complete as far as Hurnai through communication should soon be established. General Phayre's last new road is making rapid progress; it is to be twenty-three miles in length, available for wheel traffic, and is to extend from Kach, his new headquarter station, to Quetta. Allah Deen, the Brahui chief of the Bolan, has been paying a visit to Sir R. Sandeman, nominally one of ceremony, but really to inquire if the opening of the Hurnai route will make any difference to his profits as custodian of the Bolan Pass. The old chief is not prepossessing in his appearance; he is now immensely fat, weighing certainly over twenty stone, his hair and whiskers are dyed of the brightest indigo, and his face displays the qualities of avarice and cunning for which he is noted. Like all border chiefs here he has taken part in many scenes of strife and border warfare, of which his body bears the marks. His back, which he is fond of showing, is most fearfully scarred, resembling the crackling on roast pork. The old man is now past the years of active warfare, but he is surrounded by a goodly number of powerful sons, who, as long as their father is alive, will remain quiet and support him, but as soon as he is dead will probably cut one another's throats in the struggle for supremacy.—Bombay Gazette.

HOUSE ASSESSMENT.—It seems that during the present revision of assessment of houses in Bombay thousands of properties that had hitherto escaped their fair and proper assessments have been discovered, particularly in the Mandvie and Bhooleshwur wards, two of the richest districts in the city. The discovery will doubtless add a considerable sum to the revenues of the municipality.—Ibid.

THE RUBATTINO STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.—In place of the late lamented Mr. Charles Grondona, Signor Francisco Bozzoni has been appointed the Bombay agent of the Rubattino Steam Navigation Company as well as Italian consul at Bombay. Mr. Bozzoni was some time ago in the employ of the company as commander of the steamship Australia, which was wrecked near Leghorn in April, 1879. On leaving the company's service he proceeded to Australia to seek his fortune among the goldfields there, and, as accident would have it, returned to Rome only two days before the intelligence of the death of Mr. Grondona reached that city. The appointment of agent was at once offered to and accepted by him, and he was also appointed Italian consul.—Ibid.

THE FOREST LAWS.—Native Opinion brings to the notice of Sir James Fergusson the oppression which it alleges is exercised in the name of the Forest Laws. One fact mentioned may be reproduced. A few years ago we are told "very large herds of cattle could be seen in the country, particularly in the jungle districts. But now not only has the household stock of cattle diminished, but those large herds which were reared for purposes of sale by Banjaras and other wandering tribes have very greatly decreased. These people used to purchase cattle at a very low price in Northern India, fatten them in the Ghat districts of this presidency during the months of June, July, August, and September, and then wander about the country for the purposes of sale. But the obstructiveness of the Forest Laws has ruined a trade which supplied cattle to agriculturists at very low prices. Cattle are not allowed to graze in the forests; consequently the grass grows there tall and thick. This the Government sells on condition that those who purchase it cut it and take it away themselves. Those people in the jungle districts who used to maintain small stocks of cattle before find it impossible to do it under the present system. Formerly a herd of twenty or thirty cattle could be maintained at a monthly expense of three or four rupees. The maintaining of a cowherd and the fencing in of cattle during night time was all that was necessary. Now the grass has to be purchased, cut and made into bundles, and then taken to the cattle in the village instead of taking cattle to the grass in the jungle. The labour incurred in cutting and carrying grass to the village consumes all the profit formerly derived from the rearing up of small stocks, and hence these have now been entirely given up. The monthly expenses of maintaining a stock of from twenty to thirty cattle comes now to as many rupees, and hence the industry or trade which used indirectly to assist agriculture and largely to add to the food resources of the country has now dwindled to the lowest pitch."—Times of India.

THE PARELL EXPLOSION.—Samuel Freeborough, the engineer, of the Parell mill, charged with committing a rash and negligent act, by which the death of two persons was caused, has been let off on paying a fine of Rs.500.—Times of India.

GOLF.—The Blackbeath Challenge Gold Medal was played for on the mornings of the 22nd and 23rd instant. Five couples of the members who had entered for the competition put in an appearance. The links were in first-rate order, and the medal was consequently won with a brilliant score by Arthur. On the first day the early risers had a pull over two lazy ones, a heavy shower fell before they could finish their round, and they were much sympathised with while holing the last three holes in order to enable them to "hole out." The following were the best scores:—

Moultrie	58	56	=	114
Oliver	55	60	=	115

The final competition for this medal will come off in December, when the various members who have held it will play for its final possession. There will be a keen competition to secure it, as it is a very handsome one.—Times of India.

THE S.S. "KING ARTHUR."—The Bombay and Persian Steam Navigation Company's s.s. King Arthur went ashore near Lingah, but was got off without sustaining any injury.—Times of India.

CAPT. H. J. B. HARGRAVE, of the B.B. and C.I.R.V. Corps, has, with the approval of the Government of India, been appointed to act as commandant of that corps during the absence on leave to England of Major H. F. Whyte.

COL. C. M. GOVAN, commanding the Royal Artillery at Kirkee, has been appointed to the brigade staff temporarily, with the rank of brigadier general whilst so employed, vice Brigadier General Bray, C.B., who retires on half pay.

DR. M'DONALD'S name has been added to the teaching staff of the Grant Medical College, as professor of practical histology and physiology. The summer session will finish on the 15th of September.

DR. HENRY COOK has been appointed by Government a member of the municipal corporation and a member of the town council. Colonel Ponsonby Cox has been appointed a member of the corporation. Colonel Cox has been appointed to act as a justice of the peace.

THE PUNA FINE ARTS EXHIBITION.—This exhibition will open on or about Sept. 20. As this is the representative Art Exhibition of the Bombay Presidency we hope it will be a success. We hear that a large number of pictures have already been promised from other Presidencies as well as from our own.—Times of India.

MAHOMEDANS.—A meeting of influential Mahomedan gentlemen was held on Monday at the residence of Mr. Mahomed Ali Rogay for the purpose of considering what steps should be taken for the furtherance of Mahomedan education in Bombay. Mr. Cumrooden Tyebjee occupied the chair. The principal result of the meeting was the appointment of committees to collect subscriptions for the object in view from the several jumats.—Ibid.

H.M.S. "RUBY."—H.M.S. Ruby, 2,100 tons, twelve guns, Captain R. M. Molyneux, arrived in Bombay harbour on June 19 from Zanzibar. She left Cape St. Andrew, on the north west coast of Madagascar, for Zanzibar on June 1, arrived at Zanzibar on the 4th, and left on the 7th for Bombay. She will remain in Bombay for a short time to pay off and recommission. The Ruby will, after being recommissioned, sail for Zanzibar. During a part of the voyage she experienced moderately strong south west monsoon.—Ibid.

THE UNIVERSITY.—Several university appointments have been gazetted. Mr. G. W. Forrest again becomes professor of English literature in the Deccan College, Mr. Govind Vithal Kurkaray taking his place as professor of mathematics in the same college; and Mr. Nanhabbai Haridas, Government pleader, acts as professor of law in the Government Law School during the absence on leave of Mr. Webb.

CEYLON.

WE take the following items from the Ceylon Times of June 21:—

THE WEATHER.—The weather continues unseasonably fine and dry; rain is much needed in the low country, where grain crops are feeling the effects of the continued dry weather.

LIBEL CASES.—The events of the week have been the decisions pronounced by the judge of our district court in the cases instituted against A. M. and J. Ferguson, proprietors and editors of the Observer newspaper by a M. Montclar, for gross and slanderous libel; and by one N. Gould a Jaffna Tamil, also for libel. More interest attaches to the Observer than would otherwise have been the case from the fact that the senior defendant has been nominated as commissioner for Ceylon to the Melbourne Exhibition. The opinion is that, had the revelations made at this trial come out sooner, the selection of a commissioner would have been different.

MILITARY MOVEMENTS.—One officer, thirty-seven N.C.O., and rank and file, two women and four children arrived on the 15th inst., per B.I. steamer Himalaya from Galle. The B.I. steamer Chindwarra, which left this port for Galle on Tuesday, takes one officer, thirty-nine N.C.O., and rank and file, one woman and two children.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.—Last Saturday's Gazette notifies that Mr. C. D. Vigors is to be extra assistant, at Puttalam, to the Government agent for the North Western Province. Mr. P. D'M. Ondaatje to be acting district judge, commissioner of requests, police magistrate, and coroner for the district of Kurunegala, during the absence of Mr. J. H. De Saram, from the station from the 29th inst. Mr. P. D'M. Ondaatje to be acting registrar of lands, Kurunegala, from the 29th inst. to the 10th proximo. The assistant colonial surgeon, Anuradhapura, to be a member of the Board of Health for the North Central Province.

SESSIONAL PAPERS FOR 1879.—We have to acknowledge the receipt from the Colonial Secretary's office of one of the bulkiest volumes of sessions papers yet produced. That our readers may judge of its contents we give a list of the various papers:—Proceedings of Council; Irregularities in Transport; Hospitals; Colombo Harbour Works; Colonial Store Commission Report; Estates Medical Wants; Police Return; Pearl Fishery; Experiments in Cultivation; Kandy Waterworks; Pearl Oyster Bank; Ancient Inscriptions; Coffee Leaf Disease; Shipping Returns; Colombo Harbour Works, 2; Colombo Tonnage; Sanitary Precautions (Colombo); Forests; Railway Construction Fund; Railway Extension towards Badulla; Administration of Justice Code; Prisons and Hospitals; Lepidoptera of Ceylon; Administration of Justice; Estates Medical Wants, 2; Temple Libraries; Railway Extension towards Badulla, 2; Surplus Revenue; Colombo Wharf Premises; Distraint for non-payment of Tithe; Military Contributions; Colombo Harbour Works, 3; Minor Roads; Colombo Water Supply; Irrigation; Coffee Leaf Disease, 2; Island Telegraph; Coffee Stealing; Village Tribunals; Colombo Harbour Works, 4; Irrigation; Ordinance 10 of 1869; Unclaimed Balances; Supply 1880; Railway Harbour and Municipal Returns; Grain Tax; Railway Bridges; Colonial Store Commission Report, 2; Colombo Harbour Works, 5; Colombo Waterworks; Railway Extension towards Badulla; Colombo Waterworks; Customs Tariff; Supplementary Supply, 1879; Unexpended Votes; Railway Freight on Cocoanuts; Distress in Batticaloa; Cash Balances; Railway Construction; Grain Settlement Untugaha-Pattu, Syané-Korale; Wharf and Warehouse Company, 2; Vernacular School Books; Financial Statements; Grain Tax, 2; Colombo Harbour Works, 6; Coffee Stealing; Deaths in Samarturai, Batticaloa, and District Hospitals.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1880.

MR. O'DONNELL AND BEHAR.

In a letter received from an able Indian correspondent by the last mail we read the following:—"At heart we are Conservatives, and if the party we are most interested in would only feel for us and endeavour to benefit us we should rejoice more over their being in power than in the existence of Liberal supremacy, but, with a consciousness that the few Englishmen who do take any interest in India's prosperity are Liberals, I am sorry, being a Conservative myself, to say that India, if she leans one way more than another, just at present inclines to the Liberals, not because she approves of their general policy, but because she anticipates more benefit from their innings." The opinions forcibly expressed by the writer touch, in some points, the views put forward by Mr. O'Donnell, with a difference, and that a mighty one. The latter, in his vigorous pamphlet, entitled "A Ruined Province," displays the most fervent conviction that no good thing for India or any other part of the Empire could come out of the Opposition. The calm weighing of one party in English politics against another, and appreciating their value by their raising or depressing the Indian exchanges, their pleasing or displeasing the Anglo-Indians or the natives, which characterises the one, is utterly absent from the other. Yet Mr. O'Donnell, who has the hereditary courage of his opinions, and who, we must add, has the peculiar talent of attacking all when attacking one abuse, has not made a bad hit in challenging the attention of the Secretary of State for India to the condition of the ryots in Behar as attributable to the direct action of the zemindars and ticcadars. We elsewhere quote an announcement, which has authority behind it, that the result of Mr. O'Donnell's pamphlet has been an instruction to the Government of India to see to the matter. The author of the "Ruin of an Indian Province" cannot lose the opportunity of girding at the officials of the Bombay Presidency and charging them with the indebtedness of the Deccan ryots, any more than he can forego the opportunity of abusing Sir Richard Temple or belittling Dr. Hunter. He feels all the responsibility of one who "stands alone with a great cause and a propitious time," but "his humanity infirm upon him," misleads him into an unjust charge against the old Company's officials, for whom he manifestly bears a grudge, dating from early experience as a competition Wallah. The display of personal bitterness and political partisanship or intrusion of Irish grievances into Indian abuses, real or imaginary, makes his contribution to the enlightenment of the British Parliament and the Liberal statesmen lose as much in its importation as a rupee did a few years ago. At the same time, like that depreciated coin, there is an amount of sterling facts in his brochure which he deserves all credit for having brought together, and for having stated with boldness, even though marred, as it is, by polemic acrimony. He brings forward the successive testimonies "supplied by commissioners and district magistrates, and repeated even in the resolutions and minutes of successive lieutenant governors." These form the valuable staple of his allegations, not that we would disparage the results of his own official experience. He has, to use his own words, spent most of his service in this garden of India, and has devoted himself to painstaking investigation of the condition of the millions of population among whom he has been employed during six years, of which he summarises his observations. But the result so far attained is, prima facie, warranted by the evidence of others, on which he mainly relies. Sir Stuart Bayley, as commissioner of the Patna Division, has declared that the traditional oppression ever used towards the ryots is really of the most grinding nature in many parts, and further quoted the reports of the subdivisional officers as denouncing the oppression habitually exercised by the zemindar towards the poorer classes of ryot. The collector of Sarun says:—"The zemindars, wherever they have, a substantial share in a village, are, as a rule, oppressive, and on the estates of many of the larger zemindars perhaps the least consideration for the tenantry is shown. Sir George Campbell declared that nowhere had "the rents of a peaceable, industrious, and submissive population been more screwed up than in Bhagalpur." Mr. O'Donnell goes out of his way to attack the late Governor of Bombay, apparently for not continuing long enough in office in Bengal to accomplish or attempt any reforms, while adducing his evidence as to the low condition of the peasantry of Behar and the system of rack-renting prevalent in some parts of the division. Sir Ashley Eden, soon after he assumed the direction of public affairs, described the majority of the zemindars in Tirhoot as grasping and oppressive, and declared in a Government resolution that "there can be no doubt whatever that the combined influence of zemindars and ticcadars (land speculators) has ground down the ryots of Behar to a state of extreme depression and misery." In November of that year the Lieutenant Governor addressed a speech to the nobles and zemindars in which he said—"It seems to me that the time has come when Government must come forward and endeavour to take substantive measures for ameliorating the condition of the Behar peasantry." The fact that the enhancements of rent, which are quoted from Calcutta journals, and which are not to be gainsaid in their substantial truth, were not for the benefit of the Government, nor added to the land revenue, is not, however, so prominently brought forward as the attacks on the management of the estates of Durbhunga and Hutwa during the minority of their respective rajas. The native landowners, the Court of

Wards, and the indigo-planters are indiscriminately charged with causing and maintaining the state of things which Mr. O'Donnell describes. It is, in fact, pressed by him rather as attributable to the two latter objects of his especial indignation than to the disregard of the duties which belong to Behar rajas or zemindars as well as to the landlords of English or Irish estates. Mr. O'Donnell would have made his case much stronger had he not made a sweeping charge of nefarious injustice against the indigo planters, of whom he says—"The most influential body of non-official Europeans in India lives and grows rich on this most evil land system, and, acting through their official relatives, they have successfully resisted every attempt at reform." The great landlords are apologised for as being in a way themselves the victims of the incredibly bad land system of Behar. It would have been better had Mr. O'Donnell controlled his congenital antipathy to landowners and his acquired hostility to indigo planters, and in a more moderate spirit followed the lines of the letters written by Sir Ashley Eden and quoted by himself. To characterise the indigo planters as a class bent only on speedily enriching themselves by the ruin of the cultivators simply awakens the hostility of men who would be inclined to co-operate in reforms that were conceived in the spirit of Sir Ashley Eden's words. "I have every wish to see the cultivation of indigo, in Behar, maintained and protected." Mrs. Elliot James is as ardent an advocate for the Behar ryot as anyone can be, and in her recently published Indian "Industries" she quotes with approval Mr. Inglis's prediction that if intelligent cultivation, conducted on scientific principles, be adopted, all classes, planter and ryot alike, will be benefited. There is room for reform, and remedies are to be found for crying evils without proposing to annihilate a valuable industry or upset the settled rights of landowners. A Behar Landlord's Disturbance Bill and an indigo war might probably commend themselves to a few, but are scarcely to be looked for even although the forcible appeal of Mr. O'Donnell has not been disregarded by the Liberal Secretary of State for India.

NATIVE CIVIL SERVANTS.

THE following notification appears in the Gazette of India:—"Rules regarding the rank and allowances of natives of India appointed to offices in her Majesty's civil service of India in accordance with the rules framed under Act 33 Vic., cap. 3. (a) A native civil servant is a member of the covenanted civil service in the presidency to which he belongs, and ordinarily ranks in that service, according to the date of his appointment to an office in the covenanted civil service, his name being entered in the civil list accordingly. (b) But if an officer is appointed to an office in the covenanted civil service upon the ground of his proved merit and ability, or professional attainments, the Governor General in Council may, upon the recommendation of the local Government, assign to him superior rank in the service. The pay of an office, when held by a native civil servant, shall be, as nearly as convenient, two-thirds of what it would be if the office were held by a covenanted civil servant appointed in England, less the subscription paid by such a servant on account of his annuity. (Note.—Thus the proportion of the pay of a native civil servant to the gross pay of a covenanted civil servant, appointed after competitive examination in England, will be, as nearly as convenient, 64 per cent.) The subsistence allowance of a native civil servant when out of employ is as follows:—To an officer who has rendered not more than eight years' active service as defined in section 1 (a) of Part II. of Supplement A of the Civil Pension Code, Rs.250; to an officer who has rendered more than eight, but less twelve years' such active service, Rs.320; to an officer who has rendered not less than twelve years' such active service, Rs.400; the rules for the pension and leave of a native civil servant are given as additions to the Civil Pension and Leave Codes.

Robson on May 27, 1880, the dates of promotion of the undermentioned officers are antedated as stated against their names:—Captain H. N. Jervois, to May 28, 1880; Captain E. F. Wodehouse, to May 29, 1880; Captain W. M'Cintock, to June 1, 1880 (from Seconded List); Captain E. C. Trollope, to June 19, 1880.

HOME NEWS.

MAJOR GENERAL THOMAS RAIKES, C.B., died on Saturday last in the fifty-ninth year of his age. Born in 1822, he entered the army in 1840, was promoted to a lieutenancy in 1845, and obtained a captaincy in 1854. He served with the 1st Madras Fusiliers in the Burmese war of 1852-53, including the relief of Pegu and subsequent operations in its vicinity, and commanded a detachment at the recapture of Beeling. He also served in the suppression of the mutiny in Bengal in 1857-58, and was present with General Havelock's column at the actions of Futtehpore, Aoung, Pandoo, and Cawnpore. He commanded a detachment under General Neill for the defence of Cawnpore during Havelock's first entry into Oudh, and was afterwards present at the actions of Bithoor, Mungarwar, and Alumbagh, the relief of Lucknow, and the defence of the Residency. He also took part in the occupation of Alumbagh under General Outram, and also in the capture of Lucknow. He was engaged in the campaign in Oudh in 1858, including the passage of the Goomtee at Sultanpore, and other minor affairs. He also commanded a field column of all arms from the 7th to the 22nd of October, 1858, and defeated the enemy at Shabpore. He was nominated a Companion of the Order of the Bath (Military Division) in 1869, and became major general in 1877.

ROYAL ASIATIC SOCIETY.—At the meeting on Monday, July 5.—Sir H. C. Rawlinson, K.C.B., F.R.S., president, in the chair—George Crawshaw, Esq., of Haughton Castle, was elected a resident, and Messrs. W. Rees Philipps and Ernest Satow were elected non-resident, members. Mr. E. L. Brandreth read the second part of a paper "On the Comparison between the Gaurian and the Romance Languages," the former name meaning the modern Sanskritic languages—Hindi, Bengali, &c.—and the main object of the paper was to show that there was a remarkable resemblance in the changes by which Sanskrit had become Gaurian, and Latin Romance. In the course of this paper Sindhi was compared with Italian and Hindi with French. The first part of the paper (published, Vol. xi, Article 12 of the society's Journal) dealt with Shonology, and showed that the letter changes in the two groups were nearly identical. In Part II. it was further shown that the neuter gender had generally disappeared, and that the final S or M had usually gone too. The plural, in both groups, was still distinguished by flexion. The loss of case-endings was supplied by particles—in Gaurian, post positions—as generally derived from the locative case, whereas, in Romance, prepositions most frequently became case-particles. Diminutive forms prevailed extensively; adjectives were declined like substantives; the personal pronouns preserved an oblique case; while, in the numerals, the ordinals appear in all the languages to be derived directly from the Sanskrit and the Latin. The only original tenses preserved in both groups are the present, indicative, and the imperative, the remaining tenses being periphrastic formations. The paper concluded with a brief examination of the syntax.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The whole of the Rs.30,00,000 tendered for on Wednesday at the Bank of England were allotted to Calcutta, at an average rate of 18.8.125d. Tenders at 18.8½d. will receive about 24 per cent. This price compares with 18.8.3-16d. last week, when applicants received 17½ per cent. Next Wednesday Rs.30,00,000 will again be offered.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE NATIVES OF INDIA.—Mr. W. H. James is about to present to the House of Commons a petition from numerous native inhabitants of Calcutta who, "having hailed with delight the accession of the Liberal party to power," desire to lay before the House certain grievances which press upon the people of India. The petitioners pray for the repeal of the Vernacular Press Act and of the Arms Act, and for an equitable apportionment of the cost of the Afghan war between England and India, and they also ask that the maximum limit of age for admission to the open competitive examination for the Civil Service of India be raised to 22 years, and that a definite proportion of the appointments may be competed for in India.

SOUTH EAST WYNAAD ESTATES AND GOLD MINING COMPANY.—An extraordinary meeting of this company was held at the Cannon-street Hotel on Wednesday for the purpose of considering a proposal for the division of the shares into 100,000 shares of £1 each, and for other purposes. Mr. H. Palmer Stone, the chairman of the company, who presided, said that since the last meeting the directors had been frequently applied to with reference to the question of altering the value of the shares from £2 paid to £1. An appeal to the shareholders resulted in 34,547 being in favour of the scheme against 1,191 against it, and the directors therefore determined to call the present meeting. He then formally moved a resolution to subdivide the existing 50,000 shares of the company of £2 each into 100,000 shares of £1 each, and to make the necessary consequential alterations in the articles of association. This having been seconded by Mr. Bladon and carried unanimously, the chairman said that no doubt the shareholders would be pleased to know that the properties had all been transferred, the whole of the purchase money paid, and the company was in actual possession. A report from Mr. Dawson, the manager, and Mr. Pegler, the engineer, had been published in the Financier of July 6, and the directors considered it highly satisfactory. On the Bolingbroke estate the company had become possessors of an area of over 1,000 acres, with fine reefs, abundance of timber, and plenty of water. The Government survey had been completed, and they hoped very shortly to have the plans—those of Needlerock, Richmond, Elizabeth, and Downham they had already. That gave an estate of about 2,300 or 2,400 acres, which was large enough for all practical purposes; 32,000 cinchona trees had already been planted, being 1,200 more than had been estimated originally. The last letter from Mr. Pegler stated that on Bolingbroke there were some magnificent outcrops of quartz in situ, and he anticipated the veins would prove of great strength. Since then a telegram from the same gentleman stated that on opening out at Bolingbroke the indications were most promising, some very rich quartz having been broken. The Cornish miners were very much liked, and Mr. Dawson approved of the selection of the men, from the captain downwards. Mr. Pegler and Captain Roberts were, in spite of the monsoon, actively engaged in surveying the reefs and getting them opened out, so as to have all ready for erecting machinery. It was intended to work Bolingbroke and Needlerock together, and Richmond, Elizabeth, and Downham would be treated as one estate and worked independently. The board still entertained the same favourable opinion of the prospects of the company, and would do their utmost to work it thoroughly and honestly. The following telegram had been received on Tuesday from Mr. Pegler:—"Opening out at Richmond, exposed two fine quartz reefs, turning out very rich, over half-an-ounce of gold per ton of quartz. Needlerock and Bolingbroke discovered small quartz reefs, visible gold—reef turning out very rich, over an ounce to a ton quartz." In reply to a question, the chairman said that the company was too young at present to declare a dividend, although the funds in hand might possibly admit of it. A vote of thanks to the chairman was then passed unanimously and the meeting terminated.

THE WYNAAD GOLD MINES.—In the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, on Thursday, the case of Harris v. Fleming was before Sir C. Hall. This was an action seeking for a declaration that under an alleged agreement for partnership made between the plaintiff, Mr. Hamilton Morton, and the late firm of W. Nicol and Company, of Bombay, the plaintiff became entitled to one-third of the profits arising from the acquisition of the Seeputee estate and other properties in the Wynaad district of South India, and for accounts against the defendants on that footing. The plaintiff also sought for an injunction to restrain the defendants from carrying into effect an agreement made in April of last year whereby Mr. R. P. Harding, acting for the trustees of the firms of Smith, Fleming, and Co. and W. Nicol and Co., agreed to sell to the Indian Gold Mines Company (Limited) the properties in question, unless such agreement was carried out upon the footing that the plaintiff was entitled to one-third of the profits arising from such properties. The present application was for the appointment of a special examiner to take at Bombay the evidence of two of the defendants, Messrs. John Fleming and Hamilton Maxwell, or that a writ in the nature of a mandamus might issue to the chief judge of the High Court at Bombay for the examination and cross-examination of those defendants, and that the trial of the action might be postponed until the return of the depositions or of the writ. Mr. W. Pearson, Q.C., and Mr. Everitt appeared in support of the application; Mr. Graham Hastings, Q.C., Mr. F. C. J. Miller, Q.C., and Mr. Warrington appeared for the plaintiff to resist the motion. Mr. Cracknall also appeared. His Lordship refused the application, with costs, on the ground that the evidence adduced in support thereof did not satisfactorily show that it was not the intention of Messrs. Fleming and Maxwell to be present at the trial of the action.

THE MAHARAJA RAMANATH TAGORE.—A meeting of the committee charged with the duty of providing a statue of the Maharaja Ramanath Tagore was held on Wednesday at Mr. Geflow's studio. The gentlemen present were:—Lord Northbrook, Sir Henry Norman, Mr. Arthur Grote, and Mr. John Dacosta. Mr. Geflow's work was warmly approved by the committee. The statue, which is in white marble, is said to be an excellent likeness. It is intended for the Town-hall of Calcutta, and will be shipped within the next eight or ten days.—Daily News.

MYSOR GOLD MINING COMPANY.—The letters of allotment and regret will be issued early next week.

105TH FOOT.—Major Alexander Davidson, late paymaster of the regiment, died on the 28th June at Masbro-road, Brook-green, Hammersmith, aged seventy-three. The deceased served for many years in the Madras Army, and was promoted to a commission in July, 1836. He was for some time riding master of the 5th Madras Light Cavalry, and was attached as a lieutenant to the Madras Invalid Establishment. In August, 1862, he received the appointment of paymaster to the 105th, which he served in India, at Aden, and on home stations until the spring of the present year.—Naval and Military Gazette.

FOREIGN-OFFICE, JULY 13.—The Queen has been pleased to approve Mr. Ajax Karavias as consul at Larnaca for his Majesty the King of the Hellenes; Mr. Carl Albert Barckhausen as consul for British Burma, to reside at Rangoon, for his Majesty the King of Sweden and Norway; and Mr. Elias Basileiades as vice-consul at Limasol for his Majesty the King of the Hellenes.

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY COMPANY.—A special general meeting was held yesterday at the City Terminus Hotel to declare a dividend out of surplus profits in respect of the half-year ended on Dec. 31 last. Mr. R. W. Crawford, the chairman, presided, and stated that the report, which had been sent to the proprietors on the closed register of Nov. 1, entered fully into the circumstances in which the meeting had been called. The meeting must be held in July, and they stated how it had been found impossible to present them with the usual accounts of the working of the railway for the December half of last year. He was glad to say that matters in discussion between the Secretary of State and themselves were taking a favourable course and were likely to be brought to a termination very soon. The meeting was called to ask them to agree by anticipation in the division of the surplus profits and separate assets, and no one could possibly be damaged by that course being taken, because the resolution they submitted would direct them to distribute everything. If the views upon which they had been considering the matters of difference with the Secretary of State were substantially carried out, and the exchange was not very unfavourable, he thought that they might get from 10s. upwards, and then the affairs of the company under the old state of things would be entirely at an end. He moved the resolution in the report for distributing the surplus profits and the balance of the separate assets. Mr. Lyall seconded the motion, and, in reply to questions, the chairman stated that the report they would issue to the shareholders had been got ready as far as it was possible, but the accounts had to be kept open that they might introduce into them the results of the negotiations going on between themselves and the Secretary of State. When that was done and the accounts were audited the report would be issued, and as soon as the warrants could be prepared they would be sent out. That might be a week or ten days after the report was settled.

THE INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—The council of this society have made the following awards to the authors of some of the papers read and discussed at the ordinary meetings during the past session. Telford medals and Telford premiums to Edwin Arthur Bernays, for "Portland Cement Concrete and some of its Applications;" Harry Edward Jones, for "Purification of Gas;" and John James Webster, for "Iron and Steel at Low Temperatures." Also Telford premiums to Frederick Augustus Abel, C.B., F.R.S., for "Explosive Agents applied to Industrial Purposes;" and John Grant, for "Portland Cement: Its Nature, Tests, and Uses." It may be mentioned that Professor Abel and Mr. Grant have previously received Telford medals. Telford premiums have likewise been adjudged to Major-General Henry Young Darracott Scott, C.B., and Gilbert Richard Redgrave for "The Manufacture and Testing of Portland Cement," and to Charles John Wood, for "Tunnel Outlets from Storage Reservoirs;" and William Henry Delano, for "The Use of Asphalte and Mineral Bitumen in Engineering." The Manby premium has been bestowed upon "The Main Drainage of Torquay." For papers printed in the Proceedings without being discussed, Telford medals and Telford premiums have been awarded to Benjamin Baker, for "The River Nile," "Cleopatra's Needle," and "The Practical Strength of Beams;" and to Joseph Lucas, for "The Hydrogeology of the Lower Greensands of Surrey and Hampshire;" while Telford premiums have been given to Harco Siccama, for "The Delta of the Rhine and the Meuse in the Netherlands;" Joseph Miller Wilson, for "Description of a Bridge over the Monongahela River at Port Perry, Pennsylvania;" Frederick Eliot Duckham, for "The Thames Steam Ferry between Wapping and Rotherhithe;" and George Moyle, for "The Platelaying of the Jacobabad or Broad-gauge Section of the Candahar Railway." In addition to the ordinary meetings there are now supplemental meetings for the reading and discussion of papers exclusively by students of the institution. Some of these communications have been rewarded as follows:—The Miller Scholarship (£40 annually for three years), to Henry Selby Hele Shaw, for "Small Motive Power," and Miller prizes to John Augustus Thompson, for "Description of a Light Draught Steel Paddle Steamer;" Hans Dittler Fabricius, jun., for "Calais Harbour Improvements;" Horace Allen, for "The Manufacture of Bessemer Steel Rails;" and Lindsay Burnet, for "Dredging Appliances."

BIRKBECK BUILDING SOCIETY.—The twenty-ninth annual meeting was held on July 8 in the theatre of the Birkbeck Literary Institution. The report presented to the meeting stated that the receipts for the year ending the 31st of March last were £5,709,932, and the total from the commencement of the society £49,794,824. The deposits reached the large sum of £5,132,924. The gross profits earned by the society amounted to £102,802, of which £86,586 have been appropriated to the payment of interest on shares and deposits, discount, and expenses of management, leaving a net profit of £16,216. The surplus funds amount at the present time to £1,966,296, of which £300,458 is invested in Consols, New Three per Cents., and Exchequer and Treasury bills, £219,275 in Metropolitan Board of Works and India stocks, £542,757 in colonial bonds, £76,693 in railway debentures, £125,145 in French Treasury bills, foreign railway obligations, bonds, &c., £306,109 in gas, water, and miscellaneous securities, £214,914 in freehold ground rents, while £180,943 is in cash. It is worthy of note that no portion of the funds appears to be invested in promissory notes, bills of exchange, or personal securities of any kind. The total liabilities of the society are £2,465,819, while the assets are £2,583,331, showing a net surplus of £117,512. Of this sum £50,000 is invested in Consols as a permanent guarantee fund, leaving £67,512 to be carried forward to await the next declaration of a bonus. The number of investors and depositors is 38,841, while the shares in existence number 38,812, on which £180,396 has been paid up.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, JULY 12.

TRAVELLERS FROM BRINDISI.

Mr. J. STEWART asked the Postmaster General whether passengers who had travelled from Brindisi with the Indian mails might not be allowed, carrying hand-baggage only, to cross from Calais to Dover with the mails on those occasions when a special steamboat was used.

Mr. FAWCETT said he had to state that these steamers were engaged by the Post-office solely with the object of hastening the arrival of the important Indian mails in London, and the House and the hon. member would see that it would be extremely inconvenient if, by the admission of passengers, any delay to the mails was caused. He had, however, thought that under certain conditions passengers might be admitted, and he would address communications to the railway authorities on the subject. He hoped the result of those communications would be the admission of passengers under certain conditions.

THE ORIENT AND PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL COMPANIES.

In answer to Mr. Baxter, Mr. FAWCETT said: The amount of postage for the conveyance of mails by the steamers of the Orient Company from this country to Australia during the first six months of the present year was £1,300. Of this sum £196 was paid to the Orient Company for the conveyance of these mails, leaving a profit to the Post-office of about £1,100. On the homeward mails the English Post-office does not receive any postage. The average time taken on the last seventeen voyages of the present year between Adelaide and Suez by the ships of the Peninsular and Oriental Company was thirty-one days seventeen hours, while by those of the Orient Company it was twenty-seven days twenty-one hours; but it is to be remembered that, while the ships of the Orient Company proceeded direct from Adelaide to Suez, the ships of the Peninsular and Oriental Company are by the terms of the contract unable to take a direct course between these points, because they are obliged to call at St. George's Sound, in Western Australia, and Point de Galle, where they meet the China mail. No complaint has reached the office from the Government of Bombay that the Peninsular and Oriental Company have carried out their contract in an "eminently unsatisfactory manner," nor have we any reason to believe that inferior ships are employed on the Bombay line to those employed on the line to Australia. With regard to the number of fines imposed on the vessels of the Peninsular and Oriental Company during the twelve years that the whole contract was in operation, I find that almost every vessel was subject to one or more fines. I have a list here of sixty vessels which were thus fined; one vessel was fined seventeen times, another sixteen, another fifteen, and six of the vessels in this list were only fined once. It should, however, be stated that vessels were fined for being overdue whatever was the state of the weather, unless the ship or its machinery was damaged. Of the sixty vessels which were fined twenty-six are at the present time employed by the Peninsular and Oriental Company in carrying out their contract for the conveyance of mails to India, China, and Australia.

LUNATICS FROM INDIA.

Sir H. WOLFF asked the Secretary of State for War whether the insane soldier's wife Levett, recently left chargeable at Portsmouth, was insane when she left India; whether she was landed at Portsmouth with her husband, who was sent to the depot of his regiment at Manchester, while she was turned adrift in the streets of Portsmouth; whether the insane boy Rumble was born in India (where his father was still living), and had been in an asylum in India for over two years and recommended for change of air; whether he was shipped on board one of her Majesty's troopships to England, and on his arrival taken by the Government authorities and left at the police-station at Portsmouth, and from that source became chargeable to the funds of the union; and whether the military authorities in India in this and other instances were justified in shipping off lunatics from that country and quartering them on the rates of Portsmouth.

Mr. CHILDERS had no information as to the condition of the wife of the soldier Levett when she left India. She did land with her husband, and on his being sent to his depot at Manchester she was not turned adrift but handed over to the police. The boy Rumble appears to have been born in India, where his father is still living. He was an inmate of some asylum in India, and was sent home on the report of the medical officer that "the climate of India was disastrous to his case." He was sent home in a troopship by the Indian authorities and handed over to the police on arrival. The highest legal stoppages had in these cases been made from the pay of the husband and father in favour of the union. He could not say whether the authorities in India were justified in taking the course followed in these cases, as he had no control over the military authorities in India. He, however, had suggested to the Secretary of State for India to make inquiries on the subject.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

PAUPER LUNATICS FROM INDIA.

Sir H. WOLFF asked the Secretary of State for India whether an undertaking had not been given by the India-office for the partial support of pauper lunatics brought from India and left chargeable in this country on the rates of the port of landing in Essex; and whether a similar arrangement could be made for lunatics brought from India and left chargeable at Portsmouth.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON was understood to say that there had been some inconsistency in the practice of the India-office in regard to this matter—at one time paying the cost of pauper lunatics from India, and at another time declining to become responsible for the charge. He had received a letter on the subject from his right hon. friend the Secretary of State for War, which would receive his best consideration; but he was inclined to agree with what his right hon. friend stated the other evening, that, considering the great advantages which Portsmouth derived from the Government establishments there, it was not unfair that the local rates should become liable to a considerable portion of the expenses of these lunatics.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

In answer to a question of Mr. J. K. Cross as to the cost of the Afghan war, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said: Although one or two questions on this subject have been answered by my right hon. friend at the head of the Government at an earlier period of the session the Government has been unwilling hitherto to make any definite statement upon this important question until we have in our possession something like an approximate estimate of the cost of the war, and until we can form an opinion based on evidence as to the present financial condition of India. It now appears quite certain that the estimated cost of the war, even if we are able, as we hope we may be, to bring the military operations to a close next September, will be enormously exceeded, and that fact confirms rather than weakens an opinion which was formed by my right hon. friend at the head of the Government and other members of the Administration, when they were in opposition, that the whole cost of this war ought not to be borne by India. The opinion of the Government, therefore, is that, to use the words of my right hon. friend, I think, in the early part of this year, a solid and substantial sum ought to be borne by this country. At the same time the Government of India appears to be of opinion—upon this point I wish to speak with very considerable reserve—that the general financial position of India is not an unsatisfactory one; at all events, that there is nothing which has been discovered in the estimates which will justify any alarm or render necessary any immediate measures of relief. In these circumstances the Government think it will be best to postpone the definite proposition they will have to make in order to carry out the intentions I have just announced until they have before them, not only the estimates, but all the facts, and until they are able to decide, after full consideration, upon the manner in which, with most advantage to India, relief may be granted.

In answer to Mr. D. Onslow, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said he imagined that the question as to this country bearing part of the cost of the Afghan war, and any other kindred subject, might be discussed when the Indian Budget was before the House.

In answer to Sir G. Campbell, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said it was the fact that the Home Government had been obliged to inform the Indian Government that it was necessary to diminish their drawings. He thought, however, he should postpone any statement on that subject until the Indian Budget came before the House.

LOSS OF THE DUKE OF LANCASTER.

LLOYD'S agent at Aden telegraphed on the 14th inst. that the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Sumatra had reported the loss of the Ducal Line steamer Duke of Lancaster on the reefs near Yebel Zorghar. The particulars are thus given by a Liverpool correspondent, who says:—"The Duke of Lancaster left Calcutta on June 20, bound for London, with a number of passengers and a full cargo of tea, indigo, cotton, and other valuable East Indian produce. She proceeded safely upon her voyage until the 13th inst., when about one o'clock in the morning she went aground upon what was afterwards discovered to be a sunken rock near the Island of Yebel Zorghar, which lies in the Red Sea, about ten miles' sail from Perim. The Duke of Lancaster struck with considerable force, but was nevertheless backed off, when she partially sank, her stern being reported to lie in about a fathom and a half of water, while at the bow there was a depth of no less than seven and a half fathoms. The passengers and crew were all rescued by the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Australia, which conveyed them to Aden, where they were landed. There are no hopes of the steamer being got off, while the likelihood of saving any of the cargo is problematical. A very heavy loss will fall upon the underwriters, as the value of the ship, freight, and cargo is reckoned at not less than a quarter of a million sterling. The insurances were effected principally with Liverpool, London, and Glasgow offices. The Duke of Lancaster was built at Barrow in 1874 by the Barrow Steamship Building Company, and was of the highest class, both in Lloyd's and in the Liverpool Red Book. Her gross-tonnage was 3,010 tons, and her engines were of 500 horse-power." A further telegram from Lloyd's agent at Aden, dated Wednesday evening, reports that the above-mentioned steamer had on board the following valuable cargo:—About 2,000 tons of wheat, 350 coffee, cinnamon, and cinchona, 100 tea, 100 hides, 2,000 bales of cotton, and 500 skins. The telegram further states that the greater part of the cargo will be saved if the ship is not likely to break up. One diving apparatus, with buggles and Arab drivers, can be procured at Aden from Hodeida. Nothing saved. The captain, with apparatus, sailed for the wreck in the Philomel at 9 p.m., to recover baggage and cargo. May possibly be saved. Boats and divers are expected from Hodeida. Another report states that the Duke of Lancaster lies on the east side of the island in lat. 14 deg. She has three holes in her bottom and is lying on a rocky shore. The captain, with Greek divers, has left Aden. At present 150 tons coffee (dry) have been landed on the beach.

CASUALTIES.

There is some apprehension felt that an accident of some kind has happened to the Queen Line steamer Queen Victoria, which left Calcutta on June 11 for London. She was due at Suez about ten or twelve days ago, but had not arrived there up to 4.45 p.m. yesterday. She is an iron screw of 2,133 tons gross, built at Sunderland in 1872, classed 100 A1, and is owned by the Queen Steamship Company, of Hope-street, Glasgow. Her cargo consists of wheat, linseed, tea, hides, and hemp.

The George Skolfield, from London for Bombay, has returned to Gravesend with loss of topgallant-mast.

The Colombo, from Bassein, jettisoned about 170 tons of cargo while ashore on the Goodwin.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manila, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was

CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st Dec., 1884.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July, 1884.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1ld., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanied each bottle.

LAMPOUGH'S EFFERVESCENT PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators; also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1878, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates.

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a number of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

H. LAMPOUGH, Consulting Chemist, 113, HOLBORN, E.C.,

A RIDE TO KHIVA

BY CAPTAIN FRED. BURNABY,

Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 18:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cocker's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheikh, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five will never fade from my memory; and a friend of mine, who passed through the same district many months afterwards, informed me that my fame as a 'medicine man' had not died out, but that the marvellous cure was even then the theme of conversation in the bazaar."

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 3; Madras and Allahabad, July 1; Calcutta, June 30.

The following is the report on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending June 22:— Heavy rain fell during the week in British Burma, Bengal, and Assam; in parts of the two last-mentioned provinces some injury to the crops has resulted. In Madras, Mysor, and Coorg, the Central Provinces, and the North West Provinces and Oudh, the rain was more or less general, but in most places slight. In Bombay little rain fell, except at Kanara, where the fall was heavy; and in Berar and Hyderabad, Central India, Rajputana, and the Punjab there was also little or no rain. In parts of Madras, Bombay, Hyderabad, Central India, Rajputana, and the Punjab the want of rain is felt, and autumn sowings have been retarded. General prospects continue fairly good on the whole.

We have received the following telegrams from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, JULY 17.—St. John telegraphs from near Helmand, 16th, that loss and discomfiture of Kandahar mutineers are greater than first reported by him. Majority now dispersed to their homes owing to want of supplies. General Burrows retires thirty-one miles from Helmand to position at Khushk-i-Nakhud. Ayub reported to intend crossing the river northward of Girishk. Wali with our camp."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 19.—Force arrived Kushk-i-Nakhud, 17th. Supplies plentiful, but wood scarce. Most of mutineers have returned to their homes, many being disarmed. Small body of Ayub's cavalry reported at Girishk, Saturday; main body about twenty miles distant. Principal sirdars and chiefs present with Wali in British camp."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 22.—General Burrows moved his camp, 19th, three miles nearer Girishk. The main body of Ayub's force reached the Helmand, about twelve miles above Girishk, on 20th. A considerable number of mutineers and tribal horsemen and footmen have joined them. It is conjectured to be the intention of Ayub to attack our force, and cavalry is said to intend crossing river lower down. There is some excitement in Kandahar city. From Cabul, 21st, reported that all districts in neighbourhood are quiet. Numbers of chiefs and people visit Abdul Rahman at Charikar. Interviews between him and British authorities arranged at General Gough's camp, fourteen miles north of Cabul."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 22.—At Cabul to-day, at five o'clock, a durbar was held, attended by all the chiefs and sirdars of Cabul and its neighbourhood. A deputation was present on the part of Abdul Rahman. Sirdar Abdul Rahman Khan was publicly and formally recognised as Ameer on the part of her Majesty's Government. Country is entirely quiet."

The recognition of Abdul Rahman as Ameer is briefly described in the following telegrams of yesterday:—

"At the durbar held yesterday Mr. Lepel Griffin, on the part of the Viceroy of the Queen-Empress of India, publicly acknowledged Abdul Rahman as Ameer, and announced the early withdrawal of our troops within the frontier fixed by the Treaty of Gandamak. It was a source of satisfaction to the Government that the tribes preferred a distinguished member of the Barakzai family, a renowned soldier, wise and experienced, and so long friendly to the British. He would receive our support. Their friendship would be best shown by protecting men who had done us service. Sir D. Stewart besought the sirdars to sink all private quarrels and unite in assisting the Ameer to restore peace and order to Afghanistan. The sirdars listened in silence. It is believed that a meeting between the British representatives and Abdul Rahman will shortly be arranged in the neighbourhood of Cabul. The religious ceremony of the Ameer's accession was witnessed by large crowds on Friday. The people professed satisfaction. Many leaders of Yakob's party have joined Abdul Rahman. He has released, at the request of the British authorities, all merchandise which was seized in Turkestan. The army will probably withdraw in about three weeks' time. Abdul Rahman is still at Charikar."

"The chief traders at Cabul have received a letter from Abdul Rahman, in which he says the trading classes need have no fear of his future action. He explains that urgent necessity alone made him raise forced loans in Turkestan. These loans he promises to repay. He also states that he will grant freedom of trade and do everything he can to promote a revival of trade with Bokhara and the khanates. The news of the submission of Mahomed Jan and other chiefs is confirmed. Abdul Rahman now considers his party strong enough to maintain him on the throne."

A LLOYD's telegram from Suez announces the arrival of H.M.'s troopship Himalaya, in which Earl Lytton is returning to England.

The Pioneer states that there is absolutely no truth whatever in an absurd story, which some Indian newspapers have carelessly accepted and elaborately commented on, that the Viceroy has interfered to forbid Sunday work in any Government offices. We do not suppose that much of such work has ever taken place, but it would be childish to imagine that any hard-and-fast rule could be applied to such departments, for example, as the Foreign-office.

An order published in the official Gazette notifies that the Viceroy has appointed the commanding officer and the political officer of the Khyber line force to be justices of the peace for the country held by the British troops. The former officer is also invested with the powers of a sessions court.

The prospects of the tea crops have been looking somewhat better during the past fortnight. The weather has become more favourable for the manufacture, and the out-turn appears to be not far short of that at the same time of last year. Prices, too, have risen considerably in the Calcutta market.

The indigo prospect in Lower Bengal is not so good. Until within the last few days the want of sun, and cold winds, kept back the plant. The accounts from Behar and the North-West Provinces are more satisfactory.

The executive committee of the Lord Lawrence Memorial Fund have determined to erect a standing statue in bronze in the open air, and to employ Mr. Boehm for the work. No site has as yet been obtained, but it is desired, if possible, to obtain the unoccupied corner of Waterloo-place.

DR. M. C. COOKE has entered on his duties at Kew Gardens as cryptogamist, the India-office having placed his services at the disposal of the Office of Woods and Forests.

MR. GRIGG, a member of the Madras Civil Service, has been selected by the Duke of Buckingham for the highly-paid post of Director of Public Instruction in that Presidency, recently vacated by Colonel Macdonald.

The native papers express unequivocal approval of the appointment of Mr. Evelyn Baring as Financial Member of Council.

DURING her voyage out to Bombay H.M.S. Woodlark struck on a coral bank and was not got off for three days. The captain and paymaster of the same vessel were struck down with heat apoplexy and the former succumbed.

The native Jeypore Gazette has published a likeness of Mr. Gladstone, set in a frame of woven branches and flowers, supporting medallions of Devotion, Liberty, Eloquence, Statesmanship, Hawarden Castle, Morality, Sincerity, and Charity.

FIVE deaths of Europeans from heat apoplexy occurred at Peshawur on June 15.

The new Sibi Railway near Mitri has been inundated by the hill floods and communication has been interrupted.

CAPT. STREET, a retired naval officer, who for the last four years has been in command of the Government of India ship Tenasserim, has been appointed an under secretary to Government in the Military Department, to perform in this way the functions of consulting naval officer on the departure of Admiral Bythessa. This arrangement vindicates the view that the Government of India cannot dispense with a nautical adviser.

CAPT. FARLOW, of the steamer Yunan, which was seized the other day in Upper Burma, has died in Rangoon after a short illness, said to be fever.

It is notified in the Gazette of India that, with the approval of her Majesty's Government, the Government of India are pleased to sanction the abolition of the standing medical boards at the ports of embarkation in regard to officers of the Indian services proceeding on furlough out of India, on medical certificate, who have appeared before local medical committees. As furlough can be granted to the officers of the Indian services for a longer period than to officers of the British service, it is ruled that the local board, in the case of an officer of the Indian services, shall invariably be presided over by an administrative medical officer.

THE Statesman urges that an impartial and independent local investigation should be made on the part of the Government of India into the loss of the Mysor jewels.

THE Government of India has decided that the claim of the railway companies to charge for soldiers' pets conveyed in troop trains is a valid one.

THE Calcutta Gazette contains the correspondence between the port commissioners and the Bengal Government on the exposure of European sailors in the port of Calcutta during the hot weather and the Lieutenant Governor's decision thereon. His Honour appears to have come to the conclusion "that neither the Government nor the port commissioners have any power, as the law now stands, authoritatively to prevent the practice in question by limiting the hours of work, or in any other way. His Honour thinks it reasonable that the port commissioners should have power to make a port rule prescribing the hours during which European seamen may be employed on board ship on work necessitating exposure to the sun," and he has therefore directed the assistant secretary in the Legislative Department, in communication with the port commissioners, to draft a short Act, to be read with the Bengal Act V. of 1878, giving them that power.

A RETURN by Mr. Firth, the emigration agent in Calcutta for British Guiana, states that from 1857 up to 1880 no less than 11,437 emigrants returned to India, remitting, through Government, money to the value of Rs.24,18,739, and bringing with them money and jewellery valued at Rs.4,33,748.

THE accounts of the Paper Currency Department up to May 31 have been published. On that date the whole amount of the notes in circulation was Rs.13,09,70,040. Against this issue the department held a reserve of silver coin Rs.6,13,60,901, and silver bullion Rs.96,38,379, so that the total metallic reserve was Rs.7,09,99,292. The amount invested in Government securities is given at Rs.5,99,70,748.

THE Gazette of India of June 19 contains a notice that a license for the importation into British India of sulphur, which has been found to the satisfaction of the local authorities that the sulphur is intended only for bond fide manufacturing purposes, may be granted without payment of the fee of Rs.10 hitherto levied.

It is not surprising that the patience of our men of business should have at last given way under the pressure of the inconvenient arrangements of the mail. These have been organised altogether in deference to the wishes of the Indian Post-office. But our friends in Bombay are by no means contented with the Saturday departure. From a correspondence published in the Indian papers it seems that the Bombay Chamber of Commerce are trying to insist on a Friday evening departure. To this the Calcutta merchants naturally object, as it would involve their closing the mail on Tuesday. So they propose a Saturday morning departure instead. In proposing the arrangement now advocated Calcutta interests are not the only ones consulted, for it is found that it would be an advantage to the principal towns of Northern India, and this the committee think should not be lost sight of by the Bombay community when considering what day would be best suitable to themselves.

MESSRS. MACMILAN AND Co. have in the press a volume entitled "The Aryan Village, Past and Present, in Bengal and Ceylon," by Sir John B. Phear, formerly chief justice of Ceylon, and one of the judges of the High Court of Judicature in Calcutta.

THE season report for the Bombay Presidency notes that the River Indus, at Kotri, was 13ft. 5in. on June 21, as against 9½ft. on the same day last year; at Shikarpur it was 12ft. 10in., as against 9ft. 11in., and at Hyderabad it was nearly 4ft. higher than last year.

THE report of the Indian Famine Commission has just been issued and presented to Parliament.

THE Times of India contains the following obituary of the week:—Captain J. V. Falle (Indian Marine); Captain Thurlow Hovel Godfrey (Bombay retired); Mr. C. D'Albedyhl (second judge, Coochin Appeal Court); Lieut. Thomas Fairfax (Madras); Rev. J. Bilderbeck, a veteran missionary, at Royapooram; Captain Farlow.

THE MUTINY OF AFGHAN TROOPS.
THE following details of the affair with Shere Ali Wali's mutinous troops near Kandahar were telegraphed to the Times on the 14th inst. :—

"On their arrival at Girishk two things became apparent to Gen. Burrows and Col. St. John—first, that the river was so shallow as to be fordable at short intervals, and presented, therefore, no difficulty to the passage of the troops anywhere; secondly, that the Wali's troops were ready to mutiny at any time, having been corrupted by a veteran regiment which had accompanied the Wali from Cabul last year. This regiment, at least, if not the entire force, it was clearly necessary to disarm to prevent their joining Ayoob Khan, and for this purpose the Wali issued orders for the withdrawal of his force from the west to the east bank. After striking their tents and packing their baggage soon after sunrise, his cavalry began to move, when the mutinous regiment suddenly seized the artillery, consisting of six six-pounders, which were on the high bank, and called on the other regiments to join in driving the Wali and his cavalry across the river. The threat was sufficient, and the cavalry and the Wali withdrew to the east bank, where our troops were. The mutineers immediately seized and plundered the post and baggage, and began to move to the northwards along the river bank. This was about seven o'clock. At ten o'clock a force from our camp on the west bank, four miles above that of the mutineers, crossed the river. In three-quarters of an hour the cavalry brought the mutineers to bay, and they formed a very respectable line of some 2,000 men along the low cliffs overlooking the river valley, here over two miles wide; but before the guns and infantry could get up they moved off a mile and formed a second line at right angles to the river, with the guns next to it. On the cavalry approaching these opened a smart fire for some twenty minutes, doing, however, no damage, owing to the bad elevation. At half-past twelve our guns, which had been delayed by the difficulty of passing the irrigation channels, came into action, and in a quarter of an hour the mutineers abandoned their guns and disappeared. The cavalry immediately took possession of the guns, when a smart fire was opened on them by a number of infantry who were concealed among the rocks and in the cultivated ground below. These were soon dislodged, except a few Ghazis, who held a wall for some time, and the whole force of mutineers was seen flying in every direction and abandoning the baggage. The cavalry pursued them for a short distance, but were soon recalled, owing to the necessity of taking measures to bring back the captured guns to the camp, which was successfully done. The mutineers' loss was about fifty killed, of whom forty-six were buried. Our loss was four men of the 66th Regiment wounded. The mutineers are said to be completely dispersed and disheartened, only a small portion of the regiment which first mutinied going off towards Herat. The remainder fled in twos and threes to their homes."

THE AMEER AND THE RUSSIANS.

SOME unnecessary excitement seems to have been created at home by the suggestion that while carrying on negotiations with us Abdul Rahman has been guided by Russian advice. Considering the circumstance under which Abdul Rahman has passed the latter portion of his life, and seeing that he has just come straight to Afghanistan from a Russian asylum, it would be very strange if he were not in intimate relations with Russian friends. It is no business of the Government of India to take direct cognisance of this state of facts, but it would be crediting that Government with a simplicity which there is no reason to attribute to it to suppose that it can have overlooked the obvious probabilities of the situation. Abdul Rahman, however, will have been treated by the Indian Government as an independent personage, and we may be sure that the terms on which British support has been offered to him do not embody any conditions that would be compatible with his establishment at Cabul as a Russian vassal. If he does become Ameer under our auspices he will probably find it necessary to cut himself adrift from old associations; but, until he takes a decisive step, it is not to be supposed that he is otherwise than in consultation with Russian friends. In reference to such consultations there is no need for any British patriot to talk in a portentous tone. The survival of Russian influence in his camp may be a misfortune for Abdul Rahman, as it may perhaps lead him to be obstructive and unaccommodating with the Power which merely seeks the welfare of Afghanistan, and indirectly his—in the present negotiations; which, moreover, will perhaps be constrained to seek that welfare in a manner that will put an end to Abdul Rahman's hopes if he perseveres too long in reliance on Russian counsels. But these same Russian counsels merely constitute one of the manifest elements in the situation, and are a peril, not for the permanent interests of this country, but simply for the particular settlement at present under discussion.—Pioneer.

INDIAN MILITARY ACCOUNTS.

MR. L. C. PROBYN writes that, as Sir John Strachey, in Paragraph 17 of his recently published minute states that the precaution of comparing the disbursements to the Military Department with the recorded expenditure had never occurred to any of the civil account officers, he wished to correct this statement. In the offices in which he served it was the rule, before accepting the estimates furnished by the Military Department for inclusion in what is known as the regular estimate, to compare them carefully with the actual outgoings from the treasuries. If the same rule had been adopted when the Budget was prepared at Calcutta the mistake which has occurred could not have happened. The Controller General, whose office is located in the same building as the Financial Department of the Government of India, receives monthly accounts from the different account officers showing the actual amounts disbursed to the Military Department by all the treasuries in India; the information given in Appendix C of Sir John's minute could, therefore, have been obtained, and the comparison could have been made in a few minutes. He adds that imperfection of the system under which considerable sums are excluded from the recorded transactions of the year and remain in balance at its close, without their amount being exactly ascertained, was well known to several officers of the Account Department, and had, at least on one occasion, been brought to the notice of the proper authorities.

ROYAL INDIAN ENGINEERING COLLEGE.

THE annual distribution of awards to the students of the Royal Indian Engineering College, Cooper's-hill, Egham, took place on Thursday, in the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen, of whom many were connected with the Indian service. The prizes and certificates, which were presented by Lord Northbrook, included a Fellow's Scholarship taken by Mr. E. J. Alexander; Fellows of Cooper's-hill, Messrs. R. C. Dyson and E. J. Alexander; Foundation Scholars in Engineering on the Cooper's-hill endowment fund, established by the civil engineers of the Public Works Department, Messrs. Chirside, Batten, and Weightman (seniors), and Messrs. Clark and Taylor (juniors); Argyll Scholarship in natural science, Mr. J. C. Mills; the Dickens scholarship in mathematics, Mr. A. L. Webb; Accountants' Prize (given by the members of the Public Works Accountants' Department, India), Messrs. Alexander and Sweet; and the President's Prize for Indian history, Mr. Marjoribanks. Sir Louis Mallet presided, and amongst others present were the Earl of Northbrook, late Viceroy of India; Lieut. Gen. Sir H. Norman, K.C.B.; Lieut. Gen. Strachey, C.S.I.; Major Gen. Foster, C.B.; Col. Yule, C.B., R.E.; Mr. A. Cassels; Sir Richard Temple, Bart., late Governor of Bombay; Sir George and Lady Campbell; Sir Edward and Lady Clive Bayley; Major Gen. Sir Frederick Goldsmid, K.C.S.I.; Major Gen. Sir Thomas and Lady Pears; Sir A. Arbuthnot, K.C.S.I.; Gen. Sir James Brind, K.C.B.; Gen. Sir Arthur Poyne, G.C.M.G.; Sir Stuart and Lady Hogg; Col. Sir O. T. Burne, K.C.S.I.; Col. Wilson, A.D.C., and Mrs. Wilson; Sir Joseph and Lady Fayrer; Gen. Sir A. Taylor, K.C.B., and Lady Taylor; Col. Sir L. Pelly, K.C.B., and Lady Pelly; and Major Gen. and Mrs. Scott. The Chairman, in opening the proceedings, mentioned that it was with regret that Lord Hartington was compelled, by parliamentary duties, to absent himself from the duty of distributing the prizes on that occasion—a duty which he had looked forward to with pleasure. Lord Northbrook had consented to undertake the duty which should have been performed by Lord Hartington; and he did not think, under the circumstances, that the distribution could have been placed in better hands. Col. Chesney, the president, in a report in the proceedings of the past session, said that of the thirty-nine students who had completed their course all had succeeded in qualifying for the public service (one provisionally), and all but one in the higher grade. Of these the twenty-five seniors would be retained for a year's practical training in England, and the others would proceed direct to India. After referring to the reports of the different public examiners, and giving a few words of commendation to the more distinguished prize-winners, Col. Chesney observed that hitherto the efforts of the institution had been limited to supplying engineers for the Indian public service, and until lately they could not supply the wants of the Indian Government fast enough, and had been obliged to refuse admission to all others than candidates for the Indian service. Now, however, the demand had slackened, and other students would be eligible for admission to the extent of the available vacancies. With full numbers the college paid all its expenses, and in this way the Indian Government would obtain as many trained men as it needed free of cost. As regarded the extra students, no college education could take the place of that practical training which alone could make the efficient engineer, but as a preparation for entering on the practical business of the profession the value of a sound preliminary scientific training could hardly be esteemed too highly. This had long been recognised in all the other countries of Europe, and it must soon come to be recognised in England also. The great engineering institution at Berlin numbered its thousand students, and there were numerous other large and well-appointed establishments at Leipsic, Zurich, Freiburg, Stuttgart, and other places. Even a little country like Holland had its engineers' college with 300 students. It might be hoped therefore that Cooper's-hill would be found to be the forerunner of many other and more extensive and useful institutions of the same class.

THE CEYLON COMPANY.—The directors of the Ceylon Company (Limited) have issued their report for the year ended the 31st of March last. Only 14,000cwt. of coffee was produced last year on the company's estates as against 28,000cwt. in the previous year. In Mauritius the company still possesses four estates, but special orders have been sent out for selling them, and the directors hope that further losses on them may not arise. In the balance-sheet the assets at both branches of the company's business are taken at the valuation of 31st March, 1878, and the cost of the permanent improvements are added to that calculation in the case of the Ceylon properties. It appears that the net loss up to date is £388,507. On last year's trading alone the loss is set down at £51,911, and in addition £100,974 was lost in realising assets in Mauritius. This brings the total loss upon the properties held by the company in that island up to £491,000, while a surplus of £115,137 is credited to the Ceylon properties. The call recently made on the shareholders has been very fairly met, but the company is still due the enormous sum of £815,811 on "drafts outstanding and sundry creditor balances." Exclusive of the interest charges on this sum, and on £123,498 of debentures, the net earnings for the past year came to just £1,680, and the mere working expenses reached £13,067, so that leaving out interest altogether there was a deficiency on the year of £11,387. These expenses were divided as follow:—Directors' fees, £1,000; London expenses, including £2,188 for salaries, £3,260; Ceylon expenses, including £4,704 for salaries, £5,349; and Mauritius expenses, including £3,012 for salaries, £3,457.

HOUSE OF LORDS APPEALS.—THE STOOMVART MAATSCHAPPIJ NEDERLAND v. THE PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.—This was an appeal from a judgment of the Court of Appeal varying a judgment of the Court of Admiralty. The appellants, the owners of the Voorwaarts, a screw steamship, claimed damages for a collision between their vessel and the screw steamship Khedive, belonging to the respondents, on May 23, 1878, off Muka Head, in the island of Penang. The action came on for hearing before Sir Robert J. Phillimore, the judge of the Admiralty Division, assisted by two Elder Brethren of the Trinity House as assessors, and judgment was delivered pronouncing both vessels to have been to blame; a decree was made awarding to the appellants a moiety of damages claimed by them, and to the respondents a moiety of the damages claimed by their counter claim, without any order as to costs. From that judgment the respondent appealed to the Court of Appeal, and that court, consisting of Lords Justices James, Brett, and Cotton, with nautical assessors, varied the decree, so far as it declared the Khedive to have been in fault, and pronounced the collision to have been occasioned solely by the fault of the Voorwaarts, with relief to the respondents accordingly, and their costs in both courts. From that judgment the present appeal was brought to their lordships' house. The judgment of the Court of Appeal, so far as it altered or varied the judgment of the Admiralty Division, was reversed, and the judgment of the Admiralty Division restored, the successful parties to have the costs of the proceedings below and also the costs in the appeal to the House.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

A NOVEL OF NIHILISM.*

WHILE a remarkable work of fiction is being published in monthly parts, in which one of our very ablest novelists seeks to instruct the public in the workings of that unseen organisation which, under the name of "International," has taken the place and duties of "La Marianne," English readers have been presented by the able son of a well-known author with a translation of Ernest Lavigne's novel on the subject of Nihilism in Russia. It is perhaps the only way to make Englishmen and Englishwomen comprehend in a degree the terrible forces which are at work in the realm of the Czar. Intense pressure of grinding despotism, bureaucratic oppression, and class selfishness are overlying the development of freedom of thought accompanied or preceded by the acquisition of knowledge and strivings after justice or independence. The same causes which produced the volcanic outburst of 1789 in France, multiplied both in the active and the repressive forms, are at work in Russia, and Europe waits to see whether the mighty forces will find relief and vent without shattering the whole order of society, or whether the upheaval will be that of a far more ferocious and more destructive revolution than has ever been witnessed in any State. That the members of the party of discontent and disorder, or of reform and reconstruction, according to the point of view from which they are regarded, are called Nihilists, readers of newspapers know well. To be a Nihilist in Russia is to be an enemy of the State, an accessory of assassins and rebels, a wild beast, which deserves no pity and meets with no mercy. A Nihilist is supposed to say, "Voglio il nullo e del creato la ruina universal." M. Lavigne depicts in his interesting novel the characteristics of the two species of Nihilists, the unconscious, who feel the pressure of social wrongs; the conscious, who have formed societies and sects whose object is to right those wrongs. Like the Gueux, they have accepted an appellation meant to stigmatise all who would work out a national regeneration by confounding them with the violent, the lawless, who would destroy all on the chance of finding their profit in the general cataclysm. English readers will find the plot of the story somewhat difficult to realise. A young, enthusiastic, and dreamy girl becomes, by the death of an uncle, heiress of enormous wealth. A female Nihilist, one of the educated teachers who in Russia have, as facts tell us, furnished ardent and desperate martyrs or criminals, undertakes, by means of her power over her pupil, to cause her to marry a young, shallow, but handsome student, a member of the secret society. Pavlovna herself loves Vladimir, but sacrifices her own hopeless passion to the cause. Thus, too, with female cruelty, she immolates her lovely and loving pupil, who, having been wooed and won, is neglected and betrayed by her vain and heartless husband. But Stasia is relieved of him by the intervention of the Nihilist committee, which condemns Vladimir to death for nonfulfilment of his oaths. Stasia, however, is accused of Nihilism and complicity in her husband's murder, together with her false friend Pavlovna, and the hero of the book, one Sergius, who represents the Nihilists of lofty aims and incorruptible character. Condemnation, not for murder, but for Nihilism, follows, with banishment and ultimate release for the countess and Sergius, while Pavlovna commits suicide. There is throughout the work a tendency rather to represent the oppressive action of the Russian police as mitigated by common sense and occasional pity. This leads the reader to feel that, notwithstanding the somewhat extravagant plot, there is no exaggeration in the details. Thus, although he is obliged to undergo a good deal of information, his attention and interest are kept up unabated, and the political and social disquisitions are made attractive by the sympathy or horror excited as the dramatis personæ act and suffer. The conclusion is somewhat unsatisfactory inasmuch as the superior and worthy Sergius is only rewarded for his devotion and loyal love by becoming a sort of respected uncle to Vladimir's orphan. The translation is, as might be expected, admirably done. The Gallic spirit of the original has not vanished, and yet the English is that of a writer unfettered by being an interpreter. We would, however, suggest that the icons of Russian religion are sometimes triptychs, but even in these days the tricycle is not used to comfort a dying count by its contemplation.

* "A Female Nihilist." By ERNEST LAVIGNE. Translated by G. SUTHERLAND EDWARDS. London: W. H. Allen and Co.

THE RACES OF AFGHANISTAN.*

THIS short book is of considerable merit and ought to seriously influence the judgment of those who have assumed the direction of England's affairs. Its value lies in the preciseness of the information given, its clear and methodical arrangement, and its trustworthiness from the acknowledged ability and absolute knowledge of the subject possessed by the author. Dr. Bellew is not a political speculator but a serious scholar, who has spent many years among and in connection with the people of Afghanistan; he speaks their languages with ease, is well read in the history and literature of the country, and enjoys the confidence of the tribesmen. And what is Dr. Bellew's deliberate opinion? It is this, that the heterogeneous cluster of antagonistic races which it is customary to class under the comprehensive name Afghan "it will ere very long be our inevitable duty to govern as subjects of our Indian Empire. Of the necessity of this issue of our past and present dealings with this country there is no longer any advantage in blinking the conviction. And the sooner we declare our will the more promptly will the people accept the situation, and accommodate themselves to the new régime of British rule, justice, and protection." It is "in the belief that this is the responsibility which we must sooner or later take upon ourselves" that Dr. Bellew seeks to prepare his countrymen for the task, by explaining to them the origin, nature, race, and political sympathies of the numerous tribes which occupy the hills between Peshawur and Herat.

"The principal nationalities," says Dr. Bellew, "which together compose the inhabitants of Afghanistan, are the Afghan, the Pathan, the Ghilzai, the Tajik, and the Hazarah. There are, besides, the lesser nationalities of the Char Aymac on the western frontiers about Herat, the Uzbak on the southern bank of the Oxus, and the Kafir on the southern slopes of the Hindu Kush." With respect to the want of cohesion of these races, Dr. Bellew says it is "the fact that the Afghan nationality remains a disunited agglomeration of different races, which are only loosely held together, so long as one or other of them, propped by external alliance and support, is maintained in a position of dominance as the ruling race. For the last 130 years, more or less, this dominant position has been held by the Afghan, as he is generally styled, in reference to his being of the ruling race, the Durrani; and it is from him the complex nationality, as well as the country itself, have received their names—Afghan and Afghanistan." It will thus be seen that Dr. Bellew endeavours to make it clear that there is no Afghan nation, in the ordinary sense, for the English to enter into political relations with. The descriptions of these several Hindi, Persian, Turki, and non-descript races—seven-eighths of whom have even no connection with even the name Afghan, and about half of whom have always been independent of Cabul—tend to show that to recede from the position which will be forced upon the English will be a disaster alike to England and to the people of Afghanistan. Such, at least, appears to be the opinion of Dr. Bellew, as he expects that his inquiry will "make clear to the reader the prime causes of the anarchy and instability which have characterised the history of the country ever since it emerged from a position of subordination to its neighbouring empires on the side of Persia and India respectively, to one of absolute independence under native sovereigns,—causes which owe their origin to the diversity of race, and the antagonism of tribal interests among a heterogeneous and barbarous people, who have been only brought together as a nationality by the accident of position and the bond of a common religion." And the history of that nationality he thus summarises: "A darker record of misgovernment, of vice, of treachery, of savage cruelty, and of oppression, than marks the career of the independent Afghans is hardly to be found in the annals of any other independent State of modern times, or of the same period."

In the course of Dr. Bellew's sketches there is much that is new relative to the origin of the tribes; and the etymologies of their names which he suggests are such as commend themselves to the acceptance of scholars. The representatives of the tribes mentioned by Herodotus are traced by Dr. Bellew to the present day, mixed with the remnants of later irruptions. Dr. Bellew's book will be read with considerable interest, both as a valuable contribution to ethnography and as a guide in the maze in which politicians have lost themselves.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE NATIVE CIVIL SERVICE.

THE questions of the pay and leave of the Native Civil Service have now been settled, at all events temporarily. In Lord Lytton's despatch of May 1, 1869, to the Secretary of State, in which the scheme for the native service was finally determined, it was said that these points were still under consideration. The additions made to the pension and leave codes in the Gazette of the 12th of June provide for the emoluments and leave privileges of native civilians. A native civilian will receive as nearly as possible two-thirds of the pay to which a covenanted civilian appointed in England and occupying the same office would be entitled. The latter's gross pay is subject to a deduction of 4 per cent. on account of his annuity, and two-thirds of the gross pay is equivalent to 64 per cent. of the net pay. A joint magistrate of the first grade in these provinces receives a gross salary of Rs.1,000 a month; the native civilian on reaching this grade will receive Rs.666. Should he attain eventually to the High Court his pay will be Rs.2,500 in place of the gross salary of Rs.3,750 enjoyed by the present incumbents. It is hardly necessary to reopen the question of the justice of paying different rates to two men for doing the same work in presumably an equally efficient manner, as it has been thoroughly discussed between the Government of India and the Secretary of State. On the one hand, it seems invidious to make any distinction dependent on race. On the other hand, as Lord Cranbrook put it in his despatch of November, 1878, "Englishmen of the qualifications required in India can only be tempted to expatriate themselves for a long term of years by higher salaries than they would be willing to receive in their own country." The same view had previously, in May, 1878, been put with much force by Lord Lytton's Government:—"It is impossible to suppose that men living in their own country amongst their families and friends, and in a climate suitable and agreeable to them, require the same attraction, or deserve the same remuneration, in the shape of a high rate of salary as Europeans, who leave their own country to serve, separated from family and friends, in a distant land, with an unsuitable and somewhat dangerous climate." Viewed in this light the rate of pay fixed for the native civilian must appear liberal, and that it is found necessary to give him rather more than two-thirds of the net pay of his English colleague is a strong proof that the compensation to the latter for exile and possible ill health is not excessive. Discontent, however, is innate in man, and it is not impossible that the native civilian may grumble. He may argue that if he does his work as well as the Englishman, and is willing to do it for less salary, the Englishman should be dispensed with. The blunt answer to all such complaints must be that, so far, they have not proved themselves equal to the Englishman in general administrative capacity. This, perhaps, may be due to their not having had a fair chance. Be this as it may, the English people is not yet prepared to hand over the entire administration of India to Indians; and as long as Englishmen of education and capacity are required to give backbone to the administration they must be properly paid. That they are not excessively paid is shown by the apathy with which the great public schools and the universities regard Indian appointments. The rules regarding leave, absentee allowances, and pensions for native civilians are on a similarly reduced standard. They are devised with reference to the requirements of natives of India serving in their own country, and, as such, are liberal enough. After twenty-five years' service a native civilian will, "if his resignation be accepted," be entitled to a pension of half his average salary, not exceeding a maximum of Rs.5,000. After thirty years' service the maximum is raised to Rs.6,000. As the native civilian will pay nothing for his pension, and as his salary after twenty years' service will considerably exceed Rs.10,000, his old age is very well provided for. He will be much better off than the Uncovenanted Service, whether European or native, and will doubtless excite the envy of many a grey-headed munsif or subordinate judge. Over his European colleague he will have the advantage of being able to obtain a nomination to the service for a well-conducted son without the cost which the competitive ordeal involves. As regards leave, the discrepancy between the lot of the native and the English civilian is much greater than in respect to pay or pension. The English civilian is entitled to one year's furlough for every four years' service up to the aggregate amount of six years of furlough. The native civilian will obtain one year after ten, and only two years during his whole service. But he is, in addition, entitled to three years on medical leave with one quarter of his pay, and to an unlimited amount of leave without pay. These privileges are amply sufficient for a man working in his own country under normal conditions of health. The leave rules of Europeans are designed to meet an exceptional state of things, and very few members of the service avail themselves of them to their full extent. Furlough is too expensive a luxury to be often indulged in; and, besides this, most men find their chief mental happiness in their work. Taken all round, the position of the native civilians is pecuniarily a very good one and should content all legitimate expectations.—Pioneer.

THE WYNAAD PLANTERS AND THE GOVERNMENT.

If a representative of the planting community were elected to the Council of the Governor of Madras he would effect more real good in a month's time than the association will be able to achieve in ten years' time. We would, therefore, strongly impress on the various associations of planters throughout Southern India to agitate until they be allowed to nominate a representative to the Madras Council, or until the Government thinks it expedient to appoint one of the planters to a seat in Council. The association has applied to Government, through the district magistrate, that powers be granted to the honorary magistrates to adjudicate on cases brought before them under their own warrants, when the accused is willing to return to work and the prosecutor to allow him, or, in the other case, when the accused is prepared to repay the amount of advance. As the superintendent of police for Malabar and the assistant superintendent, Wynaad, have given it as their opinion that, at present, under the limited scope of the Coffee-stealing Act, it is impossible to effectually guard against the illicit transport of coffee in the low country, the request of the police and of the planters, that the provisions of the Act be extended to the low country, and that the powers of the police, under this Act, be clearly defined, will probably be granted. Indeed, it seems almost inexplicable that Government should have put the Act in force for one portion of the district over which the coffee must pass to the coast, and yet to have refrained from extending it to the low country, where the greatest depredations usually occur, and where most certainly there are greater opportunities for getting rid of the stolen property. Last March his Grace the Governor in Council expressed his surprise that nothing had been done in pursuance of the Government resolution of July, 1877. It certainly was not the fault of the planters that nothing had been done, whoever's fault it might have been; and in his letter to Government, referring to this matter, the Secretary states that the committee can only most respectfully repeat their regret that, notwithstanding the expressed opinion of the Government of Madras as to the substantial nature of "our grievances," not a single step has been taken towards their amelioration. The Wynaad planters, when they found the Supreme and Local Governments deaf to their reiterated representations for reforms that ought to have been sanctioned long years ago, had recourse to the Government at home. Had the Madras Government been really anxious to develop the resources of the Wynaad and other coffee-growing districts to the uttermost they would have done, without asking, what the planters have so long urged them to do. We admit that if the Coffee-stealing Act be worked as it ought to be one of their worst grievances will vanish; but there is as yet no simple remedy to abolish the system of running off with advances. Wynaad does not possess, so far as we are aware, such a system of roads as we have in Madras neither has it quite so many magistrates as we can boast of. We must do the Madras Government the justice of saying that it has spent a very large sum of money in the Wynaad from first to last, but, unfortunately, there is ample proof forthcoming to show that that money has been by no means judiciously laid out. For all intents and purposes the greater portion of it has been wasted, for it was not laid out on a systematic plan, but in a higgledy-piggledy fashion in too many cases. The present generation of planters and the existing members of Government are reaping the results of their predecessors' shortcomings. If, however, the members of the planters' association be true to themselves, and if they continue to bring their wants to the notice of Government, they must ultimately succeed in obtaining redress however backward the officials may be in granting it.—Madras Times.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

CRIME IN CALCUTTA.—The annual report on the police administration of the town and suburbs of Calcutta shows a decrease of nearly 10 per cent. in the total number of cases reported, which, to our thinking, is none the less satisfactory that it occurs chiefly in respect of cognisable miscellaneous cases of a more or less petty character. There was a slight increase in the number of serious offences against person, and against person or property, in both town and suburbs. In the town there were four cases of murder reported against five in the previous year, and there were two cases of attempt at murder. In two out of the four cases of murder the prisoners were convicted and the capital sentence was carried out. In the suburbs also there were four cases of murder, and in each of them the murderer was convicted and executed. The proportion of persons convicted to those arrested or summoned during the year was 80 per cent. as compared with 79 in the previous year, and the percentage of stolen property recovered was higher than in any previous year. There were fifty-nine cases of suicide, as compared with sixty in 1878, and 228 accidental deaths, of which ten were from snake-bite, 116 by drowning, thirty-one by falls from trees, buildings, &c., eight from being run over in the streets. Fifteen European seamen were drowned in the river, as compared with nine in 1878 and forty-one in 1877.—Bombay Gazette.

HEALTH OF N.W.P.—In April last 109,804 persons died in the N.W.P. and Oudh. The deaths were 87,302 in April, 1879. In March the deaths reported were 85,110. This heavy mortality in April should attract attention, since it represents a loss to the population. The birth-rate for the month was 193 per 1,000, whilst the death-rate rose to 251.—Indian Daily News.

THE SUCCESSION TO NABHA.—With reference to the statement which appeared in our issue of the 9th inst., to the effect that the Raja of Nabha had selected for his adopted heir the young brother of the Maharaja of Puttiala, we hear that it has since been found impracticable to carry out the project. The Puttiala Council of Regency have decided that, during the long minority of the present Maharaja, it is absolutely requisite that the heir-apparent to the guddee should remain unlettered by any connection with a foreign State.—Civil and Military Gazette, June 15.

IRRIGATION IN AJMER AND RAJPUTANA.—The revenue report for 1877-78 says that the year under review was one of deficient rainfall, so much so that the tanks were not even filled for the rabi irrigation. The revenue is Rs.14,587 less than that of last year; and, though the working expenses were reduced by nearly Rs.3,000, a deficit is shown of Rs.9,489. The direct financial result was thus a failure, but it is nevertheless satisfactory that the season rainfall was so far utilised by the works, without which latter the position would have been far more serious. The demand for water from the new tanks appears to be constantly increasing, and so far the prospects of these works appear to be favourable, but as yet the interest charges amount to Rs.39,571, while the revenue realised falls short of the working expenses by Rs.2,799. The additions to capital during the year are stated at Rs.65,195, bringing up the total to the end of the year to Rs.14,38,892. But the charges for interest on the construction cost of the tanks have been included in the capital outlay. The interest charges should, according to the order in force, be kept separate and not added to the capital outlay.—Official Paper.

THE BURDWAN FEVER KILLED.—We are glad to see from the report of Dr. Coates, sanitary commissioner for Bengal, that the Burdwan, Hooghly, and Midnapore Districts were, in 1879, nearly free from epidemic fever. It would seem that the fever known as the Burdwan fever, which for so many years ravaged these districts, attained its maximum in 1872-73, and that every year since then has been marked by a decrease in its virulence. The annual outbreaks up to 1878 would appear to be weaker with each succeeding year. Further careful investigations by civil officers in charge of the districts, as well as by the medical staff appointed to deal with the evil, have shown that the fever is not so much due to the roads and railways having interrupted the drainage as to the impurity of the water supply upon which the people depended for household purposes. The admission of the water of the Damoodah into the Kana nuddee in 1873-74-75 was followed by an immediate and marked improvement in the health of the people. That this has a direct bearing upon the question of the health of the district is proved by the fact that, in 1876 and 1877, this source of water supply was stopped, and this stoppage was followed by a marked deterioration in the health of the people during those two years. In 1878 and 1879 the Damoodah water was again let into the Kana nuddee, and this operation was again followed by a marked improvement in the general health. A stronger and a better proof of the true way to eradicate Burdwan fever from the districts in which it has been so prevalent could not be adduced. We are therefore glad to note that the Government of Bengal has placed 2½ lakhs of rupees at the disposal of the irrigation branch of the Public Works Department for the purpose of carrying out, during the current official year, what is known as the Jujuti project, and which includes the connection of the Banka with the Kana nuddee. Indian Daily News.

FEVER IN N.W.P.—An official paper published in the North West Provinces Government Gazette gives some details as to the epidemic of fever which prevailed in those provinces last year. The epidemic appears to have caused the death-rate to exceed the average by over 21 per 1,000, and it is estimated that 75 per cent. of the whole population suffered from the disease. The worst two districts were Bulandshahr and Alighur, in both of which the ratio of deaths from the fever was 113 per 1,000. Meerut came next with 81, and most of the other districts showed very high rates. Dr. Planck, the sanitary commissioner, describes the epidemic as essentially climatic, and ascribes its severity and great mortality to the vast number of persons who had been brought to a low state of health by the high prices and distress of the two previous years. The specific cause was, he thinks, malaria, resulting from the copious rainfall of the year.—Times Telegram.

CAPTURED GUNS.—One hundred and seventeen captured guns from Cabul have arrived at Rawul Pindi, and were received by a triumphal parade of the whole garrison. Mugurab Shah, one of the Afghan State prisoners, was present as a spectator under a police escort.—Times Telegram.

NATIVES OF INDIA IN THE SERVICE.—A young Eurasian and a young Englishman, both of whom were born in India, having been appointed deputy magistrates by the Government of Bengal, the Government of India have called on Sir A. Eden to explain how these two foreigners have been placed in appointments reserved by a special despatch from the India-office for natives of the country. The Lieutenant Governor is said to have replied that the Eurasian is a native within the meaning of the despatch when the second appointment does not fall within its purview.—Anglo-Indian Guardian.

DEATH FROM APOPLEXY.—R. Whitburn, the master of the schooner Hebe, lately arrived from Bombay laden with salt, died somewhat suddenly on June 26. In the opinion of the medical gentleman who attended the deceased death arose from effusion of blood on the brain caused by excessive heat.—Times of India.

MURDER OF A POLICEMAN.—Information reached the central police station on June 27 of a foul murder having been committed on the Garden Reach-road early in the morning. The deputy commissioner of police, accompanied by Superintendents Hogg, Robertson, and Hill, Inspectors Driscoll and Robertson, were promptly on the spot. From inquiries made it appears that four of the crew of the Slieve Roe came ashore and created a disturbance in a house at Watguige. A native policeman appeared on the scene, and, being single-handed, obtained the assistance of the neighbours, who used their sticks freely on them. The sailors had to beat a hasty retreat to their vessel, where they missed one of their comrades. Believing that he had fallen into the hands of the police, one of their number borrowed a knife and called some others to join him in the search for their missing companion. On coming ashore they vowed to take the life of the policeman who had interfered with them, and the unfortunate chowkeydar coming in their way they seized him and one of them cut his throat from ear to ear. Death was almost instantaneous. The inquiry resulted in the arrest of four European seamen belonging to the vessel.—Statesman.

THE TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT.—The life-size painting of the likeness of Sir W. O'Shaunnessy, the founder of the Telegraph Department in India, has at last arrived, and been put up in the signallers' office, Calcutta. This, together with the bust of Col. Robinson, was got out from England, and to defray the necessary expenses all the signallers connected with the department were compelled to subscribe a certain amount.—Ibid.

SIR ASHLEY EDEN.—His Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal has quite recovered from the effects of the fall he had from his horse. His Honour will leave Darjiling next month and visit the following districts:—Rampore Beaulah, Bhagulpore, Monghyr, Durbhunga, Tirhoot, Sarun, Patna, Gya, and Berhampore. His Honour is expected back in Calcutta late in August.—Ibid.

THE DELHI COLLEGE.—An energetic movement has for some time been in progress at Delhi the object of which is to procure the revival of the college at that city, suppressed a few years ago for economical reasons. Within the last few days a deputation has gone up to Simla to represent the case to the new Viceroy. The deputation consists of seven native gentlemen headed by Mirza Suleman Shah, one of the ex-Royal family of Delhi. Subscriptions in aid of the undertaking have been already promised to the extent of over Rs.50,000. A total collection of about two lakhs is required to provide the necessary endowment, on the assumption that if this sum can be obtained by private subscription, Government would be willing to grant the college Rs.1,000 a month. The abolition of the college was decreed in 1877, on the ground that, as things then stood, neither the Delhi nor the Lahore Colleges could be kept up with an efficient staff. It was considered best to concentrate the available expenditure on Lahore.—Times of India.

MASONIC ITEMS.—The members of lodge "Independence" at Lucknow intend establishing a Royal Arch Chapter under the Scottish constitution. Lodge Dalhousie, at Lahore, has elected new Worshipful Master in the person of Bro. Looft, who has always evinced a deep interest in the welfare of the craft. The lodges in Bengal have made some progress. A lodge is to be opened at Naini Tal—two were lately opened at Bareilly and Saidpore and are working very successfully. Lodge Beauchamp at Roorkee is now in abeyance owing to the departure of most of the military men stationed there, and who were members of the lodge, for Afghanistan. Arrangements are being made to open a Royal Arch lodge at Jamalpore. It is to be called chapter "Faith." A short time ago a Mark lodge was opened at Ferozepore—another lodge to be named "Prinsep," in honour of the District Grand Master of Bengal will shortly be opened at Bareilly under the auspices of Major Ross, who will be selected master. The Masonic Record notices with much pleasure the appointment of the Hon. James Gibbs to the seat vacated in the Viceroy's Council by Sir Alexander John Arbuthnot. Mr. Gibbs was for some time Grand Master of the Bombay lodges and was highly respected by all classes of people in the Western Presidency.—Masonic Record.

THE BURMESE POLICE.—A sergeant and seven constables of the Burma police force in Tharrawaddy, natives of Burma, have been dismissed from the service for torturing, and conniving at the torture, of certain prisoners with the object of extorting confessions.—Times of India.

DIVORCE CASE.—The case of Lieutenant Roberts v. Cecilia Florence Roberts and Paris Drake Brockmann, came before the High Court the other day for confirmation of the decree passed by the judge of Saharunpore (Mr. Chase). The petitioner, Lieutenant Roberts, 2nd Bengal Cavalry, was married to the respondent on the 19th March, 1873, at Dehra, in the jurisdiction of the Calcutta High Court, from the house of her father, Colonel Charles Grant Barlow. The issue of marriage was two children, of whom one, a son, only survives, aged one year. It was alleged that in 1877 and 1878, whilst on a visit to her parents at Mussoorie, the respondent became acquainted with Mr. Paris Drake Brockmann, the co-respondent, and on divers occasions, on dates unknown to the petitioner, in the house of her parents, and elsewhere at Mussoorie and Dehra, committed adultery with Brockmann, and that finally he induced her to abscond with him. The petitioner prayed for a dissolution of the marriage and that Brockmann should pay Rs.30,000 as damages. The summonses were served on the respondent and co-respondent at Jura, in France, where they had gone after leaving this country. When the case came on for hearing neither of the two parties entered appearance. The evidence of the petitioner was taken as well as that of the other witnesses, and, the judge being satisfied that the case of the petitioner was proved, ordered, subject to confirmation by the High Court, that the marriage be dissolved, and also decreed ex parte damages and costs to the extent of Rs.30,000, to include both subject to all provisions and limitations in the sections 16 and 17, Act IV., 1869, against the co-respondent only. On the case being called on for confirmation at the High Court, Mr. Hill and Mr. Vansittart appeared for the petitioner, but neither the respondent nor the co-respondent was present or represented. The court, without calling on the learned counsel for the petitioner, concurred in the finding of the court below, and confirmed the decree for dissolution of marriage between the petitioner and the respondent, and damages as against the co-respondent.—Times of India.

N.W.P., OUDH, AND PUNJAB.—The Church Missionary Society are stated to have resolved to remove their European missionaries from Oudh, and to sell their premises, the Zahur Baksh, in Lahore.—Pioneer.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A correspondent at Benares writes:—"On the morning of June 19 a sad accident occurred here, the particulars of which are as follow:—The Battery 3-B Royal Artillery were out at riding and jumping drill. The sergeant major, Thomas M'Farlane, while going over one of the jumps was thrown off his horse and pitched on his head. He was picked up insensible and taken to hospital, where he remained in an unconscious state until the evening of the 22nd, when he expired. The post mortem showed an extensive fracture of the skull."—Pioneer.

GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT.—We learn that a large number of foreign messages, exceeding forty in number, sent from Calcutta about the middle of last month by some of the leading firms, are missing. The discovery was only made a few days ago, and the assistant superintendent immediately held a departmental inquiry, but nothing of any importance has been elicited, beyond the fact that the stamps from the missing telegrams have been abstracted. Late last Friday evening a circular was issued to the assistants in the Telegraph Department offering a reward of Rs.100 to the party who would furnish any information regarding the loss of the message drafts.—Statesman.

MADRAS.

EDUCATION.—His Grace the Governor in Council has approved and sanctioned certain proposals of the Director of Public Instruction to remodel the first grade schools and second grade colleges, the financial effect of which will be as follows:—There are seven second grade colleges, viz., in Bellary, Calicut, Mangalore, Berhampore, Cuddalore, Salem, and Madura. Their average present cost is Rs.7,184-10-8. The average proposed cost is Rs.7,353-11-8. The increase per mensem is Rs.169-1-0. There are six first grade high schools, viz., in Cuddapah, Kurnool, Saidapet, Chittoor, Tellicherry, and Palghat. Their average present cost is Rs.4,124-8-0; the average proposed cost is Rs.4,099-7-0, and decrease per mensem Rs.25-1-0. The aggregate average present cost for both colleges and schools is Rs.11,309-2-8. The proposed cost is Rs.11,453-2-8, increase Rs.144 per mensem, from which an increase of Rs.109 for gymnastic teachers, to be covered by fees, being deducted, the net increase is not more than Rs.35, which will be met from certain savings aggregating Rs.37-5-0. No masters will be thrown out of employment.—Gazette.

COCHIN.—In reviewing a report by the civil surgeon of the station on the sanitary condition of Cochin, the Government made the following remarks:—Dr. Morgan's report upon the sanitary condition of Cochin is very valuable, and shows that much attention is being paid to the sanitation of the town, and that much improvement might probably be effected by insisting on the observance of simple police regulations, and by devising cheap provisions for conservancy. Unfortunately the means of the municipality are very restricted. Nevertheless the Government consider that an attempt might be made to improve the water supply by the means recommended by Dr. Cornish, whose scheme is such that it could be carried out by degrees as funds are available. One or two store tanks might at first be constructed as models, and a few iron tanks for sale to householders for their private use might be procured by the commissioners from England.—Madras Times.

FIRES ON THE MADRAS RAILWAYS.—During the quarter ending March 31 last of the ten cases which occurred on the Madras Railway, seven took place on the South West line and three on the North West line. No serious damage resulted. In all cases the engines were wood-burners, and their spark-arresters and ash-pans at the time are reported to have been in good working order. In one case the straw in a wagon was set on fire by sparks from the engine, and in another the wooden tender of the engine was ignited by the same cause. The total absence of fires on the South Indian Railway is noteworthy.—Madras Times.

TRAVANCORE.—The whole tract of the country comprised within the State of Travancore exhibits the prosperity of its people in the most prominent manner possible, as well as the high state of perfection to which the cultivation of the staple food of its inhabitants has been brought. From Palamcottah to Trevandrum, too, the picturesqueness of the country cannot be surpassed, and altogether it is one of the prettiest and most delightful places to be found throughout the length and breadth of India. As for fruit, every conceivable species of it appears to be indigenous to the soil of Travancore, while palms of every variety shade the road for miles and miles at a stretch. Senna is cultivated extensively, its importation yielding large returns; jaggery being also extensively manufactured despatch to and sale at Madras. Travancore has an air of prosperity stamped upon its face which cannot be detected in any other part of India; its acres of brilliant green paddy, watered most plentifully from springs and tanks which nature appears to have been exceptionally lavish in providing, forming a striking contrast to the barren wastes around Puttialla, Jeypore, and other native States in Northern India, and even to the district of Arnee, nearer to Madras, with the cultivation and revenue of which the young Jaghirdar has ever expressed so much satisfaction. The people of Travancore are also different to those to be found in the Madras Presidency; there is a universal air of cleanliness about them which cannot be overlooked, while their civility and politeness might be well imitated by natives of other parts of the country.—Correspondent Madras Times.

"CAVEAT EMPTOR" IN WYNAAD.—The Vythery Vakeel has before him many disputes regarding rights of possession, criminal trespass, and mining rights; many, of course, in which natives are concerned. The Malabar law of possession causes no end of difficulties to any unwary Europeans who may purchase land in Wynaad without having most thoroughly investigated every detail regarding it. A very unpleasant circumstance occurred in Vythery a short time ago on account of one of these "possession of property" disputes. A gentleman who had been for some time engaged in a law suit to gain possession of land, of which he had (as he rather naturally considered) by purchase already become the rightful owner, was attacked by a party of about twenty moplabs. He was quite alone at the time, and had nothing but a light riding cane with which to defend himself. The ringleader rushed at him with a big knife and actually succeeded in cutting through his coat. But British pluck won the day, and he succeeded in guarding off the blows until his shouts brought the police to his assistance, and the whole party of moplabs were successfully captured and carried off to durance vile.—Madras Times.

THE Cochin Argus announces the death of Mr. Charles D'Albedyhl, for many years the second judge of the Appeal Court of Cochin. Mr. D'Albedyhl originally belonged to the Travancore service.

DEATH OF CAPT. GODFREY.—The death is announced at Coimbatore of Captain Thurlow Hovel Godfrey, who was a retired Bombay officer, and one of the early pioneers of coffee planting in Southern India. He was a keen sportsman, and it is supposed that he killed a larger number of elephants than any sportsman in Southern India. He was the owner of that large and extensive estate called "Yellam allay," which a couple of years before his death changed hands. In his palmy days when the estate was not encumbered he was noted for his liberality to the poor.—Times of India.

THE REV. J. D. SEWELL.—This Roman Catholic clergyman (late major Madras Staff Corps) arrived at Madras on the 24th from England, via Bombay, and will proceed to-morrow to Negapatam, when he will be attached to the educational staff of St. Joseph's College.—Madras Mail.

SURGEON TO THE GOVERNOR.—Surgeon Major J. Mackenzie, M.D., Army Medical Department, who is the surgeon to His Grace the Governor, returns to Europe very shortly, his tenure of office in India having almost expired.—Madras Times.

DISCOVERY OF GOLD.—A rich lode of gold has been discovered on a tea and coffee estate near Coonoor. The assay test made in London gives twelve ounces of gold to the ton of quartz. Mr. G. T. Devanney, of California mining experience, is at present experimenting on the quartz and sand found in a stream on the estate, and will shortly issue a report on the same.—Madras Standard.

MASONRY IN MYSOR.—A very pleasant masonic banquet took place at the rooms of Lodge "Bangalore, 1043," on the 24th June. The present master of the lodge, Mr. John Smith, is the engineer of the military waterworks here. Among the guests present at the banquet was Major A. W. O. Saunders, District Grand Master of Madras. In proposing success to the recently established Madras Masonic Institution for the orphans of Freemasons, Major Saunders made the pleasing announcement that it was in a flourishing condition already, considering the purposes for which it was founded. The higher classes of natives and Mahomedans in this province take more kindly to Freemasonry than they seem to do in Madras. There is a talk of a lodge for natives being started in Mysor, but I fancy the *gooroo*s will offer a stout opposition to such a scheme.—Correspondent Times of India.

MADRAS BANK DIVIDEND.—The Bank of Madras has declared a dividend for the last half-year at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum. Capital, fifty lakhs. The reserve fund remains at seven and a-quarter lakhs. The net profits amounted to two and a-half lakhs; the dividend absorbs two lakhs. Balance carried doubtful bills.—Times of India.

BOMBAY.

THE FINANCES OF MUSCAT.—His Highness the Sultan's financial embarrassments are just now of so pressing a nature that he finds it most difficult to meet his engagements. The State keeps no books of any kind, all transactions are by note of hand, and this facilitates fraud to an extent hardly credible. The revenues of Muscat, at a rough calculation, amount to close on $300,000 per annum, and this might easily be trebled if his Highness could station small bodies of troops at two or three important points in his kingdom and a gunboat at the important ports of Sohar and Soor, whence large imports are made free of duty and the revenue thus defrauded. The openhanded liberality for which his Highness Sayyid Toorkee has been justly lauded has tended to make his rule over Oman exceedingly popular, and the readiness with which his Highness's means have been frittered away has launched him at the present moment in serious difficulty.—Correspondent Bombay Gazette.

PORT DUES.—The Port Trustees have decided that from July 1 vessels using the Prince's Dock shall be charged one-third of an anna per registered ton per day. This was the original fee adopted, but the application of which was deferred until vessels had been able to realise the advantages to be derived from the use of the dock. It is satisfactory to know that the trustees believe that their dock has so far demonstrated its usefulness that they can now insist on the payment of these dues.—Bombay Gazette.

THE CENTRAL RIFLE MEETING.—In consequence of the withdrawal from the Presidency of such a large number of troops on service in Afghanistan the Central Rifle meeting, usually held at Poona in the month of September annually, will not take place this year.—Ibid.

GOANESE CURRENCY NOTES.—The Government of his Majesty the King of Portugal have granted permission to the Goa Government to issue currency notes for circulation in Portuguese India, and also to raise a loan for the construction of a large steam launch.—Ibid.

ENGLISH AND PORTUGUESE TRADE MARKS.—The Government of his Majesty the King of Portugal and the Algarves and the Government of her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, with the view to the reciprocal protection of trade marks and trade labels, as well as industrial designs and patterns in the two countries, have agreed as follows:—The subjects of each of the contracting parties shall have, in the dominions and possessions of the other the same rights as belong to native subjects, or as are now granted, or may hereafter be granted, to the subjects of the most favoured nation, in everything relating to property in trade marks and trade labels, as well as in industrial designs and patterns. It is understood that any person who desires to obtain the aforesaid protection must fulfil the formalities required by the laws of the respective countries.—Ibid.

SMALL BUT PUBLIC SPIRITED.—The municipality of Dholka, in Ahmedabad, may well set an example to other municipal bodies in India in point of public spirit. It consists of five Government and ten citizen members. Mr. Crawford, the second assistant collector, who is also the vice-president of the municipality, having issued a notice recently to impose taxes on houses, privies, and sewers, in spite of the opposition of eight of the unofficial members, they thought the people of the taluka too poor to bear the burden, and, on finding their protest unavailing, they have submitted their resignations, and, what is more, duly notified that fact in a humble memorial to his Excellency the Governor in Council at Bombay.—Ibid.

THE KUSMORE BUND.—The great embankment in Sind known as the Kusmore Bund has given way. This embankment extends from the town of Kusmore to the mouths of the Bejari Canal, a distance of about forty miles. It was constructed to protect a large tract of country from floods, like those which in 1874 injured about eighty villages and threatened Jacobabad. The bund burst two years ago at the end next the Indus, and the flood carried away several miles of the Indus Valley Railway. This year the breach is at the other end, and will, therefore, be more easily repaired.—Times Telegram.

THE SIND RESERVE.—The following troops of the reserve division in Sind have been ordered on service:—F Battery, 2nd Brigade, Royal Artillery, from Hyderabad; 2nd Battalion, 11th Foot, from Hyderabad and Bombay; the 1st Madras Cavalry, from Jacobabad; the 9th Bombay Native Infantry, from Karachi and Jacobabad; the 24th Native Infantry, from Hyderabad.—Times Telegram.

THE C.D. ACT IN BOMBAY.—The Governor in Council has made certain rules for the administration of the Indian Contagious Diseases Act, 1868, in the city of Bombay, and directs that they shall come into operation on Sept. 1 next, and be "vigilantly enforced" within the limits to which the Act was applied by Government notification of April 6, 1870. The registration of the persons who will come under the operation of the Act is to be conducted, under the orders of the Commissioner of Police, by police inspectors, aided by such special staff as Government shall from time to time sanction. Police stations in convenient parts of the city will be appointed as offices at which the registration is to be conducted and a district assigned to each. A board will be affixed outside each office in a conspicuous position, having on it in English, Marathi, and Guzerathi, the words "Office for Registration under the Contagious Diseases Act for the district of ———." One of the rules, which are printed at length in the Government Gazette of yesterday, prescribes that all police officers and constables of the Bombay police are authorised to require any person registered under these rules to produce and show her or his registration ticket. Prosecutions under the Act may be instituted at the instance of the commissioner of police or of some officer specially deputed by him for this purpose. It will be the duty of the inspector of police of each district to exercise personally, and through his subordinates, vigilant supervision within his jurisdiction for the purpose of enforcing the strict observance of the provisions of the Act and of the rules, and of detecting infringements of the same. Subject to the orders of the police commissioner periodical inspection is to be made by the police of all registered persons and registration tickets, and all offences against the Act or against the rules are to be immediately reported to him. Honorary Surgeon Major Anderson, K.L.S., is appointed chief medical officer in charge of the hospital which is to be established under the Act; Mr. P. C. De Souza, L.M., assistant surgeon, Sakharum Arjoon, L.M., and Mr. Cowasjee Hormusjee are appointed examining officers.—Government Gazette.

THE SAILORS' HOME.—His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to accept office as one of the patrons of the Royal Alfred Sailors' Home, and has at the same time intimated his intention of becoming a life member of the institution. We should be glad to see Sir J. Fergusson's example followed by other leading and influential citizens.—Times of India.

MR. J. WOODTLI'S appointment as acting consul for Germany at Aden has been confirmed by the Home Government. The appointment of Mr. F. B. Bozzoni as consul for Italy at Bombay, and that of Mr. Victor Binentfeld as acting consul for Italy at Aden, during the absence of Mr. G. Binentfeld Rolph, have been recognised by his Excellency the Governor General in Council.—Ibid.

BRIGADIER GENERAL HOGG.—Many of our readers will regret to hear that Brigadier General Hogg, quartermaster general, has had a relapse of the malady which he contracted on field service, and that the doctors have ordered him home. General Hogg leaves by the mail steamer. Lieut. Col. Pottinger, it is said, will officiate as quartermaster general during General Hogg's absence.—Times of India.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES ACT.—The Prabhakar condemns the Contagious Diseases Act as calculated to vex the spirit of the people and to entail unnecessary expense on the State. The Prabhakar characterises the Act as one of the worst of Sir Richard Temple's many unpopular measures. The Kossid-i-Mumbai, on the other hand, expects some good from the working of the Act. In a city like Bombay, says the Kossid, the Act is likely in some measure to check the spread of vice and disease.—Times of India.

THE NEW CHURCH.—With the consent of Government the foundations of the new church on Malabar Hill have already been put in, but the corner-stone will not be laid, nor will the work be allowed to proceed further, until the whole of the sum required is available and paid into the Government Treasury. It is hoped, therefore, that funds will soon be forthcoming for the continuation and completion of the building. Rs.4,000 are still required.—Bombay Church Chronicle.

The Faculty of Arts of Bombay University have elected Mr. H. M. Birdwood as dean and syndic in the place of Mr. Wordsworth.

THE INDUS VALLEY LINE.—Cases of heat apoplexy are frequent on this line. A permanent way inspector, named Ingram, was found dead in the mail train from Sibi on June 21.—Times of India.

H.M.S. "HIMALAYA."—Her Majesty's troopship Himalaya, Capt. Brent, arrived in harbour on June 25 from Plymouth, which port she left on May 25, via Aden June 3, with a new company of officers and crew for H.M.'s Ruby, and ten military officers as passengers. During the voyage she experienced very hot weather in the Red Sea, and monsoon weather between Aden and Bombay. Two deaths occurred during the voyage, the ship's third engineer, and a carpenter, one dying from heart disease and the other from heat apoplexy. The following are the names of the military officers who arrived by the Himalaya:—Lieut. H. C. Powell, Royal Marine Light Infantry; Capt. M. Benson, Bombay 17th Lancers; Lieut. F. F. Milton, Bengal 97th Regt.; Lieut. W. J. H. Bond, Bengal 2nd W.I. Regt.; Lieut. E. V. Goldsmid, Royal Marine Light Infantry; Lieut. D. J. O. Taylor, Bengal 25th Regt. K.O.B.; Lieut. J. F. Thatcher, Bombay 20th Regt. N.I.; Lieut. J. A. F. Taylor, Bengal 101st R.B. Fusiliers; 2nd Lieut. J. H. B. C. Barber, Bengal 4th K.O. Regt.; and Lieut. H. O'Donnell, Bengal 2-24th Regt.

ARRIVAL OF H.M.S. "WOODLARK."—H.M.S. Woodlark 774 tons, three guns, Commander P. C. Johnstone, arrived in harbour on June 29, from Plymouth April 14. The Woodlark is a sister ship to the Vulture and the Philomel, and her destination is the Persian Gulf, where she goes to relieve the Vulture. On the voyage out—at Saakin—she struck on a coral bank, and was not got off for three days. The heat during the time was very great, the thermometer registering ninety-eight degrees in the shade. In other respects the vessel was scarcely less fortunate, for the captain and paymaster were struck down with the heat apoplexy, and the former succumbed. In addition to this melancholy occurrence the gunner met with a severe accident, which will incapacitate him from duty for some time. The Woodlark will be docked, and after her bottom has been examined, and any necessary repairs made, she will proceed to her destination.

RIVAL RAILWAYS.—Meetings have been held at Carwar by the merchants, traders, and contractors to memorialise Government against the concession for the Portuguese railway from Hubli to Margao in preference to the Hubli-Carwar line.—Times of India.

BOMBAY UNIVERSITY.—Mr. Vasudev Krishnarao Dhairyan, barrister at law, having resigned the Munguldas Nathooobhoy Travelling Fellowship, the Syndicate of the Bombay Presidency notify that they will proceed to make another election on Friday, the 30th inst. The Munguldas Nathooobhoy Travelling Fellowship "is open to all graduates of the University of Bombay being Hindus who shall not be of more than five years' standing from the date of their graduation, and is tenable for a space of three years. The conditions of tenure are that the Fellow must leave Bombay and proceed to Europe within two months after his election; that he shall spend the whole of the three years subsequent to the date of his leaving India for Europe out of India, and six months at least out of each year in Great Britain or Ireland; and that he shall report twice a year to the university registrar as to the mode in which his time has been spent.—Ibid.

PUNA CANTONMENTS.—The 78th Highlanders have since last season shifted their quarters from the right flank lines to the Ghorpoorie lines, their old quarters having been made over to the 4th King's Own. The Ghorpoorie lines have always had a bad name, and are supposed to be the most unhealthy lines in Puna. It was, I believe, considered that the 78th, having had a year's acclimatisation, could stand the insalubriousness of Ghorpoorie better than the 4th, which had but newly arrived from the Cape. This comment to the physical condition of the men of the 78th has not been appreciated by the officers and men, who have been far from being pleased at their change of quarters. Ghorpoorie has been notoriously unhealthy for some years past, and it seems rather reckless to be putting up new barracks and other buildings there for military purposes.—Correspondent Times of India.

THE RAINFALL.—The rainfall in Bombay up to yesterday (July 2) was as follows:—Byculla, 26in. 41c.; Fort, 29in. 78c.; and Colaba, 24in. 85c.—Times of India.

CEYLON.

The following items are from the Ceylon Times of June 15:—

THE WEATHER.—The weather is abnormal, there has been no rain to speak of for the last two weeks, and planters are complaining that they cannot get weather for the new clearings. This is the more disappointing after the long spell of wet weather experienced during blossoming time, and just when it was not wanted.

THE CORN.—Early in the present season the estimates of the current crop were variously stated at somewhat above half a million of cwts. At the present time this quantity has been already reached, as the latest returns show that, including the cargoes of the Eldorado and Kingdom of Sweden, we have exported of the current season's crops, 513,698cwt. plantation, and 37,218cwt. native, making a total of 550,916cwt.

S.S. "ALMORA."—The s.s. Almora will leave to-day for Europe with the following passengers:—Messrs. J. Underwood, R. Turrim, G. Morrice, H. Thwaites, and Mrs. Barclay and children.

THE "GAZETTE."—Last Saturday's Gazette contains the following appointments:—J. G. Haughton, Esq., to be additional office assistant at Colombo to the Government agent for the Western Province. W. Penny, Esq., to be acting assistant at Kegalla to the Government agent for the Western Province and superintendent of the prison at Kegalla, with effect from the 8th inst., in addition to his own duties as district judge. J. P. Lewis, Esq., to act as commissioner of requests, police magistrate, and coroner for the district of Balapitmodara, and superintendent of Balapitmodara Prison, during the absence of A. M. Ashmore, Esq., from the station. P. D. Anthonisz, Esq., M.D., to be acting principal civil medical officer and inspector general of hospitals, visitor of all the prisons in the island, councillor of the municipal council of Colombo, &c., during the absence of Dr. Kynsey on leave. J. R. Loos, Esq., to be acting registrar of the Supreme Court for three months from the 15th inst., during the absence of H. Thwaites, Esq., on leave. T. Morgan, Esq., to be a councillor of the municipal council of Galle, from the 8th inst., during the absence of Dr. Anthonisz from the station. Dr. A. Fretz to be an official member of the local board of health and improvement of Kalutara, vice Dr. T. Morgan. J. H. De Saram, Esq., to act as registrar of lands, Kuranegala, with effect from the 11th inst., during the absence of W. H. P. De Saram, Esq., from the station. With reference to the notice dated Feb. 9 last, it is hereby notified that Mr. J. L. Sipperger having presented the Queen's exequatur, dated April 28, his Excellency the Governor has been pleased to recognise him as Belgian Consul at Colombo.

At the request of his Lordship Bishop Bonjean, his Holiness Leo XIII. has, says the Bombay Catholic Examiner, named S. Modliar Saverimutti Modliar, Knight of the Order of St. Gregory the Great. The Jaffna Catholic Guardian believes that this is the first instance of such an honour having been bestowed on any native Indian Catholic. The Modliar must be well advanced in years, as it was he who made application to Pope Gregory XVI. for the aid of additional missionaries for Jaffna. The ceremony of investiture will take place on the return of Bishop Bonjean to Jaffna.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

CABUL AND AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. MACARTNEY, in the absence of Mr. Onslow, asked the Secretary of State for India whether he could, without inconvenience to the public service, state definitely what is the policy of the Government regarding our present and future position in Afghanistan; and if he could state the day when he proposed to take the discussion on the Indian Budget; and it on that day he would be prepared to state to the House the sum proposed to be borne by this country for the expenses of the Afghan war.

Lord HARTINGTON: The House will have observed, from the statement in the newspapers to-day, that the position of Cabul and Afghanistan generally is at the present moment somewhat critical, although I should say it is satisfactory. Under the circumstances, I thought it desirable, with reference to the question of the hon. member, to telegraph to Lord Ripon whether a statement of the position of affairs would be of advantage, and, in answer to that telegram, I received one from him yesterday that an important durbar would be held to-day at Cabul, and it would be better that no statement should be made till after the durbar. (Hear, hear.) Under these circumstances, perhaps, I shall be excused from answering the question. I may be able to give some information on Monday next. I will then also state when the Indian Budget will be taken and the sum proposed to be borne by this country for the expenses of the Afghan war.

GENERAL CAVENAGH'S CLAIM.

Sir TREVOR LAWRENCE asked the Secretary of State for India whether there had been any correspondence between General Orfeur Cavenagh and the authorities at the India-office regarding General Cavenagh's claim for redress for the injury inflicted on him by his summary removal from the post of Governor of the Straits Settlements; and, if so, whether that claim would receive favourable consideration.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: There is no correspondence in the India-office relative to General Cavenagh's claim except that which has passed between himself and the private secretary of the Secretary of State. General Cavenagh's case appeared to be as follows:—In August, 1866, he was appointed Governor of the Straits Settlements, which were subsequently transferred to the Colonial-office. The Order in Council under which the transfer was made passed at the end of 1866, and the transfer was made on April 1, 1867. On the occurrence of this change the Colonial-office decided to remove General Cavenagh and to appoint another Governor. Unfortunately, in consequence of some mismanagement, General Cavenagh heard, privately and unofficially, of the intention to remove him before the official information was communicated to him, and he naturally felt very much offended and aggrieved at this procedure. There was, however, as far as I can ascertain, no intention whatsoever to injure his feelings or to inflict any stigma upon him, and that which took place was, I believe, the result of pure accident. He was informed, at least on one occasion, by Lord Cranborne, now Lord Salisbury, that the India-office highly appreciated his services, and there is certainly no disposition whatever to believe, as General Cavenagh appears to think, that his removal from the Governorship of the Straits Settlements inflicted any stigma upon his character. The hon. member asks what redress will be made to General Cavenagh. I cannot admit that General Cavenagh has any claim to redress. I have stated that the circumstances of his removal were, in my opinion, unfortunate, but I should add that he held the Governorship for seven and a half years, a longer period than such offices are usually held; and, although he may be very usefully re-employed, there are not many offices for which an officer of his rank is eligible. I know that his claim for some honour or decoration has been repeatedly under the consideration of the Secretary of State, and I regret that no opportunity has presented itself of conferring such an honour as his services entitle him to. (Hear, hear.)

THE AFGHAN WAR.

In answer to Lord Eustace Cecil,

Lord HARTINGTON said he saw no reason for making any further inquiry as to whether the conduct of the Afghan war had been economical as far as the organisation and working of the Indian Commissariat and Transport Departments on their present purely military basis were concerned. It was a matter of course that such inquiry as was necessary on general grounds would take place.

CONTRACTS FOR BEER.

Mr. J. BARCLAY asked the Secretary of State for India whether the Store Department recently entered into a private contract for a supply of malt liquor with a firm of shipbrokers in the City; and, if so, whether he would explain how the department came to contract privately with shipbrokers for beer; and whether he would arrange that in future all Indian stores be purchased in this country under public tenders.

Lord HARTINGTON said: I do not understand what is meant by a "private contract" when entered into by a public department; but on the occasion referred to the Director-General of Stores invited tenders from thirty-five firms of brewers. The lowest of ten tenders received in reply was signed by Messrs. G. D. Tyser and Co., ship and insurance agents, to whom the conditions of contract had been handed by Messrs. Meux and Co., one of the thirty-five brewers invited to tender. It was presumed that this had been done because there was a member of Parliament in the firm of Meux and Co. The India-office had no intention of conniving at any infraction of the law, and referred the question to their legal adviser; and Messrs. Tyser stated, in reply to a letter from the India-office, written on his advice, that they were prepared to make a judicial declaration that no member of Parliament would be interested in the Government contract if the contract were given to them. This being so, and as the same facilities for inspection and access to the brewery, and the same guarantees for an efficient supply, were secured as if the contract had been held by Messrs. Meux; and as, moreover, the difference of price, when compared with the next lowest tender, was very substantial, the order was given to Messrs. Tyser, who, with Messrs. Meux and Co., were in former years large suppliers of beer to India, and who are favourably known to the India-office as a firm of position and reliability. With regard to the method of inviting tenders, I may explain that when they are not called for by advertisement the firms to be invited are taken from a list which in most cases is believed to contain all the first-class firms capable of satisfactorily undertaking the supply. There is every desire in the Store Department that this list should be a complete one, and applications from manufacturers to be added to it are always carefully entertained.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY, JULY 23.

PETITION.

A petition was presented by Sir DAVID WEDDERBURN from the British Indian Association of Calcutta for a Royal Commission to inquire into the administration of India since the transfer of the Government from the East India Company to the Crown.

THE BEGUM KOOTIE PRIZE MONEY.

Sir C. RUSSELL asked the Secretary of State for India if he would lay upon the table of the House the general order relating to the Begum Kootie prize money, and state why the prize money had not been distributed according to the order referred to.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: Nothing is known of any "order" issued in Lucknow regarding the distribution; but Sir Hope Grant, who was in command at Lucknow at the time, did submit the question to the Government of India whether the property was to be divided, like prize money, between the whole of the officers and men quartered in the Begum Kootie at the time of the discovery of the treasure, or given to the actual finders only. The discovery was made in December, 1858, and January, 1859, i.e., after the operations of the prize agents had been brought to a close, and the property was considered treasure trove and to belong of right to the Crown. There can be no doubt the finders could have no interest in the discovery further than the Government thought fit to give them. The money, &c., found amounted to about £14,000; a sum of £3,600 was given by the Government to the actual finders, and the distribution of this amount was left to Major General Sir Hope Grant, who then commanded in Oudh, in accordance with the usages of the service, and under such instructions as he might receive from his Excellency the Commander in Chief. The correspondence on this subject was shown on page 52 and the following pages of a return to an order of the House of Lords, dated July 10, 1873.

CAPTAIN J. B. CHATTERTON.

Mr. WATNEY (for Mr. GRANTHAM) asked a series of questions as to the removal of Captain J. B. Chatterton from the Beagal Staff Corps in 1869.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: The despatch upon receipt of which the order for the removal of Lieutenant Chatterton was issued was dated 5th of January, 1869, from Fort William. His removal to the half-pay pension list was ordered after consultation with his Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief, who considered that "the retention of Lieutenant Chatterton on the effective list of the Bengal Staff Corps is most undesirable." As regards the rest of the question, it will be necessary to make a reference to the Government of India, which will be done if considered desirable. An extremely voluminous correspondence regarding Lieutenant Chatterton's case exists. His case has been before several Secretaries of state on numerous occasions, and has received most careful consideration. I cannot see that there would be any advantage in reopening it.

THE DURBAR AT CABUL.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON, in reply to Mr. ARNOLD, said: I have received a telegram from the Viceroy this morning, in which it is stated that a durbar was held at Cabul yesterday, at which were present a number of the chiefs who are with Abdul Rahman, and that at that durbar Abdul Rahman was proclaimed Ameer of Afghanistan. The message does not say by whom he was so proclaimed. I have given the substance of the telegram I have received. The whole country is at present perfectly tranquil; and I should prefer to postpone any more detailed statement as to the affairs of Afghanistan, at all events until Monday.

GENERAL DORAN has recommended Captain H. Kilgour and Colour Sergeant Wood, 1st Battalion 5th Fusiliers, most strongly for the Victoria Cross on account of the conspicuous bravery displayed by them in action recently in Afghanistan.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

PROSPECTS OF PEACE.

WHEN the deputation of retired officials, Radical members of Parliament, and ambitious Indian students interviewed the Secretary of State for India they drew from that frank but cautious nobleman a well-conveyed warning against unfounded expectations of reversal of policy. Nothing can more thoroughly illustrate the extreme political inexperience of the gentlemen who wish to be considered the mouthpieces of "the Indian nation" than their greedy expectation that a new Ministry will promptly repeal all the legislative measures which a minority in Opposition had unsuccessfully resisted. Yet there is much excuse to be made for the young Indians who seek to be allowed to carry arms to protect themselves against tigers, to be at liberty to abuse the Government in their mother tongue, and, above all, to be allowed to struggle into the well-paid posts of the public service. For these young gentlemen can fairly urge the example of those journalists and politicians who have not scrupled to urge upon the Government of India to annul the grant of authority made to Shere Ali of Kandahar, and in order to propitiate Abdul Rahman, under the pretence of securing to him a complete dominion, to destroy the newly restored independence of Southern Afghanistan. The telegraphic accounts of the proceedings at the Durbar held on Thursday go no further than the statement that Mr. Lepel Griffin, on the part of the Viceroy of the Queen-Empress of India, publicly acknowledged Abdul Rahman as Ameer of Afghanistan, and announced the early withdrawal of our troops within the frontier fixed by the treaty of Gandamak. The gradual change in the attitude of Abdul Rahman, the adhesion given to him by the hitherto upholders of the rights of the young Musa Khan, dictated or directed by our political officers, have all pointed to the conclusion that the exiled Sirdar would at last reap the fruits of his long waiting and succeed to the throne of which he desired to deprive his uncle. It is perhaps premature to speculate on the probable policy that the new Ameer will pursue. There are not wanting those of experience in frontier politics who prophesy that he is more inclined to support Russian interests, and that, if the opportunity arrives and seems likely to offer him advantages, he will play the same game that Shere Ali tried with such disastrous effects. It may, however, be remembered that the new Ameer has seen all that can be seen of the strength and the weakness of the Tashkend Government; that, if he has been a pensioner of the Russians, he owes his throne, not to them, but to the Power which broke down Shere Ali's plans and strength, because he had been a secret enemy and a traitorous friend. Abdul Rahman has seen no practical aid given by Russia to those who were ruined by listening to her suggestions and labouring for her ends; even though he may possibly, nay probably, have owed not only his own safety, but inability to come forward as a candidate for the Afghan leadership, to assistance furnished by the Tashkend treasury, he has found his powers of proceeding further than the Hindu Kush absolutely dependent on the consent of the British general, while the utmost energies of the Russians in Central Asia are taxed to prepare for conflict with China and the retention of Ili. There is only one way of dealing with the new Ameer, but whether it will be taken at present remains to be seen. We are told of the withdrawal of the troops within the Gandamak frontier. We do not yet know whether any stipulations will be entered into for the maintenance of a complete oversight of his administration. Until it is made most perfectly plain that in the event either of disaffection on his part, or an armed rebellion against his authority, the Indian Government will promptly and effectually interfere, nothing will have been accomplished except the establishment of an opinion in India that Afghanistan presents an insuperable difficulty. There is a strong wish on the part of the troops to be relieved from an irksome duty. There is an intense desire on the part of the Home and Indian Governments to put a stop to the drain upon the resources of India and the patience of the dominant party at home. These combined forces of will have been materially assisted by the wish of the Afghans to get us out of the country. They have all the patriotism of lawless plunderers and sorely object to the presence of the stern and implacable enforcers of peace and order. Added to all this there is the long cherished ambition of Abdul Rahman to enjoy the rights, as he deems, so long denied him. Therefore the result has been at last somewhat speedily, not to say hurriedly, arrived at. That the end has come, and that peace, either internal or external, has been assured, is by no means as certain. We do not so much fear the Muscovite proclivities of the new Ruler. The silence with which the assembled Sirdars received the appeal addressed to them is eloquent of dangers arising, not from, but to him. It is time to face the fact, unpleasant as it is, that has forced itself upon competent observers like Dr. Bellew, and many more both in India and in England, that, however much it may be disapproved in principle, or objected to as unprofitable, the virtual, if not actual, annexation of Afghanistan must be distinctly contemplated as the needful penalty to be inflicted for the next Afghan offence. If this is made plain to the Ameer, not in public durbar, but by the political officer, supported by Sir Donald Stewart, as the determination of the Government of the Queen-Empress; if the restless and turbulent sirdars understand, and the Ameer understands, that we prefer not to be troubled with the direct government of their country, but that we will not be harassed by "autonomous" intrigues either on or against the throne of Cabul, there may be some hope that the future condition of Afghanistan may be more prosperous in itself and less troublesome to India. It is impossible to expect the new Ameer quietly or contentedly to acquiesce in the settlement which withdraws from his rule the valuable provinces of Kandahar, and, we may add, Herat. The statement that he promulgated among his tribesmen the pretended offer to him of the whole of the dominions of Dost Mahomed shows that he fancied at least that negotiations might result in the dispossession of our nominee and the reconquest or submission of Herat. If it is a subject for debate whether it is wise or politic to content ourselves with the frontier as defined by the Treaty of Gandamak, it cannot admit of a second thought that we must maintain the independence of Kandahar, for which even now our troops may be fighting against the army of Ayub Khan. He has attacked the Wali, and his very advance from Herat shows that it is not only essential to our national honour, but to our interest, to maintain our influence over Southern Afghanistan and the historical military route to India. If, in the withdrawal of our troops, the removal of the garrison of Kandahar is contemplated to be carried into effect simultaneously with the evacuation of Sherpur, it will be above all things needful to declare that any act of hostility against the ruler of Kandahar will be held as a sufficient cause for the dethronement of the Ameer of Cabul. It has been abundantly demonstrated in an article in the Examiner of to-day that the imaginary difficulties of the march from Herat to Kandahar did not exist so as to cause even delay to the advance of Ayub Khan and his few thousand men. We hope that by the time these words appear our readers may have heard of their discomfiture. But their advance will have been most useful if it shall have taught the lesson that we cannot suffer Kandahar and the domination of the Herat route to fall into the hands of a doubtful ally. Whether the know-nothings will prevail over the wise and moderate statesmen in this matter remains to be seen. For the security of our frontier, for the benefit of our Western Indian commerce, for the good name and honour of the Government of India, we hope and believe that the solidarity and immunity of the State of Kandahar will be effectually guaranteed even if it does require the retention of our military command of the Khojak Pass, or, for some time at least, the maintenance of a garrison at Kandahar. There are plentiful prophecies of the illusive character of the peace which is now practically assured. It could need no prophet to foretell evil if any change was made in Southern Afghanistan unless it were to include Herat in the protected State. Of one thing those who advise the retrocession of Kandahar may be sure, that it will make our annexation of all Afghanistan a speedy necessity.

SOUTH EAST WYNAAD ESTATES AND GOLD MINING COMPANY.—The following advice from Mr. Oliver Pegler has been received:—"Went also last week to Richmond, and ran over the principal reefs of the three estates, and was astonished at the grand character of the veins; some being, as Captain Roberts says, fathoms wide, and also present appearances of being auriferous and highly promising. There are large extents of native mining operations and alluvial washing, which point undoubtedly to the auriferous character of the stone, and if our preliminary prospection is successful great results must be expected, as there are great quantities of quartz, sufficient for the employment of many stamp-heads and a large daily output, sufficient indeed for more than one company. I am going to have the quartz broken in two places at least here, and commencement for two tunnels will be made immediately."

HOME NEWS.

DEATH OF SIR CECIL BEADON, K.C.S.I.—We have to record the death of Sir Cecil Beadon, K.C.S.I., which occurred on Sunday at Latton, Wiltshire. He was the youngest son of the late Mr. Richard Beadon by his marriage with Annabella, daughter of the late Sir William Pierce Ashe A'Court, and was born in the year 1816. Educated at Haileybury College, he entered the Bengal Civil Service, and proceeded to India in 1836. He was appointed under secretary to the Government of Bengal in 1843, secretary to the Board of Revenue in 1847, and secretary to the Government of Bengal in 1852. In 1854 he was appointed secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, and was transferred to the Foreign Department in 1859. He was nominated a member of the Supreme Council of India in 1860, and was appointed Lieutenant Governor of Bengal in 1862. He received the Order of the Star of India in recognition of his long services in that country on his retirement in 1866. Sir Cecil Beadon, who was a grandson of the late Right Rev. Dr. Richard Beadon, Bishop of Bath and Wells, was twice married—first, in 1837, to Harriet, daughter of Major Ralph H. Sneyd, of the Bengal Cavalry; and, secondly, in 1858, to Agnes, daughter of Mr. William H. Sterndale, of Ashtord, Derbyshire.

OBITUARY.—We have to record the death of General Sir Maurice Stack, K.C.B., late of the 3rd (Queen's Own) Bombay Cavalry, which occurred on Tuesday, at the Hayes, Prestbury. The second son of the late Rev. John Stack, formerly fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, by his marriage with Eliza, daughter of the late Capt. Barker, R.N., he was born in the year 1796, and entered the army in 1815, in which year he served with the 1st European Fusiliers in Kattiwar and Kutch, and was present at the taking of Anjar and Bhooj. He served with the 2nd Bombay Light Cavalry against marauders in Guzerat in 1818. He was promoted to a lieutenancy in 1817, became captain in 1826, major in 1839, and lieutenant colonel in 1843. He commanded a brigade in the campaign in Sind in 1843, under Sir Charles Napier, and was present at the battle of Hyderabad. His subsequent promotions were—Colonel and major general in 1854, lieutenant general in 1868, and general in 1873. He was nominated a Companion of the Order of the Bath (military division) in 1843, and was promoted to a Knight Commander of that Order in 1867. He married in 1824 Cecilia, second daughter of the late Mr. Hugh Spottiswoode, of the Madras Civil Service.

MAJOR DE MONTMORENCY.—The funeral of the late Major R. H. De Montmorency took place at Norwood Cemetery on Tuesday, July 20. Among the relatives of the deceased officer present were Mr. George Coles, Capt. Coles, Mr. Horsman Coles, Mr. A. Bailey, and Messrs. Edward, Ernest, and Charles Coles (members of his wife's family); also Gen. James Abbott, C.B., Col. Blackett Revell, Capt. Low, Mr. C. R. Low, Mr. E. Radcliffe, and Major A. Dixon, R.H.A., (members of his own family). Many Indian friends and colleagues in the Oudh Commission attended to pay the last tribute of respect and affection, including Sir Vincent Eyre, Gen. S. A. Abbott, Gen. Hamilton, Gen. Steel, Col. Chamier, Major Pitcher, Mr. T. Howell, Mr. C. Gubbins, &c.

DISASTERS AT SEA.—A telegram from Lloyd's agent at Bombay states that the Mahab Buleshwar was totally wrecked at Ancutta, Laccadives, at midnight of June 15. Twelve hands were saved. Nothing was known of the fate of the remainder. The cargo would probably be lost. The Mahab Buleshwar sailed from London on February 12 for Bombay. She is a British barque, belonging to London, owned by Mr. A. McCulloch. Net tonnage, 1,269 tons.

THE MAILS.—Those more particularly interested in the time of arrival and departure of the Indian mails are agitating for a further change, the existing arrangements, which came into operation last year, being found as inconvenient as was predicted by the banks and chief mercantile houses trading with the East. A new London memorial on the subject has been handed to Sir Louis Mallet, with others from Manchester, Bradford, and Liverpool, and Lord Hartington has been asked to receive a deputation. The original memorial, it will be remembered, complained that the arrival of the mail on Thursday did not allow proper and sufficient time for letters to be replied to by the return mail, which is found to be the case even in London, where the outward mail closes on Friday. In other commercial cities of the United Kingdom the inconvenience is still greater, owing to the arrival of the mail being either after or just before the close of the outward mail. The present petition is addressed to the Secretary for India, because the Postmaster General said last year that the arrangement of the homeward mail rested entirely with the Indian Government. The memorial is influentially signed.

THE KING'S DRAGOON GUARDS.—The colonial authorities having found it feasible to dispense with the services of the King's Dragoon Guards in South Africa, it is now finally settled that that regiment will embark for India in her Majesty's ship Euphrates in October, in relief of the 15th Hussars, ordered home. The Inniskilling Dragoons will consequently not leave England until the trooping season 1881-82.

DIVORCE CASE.—The case of Lane v. Lane has been before the Divorce Court during the past week; Mr. Pritchard appearing for the petitioner, and Mr. Bayford for the respondent. The petitioner and respondent, who was in the Indian Civil Service, were married at the cathedral church at Calcutta on July 20, 1853, being both then twenty-two years of age. They lived together in different places in India and England until 1867, and had five children, the youngest of whom is now eighteen years of age. In 1867 the wife returned to England, and she did not again see her husband for two years, when they met apparently by accident. She had on many occasions begged him to return to her, but he had always refused to do so. In 1877 he retired on a pension and had since then been living in London. It came to the knowledge of the wife a short time back that he had for some time and still was living in the Priory-road, Kilburn, with a woman nearly twenty-five years younger than himself, who passed as his wife. When the wife became aware of this, she instituted the present suit for a dissolution of her marriage on the ground of the respondent's desertion and adultery. The case was practically undefended, and the above facts having been shortly proved the court pronounced a decree nisi, with costs.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders were received on Wednesday at the bank of England for Rs. 30,00,000 in Government bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs. 29,83,000; and to Madras, Rs. 1,70,000. Tenders on both Presidencies at 1s. 8¼d. will receive about 59½ per cent. Compared with last week this price shows a rise of ¼d. The same amount will be offered for tender next week.

THE MONEY MARKET.—The price of bar silver remains at 52¾, with little business. Some transactions have taken place at 51¾d. in Mexican dollars. The Indian exchanges are steady at 1s. 8¾d. to 1s. 8-7-16d. The Shanghai rate is firmer at 5s. 3½d. Four-and-a-half per Cent. Rupee paper was inclined to be flat at one time, but news of the probable early withdrawal of the troops from Cabul caused a little better feeling, and the market closed at about last night's level of 87¾ to ¾. The Four per Cents. are unchanged at 81 to ½. A memorial is in process of signature praying Lord Hartington to extend the coupon system to all the Indian loans. Nothing, so far, has been decided by the India-office, but there is reason to hope that the petition may be granted, as the expense of adding coupons is nothing when compared with the great convenience of such a system to investors.

LOSS OF A BRITISH SHIP.—Lloyd's agent at Sourabaya telegraphs that the British ship Winchester has been totally lost in the Straits of Macassar. Crew saved. The Winchester was a British ship, belonging to London, of 1,626 tons gross, and owned by Messrs. G. Croshaw and Co., and was bound from Manilla to Montreal.

LORD HARTINGTON ON INDIAN ADMINISTRATION.

THE Secretary of State for India (the Marquis of Hartington) received a deputation of natives of India and other gentlemen on Thursday afternoon at the India-office. The object of the deputation was to present a memorial containing suggestions in regard to Indian administration, relating to the Press Act, the Indian Arms Act, the admission of natives of India to the higher ranks of the Indian public service, and the desirability of giving to the people of India a voice in the administration of the affairs of their country. Among those present were Lord Stanley of Alderley, Lord Lawrence, Sir Charles Trevelyan, Sir John Phear, Professor Hunter, Mr. Noble, Mr. C. Hancock, Mr. Dacosta, Major Bell, Mr. Chesson, Mr. Ghose, Merza Peer Bucksh, O. C. Mallich, Syed Hassan, F. B. Chatterjee, Lutfur Rahman, M. D. Dadysset, Eduiju Jamsetjee Khory, S. Nurul Hoda, M. L. Gupta, H. C. Banerjee, D. N. Das, Radhica Ram Dhekal Phookan, Dolat Rao Desai, S. Chandra Nundi, U. K. Dutt, and J. Pallit. The Marquis of Hartington was accompanied by Sir L. Mallet.

Sir D. WEDDERBURN, M.P., introduced the deputation, and the memorial was formally presented to the noble marquis.

The memorial, after making reference to the new departure in Indian policy under the viceroyalty of Lord Lytton, spoke of the satisfaction with which the people of India have hailed the accession of the new Government to power. Within the last two years two measures of exceptional legislation had been passed—the Vernacular Press Act and the Indian Arms Act—which had created grave dissatisfaction in India, and for which there was no adequate justification. The Press Act, it was urged, was bad in principle, because it allowed the Government to sit in judgment over criticisms passed upon its own measures and policy. The Indian Arms Act was also regarded by the people of that country as a violation of their rights. Apart from the unwisdom of proclaiming by a legislative enactment an unfounded and nervous distrust of the people, the measure was calculated to produce great and serious mischief by throwing additional difficulties in the way of the people as regards the possession of arms in a country where they are so much needed for protection against the ravages of wild beasts. The memorialists held themselves relieved from the necessity of discussing these measures at greater length, as they had the satisfaction of knowing that the policy of those measures had been strongly condemned by the Liberal leaders while in opposition. The memorialists earnestly hoped that the Secretary of State for India would soon be able to advise the new Viceroy of India to repeal the Vernacular Press Act and the Indian Arms Act. The memorial then dealt with the question of the admission of the natives of India to the higher ranks of the Indian public service, and referred to the various pledges which had been given to the people of India both by her Majesty and by Parliament. Particular reference was made to the recent reduction of the standard of age for the London competition for the Indian Civil Service, which, the memorialists contended, had practically shut out the natives of India from these examinations. With reference to a new scheme introduced by Lord Lytton for the admission of Indians to the public service of India, the memorialists observed that it had only intensified the prevailing dissatisfaction in India by creating a subordinate adjunct to the Covenanted Civil Service, consisting of persons appointed by favour on the ground of birth and family connection. The memorialists suggested that the maximum age for Indian and English candidates for the London competitions should be replaced at twenty-one, and that natives appointed in India should be selected from deserving members of the subordinate services, as well as of the legal profession. The memorial further pointed out the desirability of giving to the people of India a voice in the administration of their country. The time had arrived when an experiment might be safely made by admitting elected representative members to the Supreme and Provincial Legislative Councils in a certain proportion to the nominated members. Under the present system of nomination by the Government, the native members of the Council could not feel or be credited with that independence which it was essential that they should enjoy. There would be no difficulty in finding constituencies to which the privilege of electing members might be properly conceded. The Presidency towns, as well as other places, already possessed the municipal franchise, and the electors, who evinced a growing and intelligent interest in the municipal elections, could not fail to exercise with wisdom the higher privilege of selecting the representatives to serve in the national councils of the empire. By introducing a reform in the direction indicated there might be an enormous accession of strength to the British Empire, by enabling the Government to ascertain the real wants and opinions of the people, and thus to secure for its legislative and fiscal measures the support of public opinion in India.

Sir C. TREVELYAN then addressed the Secretary of State on that part of the memorial which related to the admission of the natives of India to the higher ranks of the Indian service, and proceeded to adduce instances in favour of the practice. In his youth and early life it was said that the Hindus were adepts at finance. That seemed to have been very much forgotten. Of late years there had been instances where some of the natives who had been advanced had made admirable judges. If they had employed native diplomats they would never have had the Afghan war, and some of the diplomats lately employed had been natives. He submitted that the natives were good all round, not in one thing, but in all things. The natives of India had, in common with the natural-born subjects of her Majesty, the entrance gate by literary and scientific competition in the examinations held annually in London. The natives of India had always been at a great disadvantage in this respect on account of the distance they came, as well as by reason of the strangeness of the climate and the difficulty of the language. These difficulties had been increased by the regulations with reference to age and the alteration of the age to nineteen years. That was a retrograde step altogether. A lad of nineteen was like a grown up schoolboy, and you could not tell how he might turn out. At present the men were so young that they were mere apprentices, whereas if they were taken at a more mature age the Government would get better and stronger men. The step which had been taken ought to be recalled. If it had been difficult for the natives of India to compete before, how much more difficult would it be now? The other entrance gate was where the natives were appointed to positions without leaving the country. He considered this a better entrance gate than the competition in England, because it supplied them with men who would do credit to the Government and to their fellow-countrymen. The retrograde legislation which had been passed under the Government of Lord Lytton should be repealed. If we governed India for the benefit of the country, without any indirect view either to our material interests or to our Imperial glory, we might entirely depend upon the fidelity and loyalty of the natives of India. There was no more well-disposed, well-meaning population on the earth, if they only saw that they were governed with justice; and, if so, they would be the best subjects her Majesty had in any part of the world. Mr. GHOSE denounced the Arms Act as a piece of class legislation of the most invidious character, and as inflicting a gross indignity. The educated natives in India were increasing in number, and the opinions which they held now would become the opinions of the masses of the people. Mr. HODGSON PRATT said the Vernacular Press Act had interfered with what all Englishmen considered to be a great means of promoting the education of the people. He thought those who had looked at the Vernacular Press must admit that, though there might be found in it a little of what was pedantic, the writing of the natives showed great ability and fairness. These educated natives must be the best interpreters between the rulers and the ruled. If it were true that our great mission in India was to qualify the natives to govern themselves, he knew no better means to forward this end than by the encouragement of a good Vernacular Press.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said he had great pleasure in receiving that influential deputation, and in having that opportunity of hearing the opinions which were held by some of the educated and intelligent natives of India upon these important subjects—opinions which were shared by a large number of gentlemen who took an active interest in Indian questions at home. As the time at his disposal was short, he should not be able to go at all fully into the matter laid before him in the memorial. If he understood rightly, their object in coming there that day was rather to lay before him and those who governed India their views on the subject than to elicit any statement of his own opinion. They had referred in the memorial to four of the most important questions which could possibly engage the attention of the Indian Government. They held strong views upon these questions, which had been very ably stated; but while there was a great deal that had been said with which he could agree, there had been some observations made with which he could not altogether coincide. But he would not argue those questions then, because to do so might lead to a very prolonged debate. He would say, in a general way, that their views were very well worthy of consideration, and that they had been very ably and temperately expressed, and that he should be glad to lay them before his colleagues in the Government for their consideration. He might, perhaps, be able to make one or two general observations. They objected to a good deal of the legislation which had been enacted during the last few years in India. They had reminded him also that much of that legislation had been opposed by colleagues of his own during the last Parliament. It was true that they thought some of that legislation ill advised and much to be regretted, and, no doubt, after the change of Administration the time had come when some of this legislation had to be reconsidered. But he would remind them that it would be quite inconsistent with our regular political practice that a change in political power should be accompanied with anything like a hasty reversal of legislation. In Parliament they often had to oppose legislation proposed by their opponents. They did all they could to oppose or modify it, but their general practice was when legislation had once been enacted, not, on the attainment of political power, to attempt to reverse it hastily. He thought they all desired that questions of Indian administration should not be made party questions, but should be discussed on their own merits, as far as possible apart from party influence and passion. He thought it would be very much to be regretted that it should be supposed that, because there was a change of political power in England, everything done by the late Government was at once to be reversed, and that great political changes in India should follow political changes at home. He did not wish to push these considerations too far. He admitted that the Acts to which he referred must be carefully watched, and it would be the duty of the Government here and in India to inform itself and to obtain the experience of intelligent native opinion as to the character and tendency of those Acts, and to consider whether they should be modified or altogether repealed. As to the Vernacular Press Act, he had heard from Lord Ripon upon this subject, to which he had already given his attention. He (Lord Hartington) would not express any opinion upon it at present. He would only point out that, as Lord Ripon had told him, it was a matter which must be approached with considerable care. They were aware that that legislation did not proceed from the Home Government. He did not know that it emanated from Lord Lytton himself. It proceeded mainly, he believed, from men of experience and position, and members of Lord Ripon's Legislative Council were probably in favour of the principle contained in the Act. He did not think they would desire unduly to weaken the sense of responsibility of the Legislative Council by pressing for a sudden reversal of the opinion which had been expressed. Any change must be very carefully and very well considered, and should be brought forward after full consideration of the working of the present law. He might further say as to the criminal law that, as regarded libel, it was almost unworkable, and the law ought to be altered so that it might be more easily and effectually worked. Probably Lord Ripon would send home proposals on the subject. He would not say much as to the Arms Act, as it had not come much under his consideration. In a country like India there must be some regulations as to the carrying of arms. Whether those in existence were calculated to promote good feeling among the native population was a point on which he would not express an opinion, but he had no doubt the subject would occupy the attention of the Viceroy. The question of the admission of the natives of India to the higher ranks of the public service was one which had occupied the attention of the English Government and Parliament. He believed that all Indian statesmen of eminence had been of opinion that it was necessary that a certain proportion of the higher appointments should be reserved. How far that principle might be abandoned he could not say at present. There had also been a desire to introduce, carefully and gradually, a large number of Hindus. He thought that any one who read the papers recently presented to Parliament must see that, whether the new regulations were properly framed or not, the object was to extend, and not to restrict or limit, the number of natives employed. All he could say was that he would bring their views on the question under the attention of Lord Ripon, and he was sure the object of the Government of India would be, if it found the new regulations were not satisfactory to the educated opinion of India, to make such modifications as to bring them more into harmony with such opinion. In justice to the late Government he would say that the rules were not framed in a niggardly spirit, but that the object was to increase the employment of natives. The question relating to representation was too large a one to go into them. He would only say that his predecessor in the Indian Government thought some of these proposals were very well worthy of consideration, and he was not inclined to say less. Returning to the working of their political system, he admitted that he had a great deal to learn with reference to the administration of Indian affairs. He thought it would be admitted that he had come to the consideration of Indian affairs at a time when their position was rather unfortunate, owing to the war with Afghanistan, which he hoped had now come to an end, and also with reference to the financial condition of India. These were subjects of vast importance to our Indian fellow-subjects. He hoped the Government of India would be able to devote its undivided attention to those questions connected with India which had been brought before him, and which he would lay before his colleagues.

Lord LAWRENCE thanked the noble marquis for the very satisfactory answer which he had returned to the deputation, which then withdrew.

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

The want of comfortable accommodation in London, with living on an equality with that of a Regimental Mess and at economical rates, have always been felt by Officers of the Services. This it is now intended to supply, both for temporary use and also in the style of a Residential Club, so that Shareholders may retain Private Rooms or Suites of Rooms with good attendance, and the use of General Dining, Drawing, Club, Smoking, and other Rooms, while they may be either boarded at very moderate rates, or obtain their meals as required in Club fashion, and at charges framed from those adopted by successful public caterers.

The Army and Navy Hotel is established for the purpose of these requirements, and is intended for the use of the Public as well as of the Shareholders, priority being in all cases given to the latter.

The rooms of the Hotel will be plainly yet substantially furnished, avoiding all the glitter which, while adding to the expense, does not add to the comfort of the visitor.

Drawing Rooms for Ladies and Billiard Rooms will form an attractive feature in the establishment.

Shareholders will be allowed the use of the smoking, reading, and writing rooms, thus providing all the accommodation of a club without any annual subscription.

It is intended to purchase groceries, food, and stores of every description from the various Co-operative Stores and Markets, and to add a small profit to the prime cost of these articles, so that the price of living at the Hotel will be brought within the reach of all Shareholders.

The Cuisine will be under the superintendence of experienced French and English Cooks, and whilst Bachelors will find all the advantages of a Mess, Married Officers will not miss the comforts of home.

A House Dinner of Six Courses will be served from Six to Eight p.m., at a very moderate charge, in Club fashion, at separate tables.

The furnishing to Shareholders of carriages, open or closed, park-hacks, &c., for the day, week, or season, will form an adjunct to the Hotel.

No charge will be made for attendance; all servants of the Hotel will be liberally paid, and visitors are not required to make any douceur.

A large room with every convenience for Regimental Dinners, Balls, Private Parties, &c., will be attached to the building.

Visitors who may wish to make the Hotel their home during their stay will be received at a fixed and very moderate tariff. It is intended to fix the Tariff at as low a rate as is compatible with the declaration of a Dividend, and it is confidently anticipated that Board and Lodging can be provided for about the same cost as is now charged by other Hotels for Rooms alone.

Suites of Residential Chambers, for Bachelors as well as Married Families, will form a distinctive feature in the Hotel. These will be let at a fixed and moderate rental, or the Leases sold for long or short periods.

A List of "Regimental Exchanges Wanted" will be hung in the Reading Room, and all the latest telegrams also exhibited.

It is intended to open the Hotel by the 1st May, 1881.

Application for Shares can be made in writing to the Secretary, by giving the name, address, rank or occupation, and the number of Shares applied for.

C. HINTON MOORE, Secretary.

PROSPECTUSES.

1. Institutions on the Co-operative Principle have been established for the Civil Service and for the Army and

Navy, and have proved eminently successful, economical to the consumer, profitable to the Shareholders, and politically beneficial in the encouragement of thrift and prudence, ensuring alike the ready-money principle and the abolition of the baneful system of high prices and long credit.

2. It is an undoubted fact that the requirements of the three branches of her Majesty's Service, and of the larger portion of the General Public, have not yet been fully met, and there is ample scope for the further extension of the Co-operative system.

It is intended to establish Departments for—

Haberdashery, Tailoring and Uniforms, Boots and Shoes, and every Article of Wearing Apparel, whether plain or fancy.

Groceries, Provisions, Fruits, Drugs and Perfumery and every article of household consumption.

Wines, Spirits, Cigars, and Tobacco.

Carriages, Saddlery, Guns, Cutlery, Hardware, Stationery, Books, Plate, Glass and China, Jewellery, Gam. s, and Fancy Articles of every description.

Meat, Fish, Poultry, Game, Coal, Hay, Straw, Corn, &c.

4. The marked success of existing institutions, and the fact that there are large numbers of persons who have hitherto been unable to avail themselves of the system of Co-operative trading, convinces the Committee that, having regard to the patronage already promised, they have only to carry out their intention of securing efficient Managers in every Department to enable their Stores to compare favourably, both as to prices and dividends, with any of its best established competitors.

5. The Committee, believing that a large field is open in India and the Colonies for the extension of the Co-operative system, intend to make the supply of goods to Shareholders abroad a special feature of this Association, and, in addition to a liberal allowance towards carriage on all orders beyond a certain amount, arrangements will be made for reduced rates of freight.

6. The principles on which the United Service Association will be conducted are by means of—1st, Shareholders; 2nd, Life Members; 3rd, Annual Subscribers.

SHAREHOLDERS.—The Shares are £2 each, payable in full. Shareholders are entitled to participate in the profits and management of the Association, and have special advantages in the free delivery of goods. (See Section 8).

LIFE MEMBERS.—Any Shareholder shall be entitled to introduce Life Members. Payment for a Life Ticket will be £1 1s.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIBERS.—5s. admission, and 5s. per annum, except in the case of persons belonging to or who have belonged to any branch of her Majesty's Service, by whom half these amounts will be payable.

Annual and Life Tickets will confer all the privileges of a Shareholder, except participation in the management and profits, and the free delivery of their purchases.

7. There will be Reading, Writing, and Refinement Rooms for Shareholders and Members, and a special Suite of Rooms for the accommodation of Ladies.

8. Shareholders will have their purchases delivered free of charge within 7 miles of Charing-cross, or if of the value of £1, by goods train, at any Railway Goods Station within 30 miles of London; beyond that distance they will be allowed 1s. 4d. per cwt. towards the expense of carriage. Orders amounting to £2 will be delivered carriage free, as above, within 50 miles; or, exceeding that distance, 1s. 6d. per cwt. will be allowed towards carriage; and purchases of £5 and upwards will be forwarded free to any part of the United Kingdom.

9. The usual Deposit System will be adopted.

10. The only contract entered into is one dated March 22nd, 1880, for acquiring the Leases of the Premises in Leicester-square, made between Mr. Alfred Bompas, of the one part, and the Company of the other part.

11. Only such a sum will be allowed for preliminary expenses as the Committee of Direction may approve.

12. Prospectuses and Forms of Application for Shares may be obtained on application at the Offices of the Company, and at the Bankers and Solicitors.

* CO-OPERATIVE STORES AS AN INVESTMENT

Extract from the Times Newspaper, 24th July, 1879.

"Mr. Charles J. Cox, a principal Clerk in the Admiralty Department, was examining yesterday, before the Select Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire into the question of the Civil Service Co-operative Stores, and stated that he was a Director of the Civil Service Co-operative Society (Limited) in the Haymarket. He had been connected with the Society since its commencement in the early part of 1866. An Original Share, which cost £2, was now worth between £77 and £100. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15, Leicester-square, London." March 24th, 1880.

C. H. SHARP AND COMPANY, PATENT INLET

PURE AIR VENTILATING WALL FILTER.

C. H. SHARP AND COMPANY call special attention to their new Wall Inlet, which is admirably adapted for the Ventilation of Private Dwellings, Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Hospitals, Stables, &c.

It is constructed upon sound scientific principles, and is superior to any other vent lator yet introduced.

ADVANTAGES.

1. It is simple in its construction.
2. It is sensitive in its operation.
3. It is not liable to get out of repair.
4. The air being pure the atmosphere is more healthy and agreeable, as a fog, smoke, dust, and other foreign particles in which the atmosphere of towns abound, are kept back by the Filter, which allows only a supply of pure air to pass through the regulating spaces in an upward direction into the room without causing a draught.

The supply of air can be regulated by partially opening or closing the valve. When closed it is flush with the inside wall, and can be papered or coloured to match the same, which renders it scarcely noticeable. Fixed at 6ft. 6in. from the floor, with an ordinary air brick on the outside size of Filter.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 10; Madras and Allahabad, July 8; Calcutta, July 7.

The reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending June 29 state that the monsoon rains have now generally set in, and in most provinces good rain has fallen during the week. In Mysor, Sind, and parts of the North Western Provinces and Oudh the fall has been deficient. Autumn sowings are in active progress, and agricultural prospects and the public health are, on the whole, satisfactory.

We have received the following telegrams from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 24.—July 23 (to-day, Friday) the Khatba was read and prayers offered on behalf of the new Ameer. An address was read by the chief Kazi, reviewing whole course of the English relations with Afghanistan from time of Dost Mahomed, showing our action had been disinterested, and that we have now proved ourselves people of our word in restoring Mahomedan ruler, although we were in full possession of the country. Ceremony was attended by several thousand people of all classes. Khatba, in the name of Abdul Rahman, was received enthusiastically, the blessing of the people being continued for several minutes. All sections of the Kizilbashs were present, traders, artisans, and many members of Barakzai family. The new Ameer has thus been received more favourably than could have been expected. The mother of the late heir-apparent left Cabul yesterday; has gone toward Maidan for Ghazni. Sirdars Musa Jan, Hashim Khan, and Mahomed Hassan Khan arrived at Maidan to-day to visit Mushk-i-Alam."

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, JULY 24.—Following from Camp Khushk-i-Nakhud, Kandahar, July 22: Spies report Ayoob's troops crossed Helmand at Hyderabad. A party of his cavalry came yesterday to Sanghar, fourteen miles distant, returning again. Small party of Ghazis collected there; state they expected arrival of 4,000 horsemen to-day and main body to-morrow. Few supplies being available at Sanghar, Ayoob cannot halt there beyond a day. Apprehensive of night attack by enemy's numerous cavalry, General Burrows shifted his camp to new position, in which stores, sick, and baggage animals are in an enclosure. Report raises number of Ghazis and men who have joined Ayoob to 4,000."

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, JULY 25.—St. John telegraphed from Khushk-i-Nakhud, July 23, that main body of Ayoob's troops had crossed Helmand, and was at Hyderabad, on east bank. Parties of his cavalry are foraging about country near our camp. Four hundred horsemen were met on 22nd by our cavalry reconnaissance and forced to retreat. In and around Kandahar all is quiet. Slight local disturbance reported in adjoining districts and near Khelat-i-Ghilzai. At Cabul Wali Mahomed Khan has resigned government; is succeeded by Yassut Khan on the part of new Ameer. Chief men of Tagao have visited Ameer."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 27.—Cabul news, 26. Ameer agrees to meet British officers for first interview at Zimma, and has sent camp to Ak Serai, short way north of Zimma. General Gough's brigade at Killa Dushman. Mushk-i-Alam was visited at Maidan by mother of late heir-apparent, but refuses to support her claims, having accepted new Ameer. Hashim Khan, Abdulla Khan, and Musa Jan at Saidabad. Not being encouraged by Mushk-i-Alam will probably retire to Ghazni. Ameer has written reassuringly to Kizilbashs of Cabul. From Khushk-i-Nakhud through Kandahar, 24th, Ayoob, with entire force, still near Haidarabad, his cavalry outposts occasionally occupying Sanghar, near which two men Sind Horse, on outpost duty, surprised and killed."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 28.—General Burrows has been seriously defeated by Ayoob Khan. Primrose has vacated cantonments at Kandahar and retired to citadel. We are pushing forward reinforcements, already on their way, as quickly as possible, and sending large additional reinforcements from India. It may be necessary to anticipate despatch of troops from England intended for this season's reliefs."

"FROM GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY, JULY 28.—Primrose telegraphs to-day from Kandahar: 'Terrible disaster. General Burrows' force annihilated. We are going into citadel. General Phayre telegraphed to collect what forces he can, and march on Kandahar. Posts are being concentrated at Chaman.' Message ends. I have telegraphed Simla. We can send another brigade if necessary."

"FROM GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY, 5.20 P.M., JULY 28.—In reply to Government of India, who ask what reinforcements we can spare, this Government have undertaken to furnish in present emergency three batteries, one British Cavalry Regiment, half Regiment Native Cavalry, two European Infantry, six Native Infantry Regiments, besides a battery and two battalions in Sind next in reserve division. General Phayre telegraphs to-day: 'Fragments of Burrows's force are arriving at Candahar. No details yet. Ayoob's force stronger than was supposed—twelve thousand and thirty-six guns well served. Phayre has been conversing with Primrose, but myself are now cut beyond Chaman. Phayre and Sandeman propose to abandon Nari line unless strong reinforcements available, and concentrate resources on Bolan. This we think wise.' He adds, 'Europeans are now coming up Bolan well.' It is fortunate that recent reinforcements were called up."

"FROM GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY, JULY 29.—In answer to a telegram to General Phayre for all particulars known, he replies as follows:—Quetta, July 29. In reply to your Excellency's telegram, the following are the notes of a conversation had yesterday morning at the telegraph office between General Primrose and myself just before the wire was cut. General Primrose said, 'I received your telegram of last night. Anxious to see you coming in as large force as you can. Small parties Burrows's force constantly arriving. It would appear they were pursued only three or four miles. Have not yet ascertained our losses, but fear they have been severe. Two guns lost. Have sent Brooke out to assist and bring in stragglers. They are very strong in artillery, have thirty-five guns, which they work well. Killed:—Osborne, Royal Horse Artillery; Roberts, 66th; Aslett, 1st Grenadiers; Smith, Justice, Cole, Jacob's Rifles; Owen, 3rd Cavalry. Wounded:—Anderson, 1st Grenadiers, severely; Blackwood, Royal Horse Artillery; Lynch, 66th; Mayne and Reid, 3rd Cavalry. This is all we know of at present. General Burrows all right. Dr. Harvey brought news of battery, that only two guns had been taken; the other guns coming in. The following officers have come in:—Col. Mainwaring, Elton, Burroughes, Harvey, Geoghegan, Oliver, Griffiths, Whittuck, Darre; also the Wali.'

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 29.—Officers of Burrows's force who reached Kandahar safely, reported to 11 a.m., 27th:—Col. St. John, Col. W. Mainwaring, 30th Native Infantry; Col. C. Griffiths, 1st Native Infantry; Major C. Oliver, 66th Foot; Lieut. J. Whittuck, 1st Native Infantry; Lieut. T. Geoghegan, 3rd Cavalry; Surgeon Major C. Harvey, Horse Artillery; Surgeons G. Burrows, 3rd Sind Horse; J. Eaton, 16th Native Infantry; A. Dane, 1st Native Infantry. Reported casualties: E-B Horse Artillery, Lieut. E. Osborne killed, Major G. Blackwood, wounded; 66th Foot, Capt. W. Roberts killed; Lieut. H. Lynch wounded; 3rd Native Cavalry, Capt. M. Mayne and Lieut. G. Reid wounded; 1st Native Infantry, Lieut. W. Aslett killed, Lieut. Col. H. S. Anderson wounded; 30th Native Infantry, Lieut. W. Justice, Capt. H. Smith, and Lieut. D. Cole killed. Communication with Kandahar interrupted, 11 a.m., so no further report of Burrows's troops reaching Kandahar yet received."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 29.—Sir R. Sandeman telegraphs he can give no distinct information where and when Burrows's action was fought, and whether he attacked or was attacked. When wire broke Primrose did not know extent of defeat, but thought disaster not so great as at first believed, though very severe; Primrose's only fear is scarcity of water."

"FROM VICEROY, JULY 29.—Khan of Khelat having heard of Burrows's defeat has telegraphed to Sir R. Sandeman, expressing his sincere devotion to British Government, and offers every assistance in his power. Places resources of his State at our disposal, sending 150 camels and 100 horses at once, and expresses readiness to supply any grain required. I have replied expressing cordial appreciation of the Khan's loyalty and promptitude."

"FROM GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY, JULY 29.—Artillery: D-B Horse, Karachi, ordered up; F-2 en route; 5-8 (at) Kirkee. Cavalry: 1st Madras en route; 2nd Light (on) line and (at) Jacobabad; 1st Sind (on) line and (at) Jacobabad. 11th Foot, Bolan; 15th Foot, (at) Karachi, ordered up. Native Infantry: 3rd Sind weak; 9th (on) line; 24th (on) line; 8th landed Karachi, to take place of 3rd. Phayre is, I understand, to receive one battery and a European regiment from Punjab. His field column will muster three batteries, nine squadrons, three British and four native battalions, leaving three native battalions on line. Expects to be ready, including transport, in fifteen days. Kandahar was provisioned up to end of October."

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, JULY 30.—Sandeman reports having sent out reliable men to obtain information from Kandahar; but, country from Khojak to Kandahar being disturbed, messengers may be ten days bringing answer. The Mel Abdul Wahman and Dubrai post retiring towards Chaman along line of communication have arrived at Gatai. Fighting reported there, but the post is holding its own. Assistance going from Chaman to-day. Country reports says Burrows's fight severe, both sides losing heavily. Kakers and Atchakzais reported collecting, but force in Quetta and Pishin sufficiently strong to check them."

THE news from Southern Afghanistan has diverted all attention from Cabul, whence there has been little news this week. All is reported quiet in Northern Afghanistan. The new Ameer was to meet Mr. Lepel Griffin this day at a camp fifteen miles from Cabul. The religious recognition of Abdul Rahman on Friday last, at the Khalba, appears to have elicited immense enthusiasm from the crowd assembled in the mosque. An address was read by the chief Kazi reviewing the whole course of the relations between England and Afghanistan since the days of Dost Mahomed. He considered that throughout our action had been disinterested, and we had now proved ourselves people of our word by restoring a Mahomedan ruler, although we were in full and undisputed possession of the country. The events of this week have shown that Ayoub Khan is an enemy of Abdul Rahman as much as he is of the British. It remains to be seen whether the fanatic Mushk Alam will not side with the sirdar who has gained at least a temporary success over the Kafirs.

THE Bombay journal states that at date of mail the trunk road between Lahore and Wazirabad was in many places under water. The country generally was covered, and the Ravee was in very high flood. The Ravee bridge is constructed on the same principle as that at Attock, but the Ravee bridge always stood well. The Jhelum and Chenab were also very high. The Attock bridge of boats near Rawul Pindi has been swept away. Some mails were lost, and several passengers crossing the river at the time were drowned.

LORD RIPON has sent his congratulations to Cabul upon the brilliant cavalry affair at Padkhao Shana, and requested Sir Donald Stewart to convey to General Hills and officers in immediate command his appreciation of the services rendered.

THE Marquis of Ripon has accepted the honorary colonelcy of the Calcutta Volunteers.

AN address of congratulation has been sent to the Marquis of Ripon by that well-known native association the Puna Sarvajanic Sabha.

AT the meeting of the Legislative Council on July 2 the Hon. Mr. Colvin obtained leave to introduce a bill to amend the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act IV., 1876; and a bill providing for the appointment of an additional recorder at Rangoon, and for other purposes, was introduced and passed. The Revenue and Rent Bill was introduced by the Hon. Mr. Grant. The Hon. Mr. Stokes obtained leave to introduce a bill to exempt Parsees from certain provisions of the Administrator General's Act, 1874. The council was adjourned for a week.

SIR JOHN STRACHEY, K.C.S.I., in resigning his appointment as Finance Minister, has signified his intention of retiring from the service of the Government of India.

MANY of our military readers will hear with regret of the death of Captain Gerard Auriol de Visme, of the 8th Hussars. While out riding at Murree he was struck by a stone rolling from the hillside. His hand was severely injured, and he lingered only two hours.

MAJOR ATKINSON, 1st Punjab Cavalry, who distinguished himself in the hand-to-hand fighting, has been recommended for the Victoria Cross.

ALTHOUGH commanding officers of regiments may have been warned to prepare for embarkation for India in case of need it is at present certain that, acting upon the express wish of the Viceroy, the authorities have decided to do no more than send out the Indian reliefs about a month sooner than the regular dates of sailing. The Madras army will be drawn upon for immediate reinforcements in India. There has been quite sufficient panic, or excitement closely resembling it, without its being augmented by despatch of unnecessary troops as if another mutiny were apprehended. The Portsmouth correspondent of the Times telegraphed last night:—

"The definite information which has been received by the military authorities this evening confirms, as far as it goes, the accuracy of what I have previously stated. According to an official telegram the Orontes, Capt. Kinahan, will embark on Aug. 3 the 41st Regiment from Chatham, and a draft of the 1st Battalion 24th Regiment for Gibraltar. The Euphrates, Capt. Hand, will embark on Aug. 7 a detachment of the 26th Regiment for Malta, and will call in at Queenstown to take on board the details which are to be prepared to join linked battalions; while the Tamcr, Capt. Royse, which will embark the remainder of the 26th Foot, in addition to the naval contingent, will probably also sail on Aug. 7 for the Mediterranean. No other arrangements are announced."

THE Queen has been graciously pleased to appoint Alexander Thomas Maclean, of the Bengal Civil Service, to be a judge in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, in Bengal, in the room of William Ainslie, Esq., resigned. The Queen has also been pleased to appoint William Henry Lionel Cox, Esq., late substitute procurer and advocate general of Mauritius, to be a puisne judge of the Supreme Court of that colony.

YESTERDAY morning instructions were received at Chatham garrison from the War-office for those regiments now stationed at that garrison—the 26th (Cameronian) Regiment and the 41st (The Welsh) Regiment to be held in readiness for embarkation on Friday next. In the meantime we draw attention to Lord Hartington's words of wise caution as to announcements of the numerical strength of the forces, and beg to add the prudent reticence of the Administration, which ought to be respected by all parties.

THE successful action fought by General Nott before Kandahar, January 12, 1842, was spoken of by an officer as "the first success after our recent disaster at Cabul." He adds, as is quoted by Mr. Low in his recent work:—"The victory having been obtained over a force so immensely superior to that which was opposed to it by the British, most effectually damped the spirit of our enemies in that part of the country." A sad contrast is afforded in these words to the defeat which has befallen our troops. But as the overwhelming masses of the enemy were subsequently held at bay by General Nott, and their attacks on Kandahar itself repulsed, and that city, after receiving several English reinforcements successfully held out until its evacuation in August, so now we may augur a successful defence until the troops rapidly advancing enable stern reprisals to be exacted. Sir Henry Rawlinson and Sir Neville Chamberlain still survive; the one to advise in England, and the other in India.

THE official Gazette of India publishes Brigadier-General Doran's despatch on the successful operations carried on in Besud in May last. General Doran is highly complimented by the Viceroy, Sir D. Stewart and General Bright, his superior officers.

FROM May 27 to June 2 the number of patients treated in the Cabul Dispensary was 1,804; from June 3 to June 9 the number treated was 1,579.

A NOTIFICATION published in the Gazette of India announces the appointment of justices of the peace for the Khyber Pass and the lands immediately adjoining the Pass on either side of the roadway. The political officer in charge and the officer in military command are to be justices of the peace, committing European British subjects for trial to the Chief Court of the Punjab. The political officer will exercise the powers of a district magistrate; the assistant political will be magistrate of the 1st class; and the officer commanding the Jezailchi Corps, a magistrate of the 2nd class. The officer in command of her Majesty's forces will exercise the powers of a court of session.

THE new Beerbhoom Coal Company has just declared a dividend, for the half-year ending April 30, of 8 per cent., equivalent to 16 per cent. on the nominal value of the shares, for the year. The prospect of the Indian coal companies seems to be very satisfactory.

THE Persian Consul at Jeddah, whose dismissal was demanded some time back by the English Government and acceded to by the Government of the Shah, still retains his post. He, moreover, still keeps the slave whom he was to have delivered up.

THE frequency with which the Pioneer has to contradict stories about the Viceroy put in circulation by other papers is growing almost ludicrous, but the fault, according to the Allahabad oracle, lies with contemporaries that recklessly mislead the public. Concerning a scare that has been started, to the effect that Lord Ripon contemplates the abandonment of the practice of going to Simla in the summer, the Pioneer asserts "with confidence that it is wholly without foundation. The question has not been raised in any way; but, if it were allowable to build conjectures on society gossip, one might go further in denying that the Simla system stands in even the very smallest peril."

DR. A. C. BURNELL, the celebrated Sanskrit scholar, and senior competition civilian in the Madras service, returns to Europe on two years' furlough. As Dr. Burnell's health is not good, and he has almost completed his term of service, it is considered very probable that he will not return to India.

THE Bank of Bombay announces a dividend for the half-year ending June 30 at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum; the Bank of Bengal a dividend at the rate of 9 per cent.; the Madras Bank a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent.; and the Allahabad Bank a dividend and bonus at the rate of 15 per cent.

Two shocks of earthquake were felt at Calcutta and elsewhere in Bengal on the 29th. One of the shocks is described as very severe.

THE report on the administration of the Durbhunga estate during nineteen years by the Court of Wards shows that, besides extensive improvements and establishment of public institutions, extensive reductions of rent have been made, while at the same time the gross rental of the State has been raised from Rs.16,39,357 to Rs.21,61,885, and a debt of a crore has been converted into a cash balance of over forty-one lakhs of rupees. Nevertheless, in that part of his resolution on the report which deals with the impoverished state of the tenantry, Sir Ashley Eden fears that they "Are suffering from the same causes which in a long course of years have reduced the peasantry of Behar generally to a lower level than that of the ryots in Central and Eastern Bengal."

What he believes those causes to be is plain from the sentence that follows:—

"There has been in years gone by, under the Court of Wards, the same kind of rack-renting, the same ignoring of ryot right, the same unwillingness to recognise occupancy tenures, the same resort to illegal distraint, that have been found and condemned in every district of Behar. The traditions of the Court of Wards have, from the time of its institution, been essentially proprietary. The chief aim of its management in every estate has been to make the most of the property for the benefit of the owner; and although it has, in its relations to the tenantry, been incontestably a better and a wiser landlord than the ordinary run of native zemindars, it is only within the last few years that anything has been done by it to improve directly the position of the cultivators."

THE half-yearly issue of Messrs. Allen and Co.'s "India List," for July, which appeared this week, has furnished many eager inquirers with the information so anxiously sought for as to the regiments and officers engaged in Southern Afghanistan. This useful publication is, as usual, corrected up to the last possible date consistent with typographical needs.

AN opportune work will be published next week by Messrs. W. H. Allen and Co., entitled "Kandahar in 1879," being the diary of Major Le Messurier, R.E. The author was present with the Quetta Column at the first advance and the retirement, and, after the massacre of the Embassy, returned with the brigade to Kandahar. His work contains the results of his personal observations on the locality in which an interest now centres.

THE third and concluding volume of Colonel Malleson's "History of the Indian Mutiny" will be published next week.

THE Times of India gives the following obituary of the week:—Mr. John Ryan, traffic manager of the Bombay Port Trust; Capt. G. A. de Visme, 8th Hussars (by an accident); Mr. W. T. Davis; and Mr. T. B. Barry.

A CALCUTTA telegram mentions the publication of the Naga Campaign despatches, and both the Viceroy and the Commander in Chief take the opportunity to record their approval of the conduct and result of the operations and of the services rendered by Gen. Nation and his troops. The officers specially mentioned in the despatches are Major Evans, Capt. Williamson and Macgregor, and Lieut. Wingate. The total loss in the campaign between Oct. 14 and April 22 was sixty killed, including two British officers, and fifty-one wounded.

DURING the week ending June 26 there were 134 deaths in Calcutta, being a death-rate of 16.2 per 1,000 per annum. In Madras for the same week the deaths numbered 241, giving a death-rate of 31.5 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay for the week ending June 29 the number of deaths was 376, a death-rate of 27.67 per 1,000 per annum.

THE Financial Department ruled last year that, until further orders, the proceeds of royalties on mines and quarries within cantonment limits in the Bengal Presidency should be credited to cantonment funds so long as the amount was unimportant. The Military Department inquired whether the same rule was to apply to the Bombay and Madras Presidencies, and the Governor General in Council has now ordered that it shall be so.

THE FORCES AT KANDAHAR.

GENERAL GEORGE REYNOLD SCOTT BURROWS, to whose brigade the disaster has happened, entered the army in January, 1844. He became lieutenant in August, 1846; captain in November, 1856; major in January, 1862; lieutenant colonel in July, 1864; and colonel in January, 1871. He was for some time the head of the Quartermaster General's Department in Bombay. His force was thus composed:—Horse Artillery, E B Battery; 66th Regiment (Berkshire), six companies; 3rd Bombay Cavalry; 3rd Sind Horse, two squadrons; Sappers, 2nd company; Native Infantry, 1st and 30th. The following is a list of the officers of the regiments and corps:—

66TH REGIMENT.—Colonel Thomas Henry Johnston, Lieutenant Colonel F. C. d'Epinay Barclay, Majors James Galbraith, Somerville G. C. Hogge, and Charles Val. Oliver. Captains—John Tobin Ready, Thomas Eales Soady, Robert John Stewart, Ernest Stephen Garratt, Thomas Murphy, George William Monk Hall, Thomas Harris, John Quarry, William H. M'Math, and William A. D. Mackinnon. Lieutenants—John C. M. Piggott, Francis James Cullen, Walter Roberts, Adolphus J. Price, W. J. de la P. Beresford-Peirse, Henry S. Hassard, Maurice E. Rayner, F. M'Crae Bruce, Charles Bury Adams, Hon. Carnegie P. Jervis, Granville de la M. Faunce, and Charles William W. Burton. Sub-Lieutenants—Albert E. Leslie and James W. H. Fitzgerald. Second Lieutenants—Richard Trevor Chute, Manus L. O'Donel, Charles Edwards, Hyacinth Lynch, and Wm. A. F. Lonergan. 3RD BOMBAY CAVALRY (Queen's Own).—Colonel J. Greaves; Majors C. E. Stack and A. P. Currey; Captains J. F. Willoughby, M. W. Stevens, and M. Mayne; Lieut. M. James, and Surgeon Major C. J. F. S. M'Dowall. 3RD REGIMENT SIND HORSE.—Lieutenant Colonel J. H. P. Malcolmson; Captains W. Bell and W. T. Mills, Major F. T. Humfrey, Captain W. C. Harrison, Lieutenants H. F. Smith and C. F. Baugh, Surgeon E. Tootell.

The following officers of the 66th are at the depot at Reading:—Brevet Major R. J. Stewart, Captain J. C. M. Pigott, Captain Murphy (adjutant of Berks Militia), Lieutenants H. S. Hassard, Hon. C. P. Jervis. With the 66th in Afghanistan, according to the last "India List," were the following:—Lieutenant Colonel James Galbraith. Majors Charles V. Oliver and John T. Ready. Captains—E. S. Garratt, Thomas Harris, D.A.Q.M.G. Kandahar Field Force; John Quarry, William H. M'Math, William A. D. Mackinnon, Francis J. Cullen, Walter Roberts. Captain Price is supposed to be at Karachi. Lieutenants—W. J. de la P. Beresford-Peirse, Maurice E. Rayner, Farquhar M'Crae Bruce, Granville de la Motte Faunce, James W. H. Fitzgerald (interpreter), Richard T. Chute, Marcus L. O'Donel, Charles M. Edwards. Second Lieutenants—Hyacinth Lynch, William A. E. Loneragan, George L. Melliss, Arthur Honeywood, Reginald E. T. Bray, Walter R. Olivey, Harry J. Moore, Frank W. M'T. Bonny; Surgeon Major Preston.

The 1st Bombay Grenadiers is under the command of Col. Charles Heathcote, who served on the staff in the Central India campaign. He has been officiating as commandant since December last, when Col. Anderson was invalided.

The 19th Bombay Native Infantry is under the acting command of Major Walter Jacob, who went out to India last winter from furlough. Major R. J. Trench, Lieuts. F. Stevenson, Henry Melvill, and F. C. Stayner are also on duty with the corps. Lieut. G. E. Walter and Surgeon Major Cates were recently sent home on sick certificates.

The regiments which by latest advices were at Kandahar are as follow:—The 2nd Battalion 7th Fusiliers, Major Vandeleur in temporary command; 29th Native Infantry, known as the Beluch Regiment, and 30th Native Infantry, best known as Jacob's Rifles. These three regiments comprise the 2nd Infantry Brigade, under the command of Brigadier General Henry Francis Brooke, late Adjutant General of the Bombay Army. General Brooke is a "Queen's officer." He was with the 48th Foot at the siege and fall of Sebastopol, and served as aide de camp to Lord Napier of Magdala throughout the campaign of 1860, receiving a severe wound at the assault of the Taku Forts. The main body of General Primrose's field force consists of five batteries of Artillery—viz., E Battery B Brigade R.H.A., C 2nd R.A., 14-9th R.A., 5-11th R.A., and No. 2 B Mountain Battery—three regiments of Bombay Cavalry, six regiments of Native Infantry, and four companies of Sappers, all troops more or less scattered along the line of communication between the valley of the Indus and Kandahar. The cavalry force comprises the Puna Horse, the 2nd Sind Horse, and 3rd Sind Horse, and detachments of the 2nd and 3rd Bombay Cavalry. The infantry regiments are the 1st, 4th, 5th, 10th, 16th, 19th, 23rd, 30th, 27th (Beluch Regiment), 28th and 29th B.N.I. Infantry. No Bengal troops are comprised in the field force, which was drawn exclusively from the Bombay Presidency. General Primrose has with him as political adviser, Lieut. Col. St. John, C.S.I., appointed Consul General at Astrabad, and recently political officer with Sir Donald Stewart. The following are the staff officers of General Primrose's force, viz.:—Major F. J. S. Adam, Bombay S.C., assistant quartermaster general; Brevet Major C. J. Burnett, 15th Regiment, assistant adjutant general; Captain T. Harris, 66th Regiment, deputy assistant quartermaster general; Lieut. Col. G. F. Beville, Bombay S.C., deputy judge advocate; Lieut. Col. Shewell, Staff Corps, deputy commissary general; Lieut. Clifton Alban, S.C., staff officer of transport; Captain Caldecott, R.A., commissary of ordnance; Brigade Surgeon John O'Neal, Army Medical Department, principal medical officer; Col. W. French, R.A., commanding Royal Artillery; Lieut. W. A. Plant, R.A., adjutant Royal Artillery; Lieut. Col. John Hills, R.E., commanding Royal Engineers; Captain Larminie, R.E., brigade major, Royal Engineers; Captain G. M. Cruickshank, R.E., field engineer; Lieut. E. O. F. Hamilton, aide de camp. Major General Robert Phayre, C.B., who has been summoned to the assistance of General Primrose, commands the 2nd (Reserve) Division of the Kandahar Field Force, comprising one company Bombay Sappers and Miners, 2nd Bombay Cavalry, 1st Sind Horse, 2-15th Foot (Lieut. Colonel Corrie), 2-11th Foot (Major Dashwood), 3rd, 9th, and 24th Bo.N.I. The following list of officers is taken from the "India List":—Major C. A. Cunningham, B.S.C., assistant adjutant general; Major W. B. Colvin, 2-17th Foot, assistant quartermaster general; Captain H. Melliss, Bo.S.C., deputy assistant adjutant general; Lieut. Col. T. P. Smith, R.A., commanding Royal Artillery; Brigadier General T. Nuttall, Bo.S.C., commanding Cavalry Brigade; Brigadier Generals H. A. Wood, C.B., Bo.S.C., and F. S. Brown; Majors A. R. Heyland, Bo.S.C., and H. J. Stock, Bo.S.C. (brigade majors); Capt. J. W. Andrews, 2-11th Foot; and Surgeon Major L. S. Bruce, I.M.D.

THE BOMBAY RESERVE.

THE Government hired transport Ellora sailed for Karachi about July 12 with 16 officers and about 465 non-commissioned officers and men of the 2-11th Foot. The following are the names of the officers:—Lieut. Col. Corrie, Capt. Street, Capt. Marriott, Capt. Kinder, Capt. Yule, Lieut. Kelsall, Lieut. Browne, Lieut. and Adjutant Park, Lieut. Davis, 2nd Lieut. Watson, 2nd Lieut. Pirie, 2nd Lieut. Smith, 2nd Lieut. Ellicombe, 2nd Lieut. Wood, Quartermaster Evans, and Surg. -laughter, A.M.D.—The 1st Madras Light Cavalry, now at Jacobabad, are under orders for Kandahar; three companies of the 9th Bombay Native Infantry have been ordered to Sibi and one company to the Bolan; and the 24th Bombay Native Infantry are under orders to leave Hyderabad (Sind) for Sibi. These troops form part of the Bombay Reserve.—Times of India.

OFFICERS REPORTED KILLED.

LIEUT. Edmund George Osborne, of the E Battery B Brigade Royal Horse Artillery, was gazetted a lieutenant on Sept. 11, 1873. He served as adjutant in the Kuram Column. Capt. Walter Roberts, of the 66th (Berkshire) Foot, entered the army as an ensign on Feb. 8, 1865, became a lieutenant (by purchase) on Dec. 19, 1875, and adjutant on July 5, 1877. The regiment embarked for India in February, 1870, and has recently been stationed at Karachi. Lieut. William Charles Aslett, of the 1st Bombay Native Infantry (Grenadiers) was gazetted on June 13, 1874, lieutenant in the 108th Foot. He was on the Bombay Staff Corps, and became wing officer and quartermaster on Nov. 8, 1878. Capt. Hugh Frederick Smith, of the 30th Bombay Native Infantry (Jacob's Rifles), received his commission on June 26, 1866, became a lieutenant on May 31, 1870, and a captain on June 26, 1878. He was formerly attached to the 88th Foot, and has since been on the Bombay Staff Corps. He became wing officer and adjutant on Sept. 30, 1876; and he was officiating as quartermaster in Jacob's Rifles. Lieut. William Napier Justice, also of Jacob's Rifles, formerly of the 17th (Leicestershire) Foot, became a lieutenant on Sept. 11, 1876. He was officiating wing officer in Jacob's Rifles. Lieut. Duncan Cole, described in the telegram as of Jacob's Rifles, was, according to the Army List, officiating wing officer and quartermaster in the 14th Bombay Native Infantry. He was on the Bombay Staff Corps, and formerly belonged to the 83rd (County Dublin) Foot. His commission as lieutenant was dated Oct. 11, 1876. Captain William Charles Owen, of the 3rd Bombay Cavalry (Queen's Own), was formerly of the 3rd (King's Own) Hussars, and was gazetted a lieutenant on Dec. 30, 1871. He was on the Bombay Staff Corps, and was officiating squadron officer and squadron commander in the 3rd Bombay Cavalry.

THE ACCIDENT TO THE S.S. "VENETIA" IN THE RED SEA.

WE have received the following particulars as to the accident to the steamship Venetia in the Red Sea:—The Venetia grounded in the north extreme of Jebel Zukur, about 1½ miles west of High Island, at 1.13 a.m. on the 29th ultimo. A good look-out had been kept up by the captain, the second officer, one able seaman, and two lascars. The lead had given forty and thirty-nine fathoms just previous to the grounding, and the engines were going dead slow. The night was clear overhead, but the captain and officers must have been deceived by a haze on the horizon, as they considered they could see at least from five to six miles, having seen Jebel Tier and Quoin Rock at about that distance, whereas in the case of Jebel Zukur the land did not show up until the Venetia was quite close to it, when the engines were immediately reversed full speed. The course steered ought to have taken the ship well to the eastward of Aboo Ail, as she had been set to the eastward passing both the Jebel Tier and the Zebayrs, but a current in the opposite direction must have been experienced after leaving the Zebayrs, which, however, it was not possible to have ascertained as no soundings are marked on the chart to the north of Jebel Zukur. The engines were kept going full speed astern after grounding, anchors were got out, and stores were shifted from forward. Aft water was pumped into the after compartment, and all that it was possible to do was done to lighten the ship forward. At 6.50 a.m. the Dutch steamer Prinses Amalia came to the assistance of the Venetia, anchoring astern. Two four-inch wire hawes were passed, which, however, parted several times. A stream cable was then passed, but this also parted. The next morning the Prinses Amalia took up a better position for towing, but unfortunately got a twelve-inch Manilla hawser foul of her screw, and as she had mails on board her captain declined to tow any longer. Capt. Orman, the commander of the Venetia, then deemed it advisable to send the passengers and mails on to Aden by the Prinses Amalia. This was effected without the slightest accident, and at 2 p.m. the Prinses Amalia proceeded on her voyage. Capt. Orman being then relieved from anxiety in so far as the passengers and mails were concerned, renewed his efforts to extricate his ship. A two and a half ton bower anchor was got out astern with sixty fathoms cable, a heavy purchase being attached to it, while a good strain was kept on it, and at 7.8 a.m., on the 1st inst. the ship came off. At 11.31 a.m., having picked up boats' anchors, &c., the Venetia proceeded to Aden, the only damage done being limited to two hawsers which were carried away. During the whole time the Venetia was on shore coals were thrown overboard from forward so as to lighten the ship. A steamer of the British Indian Steam Navigation Company, steering north, and the Albuera offered assistance. This was, however, declined, as it was not required. Capt. Orman speaks in the highest terms of the able assistance rendered by his officers and crew, working as they did in the most energetic and willing manner, with the very trying heat of the Red Sea to contend against, the thermometer being seldom below 95 deg. This is also fully testified to in a letter of sympathy addressed to Capt. Orman by the passengers, which we publish below. In this letter they further record their appreciation of the discipline and order that was maintained, and also of the thorough and seamanlike manner in which Capt. Orman and his officers acted throughout. The Venetia arrived at 7 a.m. on the 2nd inst. The Government divers surveyed the bottom and found no damage, the certificate being endorsed "seaworthy." At 2 p.m. she proceeded to sea for Bombay with mails and passengers, who addressed the following to the commander:—

"Sir—We, the undersigned passengers by the s.s. Venetia, think it only right, with reference to the accident which happened on the morning of the 29th ult., when the ship ran ashore in a haze on the island of Jebel Zukur, to express our sense of the thorough and seamanlike manner in which Captain Orman and his officers acted throughout in their endeavour to get her off, of the maintenance of discipline, and of the great courtesy and attention shown to us during a trying period of thirty-six hours, at the end of which, those endeavours proving unsuccessful, we were placed on board the s.s. Prinses Amalia and conveyed in comfort and safety to Aden. Nothing could have been more reassuring to passengers than the order and alacrity with which men and officers worked for nearly twenty hours with scarcely any intermission, and that those efforts were ultimately crowned with success is a matter of great satisfaction to us all. We may add that it is within the cognisance of several of us that the captain had been on deck all night, and was at the time of the accident engaged in taking soundings, and had had the vessel going dead slow for some considerable time before she struck, to which precaution the ultimate saving of the ship may be certainly attributed. The conduct of the stewards especially struck us as worthy of consideration." The address was signed by all the passengers at Aden on July 2.—Times of India.

THE BESUD OPERATIONS.—The Gazette of India of July 3 contains the correspondence and despatches relating to the operations carried on in the Besud on May 19 by the troops under the command of Brigadier General Doran, whose conduct is favourably commented upon by the Viceroy, the Commander in Chief, Sir D. M. Stewart, and Major General Bright. The latter officer points out that the difficulties of the operations in question were increased by the Cabul River having risen in flood and carried away the bridge, so rendering it necessary for the crossing to be made by rafts, and in the case of cavalry by swimming. The way this was effected by the Central India Horse, both going and returning, reflects, he says, great credit on the corps. The disposition for the attack of the enemy's position were, it appears to him, judicious, admirably carried out by the troops and most entirely successful in result. He considered great credit due to Brigadier General Doran, and his staff officer, Major H. P. Pearson. General Doran's despatch concludes as follows:—"I have to thank Colonel F. Dawson, 1st Madras Native Infantry, for the prompt and skilful manner in which he carried out my wishes as regards the disposition of the troops before and during the action of the 19th instant, as also for his aid and counsel throughout the expedition. The handling of the cavalry left nothing to be desired. It reflects the highest credit for gallantry and skill upon Lieutenant Colonel C. Martin, who commanded. It enabled us to inflict severe punishment upon the enemy. My best acknowledgments are due to Major M. Protheroe, political officer, Jellalabad, not only for the accurate and reliable information he has always given me of the strength and movements of the enemy, but for his valuable aid in procuring rafts and boatmen, and for his cordial co-operation at all times. To Major H. P. Pearson, my brigade major, I am specially indebted. It was on his observation and report of events in another part of the field that I ordered the cavalry charge which contributed so greatly to the success of the day. Major Pearson gave me the greatest assistance during the operations, and proved himself then, as on all occasions, a most efficient staff officer. Major H. M. Buller, Central India Horse, pushed a reconnaissance on June 16 beyond Shigi in the Kunar Valley, and brought me information about the passes which proved most valuable. The conduct of the troops during the operations in Besud merits my warmest thanks. Whatever they had to do they did well. Officers and soldiers, British and native, Bengal and Madras troops, all alike did admirably that which fell to them to do. Without tents they had to seek shelter where they might from the fierce heat of a May sun. The cheerfulness with which all ranks endured hardships and exposure, and the energy with which they laboured from dawn to dark during the passage of the Cabul were equalled only by their steadiness in the field and splendid courage where opportunity offered."

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

CASHMERE.—The Cashmere famine has come to an end, although there are still numerous starving. The Maharaja has opened large poor houses in Srinagar and started relief works, whereby thousands are employed. As precautionary measures to guard the country against a recurrence of the disasters, the following measures are being adopted with the concurrence of the Government of India:—Firstly, to measure and otherwise prepare the country for the introduction of a revenue settlement based on a moderate demand, and fixed for a term of years. Secondly, abolishment of the State monopoly of grain to render its sale as free as in British India. Thirdly, the construction of good cart roads and put the Murree route in order and bring Cashmere within easy reach of the Punjab markets; for the regular payment of the salaries of the State officials, also important reforms as guards against the temptation for bribery and speculation. —Bombay Gazette.

THE Budget compiled by the durbar from details collected by the various district officials has just been completed. It shows that the cost of the late famine was 71,24,653 Chilkee rupees, or in British India coinage 44,52,783 rupees, the Cashmere rupee being equal to ten annas of British money. This amount includes the loss of revenue by certain taxes abolished owing to the severity of the famine. The permanent remissions were:—80,893 rupees, land tax; 2,09,000 rupees, grain tax; 3,96,000 rupees, shawl manufacture tax; and 1,21,688 rupees, trades and professional tax. The cost of the relief works is estimated at 2,05,047 rupees; the establishment and maintenance of poor houses, 80,146 rupees; the wages of coolies for the conveyance of grain, 5,88,000 rupees; the contracts for the importation of grain 12,38,124 rupees; the cost of the grain imported by others than contractors 1,15,190 rupees. Over 4,500 tons of grain were supplied from the Maharaja's resources at Jhelum and Jummoo to meet emergencies. The difficulty of transport prevented the contractors bringing the large quantity of grain agreed upon. The loss through mortality of the transport animals and the difference between the price paid for the grain and that charged to the people was 33,62,495 rupees. The grain cost about 20 rupees per maund, and was sold at the depots for three rupees. The signs of the famine have entirely disappeared. There are still about 600 inmates in the Maharaja's poor house at Srinagar.—Times Telegram.

THE HOLKAR-SINDIA STATE RAILWAY.—The extension of the Holkar-Sindia State Railway from Mandessur to Nimach will be opened for traffic on the 1st of July. The train with the Government inspector and all the chief railway officials goes over the line to-day, and at Nimach the whole party will be entertained at a grand dinner provided by the Maharaja Sindia.—Englishman.

TRANSFERS.—Major Bradford, agent to the Governor General in Rajputana, proceeds on three months' leave, and either Col. Beynon or Lieut. Col. Walters will act for him.—The Government of India has granted Col. Beynon an extension of one year's service in consequence of long and valuable political service rendered by him to both the British Government and native States.—Major Bradford succeeds Sir Richard Meade at Hyderabad.—It is reported that Mr. Henvey, from Cashmere, will be transferred to an important position in the Rajputana political agency. These arrangements take place in October, on Mr. Lyall assuming the administration of the North West Provinces.—Englishman.

THE MURDER OF A NATIVE BY A SAILOR.—George Nairns, the European sailor who was three weeks ago convicted of the murder of a native policeman at Garden Reach, in the suburbs of Calcutta, was hanged on Friday. An attempt was made to procure a remission of the sentence and a memorial was sent to the Government. The Lieutenant Governor stated in his reply that the murder was most brutal and unprovoked, and that he saw no reason for interfering with the course of the law. The case has caused some excitement, partly from its being the first instance for many years of a European being convicted of the capital offence on a native, and partly owing to a discussion being raised as to whether several shipmates who were with Nairns on the night when the crime was committed were not implicated. It is generally felt, however, that the case was not one which called for any exercise of the prerogative of mercy, and the culprit, before execution, confessed that he alone did the murder, his only excuse being that he was half stupefied with drink.—Times Telegram.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At the general meeting of the Darjiling Steam Tramway Company, held June 25, the accounts for the half-year and the Hon. F. Prestage's progress report were passed.—Englishman.

JOINT-STOCK COMPANIES.—From the return of joint-stock companies registered during the year 1879-80, we see that sixteen new companies, with capital amounting to Rs.46,59,000 were floated; that five increased their capital to the extent of Rs.5,76,000; that twelve companies, with capital amounting to Rs.33,90,000, were winding up or dissolved; that the Dalhousie Institute was registered as a society "to promote the literary, scientific, and social improvement of all classes of the community," and that there were on the register, on the 31st March, 1880, 174 companies, with a total capital of Rs.8,00,31,500, of which Rs.6,91,82,596 had been paid up.—Ibid.

THE ARMS ACT.—The number of rifles and guns that passed the local custom house amounted last year to ninety-two, against an average of 1,640 for the past six years. The heavy duty under the Arms Act is believed to have caused this falling off.—Ibid.

DARJILING CHINCHONA.—A successful manufacture of quinine, which is pronounced equal in colour and general appearance to that produced by European manufacturers, is announced from the Government plantations at Darjiling.—Ibid.

CLAIMS TO THE CUSTODY OF A JEWISH GIRL.—Some excitement prevails among the Hebrew community in Calcutta owing to a decision of the deputy commissioner of Umritsur with reference to the custody of a Jewish girl, who was placed as a boarder in the Church Mission School there, and claimed by her father in due legal form. It appears that the father, in placing her in the school, reserved to himself the right of taking her back after five years, but stipulated that he would pay all expenses incurred for her in case he removed her before the expiration of that period. The father sought to remove her within the five years, and offered to pay expenses, but the school authorities refused to give her up, the result being that the father filed a suit claiming the custody of his child. This suit was decided in favour of the father, but the Church Mission, having appealed to the Chief Court in Lahore, that court sent the case back to the deputy commissioner, to inquire into the circumstances of the father, and also as to whether he had in any way divested himself of his parental rights in favour of the Church Mission. This latter question was found in his favour, but it was ascertained that he was in needy circumstances. Solely on this account the court refused to give him the custody of his child and forthwith proceeded to select a guardian for her. What makes the case a particularly hard one is that this litigation has lasted nearly one year, and had it not been for the gratuitous services of a Hindu pleader the parents would, in all probability, have been unable to move at all in the matter. They are now in Calcutta trying to raise funds from the Jewish community.—Indian Daily News.

THE MISSION CHURCH.—A mural tablet, very neatly executed and appropriately designed, is being erected in the mission church, Calcutta, in memory of the late John Welland, minister of the old church and secretary of the Church Missionary Society. It bears the following inscription:—"To the memory of Joseph Welland, who, after labouring for ten years as a missionary in Bengal, was appointed in 1871 minister of this church and secretary of the Church Missionary Society for North India. Born 3rd December, 1834. Died 17th December, 1879. 'Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee, because he trusted in Thee' (Isaiah xxvi. 3)."—Statesman.

DESTRUCTIVE FLOODS.—The weather in Kachar was excessively wet during the week ending on June 19. From Monday to Friday the rain was almost continuous and the North Kachar rivers were in high flood during Thursday and Friday. Many of the bridges on the Government roads were swept away, and all the garden bridges, towards the west of the district, were also destroyed. Two of these were suspension bridges over hill torrents, and it will be hard to replace them during the rains. The streams over which they were thrown are often impassable and usually dangerous, and are too rapid to admit of being crossed by boat. In several gardens the coolies had to take refuge upon the tops of their houses, where they remained for hours in great danger, some of their lines being swept away, but only in one garden have we heard of any being drowned. In the west of the district the flood was one of the highest on record, while the rainfall was about twenty-five inches.—Times of India.

THE ALLAHABAD BANK.—The report issued by the directors of the Allahabad Bank (Limited) for the half-year ended June 30, with balance-sheet and profit and loss statement annexed, shows that the gross profits for that period reached the sum of Rs.82,178. A dividend and bonus at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum on the capital stock of the bank are recommended for declaration, and the sum of Rs.5,000 is to be added to the reserve fund. The bank has now a reserve fund (invested in Government loan notes) amounting to nearly one-third of its paid-up capital. This fund has been steadily increased by about Rs.10,000 per annum since 1876. The working capital of the bank has increased the half year from Rs.19,75,000 to Rs.20,83,000.—Pioneer.

EARTHQUAKES.—Two shocks of earthquake, one of some duration, were felt in Calcutta at about 4 a.m. on Wednesday, June 29. A correspondent at Julpaigori also informs us that a rather severe shock was experienced at that station at 3.55 a.m. It lasted some seconds, and the movement appeared to be from east to west. Another correspondent, writing from Rampur Bauleah, says:—"An earthquake was felt here at three o'clock on Wednesday morning. There were two shocks; the first, which seemed to pass from east to west, was slight, and was rapidly succeeded by the second, which lasted for about two minutes and was rather violent." A correspondent also writes from Goalundo:—"We experienced a very severe shock of earthquake this morning (June 30) at about ten minutes to four o'clock. This is the second shock this year." Mr. H. J. Rainey writes to the Englishman from Khulna (Jessore) under date June 30:—"After the lapse of several years I have to record the occurrence of an earthquake here. It commenced at 3.45 a.m. this day, and lasted continuously with an undulating motion for about a couple of minutes. No rumbling or other sound accompanied it, and the wave appeared to travel from east to west. The sky was cloudy, and there was that peculiar stillness about the atmosphere which I have always noticed when seismic phenomena have occurred. The thermometer at the time stood at 82 deg. Fahrenheit." This earthquake was, it appears, also felt at Darjiling at about seventeen minutes to four o'clock. A slight but continuous trembling of the earth is described as having been experienced, which lasted some few seconds.—Times of India.

ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn from Naini Tal that Sir George Couper's little boy met with rather a serious accident a few days ago, and broke his arm in two places. By the latest accounts we are glad to hear that the child is getting rapidly well again.—Times of India.

THE NAINI TAL RAILWAY.—The terms on which the promoters of the Bareilly and Naini Tal Railway offered to form a company have been consented to by the Government of India, and it is thought there will, therefore, be no hindrance to the successful launching of the undertaking. The more important concessions granted to the company are, briefly, an annual subsidy for ten years of Rs.40,000; a postal subsidy of Rs.10,000 annually; the right to charge for troops, Government stores, &c., at the company's sanctioned rates; the company are allowed to charge fares for first-class passengers at 3 annas per mile, and lower class passengers at 4½ pies per mile, and a goods rate of 17-10 pies per maund per mile. The Government of India retains the right to purchase the line at the expiry of ten years at 20 per cent. over the average market value of the shares for the preceding three years.—Ibid.

BERI-BERI.—The new disease, or beri-beri, is reported to have broken out at Lucknow.—Ibid.

A LADY INSOLVENT.—Mrs. Colin Troup, widow of the late General Troup, well known at Meerut, has presented a petition to the judge of Meerut to be declared an insolvent. Mr. R. S. Smith, barrister at law, appeared for the petitioner; Mr. Alwyne Turner for the opposing creditors. The application was heard on Friday, the 2nd July. The assets are set down at Rs.18,000, and the debts about Rs.21,000, but it is believed that the assets are greatly overvalued and the debts understated, and that the dividend will not be more than four annas in the rupee. Mr. McLevy, the manager of the Bank of Upper India, has been appointed receiver, and the insolvent's discharge has been deferred until the receiver has sent in his report.—Times of India.

DR. LEITNER AND HIS PUPILS.—In our issue of the 21st ult. we published a telegram from Lahore accusing Dr. Leitner, principal Lahore College, of gross brutality towards a pupil. We could hardly believe this of one who has been the propagator of independent thought and a staunch advocate of enlightened progress in the Punjab, and we therefore reserved comments till we received further particulars. These particulars have now reached us, and it would appear Dr. Leitner inflicted corporal punishment upon a refractory student on grave provocation for the preservation of discipline. Our correspondent assures us that if Dr. Leitner had not acted firmly the contagion of insubordination might have spread, and he therefore sought to nip the evil in the bud by punishing the ringleader.—Hindu Patriot.

THE BIJNOR AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—Sir George Couper, Lieutenant Governor of the North West Provinces and Oudh, has consented to be patron of the society.

THE KHAJA SAHIB FAIR AT AJMERE.—A correspondent of the Indian Mirror, writing of the annual religious fair at Ajmere, thus describes a curious feature in the proceedings:—"There are two tremendous copper pots, one of which is said to contain about eighty maunds of rice and the other forty maunds. To fill these pots with rice, sugar, and dried fruits, requires a round sum of money, and it is only the rich who can afford to do so. This year his Highness the Nawab of Tonk paid Rs.3,000 to fill up both the pots. The day for the distribution of khichri was fixed on the morning of June 14. The rush of people to see the tamasha was so great that morning that I doubt not, if the doors of the gate had not been shut up in time, several persons would have been smashed to death. After the pots filled with khichri had been inspected by the Nawab, who was accompanied by the commissioner of Ajmere and several civil officers, the distribution, or more properly the plunder, of khichri commenced, and men well wrapped up with clothes, stuffed with cotton, were seen leaping down into the boiling pot to secure their share of the booty. I hear that as the mohaprashad of Juggannath is held in high veneration by the Hindus, so is the khichri of Khaja Sahib by the Mahomedans. It is sold in the bazaar at high price."

RAINS IN THE PUNJAB.—Owing to the heavy rains the permanent way of the salt branch of the Punjab Northern State Railway has been washed away and traffic interrupted for about twenty-four hours. The line is, however, again open. The new line from Ratial to Rawul Pindi has also suffered from the rains, and the running of the trains carrying material has been temporarily suspended. Every effort has been made to reopen the line, but when the newness of the earthwork and the steepness of the embankment are taken into consideration we cannot be surprised if interruptions such as the present are frequent during the rainy season.—Civil and Military Gazette.

HYDERABAD.—It seems the editor of the Deccan Times has given up his paper, which he brought into existence seven years ago under the name of the Critique, for a post in the "Gazetteer Department" on a very handsome salary. It is the general impression in Hyderabad that the editor was offered a good appointment merely that he might not wield his pen as he has done these many years. Mr. Lynn, B.C.E., Civil Engineering College, is the head of the Nizam's "Gazetteer Department," while the late editor of the Deccan Times is his assistant. There is another journalist in this department, a Mr. Wilmot, late sub-editor of a Bombay paper. The "Gazetteer," when it sees the light of day, must be a very readable book. What about the cost of the "Hyderabad Gazetteer?" It is now over two years since the compilation was started.

MADRAS.

THE LATE LIEUTENANT THOMAS FAIRFAX.—We regret to record the death of Lieutenant Thomas Fairfax, manager of the adjutant general's office, Madras, on June 30, at the age of forty years. It would appear the deceased was ailing from some internal disorder for some time, and the medical authorities were forced to perform an operation on him. The deceased lingered a short time after the operation and expired. He was promoted to the rank of lieutenant and deputy assistant commissary on 3rd October, 1877. Lieutenant Fairfax was for a long time employed in the adjutant general's office, and he succeeded to the managership on the retirement of Captain Taylor. —Madras Times.

THE LICENSE TAX.—The following is the statement of the objects and reasons of a bill to amend the schedule annexed to "The Madras License Act, 1878," as amended by Act VI. of 1880:—In September last the Chamber of Commerce complained of the rates of license tax being higher in this Presidency than elsewhere, and their representations were to receive full consideration in due course. The Government of India introduced a measure for, amongst other objects, equalising the tax everywhere, but that equalisation was abandoned, the actual legislation by the Government of India being confined to exempting earnings, &c., under Rs. 500 yearly from all tax and to abolishing rates of taxation below Rs. 10 in Madras, Bombay, and Northern India. It is therefore proposed, with the approval of the Government of India, to reduce the maximum rates in Madras to the same figures as the highest rates prevailing elsewhere. The three highest classes (Rs. 800, Rs. 700, and Rs. 600) under Madras Act III. of 1878, as amended by Act VI. of 1880, are accordingly to be struck out, and all traders, &c., whose annual net earnings or profits shall be adjudged to be Rs. 25,000 or more will pay a maximum fee of Rs. 500 yearly. The reduction will operate in the current official year.

TRAVANCORE.—The judicial revenue of last year amounted to Rs. 2,74,488 against Rs. 2,24,060, the charges being Rs. 1,79,434 against Rs. 1,70,236 of the preceding year; revenue, therefore, exceeded charges by Rs. 95,054. There were 17,499 cases disposed of by the magistracy, while the number of Government servants charged with offences was 262, rather a heavy number, against 218 in the year previous, of whom sixteen were charged with bribery, fifteen with criminal breach of trust, forty-five with torture, nine with abuse of power, twelve with criminal misappropriation, eight with forgery, and the rest with other offences. Of these 123 were committed for trial, or convicted by the magistracy, and of the latter eighty-one were fined, two imprisoned, and two otherwise punished. Torture would therefore appear to be the chief offence committed by Government servants, and arises very probably, as in British India, with a view, on the part of the police, of extorting confessions. Suicides would seem to be numerous, as in the limited area of Travancore there were no less than 105 in the year under review, fifty-five being by hanging, thirty-four by drowning, two by poisoning, and fourteen by other means. Accidental deaths also figure heavily, there having been 345, of which 190 were by drowning, 110 by falls from trees, and forty-five from other causes. The police force appears to be well maintained, the cost for the year having been Rs. 1,61,940, inclusive of extra charges, which amounted in the year to Rs. 1,330. A preventive force in the Northern frontier for the protection of the customs revenue was also carried out at the beginning of the year representing an annual expenditure of Rs. 6,994. Two preventive stations on mountain paths to Tinnevely were also opened, one at Agasteer estate, and another at Mutarchittumullay. —Madras Times.

MADRAS MEDICAL COLLEGE.—The proceedings of the anniversary of the Madras Medical College show that this institution is increasing in popularity and is attracting to it a larger number of students than in former years. At the beginning of the session that has just closed a large number of students entered the college, being forty-seven more than in the previous session. The demand for medical men who pass out of the college in almost all the districts of the Mofussil shows that English medicine and English treatment are being better understood and appreciated, and the Madras Medical College affords a valuable means for supplying that demand. The large number of local fund dispensaries scattered throughout the presidency have to be supplied with medical men, and this supply is furnished by the Medical College; hence the increasing number on the rolls of the institution. With the increase in the numerical strength of the college there has been a corresponding increase in the teaching work in the institution. So great has been the pressure on the present staff that the principal, in his report, makes allusion to the inadequacy of the teaching power. This is an important matter, and the Government should not be reluctant to afford the principal and professors of the college the additional aid that may be required to make the teaching in the institution as satisfactory as possible. It would be a great mistake to leave the college with an insufficient teaching staff, for where the professors and their assistants have to attend to larger classes than they can manage the work turned out can hardly be expected to be of a satisfactory kind. —Madras Times.

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES.—The following is a list of the successful candidates at the late competition at the Madras Medical College for the military, colonial and civil departments of the medical service. There were eight appointments competed for in the military, four in the colonial, and thirty in the civil.—Military Department.—H. E. Franklin, F. A. Campbell, S. G. Jackson, W. B. Bartly, J. A. Coshant. Colonial Department.—Gilbert F. De Silva. Civil Department.—W. J. Cooper, F. J. Rodrigues, G. M. Green, W. J. Wright, W. J. Megent, B. J. D. Prager, P. S. Gibbon, C. A. Bamfort, E. Stockings, E. Jones, B. F. Powell, Richard Franklin, A. Gallyot, G. W. Vellums, G. Gascoine, J. A. Franklin, J. Smith, S. C. Stirling, C. R. da Sylva, H. Wale, W. J. Dunlop, S. Peraji, T. Jayaram Moodelly, K. Thomas, R. Narayanasawmy, Jesudasen, P. Bappu, H. C. Hitchcock. —Ibid.

RETURNING FROM RAMPA.—Our correspondent at Coconada writes:—"Part of the 10th Regiment Native Infantry, from Rampa, under Colonel Beeching, returns to Madras by the s.s. Africa. A detachment of 200 men, under the command of Major Leggett, and under medical charge of a surgeon, are to be left at Samulcottah, as a temporary measure, which looks like the beginning of reopening Samulcottah as a garrison town. The authorities could not do better than keep a whole regiment there permanently. It is very healthy and within easy reach of Rampa, which is apparently likely to continue to give trouble for an indefinite period, and is also within nine miles of Coconada, where troops can be embarked for any part of the world at the shortest notice. There is to be a hanging of eight Rampa rebels in the interior shortly. Colonel Sankey, C.B., and Colonel Prendergast, S.C., the secretaries to Government in the Public Works and Military Departments, returned to Madras from Ootacamund and proceeded to Vizagapatam in the steamer Malda. They are charged, it is presumed, with imperative orders to bring the Rampa rebels to reason as quickly as possible." —Madras Mail.

MEDICAL COLLEGE.—The distribution of prizes, medals, and certificates to the students of the Madras Medical College took place on July 7 at the college. Surgeon General W. R. Cornish, F.R.C.S., C.I.E., took the chair. Dr. King, the principal of the college, read the report of the work for the year. It showed that at the beginning of the forty-fourth session there were 228 students on the books, being 44 more than at the previous session, of whom 47 were newly admitted. The cost of the Medical College during 1879-80 was Rs. 43,330-1-6, of which the sum of Rs. 5,920 was contributed as students' fees. After the distribution of the prizes, &c., and the reading of Dr. Rogers's address, the chairman addressed the meeting. —Times of India.

S.I.B. ASSOCIATION.—The Viceroy has intimated his consent to become a patron of the S.I.R.A. and to continue the prize given by his predecessor, Lord Lytton. —Bangalore Press.

THE COMING GOVERNOR.—The contradiction of the report that Mr. W. P. Adam had been appointed was received with much regret in Madras. If Mr. Adam had been appointed Governor of Madras he would not have been the first man of that name who has enjoyed that high privilege. The Liberal whip's uncle, General Sir Frederick Adam, was Governor there for nearly five years a little more than forty years ago. —Times of India.

BOMBAY.

THE PUNA CITY EXHIBITION.—This exhibition was opened on June 21, when Professor Keru Luxumon delivered an address in the vernacular, and he asked the spectators present to inspect the articles exhibited both as regards their workmanship and utility. This part of the ceremony being over, the assembled groups promenade round the building. Many of the articles exhibited deserve notice and commendation. The specimens of silk manufactured in Bombay, and exhibited by the enterprising firm of Messrs. Tapidas Vurjdas and Co., were much admired. The specimens of pottery from Mr. Dagjee Cassinath, of Bombay, call for special mention; and among other articles exhibited were brass table ornaments, specimens of ivory work, very neat and elegant, wool work and cushions, embroidery in silk and gold, cotton prints manufactured in India, earthen curiosities, a collection showing the different specimens of Indian grain, stuffed birds and animals, which formed a very pleasing contribution, photographs, oil paintings, water-colour pictures, native medicines, beautiful wooden toys, jewellery, models, table linen, cutlery, Delhi work, walking sticks, &c.—Bombay Gazette.

THE NIZAM'S STATE RAILWAY.—The total receipts of the Nizam's State Railway for the month of April last amounted to Rs.30,106, or at an average of Rs.248-12 per mile. During the above month 2,508 tons of grain and pulses were carried, realising Rs.12,646-2. We venture to suggest to Mr. Morrison, the examiner at Bolarum, that a "comparative statement" for the previous month and year in his statistical returns would be interesting.—Bombay Gazette.

BELGAUM, JUNE 24.—A poor fellow named Thomas Carlow, of the 83rd Regiment, was found at the bottom of a dry well near the church a few days ago. He had fallen down it two days before. When found he was alive and spoke a little, but he died before he could be raised to the mouth of the well, which was seventy feet deep. The deceased was a good soldier and a great shikaree. He appears to have been making a short cut to get back to barracks in time for tattoo, and to have fallen into the well in the dark.—Correspondent Bombay Gazette.

THE PORT TRUST.—The Government Gazette of last week published the annual statement of the Port Trust, which showed a deficit for the year 1879-80 of Rs.26,357. We had hoped that the time of deficits in the trust have passed, and that the trade would continue to be gratified by surpluses, and we hope that in future this will be the case. We defer any comment on the figures until the receipt of the administration report, which will, we suppose, be published before long. The results of the working of the trust since its formation in 1873 have been as follow:—1873-74, deficit Rs.1,64,861; 1874-75, deficit Rs.91,080; 1875-76, deficit Rs.36,455; 1876-77, deficit Rs.1,02,283; 1877-78, surplus Rs.1,01,106; 1878-79, surplus Rs.57,600; 1879-80, Rs.26,357.—Bombay Gazette.

A STRANGE STORY.—The Thakore of Versoda had a son by his first wife, but the son is reported to have died in 1874, having lived not more than a month. Since then the Thakore is reported to have become insane, in consequence of which he was for some time confined at the lunatic asylum at Ahmedabad. From this place, however, he was allowed to return to his territory on having recovered some time after. Shortly after he is reported to have married another woman, and, an altercation having arisen between him and his first wife, she returned to her father's territory. Meanwhile, a son was born to the new wife, and it is alleged that the transfer of the Thakore's affection which took place in favour of the new accession to his family has now encouraged him to prefer a complaint to the political agent to the effect that the child which is now living with his first wife is not the real one, but another bought from some person and substituted surreptitiously in the place of the original. The matter is made over by the political agent for investigation to the native assistant political agent at Edur.—Ibid.

THE MARMAGAON-HUBLI RAILWAY.—The Portuguese Government have resolved to commence the construction of the new Goa Railway during this year, even though the guarantee promised by the British Government for the line within their territory be not forthcoming. According to the estimates it appears that the entire line from Marmagaon to Hubli will cost one million sterling, of which the Portuguese section will cost £300,000 and the remaining £700,000 will go for the British.—Ibid.

SUBJECT to the confirmation of her Majesty's Government, his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council is pleased to recognise the appointment of Mr. Jacob Steiner as acting consul for the Netherlands at Bombay.

FRAUD.—Mr. White, late paymaster of his Highness the Nizam's State Railway, has been convicted of the embezzlement of Rs.2,000, and sentenced to three months' imprisonment and fine to that amount.—Times of India.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN RYAN.—We regret to state that Mr. John Ryan, the well-known and esteemed traffic superintendent of the Port Trust, died at sea on the 27th ultimo, on board the mail steamer. His kindly nature and suavity of manner made him a general favourite, and he will be much missed by all classes who were brought in contact with him, either in his private or official capacity. The Akhbar-i-Soudagar, writing about the late Mr. John Ryan, says that the Government have lost in him a zealous and experienced officer who spent almost all his official career in their service, and that the people have lost a favourite whose memory they will never cease to cherish. The Fan-i-Jamshed and the Samachar also refer to the many good qualities of the deceased.—Times of India.

THE MALWA AND RAJPUTANA RAILWAYS.—A resolution published in the Gazette of India announces that, in anticipation of the early opening to public traffic of the Western Rajputana Railway, and with a view to place under one administration all the metre gauge railways in Malwa and Rajputana, now on the point of being linked together, the Governor General in Council has been pleased, with the concurrence of the local Government, to decide that the control of the Rajputana Railway between Delhi, Agra, Raipur, and Nasirabad, with its branches, as well as the general charge of the lines under construction between Neemuch and Nasirabad and between Raipur and Pahlunpur, shall from the 1st of October, 1880, be vested in the Government of Bombay, in addition to the lines now under the management of that Government between Khundwa and Neemuch and between Ahmedabad and Pahlunpur. In order to enable the Government of Bombay to discharge the extended duties that will devolve on it the services of Mr. Furnivall, chief engineer, roads, buildings, and railways, North Western Provinces, who is at present temporarily attached to the office of the director general of railways, will be placed at the disposal of the Government of Bombay from Oct. 1, 1880, till June 30, 1881; and one of the deputy consulting engineers in Calcutta, together with the clerical staff lately sanctioned for the consulting engineer's office at that place for the performance of State railway work, will be transferred, with the records of the Rajputana Railway, to Bombay. The charge of the portion of the Sindia Railway south of Chumbul River will from Oct. 1 next be taken over by the engineer in chief of that railway, and the line will be worked by that officer under the general supervision of the consulting engineer at Calcutta, until the completion of the Chumbul bridge, when the two sections of the Sindia Railway will be placed under one management. The accounts and returns will continue to be rendered as heretofore by the examiner attached to the Rajputana Railway. The offices of the manager and other heads of departments on the Rajputana Railway will be transferred to Ajmere on October 1, or as soon after as possible, and proposals for the erection of an office building at that town should be submitted without delay. Arrangements are also ordered to be made for placing under the management of the East Indian Railway Company the junction stations at Delhi and Agra Fort.

THE NEEMUCH STATE RAILWAY.—On June 30 the opening of the last thirty miles of railway from Mundesore, connecting Neemuch with Bombay, was duly carried out by the arrival of the inspection train at 3.30 p.m. The line, which was opened for traffic on the 1st instant, represents the completion of whole length of line from Rutlam to Neemuch of 83½ miles. The work was begun in the hot weather of 1878, and it has therefore taken just two years to make. Mr. Horace Bell, engineer in chief, has been in charge the whole time; Messrs. Buyers and Swappe, executive engineers, and Messrs. Beeston, Sullivan, Michell, and Cowper, assistant engineers, being on the staff. The line is calculated to cost, when finished, £6,500 a mile, and the work has been carried out departmentally. It passes through a rich opium country, and opens up the important towns of Jowra and Mundesore. The work will now be steadily pushed on to Nusseerabad, and that part of the line is expected to be opened by January, 1882. When finished, the saving in time and distance between the district of Ajmere and Bombay will be very great, as the only railway communication at present is by the round-about way of Jubbulpore and Agra.—Pioneer.

CEYLON.

THE following items are from the Ceylon Times of July 3:—

THE WEATHER.—The weather continues of a most unusual character for the time of year, resembling rather the months of March and April than that of July. Scarcely any rain has fallen in and about Colombo, whilst in the interior, although they have been more fortunate in this respect, there has not been half the usual quantity of rain, and in consequence planting out and supplying have been very much retarded.

COFFEE EXPORTS.—To date our exports of coffee amount to 562,493 cwt. as compared with 758,963 cwt. at the corresponding time last year. The arrivals of parchment coffee in Colombo are now very inconsiderable, scarcely any coming in from the Kandy side of the country, but there is still a good deal of estate coffee to come in from the Uva side of the country, where crops have been remarkably good.

THE COLOMBO BREAKWATER.—Work at the breakwater is now restricted to block making in preparation for operations in the ensuing monsoon, when it is hoped that an additional 700ft. of the sea wall will be constructed. Already the protection afforded by our breakwater is sufficient to enable several large sailing vessels to lie in the inner harbour, and by this time next year we shall no doubt witness all the large steamers discharging and loading within the breakwater.

NEW INDUSTRIES.—It is well that the Governor should see something of the new industries that are taking root in the vicinity of Trincomalee, for they give promise of great extension at an early date. So impressed are many men of moderate means with the soil and climate of that part of the Eastern Province that applications have been registered for five thousand acres of land, not for speculative purposes, but in handy blocks for opening with cocoa, Liberian coffee, and tobacco.

DEATH OF A PLANTER.—We learn with regret the death of Mr. James Hookham, at the British India Hotel, last evening.

CIVIL SERVICE APPOINTMENTS.—The following are taken from the Gazette of June 25:—W. Deed, Esq., to act as assistant at Mullaitivu to the Government agent of the Northern Province, district judge, commissioner of requests, police magistrate, and coroner for the district of Mullaitivu, and superintendent of the Mullaitivu Prison, during the absence of F. R. Ellis, Esq., from the station, from the 1st proximo L. J. E. G. Tate, Esq., to act as district judge of Matara and visitor of the Matara Prison, for two months, from the 1st proximo. E. T. Noyes, Esq., to be justice of the peace for the district of Badulla, and to act as additional police magistrate for the Badulla district, holding court at Kataragama during the ensuing Kataragama festival. Peter Daniel, Esq., to act as commissioner of requests, police magistrate, and coroner for the district of Panadura, from the 27th instant to the 4th proximo, inclusive, during the absence of G. D. L. Browne, Esq., on leave of absence.

THE SITUATION AT KANDAHAR.

CRITICAL comment, out of place for the moment in any case, may well be postponed until we have something like a complete statement of the facts of the disaster at Khushk-i-Nakhud, on which some of our daily and weekly contemporaries have been dilating with a zeal more evident than their knowledge of the subject. We shall content ourselves with offering a few suggestions respecting the probabilities of a successful stand at Kandahar, and with examining the prospects of relief and the effect of the newly created difficulty upon India at large. And, first, of the last, we have the best reason to believe that Lord Ripon is exceedingly anxious no such reliefs should be hurried out from home as would create in the East an impression of an official panic. All the stories, then, of transports and movements of troops, with which morning and evening papers are flooded, refer rather to what the home authorities propose to do, if desired, than to what they have resolved to do. Lord Hartington is very wisely leaving the responsibility with Lord Ripon; and the latter has not yet signified his wish that anything more should be done than that the ordinary reliefs should be anticipated by about a month. Even though some of the London editors have lost their heads the Viceroy appears able to keep his.

A very tolerable plan appears in yesterday's Daily Telegraph of the City and Citadel of Kandahar, which is useful in making the situation plain to those who have not been in the Durani capital. It abounds, as might be expected, with errors of scale; but for our present purpose it is sufficient if we bear in mind, first, that the space to the west of the Citadel, called the old foundry, is really a part of the Citadel, and was not composed of "strong buildings," but was virtually in ruin, and was partially cleared by ourselves in the first weeks of our occupation; and secondly, that the corresponding space on the east of the Citadel has been used as a commissariat godown, and must be treated as part of the buildings which General Primrose must defend. Virtually, therefore, he has to take care of the whole of the north side of the city, and his task will be the easier that the houses which the Telegraph plan represents as crowded up on the eastern side of the Citadel were destroyed before we had been a month in possession, as it was felt they constituted a danger to the stores godown. The question, then, is, Can General Primrose hold the north side of the city? and the answer to this depends upon how many men he has got. Roughly speaking, it comes to this—if he has four thousand men left with breechloaders, he can hold out for at least a month, regardless of the side which the city may take. If he has under three thousand, his position is perilous in the extreme. And there are two grave dangers he has to consider and endeavour to avert. The walls are of thick, dried earth, in not the best preservation. Thick as they are, they would crumble under the thirty-five guns which, even if they be old eighteen-pounder smooth-bores, as is believed, would soon make a breach. Strange as it may seem, one or two breaches would add to the capacity of the defence, for one of the difficulties of the position is that if redoubts have been erected to cover the south gate of the Citadel on the place d'armes, they may be overborne by a Ghazi rush; and similarly, if a redoubt has been erected in front of the covered way leading from the Citadel to the cemetery on its northern side, it would be liable to disablement in a night attack. No embrasures could well be made through the thick walls, and the banquette is not wide enough to carry guns. One or two breaches, therefore, made by the guns of the enemy would only enable the guns of the defence to be brought the more perfectly to bear upon any storming party in addition to the breechloaders over the sometimes crenellated parapet. But fire is sometimes a less potent force in war than water. Unless something has been done in the last six months to sink wells within the Citadel, of which the Kandahar News would have contained a hint, the garrison will be entirely dependent on a little canal of six feet in width by two to four deep, running down from the westward, an affluent of the Argandab; and if this were cut, as it might be in five minutes, for in many places it rises above the level of the surrounding soil, the troops would be without the first necessary of life in such a climate, and there is no storage capacity in the Citadel except two fountain basins, which, between them, may contain two hundred and fifty thousand gallons, or not more than a fortnight's supply, with the strictest economy, for four thousand men. There are also one or two wells, but the soakage from the cemetery and the ditches would render these useless even if they could be supplemented by "Abyssinian wells." We have thought it advisable to go into these details as they affect the very life of the garrison. As to provisions and ammunition there need be no anxiety.

Relief will reach Kandahar in two shapes. According to present intentions, General Sir F. Roberts will march via Ghuzni with a division which can be well spared from Cabul, or replaced there immediately from Bright's and Arbuthnot's force on the Khyber line. We cannot help saying that we should very much prefer Sir Donald Stewart's return with this force to Kandahar, where his name is a "word of fear, displeasing to the Ghazi's ear," and where his presence alone would be a tower of strength. Sir F. Roberts is a useful officer, but to General Stewart alone should be entrusted the relief of Kandahar from the north. If the word were given for the march of this division to-day it could be at the southern capital in less than three weeks, for it would be marching over high lands and would be on the verge of water all the way. General Phayre's force can hardly be formed up at Chaman in less than a fortnight, and then it would have to advance seven or eight days' march across a desert or old lake bed, with no water to speak of, even in the agricultural tanks, till it got to the Arghasan and Tamak Rivers, for the Kadanai stream and the Melmanda rivulet would probably both be dry at present. It is of course quite a matter of speculation, in England at least, whether water would be found in the various kareez near the Catai Hills, but the state of these connected underground supplies would be well known to General Phayre and Sir R. Sandeman, of whose whereabouts our daily contemporaries have been in some doubt, but who, we have reason to know, are both at Chaman. On the whole, we believe General Primrose will be able to hold out for a month from to-day. Within that time he should be relieved by both the Cabul and the Sind Reserve Divisions, and, when he is there, should be no question for the future about holding Kandahar. To make it a first-rate fortress would cost more money than India is likely to have to spare in this generation; but there are positions near it and covering it, in the midst of the most fertile country, and supplied with perennial streams, which could be turned into entrenched camps of a very high order, and which would leave the city itself free to pursue its ordinary and greatly promising commercial life, and for the maintenance of which the tolls alone of Lower Afghanistan would amply provide. With the Temple railway finished, and an entrenched camp on the west of Kandahar, the danger to which we directed attention last week, of an easy advance from Herat, would be reduced to a minimum. The Wali seems to be a poor creature; we can hardly hand the province over to Ayooob; and there is really little for it but to hold it ourselves, at least until the Utopian period arrives when we can thoroughly confide in Cabul, and when Afghanistan is really placed beyond the reach of foreign interference inimical to Indian interests. Meanwhile the northern part of Dost Mahomed's realm remains quiet. How long it may do so remains to be seen, but Ayooob is not likely, in any case, to replace Abdul Rahman.

HOME NEWS.

EASTERN MAIL SERVICE.—Mr. James L. Bowes, on behalf of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, has sent memorials to the Secretary of State for India and the Postmaster General recommending "a return to the system whereby the arrival of the mails in London from the East took place earlier in the week, or that such other measures be adopted as will remove the existing grievances of which complaint is made, as well as amply facilitate postal communications with and from the East."

TOTAL LOSS OF AN EAST INDIAMAN.—Information was received on Saturday at Liverpool of the total loss of the fine iron ship Winchester, in the Straits of Macassar, near Manila. The Winchester was a London vessel of 1,626 tons, and was bound from Manila to Montreal with a cargo of sugar and hemp. No details have yet come to hand as to the disaster, but the message adds that the crew have been saved.

THE BRITISH INDIA ASSOCIATION.—We are informed that Lord Camperdown has consented to present to the House of Lords a petition from the British India Association praying that popular representation may be established in connection with the existing Legislative Councils; that improved intermediate appellate courts may be established; that the expenses of the Afghan war may be borne in equal proportions by England and India; that there may be a permanent limitation or fixity of the land tax; that the Civil Service may be more liberally opened to the natives; and that the Vernacular Press and Arms Acts may be abolished. A similar petition has been received from Assam.

ACCIDENT TO THE "KASHGAR."—Lloyd's agent at Port Said, in a telegram dated July 28, reports that the Kashgar steamer, in entering the basin at Suez on July 27, came into collision with the pier and twisted her stem. The extent of the damage is not yet known, but she would have to go into dock. The steamer left London for Bombay on July 11, and called at Malta about July 22. The Peninsular and Oriental Company have received a telegram which adds that the ship received considerable damage forward, but that the collision bulkhead was quite tight. As the repairs will probably occupy a few days the company's agent at Suez was landing the cargo, which would be despatched from that port by the Zambesi on the 5th proximo. In the meantime, to prevent any interruption to the mail service, the Peru, which was lying at Alexandria, has proceeded to Suez to take on the mails and passengers of the Kashgar; and the directors do not apprehend that the accident will cause any delay of moment either to the outward or homeward mails.

THE REVENUES OF CYPRUS.—A parliamentary paper has been issued giving returns of the sums paid by England to the Porte out of Cyprus revenues, and a copy of the accounts of Cyprus previous to English occupation. For the year 1878-79 the sum of 7,402,625 piastres was paid by England to Turkey; and in the year 1879-80, the sum of 11,092,377 piastres was paid, plus £5,000. The receipts of the Porte in Cyprus in the years 1873, 1874, 1875, 1876, and 1877 amounted to 83,950,051 piastres, while the expenditure in the same years amounted to 64,304,946 piastres, showing an excess of receipts over expenditure amounting to 11,121,952 piastres.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England for Rs.30,00,000 in Government bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.28,71,000; to Bombay, Rs.1,19,000; and to Madras, Rs.10,000. Tenders on all Presidencies at 18 3-16d. will receive about 11½ per cent., above that price in full. Compared with last week this price shows a fall of 1-16d. The same amount will be offered for tender on Wednesday next.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.—Mr. Parvati Nath Datta, Gilchrist scholar, has passed the Matriculation Examination of the University of London in the First Division. In future there will be no need for Gilchrist scholars to take this examination, as the Gilchrist Examination has been made equivalent to the London University Matriculation. Mr. K. R. Divecha has passed the first examination of the Society of Apothecaries, London. Arrivals: Dr. Beramjee Nowrojee, for study of London hospitals; Mr. Nowrojee Pestonjee, on a visit to England; Mr. K. R. Divecha, for the Indian Medical Service, and Mr. S. Dinsha Wadin, for engineering, all from Bombay. Departure: Mr. Krishna Nath Mitra, barrister at law, for Calcutta.—Journal National Indian Association.

OBITUARY.—We record with regret the death of Thomas Terrett Taylor, Esq., of the Mythe, Stoke Bishop, Bristol, which occurred June 27, whilst he was travelling in Italy. Mr. Taylor became some years ago, at the request of Miss Carpenter, treasurer of the National Indian Association, in the objects of which he felt a genuine interest. He was connected with various branches of commerce at Bristol, and was greatly respected in public and in private life. Mr. Taylor resigned the treasurership at the end of 1878 to Mr. Wyllie.—Journal National Indian Association.

BRITISH INDIAN TEA COMPANY.—The half-yearly meeting was held on Thursday; Mr. A. R. Capel in the chair. The Chairman expressed his regret that the board had not a more satisfactory report to present to the shareholders, but they could not have any control over the weather or the state of the tea market. The outturn had been more than the previous year, whilst they had been compelled to submit to 2d. per lb. less in price, but other companies had had to take 4d. per lb. less. The importation of tea had largely increased, it amounted last month to 3,800,000lb., the largest delivery ever made in this country in one month. The increase in the consumption would, he believed, increase the price, though the quotations current a few years ago would not be reached. China, Japan, and Ceylon were all now competing with Indian teas, but he thought that they might fairly look forward to remunerative returns if they had fairly fine weather, which would increase the quantity and improve the quality of the tea manufactured. The weather of the present season had been very disappointing, and up to the 14th of July the outturn was 171,000lb. against 167,000lb. at the corresponding period of last year. A telegram had since been received from which it appeared that up to the 26th July the quantity manufactured was 206,000lb. as against 188,000lb. in the corresponding period of last year, the manufacture being 35,000lb. in the fortnight as compared with 21,000lb. in the corresponding fortnight. It would thus appear that the weather had improved. The report was adopted.

COURT OF BANKRUPTCY.—An application has just been made for the registration of the resolutions passed in the case of J. C. Stirling and F. W. Macan, trading as merchants and East India agents, in Gracechurch-street, under the firm of Horsley, Palmer, Stirling, and Co., and at Bombay as Stirling and Co. The liabilities of the joint estate were £37,890, and assets £13,966, the book debts being estimated to realise £9,700. It was resolved that the estate should be liquidated by arrangement, Mr. John Young, accountant, Coleman-street, being appointed trustee, with a committee of inspection, and the discharge of the debtors was granted. It appeared that the resolutions had been only carried, and his honour directed registration.

SOUTH EAST WYNAAD ESTATES AND GOLD MINING COMPANY.—At the meeting held on Friday the resolution for altering the denomination of the shares from £2 to £1 was confirmed. The chairman notified the receipt of a telegram from Mr. Pegler to the effect that they were still opening out the reef with important results.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, JULY 26.

AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. A. ARNOLD asked the Secretary of State for India whether he had received further information with reference to the proclamation of Abdul Rahman Khan as Ameer of Cabul.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: Sir, when the present Government came into office it had already been decided by the late Government that, pending the occupation of Kandahar and the protection of the frontier which had been assigned by the Treaty of Gandamak the troops should return as early as possible from Cabul and Northern Afghanistan. The late Government thought it extremely desirable, before that retirement should be effected, that a strong and capable ruler should be found to assume the government of Cabul and of that district. With that object Lord Lytton had communications in March last with Abdul Rahman Khan. Abdul Rahman was, as is well known, selected by Lord Lytton as the most powerful of the candidates for the throne of Cabul and the chief who was likely to obtain the greatest amount of support from the sirdars and the people. These communications have been in progress ever since that time, although more delay than was anticipated has arisen in bringing them to a conclusion. The causes of the delay are, in the first instance, the great distance between Turkestan and Cabul, Turkestan being the place where Abdul Rahman had taken up his quarters. In the next place, Abdul Rahman felt some distrust, which was, in the circumstances, not unnatural, as to the apparently disinterested offer which the British Government had made to him. Again, he had the not unnatural desire to be recognised, if possible, as the Ameer of undivided Afghanistan. He also felt considerable difficulty in establishing his position in Turkestan itself. He had also to exercise great caution among the tribes, and to feel his way carefully in Turkestan and in the direction of Cabul, in order to see how much support he could obtain as Ameer. In consequence of these great delays, and also of the nature of the reply received, some doubt was expressed as to his good faith, and there were some men whose opinions were entitled to great weight who were in favour even of breaking off the negotiations with Abdul Rahman; but Lord Lytton decided, I think, with very great prudence, to carry on the negotiations to the end. He directed cautious replies to be sent to Abdul Rahman in answer to such communications as he thought himself entitled to make, and he was firmly, but at the same time courteously, informed what were the terms we were able to grant, and, on the other hand, what it was impossible for us to concede to him. The result has been, as the House is aware, that Abdul Rahman, having passed through Kohistan, has arrived at Chankar, not very far from Cabul. He has apparently been well received there by the sirdars and by the people. A durbar has been held in Cabul, where he has been proclaimed Ameer, with the assent of the British Government, and apparently with the assent of a very considerable number of the sirdars and the people. Communications are still going on with the leaders of the party known as the National Party, and we have every reason to hope that these communications will lead to the acceptance, if he has not been already accepted, of Abdul Rahman by that party also. I hope that, in these circumstances, the troops will very shortly be able to retire from Cabul, having placed Abdul Rahman in possession of that city and handed over the government of the city and of the surrounding country to him. The troops will retire, in the first instance, to the positions which have been selected with a view to their health, and they will be in a position to afford facilities of watching for a little time the progress of events, and, if necessary, give any protection to the chiefs and troops friendly to us. In the autumn, when the season is favourable and the troops are able to march through the passes, I hope they will be able to retire through those passes to India. I do not wish to lead the House to believe that I speak with too great confidence as to the nature of the arrangements arrived at. The uncertainty of Afghan politics is so great that it is not possible to feel that all troubles in the country are yet at an end. But I can state that our arrangements for the retirement from Cabul of the troops are not altogether contingent on the proceedings of Abdul Rahman or the Afghan people. General Stewart is, I believe, amply strong enough to hold his own against any hostile combination that may be formed, and strong enough to retire when and how he thinks fit, and at the same time to make arrangements for the safety of the Afghan chiefs who may think it necessary to seek our protection and to accompany him. No formal engagement of any kind has yet been entered into with Abdul Rahman. He has simply been recognised as Ameer of Cabul, and he has been offered such support and such assistance as may be necessary to enable him to establish his position there. He has been informed that no negotiations can be entered into at present in respect to Kandahar and the other districts assigned under the Treaty of Gandamak until it has been further considered—first by Lord Ripon and then by the Home Government. Further, Abdul Rahman has been informed that if he conforms himself to our advice the British Government will be prepared to assist him against any unprovoked aggression by foreign Powers. He has also been told that her Majesty's Government have no desire to interfere in any way with his internal management of his own dominions. A Mahomedan envoy will be sent to Cabul, but the Ameer will not be required to receive a British Resident there. Whether these facts will be embodied in a more formal document depends very much upon the willingness which Abdul Rahman may show to be guided by our advice and the disposition he shows to treat with fairness and friendship the tribes which have proved themselves our friends in the last two years. I hope to be able to make the financial statement on Tuesday week, certainly not later than Thursday week.

Sir G. CAMPBELL wished to know whether the Government were committed to maintain the line of the Treaty of Gandamak, or whether it was still an open question.

Mr. COWEN said that in the last Parliament some serious charges were made as to the way in which the British troops treated the Afghan people in the course of the war, and an answer was given to the effect that the charges were baseless. He had read in the Times of that morning a report of the speech which was made by Mr. Lepel Griffin to the chiefs, &c., at the durbar of Thursday last, and in the course of the address the following passage occurred:—"We trust and believe that your remembrance of England will not be unkindly. We have fought you in the field whenever you opposed us, but your religion has not been interfered with, the honour of your women has been respected, and everyone has been secure in the possession of his property. Whatever has been necessary for the support of the army has been liberally paid for. Not a single complaint has been made by any Afghan of any soldier, English or native, belonging to her Majesty's army." He wished to know whether the noble lord was in a position to confirm the statement of Mr. Griffin, or had he any information justifying the severe condemnation passed upon the army in the last Parliament.

Mr. OTWAY and Mr. ONSLOW wished for information as to the form of the assistance referred to by the noble lord as having been offered by the Government to Abdul Rahman; the last-named hon. gentleman asking whether it would take the form of men, arms, or ammunition.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON, in reply to Sir G. Campbell, said, as concerned the position of the question as regarded Kandahar and the new frontier, it remained in statu quo. Lord Ripon had been instructed to consider it separately and independently, and as soon as his judgment was formed and communicated to the Home Government they would decide what was best to be done in the circumstances. In answer to Mr. Cowen, the noble lord said he had no official information as to the address which was said to have been delivered by Mr. Griffin, but, as far as the information in his possession enabled him to speak, the statement of Mr. Griffin was borne out by facts. In answer to Mr. Otway and Mr. Onslow, the noble marquis said the information at present in possession of the Government had been communicated by telegraph, and did not contain details, but he understood that the assistance proposed to be given was mainly pecuniary. The only arms that would be given to him, as far as he knew, were some Afghan guns which had been taken from Shere Ali. He had not recently received any information whatever concerning Yakooob Khan.

INDIAN FINANCE.

Mr. OTWAY: I beg to ask the Secretary of State for India whether it is true that in the twenty-one years which have elapsed since India has been governed by the Crown a sum of about 500 millions sterling has been taken from the people of India by taxation in excess of that imposed on them during the twenty-eight years preceding.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: The revenues and receipts of India during the twenty-one years from 1858 to 1879 are computed to have exceeded those in the twenty-one (not twenty-eight) preceding years by 484 millions sterling; but the whole of this excess can, perhaps, scarcely be called taxation of the people of India. The extra receipts from opium were ninety-six; from land revenue, 122 from public works receipts, thirty-two; from tributes and miscellaneous receipts, seventy-five; and from excise, assessed taxes, customs, salt, and stamps, 159 millions.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY, JULY 27.

AFGHANISTAN.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: I wish to take this opportunity of correcting one or two inaccuracies that have appeared in some of the reports of the answer given by me yesterday to the question of the hon. member for Salford. I am reported in the Times to have said that when we came into office it had already been decided by the late Government that, pending the occupation of Kandahar and the protection of the frontier which had been assigned by the Treaty of Gandamak, the troops should return as soon as possible from Cabul and Northern Afghanistan. What I said was that the late Government, while maintaining the occupation of Kandahar, had decided on the retirement of the troops from Cabul and Northern Afghanistan. I am also reported to have said that Abdul Rahman has been recognised as Ameer of Cabul, and has been offered such support and such assistance as may be necessary to enable him to establish his position there. It should be added that I stated that the assistance would be distinctly of a temporary character. I am also reported to have said that Abdul Rahman has been informed that no negotiations can be entered into at present in respect to Kandahar and the districts assigned under the Treaty of Gandamak until the subject has been further considered, first by Lord Ripon and then by the Home Government. No such reservation was contained in the statement I made; and the announcement made to Abdul Rahman was unconditional. Another error occurs in all the reports, and is due, probably, to a mistake of my own. I am said to have stated that some men whose opinions were entitled to great weight were in favour of breaking off the negotiations with Abdul Rahman, but Lord Lytton decided, with very great prudence, to carry on the negotiations to the end. As a matter of fact, the continuance of the negotiations was owing to the firmness and prudence of Lord Ripon.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY, JULY 28.

AFGHANISTAN.

The Speaker having taken the chair,

The Marquis of HARTINGTON regretted to say that he had that morning received news of a very serious character from India. He then read the telegram which appears elsewhere. The Marquis stated that the only news that received respecting General Burrows' expedition had been telegraphic, and therefore he was not able to give any details as to the composition of his force. He believed it consisted of a brigade, but was unable to state how that brigade was composed.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON, rising shortly before six o'clock, said: As far as I am able to ascertain—although my information is not very accurate—the brigade under the command of General Burrows contained from 2,000 to 3,000 men, which was composed of a British infantry regiment and a battery of horse artillery. I am not able to state positively what the British regiment was; but from the previous telegram we have received I may safely infer that it was part of the 66th Regiment. I am unable to tell at present what force is under General Primrose at Kandahar; but, weakened by the detachment under the command of General Burrows, it would not exceed from 1,700 to 2,000 men. At the time when General Burrows' force was attacked orders were given to reinforce the force at Kandahar by troops under General Phayre. If that junction was effected, the force would probably exceed the number I have stated. I have received this afternoon two further telegrams (one from the Viceroy, published in our first page). I have also received a further telegram from the Governor of Bombay in reply to the Government of India, who asked him what reinforcements his Government would undertake to furnish in the present emergency. He said he would undertake to furnish three batteries of artillery, one British cavalry regiment, half a regiment of native cavalry, two regiments of European infantry, and six native infantry regiments. Phayre telegraphs:—"Fragments of Burrows' force arriving at Kandahar. No details yet, but Ayoob Khan's force stronger than was supposed, consisting of 12,000 men and thirty-six guns, well served. Phayre has been conversing with Primrose; wires now cut. Concentration on Bolan. This we think wise." This telegram has just been placed in my hand in reply to one I addressed to the Governor of Bombay and the Viceroy asking when they could give details of the force under command of General Burrows—"Horse Artillery I and B, 3rd Bombay Cavalry, 3rd Sind Horse, two companies Sappers, 66th Regiment six companies, 1st and 30th Native Infantry. Nothing more known. Telegraph interrupted."

THE INDIAN EXCHEQUER.

On the order for the consideration of the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill, as amended, Sir GEORGE CAMPBELL rose to move:—"That considering the declaration of her Majesty's Government, it is essential that regard should be had to the necessities of the Indian Exchequer before the British financial arrangements for the year are completed." The hon. member remarked that the serious announcement which the Secretary for India had just made seemed to open a prospect of greatly increased expenditure in Afghanistan, and, consequently, of greatly increased liabilities on the part of the Home Government, who had undertaken to contribute a substantial part of the cost of the war. He was unable to support the Postmaster-General when he first proposed to give aid to India, but since then matters had greatly changed. It was now seen that the war would cost at least fifteen millions, with four millions for railways. He had been apprehensive that complications might arise which would lead to further outlay, and the announcement just made showed that such complications had arisen. He would be afraid to contract for the whole war under twenty or twenty-five millions. However, he proposed only to deal with the cost up to the close of the financial year, and that had been estimated at nineteen millions. The Government was pledged to contribute a substantial portion to the outlay, and he wanted to know how they were to meet that. The surplus shown by the Chancellor of the Exchequer on the amended Budget was only half a million, while a "substantial portion" could not mean less than several millions. His opinion was that twopence ought to be added to the income-tax, and to those who advocated a spirited foreign policy ought not to raise any objection.

Mr. GLADSTONE said that the hon. member had said that he was bound by the principles he had laid down to provide for the expenditure of the year from the resources of the year. While holding by these principles he had never committed himself to the novel principle that if the question of an Indian demand arose it ought to fall into the same year. The upshot of the motion was that twopence more ought to be added to the income-tax by an immediate act. He would ask the hon. member how was it possible for them to make such a proposal until they were prepared to submit some plan as to the contribution they were prepared to make to the Indian Exchequer. They could not proceed by instalments, as this was a question so new and important that it would become Parliament to exercise the greatest jealousy and circumspection. They could not, even if they thought it right, which they did not, demand from Parliament to lay fresh taxes on the country before they were able to give them something like a definite estimate both of the charges of the war and of the contribution which it would be the duty of this country to make towards those charges. He did not wish it to be understood that he undervalued the importance of the topics on which the hon. member touched if he then offered no observations upon them. An early opportunity would arise for their discussion, when the hon. member would be in a position to urge his views.

Mr. STANHOPE thought no one could have heard the statement of the noble lord (Lord Hartington) without feeling the deepest regret, and the first idea uppermost in their minds was to give support to the Government in the difficult position they were undoubtedly placed in by the news they had received, and to assist them in every possible way. At the same time, he could not be surprised at the motion being made, because he recollected in the session of 1879 a motion was brought forward to charge the whole of the expenditure on the Imperial Exchequer, and was supported by hon. and right hon. gentlemen opposite, including the Prime Minister. During the first session of the present year not only were proposals of that description made, but it was intended to interpose between the discussion of the financial statement of England to induce the Government to state what contribution they would make to the Indian Exchequer. The late Government assented to the suggestion as a reasonable one, and before the financial arrangements of the year were settled they agreed to give the House an opportunity of discussing it. In the present session the Prime Minister brought in a budget and stated that he had taken into consideration the necessity for a contribution towards the expenses of the Afghan war. He had to point out the danger of such an indefinite promise. They ran the risk of weakening the security of economical management in India. Reserving, as they did, their opinion both as to the principle and detail of the proposal the Government might hereafter make, he hoped the House would now allow them to proceed with the discussion of the bill.

Sir G. CAMPBELL withdrew his motion.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY, JULY 29.

THE DISASTER IN AFGHANISTAN.

The Duke of SOMERSET asked whether the Government were in possession of any additional information as to the disaster in Afghanistan.

Earl GRANVILLE could do little else than formally repeat what had been stated in another place with regard to this disaster. He was happy to say that the news that day, was decidedly of a reassuring character, and that the statement first telegraphed from Bombay that General Burrows's brigade had been annihilated was an exaggeration. Still, there was no doubt that a serious defeat had been inflicted upon his force. His Lordship then read a summary of the telegrams received, and added that, although there was reason to hope that the first news of defeat was considerably exaggerated, there was still cause for anxiety and apprehension that this unfortunate event would prolong the war; the Secretary of State for India had therefore thought it necessary to make arrangements with the Commander in Chief and the Secretary for War for sending immediately reinforcements of British troops to India in anticipation of the ordinary reliefs.

The Earl of CARNARVON asked the Foreign Secretary what was the state of telegraphic communications between the forces, and to what point there was railway communication for troops and supplies.

Earl GRANVILLE said that on the instant he was not prepared to answer the question.

Later on, Earl GRANVILLE said he was now in a position to answer the question of the noble earl (Carnarvon) respecting Afghanistan. General Phayre was at Chaman-Choki, and the communication was cut between him and General Primrose. The railway was nearly finished to Sibi, but it had been damaged by floods. He wished to take that opportunity of appealing to the noble lord near him (Waveney) not to proceed to-morrow with the motion respecting Kandahar which stood in his name. It was the opinion of her Majesty's Government, and also of noble lords on both sides of the House, that the present was not a convenient time for discussing that subject.

Lord WAVENEY admitted entirely the justice of the noble earl's appeal, to which, of course, he would accede. His motion, which aimed at erecting Kandahar into a free city and emporium of commerce under British administration and government, was one of great interest to the chambers of commerce in this country, but they were, no doubt, quite of opinion also that the discussion of such a subject at the present time was inopportune. He would not, therefore, proceed with his motion. At the same time, he trusted that another opportunity would be afforded for discussing the disaster which had just befallen the British arms and matters connected with Afghanistan generally.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, JULY 29.

MILITARY LUNATICS.

Sir H. D. WOLFF asked the Secretary of State for India whether he would consent to lay upon the table correspondence with the Local Government Board or any other department relative to the chargeability of military or other lunatics sent from India on the rates of unions in Essex; and whether Her Majesty's Government had arrived at any decision as to the justice of charging the maintenance of such lunatics on the rates of Portsmouth.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: The letter to which the hon. member referred in a previous question received from the War Office has been under consideration, but has not yet been finally decided upon. I do not think it would be convenient to lay the correspondence upon the table until some decision has been arrived at. (Hear, hear.)

INDIAN FAMINES.

In answer to Mr. O'Donnell, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said it had not been possible for him as yet fully to consider the report of the Indian Famine Commission; and he did not know, even if it had been otherwise, that he should have been able to enter into a discussion on the subject with the hon. member, who would find the views of the commission as to the Behar famine set forth in the first part of the report. When the second part was issued, as it shortly would be, the hon. member would find what notice the commission had thought it necessary to take of the agrarian position of Behar, a question into which they had entered at great length.

THE AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION.

In answer to Lord Elcho, who had not given previous notice of the question, Mr. MUNDELLA said he could not off-hand say when the reports of the assistant commissioners appointed under the Royal Commission on Agriculture would be issued.

THE NEWS FROM AFGHANISTAN.

Sir H. D. WOLFF asked the Marquis of Hartington whether, immediately after the revolt of the Wali's forces, any orders were sent to reinforce the garrison of Kandahar or to secure the communications, and when the reinforcements now ordered were likely to arrive.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON—I am happy to be able to inform the House that the telegraphic messages which have been received this morning are, on the whole, of a very reassuring character, and show certainly, in my opinion, that the statement which was telegraphed yesterday morning from Bombay as to the annihilation of General Burrow's Brigade was an exaggeration. I will, with permission of the House, read a summary of the various telegrams which have been received this morning—a proceeding which I believe will place before the House in the most convenient shape the information that has been received. (The telegram read will be found elsewhere.) I have only to add that although, as I have already said, we should consider the news this morning as of an exceedingly reassuring character, there can nevertheless be no doubt that a somewhat severe defeat has been suffered, and that there is still cause for much anxiety and some cause for apprehension that this unfortunate event may lead to a prolongation of the war. In these circumstances I have thought it necessary, in consultation with my right hon. friend the Secretary of State for War and the Commander in Chief, to make arrangements for sending out reinforcements of British troops in anticipation of the reliefs which would in the ordinary course be sent out. (Hear, hear.) I have no information which I can give to the House as to the present state of the defences of Kandahar. I may add that I have received no information from Cabul since the news I have communicated to the House. I forgot also to state that I have thought it might be convenient to hon. members who may be acquainted with or interested in officers in General Burrow's force to have a carefully drawn up statement of the various telegrams, and also a careful comparison of them with the "Army List," so as to show clearly the extent of the casualties as far as they become known to us. This list will be placed in the newspaper room, near the map of Afghanistan.

Sir. H. D. WOLFF said the mutiny of the Wali's troops occurred on the 14th of this month, and he wished to know whether there was any movement of reinforcements in the direction of Kandahar between that date and the date of the attack on General Burrows's force.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: As soon as General Burrows's movement for Kandahar was decided upon, orders were sent to General Phayre and to Bombay to reinforce the division on that line. I do not know what the amount of reinforcement so sent has been, and I am not aware that any reinforcements were sent subsequently to the desertion of the Wali's troops.

Lord G. HAMILTON: The noble lord has quoted two communications received from Major Sandeman. May I ask, therefore, whether telegraphic communication is still open to Quetta?

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: It is open to Quetta, but closed from that place to Kandahar.

Mr. OTWAY: May I ask whether the telegraphic communication is open between Cabul and Simla.—The Marquis of HARTINGTON: Yes; or, rather, I have no knowledge that it is not so.—Mr. O'DONNELL asked what arrangements had been made with regard to Yakob Khan and the national Royal Family of Afghanistan.—The Marquis of HARTINGTON: I have received no information on the subject of Yakob Khan, and I think that the House will see that whatever may be decided respecting him, it would not be friendly to the new Ameer to take this moment for releasing a member of the late Royal Family who could not be looked upon in any other light than as a rival candidate for the throne.—Mr. O'DONNELL asked whether it was to be understood that the selection by the British Government of Abdur Rahman as the ruler of Afghanistan was irrevocable. (Cries of "Order.")—The Marquis of HARTINGTON: I have no more to state with reference to Abdur Rahman than I communicated to the House the other day. Abdur Rahman has not been selected by the British Government; he has simply been recognised by them as the Ameer of Cabul.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY, JULY 30.

THE DISASTER NEAR KANDAHAR.

Earl GRANVILLE, replying to the Duke of Somerset, read a counterpart of the telegram which had been read earlier in the day by Lord Hartington.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY, JULY 30.

Mr. A. ARNOLD inquired if General Primrose had been reinforced by General Phayre.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON read the telegram received that morning and said General Phayre was not in a position to advance to the relief of Kandahar, and it was desirable that he should not attempt any such advance until he was sufficiently strong to be certain not to encounter another reverse. Lord Hartington had no telegram from India as to the effect the news had in Cabul, and, in the absence of any information, the state of affairs at Cabul seemed satisfactory. There was nothing at all alarming in what he had, and it was perfectly intelligible that there would be a certain amount of disturbance along the line from Kandahar to Quetta and Pishin.

Sir W. BARTHELOT inquired as to the force at Karachi, and Lord R. CHURCHILL asked if the Cabul force was to be strengthened.

Lord HARTINGTON replied that it was not expedient to give the exact number of the force which was being prepared for the relief of Kandahar, and he believed the force in Cabul to be amply sufficient.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma. CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague. CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manila, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st Dec., 1884.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, 18th July, 1884.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1fd., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanied each bottle.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, AUGUST 9, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 17; Madras and Allahabad, July 15; Calcutta, July 14.

The following is the report on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending July 6:—
“General rain, for the most part moderate and fairly well distributed, has fallen during the week. It has been heavy in parts of Bombay, the Central Provinces, and in Burma. In the Central Provinces a break is required where the fall was excessive; and in Burma floods have occurred, and fears were entertained of embankments being breached. More rain is required in a few of the Deccan districts. Autumn sowings are proceeding satisfactorily; agricultural prospects and the public health continue favourable.”

The health reports for the same week are as follow:—
Bombay: Some small-pox in Sind; fever in Southern Mahratta country. Bengal: Cholera in Chittagong and Outtack; some fever in Baripore and Darbhunga; otherwise reports good. North West Provinces and Oudh: Cholera has not spread, while fever has not abated, but general health is still good. Punjab: Generally good. Central Provinces: Small-pox prevalent. British Burma: Small-pox almost disappeared except in Monegwar. Assam: Fever prevalent in Dibrugarh. Mysor and Coorg: Health good but fever prevalent. Central India States and Rajputana: General reports good.

We have received the following telegrams from the India office:—

“FROM VICEROY, JULY 31.—Following from Agent to Governor General, Quetta, 31st:—‘We have received no direct news from our army at Kandahar. Native sources do not describe Burrows’s defeat as crushing. They say that British cavalry and guns were induced to follow the enemy’s cavalry, who pretended to fly, and led them into a complete ambushade. Ayoub’s army then delivered its attack, and our troops suffered very severely in officers and men; that a battle was then fought, resulting in our retirement on Kandahar, but Ayoub’s army suffered much.’ This report, though received from several sources, requires confirmation. A party went out from Chaman to assist detachments at Gatai, mentioned in yesterday’s telegram. All have now arrived at Chaman without casualties.’ Stewart telegraphs, Cabul, July 30, all quiet.”

“FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, AUGUST 1.—Following from Quetta, 1st:—‘I have received the following news from a fairly reliable source. Ayoub Khan’s army did not follow up British retreat to Kandahar. Burrows’s force has arrived at Kandahar, and our whole army is not in the citadel. When messenger left Ayoub was encamped where action was fought. This intelligence seems to corroborate news sent you yesterday that Burrows’s defeat was not so crushing as at first believed by Primrose, and that Ayoub Khan’s army had suffered so much that they were vacillating regarding their further course of action.’”

“FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, AUGUST 1.—Yours July 31. Have conveyed expression of Queen’s satisfaction to Khan of Khelat.”

“FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 3.—Following from Colonel St. John, dated Kandahar, July 29:—Arrived here yesterday afternoon, with General Burrows and Nuttall, and remnant of force. Burrows marched from Kushk-i-Nakhud on the morning of the 27th, having heard from me that Ayoub’s advance guard had occupied Maikaud, about three miles from latter place. Enemy’s cavalry appeared advancing from direction of Hyderabad. Their camp on Helmund, ten miles from Girishk. Artillery and cavalry engaged them about 2 a.m. Shortly afterwards the whole force of the enemy appeared and formed line of battle—seven regiments regulars in centre; three others in reserve; about 2,000 cavalry on right; 400 mounted men and 2,000 Ghazis and irregular infantry on left; other cavalry and irregulars in reserve; five or six batteries of guns, including one of breechloaders, distributed at intervals. Estimated total force, 12,000. Ground slightly undulating, enemy being best posted. Till one p.m., action confined to artillery fire, which was so well sustained and directed by enemy that our superior quality of armament failed to compensate for inferior number of guns. After development of rifle fire our breechloaders told, but vigorous advances of cavalry against our left and Ghazis along the front caused native infantry to fall back in confusion on 66th, abandoning two guns, formation being lost. Infantry retreated slowly, and in spite of the gallant efforts of General Burrows to rally them were cut off from cavalry and artillery. This was at three p.m., and followers and baggage were streaming away towards Kandahar. After severe fight in enclosed ground General Burrows succeeded in extricating infantry, and brought them into line of retreat. Unfortunately no efforts would turn fugitives from main road, waterless at this season. Thus majority of casualties appear to have occurred from men falling from thirst and exhaustion. Enemy’s pursuit continued to ten miles from Kandahar, but was not vigorous. Cavalry, artillery, and a few infantry reached banks of Argandab, 40 miles from scene of action, at 7 a.m., many not having tasted water since previous morning. Nearly all ammunition lost, with 400 Martinis, 700 Sniders, and two nine-pounder guns. Estimated loss killed and missing:—66th, 400; Grenadiers, 350; Jacob’s Rifles, 350; Artillery, 40; Sappers, 21; Cavalry, 60. Officers killed or missing:—Major Blackwood, Osborne, Macleod, Henn, Engineers; Galbraith, M’Math, Garratt, Cullen, Roberts, Rayner, Honywood, Barr, Chute, 66th; Owen, 3rd Cavalry; Hinde, Whitby, Grenadiers; Smith, Justice, Cole, Jacob’s Rifles. Wounded:—Powell, Artillery; Lynch, Preston, 66th; Anderson, Grant, Grenadiers; Irlett, Jacob’s Rifles. Preparations being now made for siege. Durani inhabitants expelled. Provisions and ammunition plentiful. Wali was present during action, and is now with us assisting actively.”

“FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 3.—St. John reports following list of killed, missing, and wounded:—66th Foot.—Killed and missing: Lieut. Colonel Galbraith, Captains Garratt, M’Math, Cullen, Roberts; Lieutenants Rayner, Chute, Honywood, Barr. Wounded: Surgeon Major Preston, Lieutenant Lynch. Artillery.—Killed and missing: Major Blackwood, Lieutenants Osborne and MacLaine. Wounded: Lieutenant Fowell, 3rd Light Infantry.—Killed: Lieutenant Owen. 1st Native Infantry.—Killed and missing: Lieutenants Hinde and Whitby. Wounded: Lieut. Colonel Anderson and Captain Grant. 30th Native Infantry.—Killed and missing: Captains Smith, Lieuts. Justice and Cole. Wounded: Major Iredell.—Staff.—Killed and missing: Brigade Majors, Captain P. Heath, Lieutenant Henn, Royal Engineers. Estimated casualties other ranks, 66th Foot, 400; Artillery, 40; Cavalry, 60; Sappers, 40; 1st Native Infantry, 350; 30th Native Infantry, 350. There is very little hope that those missing will have escaped. Aslett, 1st Native Infantry, reported killed in mine on July 29, is not named in this list. The reinforcements proceeding from Bombay and Bengal by the Bolan line for Kandahar, and the communications are:—From Bengal: H, Royal Artillery, and another battery not named, 15th Hussars, 8th Bengal Cavalry, 63rd Foot, 3rd and 4th Native Infantry. From Bombay: 5-8th Royal Artillery, Mountain Battery (just started from Puna), 78th Foot, 13th and 15th Native Infantry.”

“FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 3.—Agent, Quetta, telegraphs, under date Aug. 2, that tribesmen reported collecting between Chaman and Kandahar, and that Ayoub is said to have marched to Mir Karez, and to have detailed force for attack on Chaman. Some cavalry supposed to be moving in direction of Kakran for interception of supplies to Kandahar. General Stewart has returned to Cabul from camp; Deh Haji, chief political officer, has had several interviews with the Ameer, with whom are principal Ghilzai chiefs, and representatives of Maidan, Logar, Kohistan, and other districts.”

“FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 5.—Following from Sandeman, Quetta, dated August 4:—‘Messengers despatched for news of Ayoub’s movements states that up to August 1 his army was at Sanghar. The leaders were in perplexity, not knowing whether to advance or remain where they were. Ayoub’s loss very heavy. Messengers say he had no hope of successfully attacking Kandahar. I give this news as received. Doubtless there is truth in it. There has been some skirmishing with the tribes in the Khojak Pass, between Chaman and Killa Abdulla. Our parties have been frequently attacked. Telegraphic communications continues up to Killa Abdulla. A convoy was attacked on the 3rd near Dinar Karez by large body of tribesmen, who were beaten off with slight loss.’”

“FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 5.—Following from Cabul, August 4. The Kandahar division marches from Cabul on Saturday, and the remainder of the army for Gandamak on Tuesday or Wednesday. The city and neighbouring districts are quiet, though exaggerated reports of success of Ayoub near Kandahar circulate. Ameer is still at Ak Serai assisting in the provision of transport for our troops. General Gough’s brigade has returned to Sherpur.”

“FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 6.—Following received today from St. John, Kandahar August 3 (?):—Kandahar, August 3 (?). Beyond slight skirmishes between country people and troops covering working parties nothing has occurred last three days. Ayoub reported to intend reaching Koh Karan to-morrow or next day. No news from Chaman or Kehlat-

-Ghilzai since we shut ourselves up in city. Preparations for defence proceeding satisfactorily. All buildings outside walls being demolished, with very few exceptions. Entire Pathan population has left or been expelled city. Wounded officers doing well. Colours of both 66th and Grenadiers lost. Accurate loss not yet ascertained, but estimate given in former telegram not far wrong—about 1,100 out of 2,800 killed and missing."

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 6.—Quetta reports, 5th. Ayoub was said to be at Sanjari, one march west of Kandahar, on 1st; his army doubts power to attack Kandahar, round which large numbers of Ghazis are collecting; no regular rising near Khojak Pass, but convoys attacked by thieves. Cabul 6th. Roberts's force moves into camp to-day and starts for Kandahar on Saturday. Some gathering in Maidan and Wardak, but no serious opposition expected north of Ghazni. A son of Mushk-i-Alam precedes force to conciliate tribes and arrange supplies. Ameer has moved six miles nearer Cabul, and will enter city on departure of British troops."

THE Viceroy's telegrams contain all the certain news as to Southern Afghanistan. The disaster of Khush-i-Nakhud is naturally attributed to incompetency in the generals and to the under-officering of the native troops, which rendered it impossible to rally them. A rumour has reached Bombay that our post at Kandahar has been captured, but these comments may wait till our superiority is restored in Southern Afghanistan. The recent events will help to confirm the Government of India in their rumoured intention of maintaining a firm hold of Southern Afghanistan, although the Kuram Valley may be given up. The evacuation of Cabul is strongly denounced, but appears almost inevitable, unless the Ameer desired the continued presence of the army.

THE Viceroy has received the following telegram from the Queen:—"My heart bleeds for the loss of so many brave officers and men. Pray express my sympathy and anxiety for the wounded."

THE force of over 8,000 men which is on its march to relieve Kandahar is composed as follows:—Artillery.—The 6th Battery 8th Brigade and the 11th Battery 9th Brigade Royal Artillery and a Hazara Mountain Battery. Cavalry.—The 9th Lancers, the 3rd Bengal, and the 3rd Punjab Cavalry, and the Central India Horse. Infantry.—The 1st Brigade consists of the 92nd Regiment, the 2nd Goorkhas, the 23rd Pioneers, and the 24th Native Infantry; the 2nd Brigade consists of the 72nd Regiment, the 5th Goorkhas, the 2nd Sikhs, and the 3rd Sikhs; and the 3rd Brigade consists of the 60th Regiment, the 4th Goorkhas, and the 15th Sikhs, and the 25th Native Infantry. The brigades are commanded by Cols. Macpherson, Baker, McGregor, and the whole force is under Sir F. Roberts. It is not anticipated by the British authorities that there will be any opposition to Sir Donald Stewart's withdrawal to Gandamak nor to Sir F. Roberts's advance as far as Ghazni. All arrangements have been skilfully made to prevent anything of the sort. The principal northern Ghilzai chiefs have been retained in the Ameer's camp. The headmen of the Wardak, Hazara, and Southern Ghilzai tribes, through whose country the Kandahar army marches, have been sent on ahead to collect supplies and conciliate the people. With them goes the eldest son of the Mooshk-i-Alam, whom the Ameer has most wisely appointed Khan-ul-Alam, or religious head preacher of Afghanistan, equivalent to the Sheik-ul-Islam in Constantinople. Major Hastings accompanies Sir F. Roberts as chief political officer. The Ameer is doing everything to assist the British authorities. He has sent his own Turkestan camels and baggage animals and is forwarding supplies to the camp. The remainder of the forces at Sherpur are to march for Gandamak on Wednesday and Thursday; the Ameer is expected to enter Cabul on Thursday. He is said to have received three or four lakhs as a subsidy. All is reported quiet north of Ghazni.

It is stated that the Marquis of Ripon intends to institute a careful inquiry into the grievances of the Indian Medical Service.

It is announced that Capt. F. T. Blunt, formerly of the 7th Dragoon Guards, has been appointed Chief Civil Commissioner of the Seychelles. Capt. Blunt was highly recommended by Sir Arthur Gordon for his services in the Mauritius, where he rendered valuable aid in the reform of the coolie system. He was also officially employed in inquiring into the treatment of Indian coolies in the French colony of Réunion.

THE Indian Committee on Army Reorganisation has made its report, and its recommendations are now under consideration at the War and India Offices.

THE Bombay Government is about to introduce into the local Legislature a bill for the preservation of game. It is proposed to leave to the Government to fix as to how the law is to be applied, and also the close seasons for the various descriptions of game.

THE attention of the Government of India having been called to the supply of coolie labour to the Assam tea plantations, a commission is to be appointed to visit and report upon the "recruiting districts."

THE committee that has assembled at Simla to revise the system on which railway statistics are now prepared consists of Col. Medley, president; Mr. Mathew, agent, Bombay and Baroda line; Major Bisset, R.E., manager, Rajputana line; Messrs. Mackenzie and Lightfoot, auditors of East Indian Railway and Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway; Mr. Macdonald, Government examiner; Captain Sargeant, R.E., secretary. They will inquire generally into the subject of Indian railway statistics and revise the statistical tables now prepared by the various railways, State and guaranteed, for the Government of India and Secretary of State. It is hoped that the departmental statistics may be dealt with hereafter.

At a sitting of the Supreme Legislative Council at Simla on the 9th ult. the Hon. Mr. Whitley Stokes introduced a bill to regulate the importation and transport of petroleum, explaining its object. The appointment of Kazis Bill was passed after a discussion raised by the Viceroy on the subject of the powers conferred by the bill. The Compulsory Vaccination Bill was also passed after a discussion. Sir R. E. Egerton and the Hon. Mr. Grant withdrew their former opposition to the bill in view of the modifications made by the select committee. Sir R. E. Egerton considered the time had not arrived for the introduction of compulsory vaccination into the Punjab, and trusted to the provisions of the bill to enable him to prevent its introduction until the public mind was more fully prepared to receive such a measure. The Hon. Mr. Gibbs dwelt on the success of the Vaccination Acts in Bombay and Karachi, and hoped that other municipalities and towns would follow this example. The Viceroy raised a discussion on the clause imposing a penalty of six months' imprisonment for continued refusal to vaccinate, remarking on its severity, and stating that no similar provision, so far as he was aware, existed in the English law. He supported the bill, and acknowledged the indebtedness of the council to the Hon. Sayyad Ahmad, its promoter, who urged the necessity for its careful and cautious working with a due regard to the feelings of the people. After some further discussion the clause was modified providing for simple imprisonment only.

TWENTY medical officers have been specially detailed for service in Afghanistan with the 5,000 men recently placed under orders. This number is, of course, exclusive of the usual reliefs which at about this season of the year proceed to India, and is composed of one deputy surgeon general seven surgeons major, and fourteen surgeons. The deputy surgeon general will not go out from this country, but will be provided from amongst the supernumeraries now in India. As the Indian establishment is always kept up to its full strength, no matter what may be the deficiencies at home, any temporary strain upon its resources can be readily met.

THE Indian Medical Gazette has learnt from several sources that the increase of the scale of pensions is a mere question of time; that the question is under the consideration of the Secretary of State, and that an early and favourable issue of orders on the subject may be expected.

THE study of cyclones and the extension of the present Indian telegraphic weather reporting systems have recently engaged the attention of the Government of India, who have sanctioned the establishment of an office under the superintendence of Mr. Eliot, the meteorological reporter, to deal with the matter. Already additional stations have been established or brought into connection with the Indian system, including Aden and Amini Divi, in the Laccadives. One of the earliest labours of the new branch of the Bengal office will be to go through the observations of the Indian seas collected by the Board of Trade. These will be duly studied and digested, and published in a form similar to that adopted by the Meteorological-office in England in the discussion of the Atlantic observations, already published mainly for the information of captains of ships. Another feature of the work will be to endeavour to collect accurate observations of the meteorology of the Bay of Bengal and Arabian Sea by means similar to those employed by the Board of Trade.

FROM the accounts of the trade and navigation of British India for the first two months of the current financial year, as compared with those of the corresponding period of last year, we see that the value of merchandise imported was Rs.7,61,32,384, as against Rs.5,94,37,336, and that of merchandise exported Rs.14,80,21,069, as against Rs.12,22,28,313. The value of treasure imported was Rs.1,87,34,060 as against Rs.2,72,04,669, and that of treasure exported Rs.29,03,299, as against Rs.87,06,090. The gross amount of import duty collected, including the salt duty, was Rs.61,06,715, as against Rs.60,26,661, and that of export duty collected Rs.12,37,998, as against Rs.12,85,200.

THE actual receipts from four sales of Bengal opium, and three months' pass duty on opium exported from Bombay, have amounted to Rs.2,97,44,670, which is Rs.33,77,670 better than the estimated receipts. The receipts from Bengal opium were Rs.55,36,945 above the estimate, but those from Bombay were Rs.31,59,275 below it.

THE quantity of tea exported in June last was 2,585,932lb., as compared with 1,478,969lb. exported in June last year. From May 1 to the end of June this year the quantity exported has been 3,396,492lb., as against 1,973,363lb. exported in the corresponding period of last year.

THE actual loss on the Secretary of State's bills on India from April 1 to the end of June has been Rs.85,86,930, the average selling rate of the bills having been just that calculated for in the budget, 1s. 8d. The total amount of bills sold has been £4,341,307, out of an estimated total of £16,900,000.

THE attention of forest officers in Burma has lately been turned to the possibility of making paper from bamboos. Only last month, we understand, the conservator of forests in the Pegu Circle recommended to Government that the enterprise should receive support. Experiments were made last summer at Claxhenge, near Sunderland, with bamboos sent from Burma, and the result, according to official reports, shows that string and even paper can be made from young shoots if worked when they are grown and freshly cut. For the supply of raw material persons interested are clearly of opinion that it would answer to irrigate bamboo plantations with the view of producing a perennial supply of young shoots, and that meantime a factory could be profitably established at Pegu. Mr. Routledge, a manufacturer of Sunderland, has applied to the local Government to know on what terms a grant of land can be made to him in a suitable locality, and in reply has been informed that the Chief Commissioner takes great interest in the experiment, and will be ready to forward it by the grant of all reasonable and proper facilities. He approves the proposals of the forest conservator, with whom Mr. Routledge had previously been in communication, to remit the royalty on the young shoots in the beginning, and afterwards to charge a reduced rate for a term of years.

It is announced that a very eligible site in Victoria-street Westminster, has been secured for the Army and Navy Hotel, which is expected to be opened next May. The peculiar advantages offered to Anglo-Indians returning home on furlough will make this hotel, with its residential chambers and club dinner, &c., a favourite resort. There is plenty of room for the new aspirant for professional and public patronage, and the programme has evidently been framed with careful forethought for the interests both of the visitors and the shareholders. These are identical, though the management of some large hotels might seem to contradict the assertion. The lists of shareholders are rapidly approaching completion, and intending applicants had better lose no time.

THE following will be the subjects of examination in military history and geography at the examination for admission to the Staff College to be held in June, 1881:—
1. The campaign in France in 1814, with battles of La Rothière and Laon in detail. Candidates will be expected to have a general knowledge of the geography of the country. 2. The general principles of war. Text-books—Jomini: "L'Art de la Guerre." Hamley: "Operations of War."

DURING the first two months of 1880-81 the imports of gold and silver were Rs.64,28,056 and Rs.1,23,06,004 respectively, and the exports were:—Gold, Rs.7,825; silver, Rs.28,95,474. During the same period the mint returns shows that the coin and bullion received at Calcutta was Rs.3,65,234; Bombay, Rs.75,77,708; and the amount coined at Bombay was Rs.90,98,718.

THE deaths in Calcutta during the week ending July 3 numbered 154, being a death-rate of 18·7 per 1,000 per annum. In the same week in Madras there were 163 deaths, a death-rate of 34·4 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay during the week ending July 6 the deaths numbered 351, being a death-rate of 27·03 per 1,000 per annum.

THE Times of India furnishes the following obituary of the week:—Mr. Robert Donald Cairns; Mr. George Rowley Morrison; Capt. Alex. Pringle Samuells (32nd Punjab Pioneers); Capt. Gibson (B.I.S.N. Company); Dr. Charles Herbert Murray (Indian Medical Service).

A TELEGRAM from Bombay, dated this morning, states that a British convoy reached Sibi yesterday, having been attacked en route by tribesmen and compelled to abandon a portion of their baggage.

ARRIVAL OF LORD LYTTON.

LORD LYTTON, the late Governor General of India, accompanied by Lady Lytton and family, Dr. and Mrs. Barnett, and Captain Rose, aide de camp, arrived at Portsmouth on Friday, on board the Himalaya, troopship, from Bombay. The ship had been delayed by the fog, but as soon as her approach was signalled the (Hon. Mrs. Villiers, Sir Owen Burne, Mr. and Lady Anne Blunt, Lieutenant General Strachey, Major General E. Bulwer, Sir Henry Bulwer, Colonel Brackenbury (private secretary), Mr. E. Villiers, Mr. Cunningham, and Mr. George Batten went out on board the Fire Queen to meet her. In obedience to a telegram from her Majesty, ordering his attendance at Osborne, Lord Lytton proceeded thither, and had an audience on Saturday morning. Leaving Portsmouth by special train at 3.30 p.m., his lordship and the Countess of Lytton and family arrived on Saturday evening at Stevenage, and met with an enthusiastic reception, a guard of honour of 100 Hertfordshire Volunteers being in attendance. A procession was formed, and an address presented to his lordship by the Rev. William Jowett, rector of Stevenage, on behalf of the public bodies of the town. Lord Lytton, in reply, said he trusted he had returned home never to leave it again for so long a period. There was no public or national office in the performance of which an Englishman might more fairly ask his country at home to place a generous construction than the government of India. The administration of India must under any circumstances, and at all times, be an anxious and laborious as well as a beneficent task. He could say with confidence that nothing more was needed than assiduous perseverance for only a few years longer in that great system of policy which the succession of great and wise Englishmen have framed for the government of India in order to give to that magnificent portion of her Majesty's dominions all the strength and wealth and influence of one of the great Powers of the world. His lordship and family then left the town for Knebworth, where there was a large muster of the tenantry to greet them.

THE EVACUATION OF CABUL.

THE question of retirement is a serious one to many people in Cabul and the district. The Hindu traders of the city will, it is believed, migrate almost to a man, but the Kizil Bashes will trust to their traditional influence in Cabul to pull them through any difficulty in the future. These two trading classes have amassed large sums of money during our occupation; and the Hindu, weak and defenceless, knows too well that a needy Ameer would "borrow" most of his gains in a very high-handed way. The Kizil Bash is more independent; and as, at a pinch, the Shiahhs can turn out 6,000 fighting men, all well equipped, any Ameer would hesitate to make the "red-heads" his enemies. Major Hastings, assistant political officer, has prepared a short account of these aliens, which is of some interest at the present time, but little having been previously known of an important section of the Cabul populace. Elphinstone, it is true, states that they are members of the colony of Toorks which predominates in Persia, and traces its descent from Kijan. To them was given the place of honour in Nadir Shah's conquering army, and when a military colony was formed in Cabul their quarter was called "Chundaul," which, by interpretation, is "vanguard." Elphinstone's opinion of them was thus expressed:—"The Kizil Bashes in Afghanistan partake of the character of their countrymen in Persia. They are lively, ingenious, and even elegant and refined; but false, designing, and cruel; rapacious but profuse, voluptuous, and fond of show; at once insolent and servile, destitute of all moderation in prosperity and of all pride in adversity; brave at one time and cowardly at another, but always fond of glory; full of prejudice, but affecting to be liberal and enlightened; admirable for a mere acquaintance (if one can bear their vanity), but dangerous for a close connection." They are, according to Major Hastings, still distinct in many respects from those around them; and, being of the Shah section of Mahomedans, there is great religious animosity between them and the Afghans, who are Sunnis. They all speak Persian, but the Kizil Bashes of Aufshar, in the Chardeh Valley, and some of the older men among the Jawansher of Chundoul, still talk Toorkee in the privacy of their own families. The portions of Cabul city occupied by the "red-heads"—so called because of their distinctive turbans of crimson cloth—are Chundaul immediately at the foot of the Sherdawaza-hill and Maradkani, looking towards Sherpur. In Chardeh their chief villages are Hunachi and Talba. The total number of families in and about Cabul is 3,220, but these can furnish 6,000 fighting men—a small proportion compared with Afghan families, every male in which is a fighting unit. In Kandahar and Herat there are a large number of families descended from Nadir Shah's vanguard, and a few Kizil Bashes are also located in Turkistan. The Jawansher section, occupying the greater part of Chundaul, is the most important clan in Cabul, and has at the present moment several of its members holding command in the Turkistan army. Appointments under Government, such as those of secretaries, accountants, and similar grades, are always largely held by Kizil Bashes; while in years gone by there were several Kizil Bash regiments in the regular army.—Pioneer.

KILLED AND MISSING.

THE following are the officers reported as killed or missing in addition to the list published in our last issue:—

Major George Frederick Blackwood, B Brigade Royal Horse Artillery (late Bengal Artillery), obtained his commission as a second lieutenant on December 11, 1857, became a first lieutenant on August 27, 1858, a captain on February 20, 1867, brevet major on September 11, 1872, and major on February 10, 1875. He served with a battery in the Looshai campaign of 1870-72, and was gazetted to a brevet majority for his services. Lieutenant Hector Maclaine, B Brigade Royal Horse Artillery, was gazetted a lieutenant on January 6, 1872. Lieutenant Thomas Rice Henn, Royal Engineers, was gazetted a lieutenant on July 7, 1869. He was officiating quartermaster of the Bombay Sappers and Miners with the Afghan Field Force. Lieutenant Colonel James Galbraith, 66th (Berkshire) Foot, entered the army as an ensign (by purchase) on December 12, 1851, became a lieutenant on June 6, 1854, a captain (by purchase) on February 29, 1856, a major (by purchase) on August 18, 1869, and brevet lieutenant colonel on October 1, 1877. Captain Ernest Stephen Garrett, of the same regiment, obtained his commission as an ensign (by purchase) on June 2, 1865, became a lieutenant (by purchase) on July 6, 1867, and captain (by purchase) on March 5, 1870. Captain William Hamilton M'Math, of the same regiment, was gazetted an ensign on August 22, 1865, became a lieutenant

(by purchase) on August 1, 1868, and a captain on April 14, 1877. Captain Francis James Cullen, of the same regiment, entered the army as an ensign on February 21, 1865, became a lieutenant on August 31, 1869, and a captain on October 18, 1879. Lieutenant Maurice Edward Rayner, of the same regiment, received his commission as a lieutenant on February 11, 1875. Lieutenant Richard Trevor Chute, of the same regiment, entered the army on October 13, 1877, and became a lieutenant on June 30, 1879. He was commandant of Ghizree Sanatorium. Second Lieutenant Arthur Honywood, of the same regiment, received his commission on August 13, 1879. Lieutenant Charles William Hinde, 1st Bombay Native Infantry (Grenadiers), was formerly of the 83rd (County Dublin) Foot, and received his commission on March 17, 1869, becoming a lieutenant of the Bombay Staff Corps, on October 25, 1871, and became wing officer and adjutant in the Grenadiers on November 14, 1874. Lieutenant Clement George Whitby, also of the Grenadiers, formerly of the 17th (Leicestershire) Foot, became a lieutenant on February 11, 1875, as probationer, Bombay Staff Corps, and he was officiating wing officer of the Grenadiers.

SANGHAR.

REFERRING to the accounts of Ayoub Khan's movements, Major General Biddulph supplies to a contemporary a description of Sanghar and adjacent country. Ayoub crossed the Helmand at Hyderabad, which is about fourteen miles up to the left or east bank of the Helmand above the ford and ferry of Abbaza-Girishk. The country has the following physical characteristics:—The spurs of the main range terminate on the plains, the Gurmawarek spur near Hyderabad and that forming the western boundary of the Argandab Valley at Kushk-i-Nakhud. At the foot of these spurs the skirt or glacis of hills is disposed in an inclined plain towards the south. This glacis is more or less undulating with a uniform outline of plains without mountains down to the desert. It is traversable by all arms in all directions, and there is no impediment hardly to movement, and there are tracks everywhere. Water, however, is scarce, and the encampments must be placed with reference to water and cultivation. In the line of route from Girishk, seven miles towards Kandahar, water is found first at Heck-Cha on the Jui Sirkar water-course drawn from the Helmand at Sungin; the next camp is at Khak-i-Chopan, 15 miles, and the next Kushk-i-Nakhud, 10 miles. In the line of route from Hyderabad, found at Sanghar, at the foot of the Gurmawarek-hill, about 15 miles distant, two small hamlets, water, and a little cultivation. To the south east of the village there is a low, isolated hill which would form a good point of observation. Sanghar is about six miles north, and somewhat west of Khak-i-Chopan. Between Khak-i-Chopan and Kushk-i-Nakhud the mountains are divided by a valley, which is divided into two by the Shah Maksud hill, which appears like an isolated mass. To the left the valley opens out and leads to Gurmab, and by this Pass, no doubt, some of Ayoub's army marched. This Pass is called Mehward. Between Khak-i-Chopan and Kushk-i-Nakhud there is an isolated hill of 300ft. elevation, from which a full view of the country is obtained. From it Sanghar may be seen to the north west, Khak-i-Chopan west, and Kushk-i-Nakhud five miles off south east.

A NATIVE BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—The Uttarpara Hitakari Sabha has now been established for seventeen years, and, judging by the report for 1879-80, which has just reached us, it must have accomplished a great deal of good in that time. The object of this Hitakari Sabha, as its name implies, is of a benevolent character; it concerns itself with the education of the poor, the distributing of medicine to the indigent sick, the support of poor widows and orphans, the encouragement of female education, and the social, moral, and intellectual amelioration of the inhabitants of Uttarpara and the places adjoining. The late Viceroy, Lord Lytton, who took an especial interest in the welfare of natives, stood in the relation of patron to the association, and has placed on record his satisfaction at the success which has attended the efforts of the Sabha. During the year under report the Hitakari Sabha has aided forty-three poor boys in the payment of their school fees and in the purchase of books. The plan which it has deemed best to encourage female education was the foundation of a system of scholarships for the girls' schools that had already sprung up. During the year under review the Sabha undertook the examination of the girls of the district of Bankura on the same terms on which it has been holding the examination of the girls of the Burdwan district for the last four years, that is, receiving a grant-in-aid from Government equal to the amount given by itself in scholarships. Some Rs.300 have been expended for the relief of widows and indigent persons in Uttarpara and its neighbourhood, besides a trifling sum in supplying such persons with medicine. The number of persons receiving fixed monthly allowances from the Sabha at the close of the year was twenty-six. As the annual income of this institution falls short of Rs.1,000 it shows how much good can be accomplished with little means by well-directed and carefully administered charity.—Times of India.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

ASIATIC TURKEY.*

THE disorganisation in Turkish Armenia and the sufferings of the Christian population are pointed out by Mr. Whitaker as tending to create an opportunity for Russia to advance a force as far as the line formed by Soort, Diarbekr, and Kharput. The march of 250 miles S.S.W. of the new Russian frontier would occupy twenty days of summer weather. The Arab discontent which, according to Mr. Whitaker, whose experience in Constantinople has given him ample opportunities of investigating the springs of those obscurer movements in the peninsula of which the murder of the Shereef of Mecca was a symptom, would co-operate to prevent the Turks from opposing the advancing enemy. The Russian troops would command the Euphrates Valley, and religious enthusiasm would impel them onwards to Syria and Palestine. Then Europe would learn that the Arab movement had been supported by Russian money, that the instrument of its application had been the ex-Khédive, who, as a reward, is to be declared Kaliph. Mr. Whitaker appeals to the British politicians who do not desire to see the interests of humanity subverted by the Russian possession of Asiatic Turkey, and who, whether they advocate the Euphrates Valley Railway or not, object to see our great Asiatic rival dominant from the Black Sea to the Persian Gulf. He reviews the recent history of Armenia and advocates the constitution of a self-governing province under European guarantee; to him the Armenian Question is essentially the chief point of interest in the Eastern Question, and he considers that an autonomy which would not be Armenian, but local, would secure the establishment of a province on the North Eastern frontier of Turkey which would constitute a base of operations for the reorganisation of Asia Minor. This should be supplemented by widening the organisation of the Lebanon, so as to make it include all the vilayet of Damascus, and thus establishing a South Western province as a barrier against the Arab movement. For the arguments, substantial in themselves, and temperately urged by one whom the Sublime Porte has persecuted as a would-be reformer and a fearless exponent of abuses, we recommend our readers to consult the pamphlet itself.

THE NATIONAL INDIAN ASSOCIATION.*

THE foremost article in this month's journal is M. Syed Hassan's paper on the "Social Position and Education of Mahomedan Women in India." We gave at the time a résumé of this thoughtful and useful paper. Such utterances as these are of more value than debating society oratory about grievances or legislative remedies, such as inexperienced, though earnest and eloquent, young speakers are apt to indulge in. "Technical Instruction in Weaving" suggests that perhaps before long technical training schools may be established on a good scale in India. The writer does not say what result may be expected to follow. Niebhuh's account of Bombay is continued, and contains an estimate of the population of Surat as one-third of a million. His notice of the Parsees is interesting. "Hindu Marriage Ceremonies in Guzerat" and "Cotton Cultivation" furnish two articles of local interest. Under the heading of "The Queen and Indian Ladies," a paragraph occurs of sufficient interest to be quoted verbatim :—

"Some English people advocate the principle that Indian ladies should dress in English costume—with the wild metamorphoses of fashion it would be difficult to decide what that is. We are glad to learn that the Empress of India has set an example on this point that may have considerable influence. Seeing lately that the Misses Tagore, of Bengal, were to be presented at the Drawing Room, and being informed that they were ladies of Indian origin, she requested that they should appear in Indian costume. Their Oriental dress met, we believe, with the marked approval of those present at the Drawing Room, and the Queen honoured the ladies specially by giving them the private entrée."

MILITARY BIOGRAPHIES.*

THE historian of the Indian Navy has already proved his weapons in the field of Military Biography. His life of Field Marshal Pollock has been followed or preceded by several scattered memoirs of distinguished soldiers all of which have been marked by conscientious industry and powers of graphic description. Some of these memoirs have been rescued from their ephemeral condition and incorporated in the two handsome volumes to which the title of "Soldiers of the Victorian Age" has been given. Other military celebrities are added, some of whom still survive, to add fresh laurels to those already won.

* "Soldiers of the Victorian Age." 2 vols. By CHARLES RATHBONE Low, I.N. Chapman and Hall.

Mr. Low has apparently chosen the subjects of his biographies on some plan of selection which does not immediately appear. No one, however, can object to his inclusion of any one of the commanders on the score of insufficient merit, so far as it goes, which, however in the case of Colonel Pearson, seems rather too brief for a biography. The order of arrangement is more distinctly open to censure, in order that can be called which, in the first volume, places Colonel Pearson between Sir George Whitlock and Sir George Macgregor, while Sir H. Evelyn Wood occupies a similar relative position to Field Marshal Lord Gough and Sir Vincent Eyre. Perhaps Mr. Low is of the opinion that readers are not likely to plod through his work as they would peruse a novel or a history, and that therefore his portraits may range as on a wall or in a gallery, not in chronological or historical order, but just as they may chance to fit. We confess we should have preferred a more exact arrangement. Taken separately, however, the several biographies, which do not pretend to be elaborate histories, are most readable, and contain often valuable bits of illustration from letters or anecdotes which are not elsewhere narrated. We could, however, have dispensed with the oft recurring quotations, which occur as regularly as the music in the older form of the drama, and are frequently as unmeaning. Notwithstanding his military tastes and subjects, Mr. Low clearly preserves the fresh fancy of a sailor, and likes to be poetical. Bating this weakness, and a tendency whenever a chance is given him of displaying his decided disapproval of the departure from the do-nothing policy, which, by the way, is decidedly ungrateful in a military biographer, Mr. Low will interest many readers and will find acceptance when the more stately and all-surveying historian would tire the youthful or busy mind. In his own words—"The biographies in these volumes are of officers both of the Royal and Indian armies. The memoirs of Sir Henry Durand, Sir George Macgregor, and Sir Herbert Edwardes afford examples of the career of the soldier diplomatist, for which India has always afforded so magnificent a field. Soldiers of the old school find exponents in such doughty warriors as Lords Gough, Clyde, and Sir Thomas Willshire; those of a later date may well elect to be represented by Lords Strathnairn and Napier of Magdala, Sir James Outram, and others, while a yet later generation of generals has representatives in Lord Chelmsford, Sir Evelyn Wood, and Sir Charles Pearson." Add to these Sir James Hope Grant, Sir Neville Chamberlain, and Sir Vincent Eyre, and we have the full tale of the warriors, past and present, commemorated in these pages. We would call especial attention to the interesting details given by the biographer of some of the more forgotten deeds of bravery which necessarily occupy but a small place in histories, but which find deserved record in detail in even shorter biographies like those before us. Take, for example, the storm of Khelat, in the life of Sir Thomas Willshire, or the victories of Sir Herbert Edwardes at Kineyree and Suddosain. We must give great credit to Mr. Low for the way in which—though compelled to recur over and over again to the same wars, the same campaigns, and the same operations—he has, nevertheless, contrived to avoid useless repetition. The subject of the biography has his own especial surroundings, his particular services and duties well brought out; and the background is sufficiently sketched in without being made too prominent. Nothing is more apparent than the painstaking accuracy with which Mr. Low has worked out his subjects. Truthfulness of detail is not sacrificed to picturesque effect, and the result is a collection of biographies that will claim a place in small and useful, as well as large and encyclopædic, libraries. This work will surely be a favourite in every school library, and be eagerly read and remembered by those to whom the honour and safety of England will hereafter be trusted.

THE PETITION OF THE BRITISH INDIA ASSOCIATION.*

THIS very lengthy document is epitomised and defended by Mr. Dacosta, especially as to the demand that the non-official members of the Legislative Councils, instead of being nominated by the then Viceroy, should be elected by the municipal boards, the working of which has given satisfaction to the local governments. He contends that the present system frustrates the intention of Parliament, to ascertain, through the non-official members, the real feelings and opinions of the people. He asks for improved intermediate Courts of Appeal, and for a revision of the new Criminal Procedure Code. He complains that the appellate benches are mostly recruited by men who, in the majority of instances, have had no legal training whatever; and he condemns those provisions of the new code which give hitherto unheard-of powers to the judges and to the executive. To quote his own words, "The liberty of the subject has been considerably curtailed under the new Criminal Procedure Code, which has duly increased the summary powers of magistrates, checked appeals by giving the appellate authority power to enhance punishment, a thing unknown, I believe, in any other part of the British dominion, permitted the Crown to appeal against an acquittal, a power equally objectionable, and legalised the arrest of persons on mere suspicion and without affidavit." More than one judge has protested against the abuse of the Crown of the extraordinary powers which it has thus acquired. Mr. Dacosta has a good deal to say about the land tenure and is an able advocate of fixity of tenure.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

LORD LYTTON'S VICEROYALTY.

WHAT Lord Lytton has had to do personally he has done well and with marked ability. In the very difficult and wholly novel duties connected with the proclamation of the Imperial title at Delhi he acquitted himself with a degree of tact for which he has never got sufficient credit. There can be no doubt that the occasion was viewed with very mixed feelings by a large proportion of the "independent" princes and chiefs who were summoned to the ancient Mogul capital to see the new Empire inaugurated. The one drop of balm to their distressed feelings was supplied by the suavity and the effusive personal kindness and sympathy of the chief factor in the pageant. His long diplomatic training and the experience acquired during his diplomatic career at various Courts enabled him to soothe without an apparent effort the vanity which was on the alert to take offence whether any were meant or not. The charm of his manner, his readiness in compliment, his easy eloquence when it was necessary to make an address—all contributed to his success in this, perhaps, the most important, and certainly the most difficult, part of the multifarious duties which devolved upon the late Viceroy in January, 1877. As an administrator he has shown himself capable of an amount of downright hard work which was never expected of him, and he has exercised a very real influence upon the working of the whole machine of administration. We are by no means prepared to say that the influence has been in every case beneficial; on the contrary, it has too often stifled the opinions and cramped the action of officials of experience and capacity whose advice ought to have been sought and acted upon. But that apart, there can be no doubt that Earl Lytton, however he may have unfortunately subordinated his own judgment on certain matters to the Ministers at home, who had not his opportunities of arriving at a sound conclusion as to the state of things in India, was yet in a very real sense the chief of the administration and knew how to make himself felt and obeyed. He was no trifier; no merely ornamental Viceroy; he worked, and he knew how to make others work with him. On his personal staff he had men of mind and energy who felt a sincere attachment for him and made his successes or failures their own. The official world with whom he came most in contact did not, it must be owned, share that feeling to any great extent. His council was in a state of subdued revolt during a great part of his term of office; for he ignored their advice when it conflicted with his own views, or, worse still, with those of the Secretary of State. He has been, therefore, by no means popular with Anglo-Indian officials as a class; and it has been his misfortune that a series of measures prescribed by Lord Salisbury—the remission of cotton duties, the Vernacular Press Act, and the Arms Act—should have deprived him of the sympathy of the natives whom he once electrified with the fuller minute. Still, with all the shortcomings and errors of his administration, the Viceroyalty of Lord Lytton will remain a very memorable one. As time passes the recollection of his failures and failings will fade, while the memory of his talents, his high spirit, and of the great events to which he has linked his name, will become traditional.—Bombay Gazette.

THE CARWAR HUBLI RAILWAY.

THE meeting of the inhabitants of Carwar to protest against the injustice of the Government in sanctioning the formation of a line of railway from the Southern Mahratta country to an untried port in Goa territory, instead of making the line from Hubli to Carwar, brings to our recollection the circumstances under which our local contemporary and the Bombay Chamber of Commerce so determinedly and successfully opposed the carrying out of the line from Guddock and Hubli to Carwar in 1872. At that time Government was ready and willing to begin the construction of that railway. The surveys had been most ably carried out, and estimates carefully prepared. These estimates were checked and considered in the most careful and elaborate manner, but the unthinking opposition of the Gazette and the Chamber of Commerce deterred the Government from taking further action. Had it not been for this rabid opposition, the line would have been completed in four or five years, and would have been the means of preventing an immense amount of suffering, and have saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of miserable wretches who died from starvation in the Southern Mahratta country and the Bellary districts in the dreadful famine years. We do not envy the feelings of Mr. Maclean and the members of the Chamber of Commerce who were the cause of this railway not having been made. At the time they prided themselves on the result of their successful opposition. With such an amount of suffering on the part of some millions of people, and the lives of hundreds of thousands of poor, starved, fellow-creatures on their heads, do they congratulate themselves now? We must also consider what has been the loss to Government. Had this line of railway been carried out, as was intended, sufficient supplies of grain would have been carried to the Dharwar country and to Gudduck, from whence it could have been distributed to the Bellary districts at a distance from the railway at Bellary. Putting aside the loss of human life, which must have diminished the revenue of an immense tract of country, the loss of working bullocks, the very life and soul of an agricultural country, from the attempts to carry grain through a country where there was an absolute want of fodder, must cripple those districts for many years to come. Government is not to blame, and as the loss to the country generally must be enormous, they will be chary in again listening to the opinions of the Bombay Chamber of Commerce when a public work of utility is under consideration.—Times of India.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BRIDGES AND TELEGRAPHS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—One of the grandest railway bridges in India crosses the mighty Soane river about twenty-five miles west of the city of Patna. For many years it was not deemed possible to bridge this river, which is in many places three miles wide, flowing over loose sand, often sixty feet in depth. I am anxious that Government should take precautions in order to prevent any accident happening to this bridge. The wealthy landowners of Behar ought to be made responsible for its safety. There ought to be fortified têtes de pont both at its eastern and western ends. The rich landowners, whose conduct is criticised in Mr. O'Donnell's famous pamphlet just published, "The Ruin of a Province," ought to have crinolines always ready two or three miles above the bridge for the purpose of intercepting any stray fireboats. The value of maintaining this bridge in good condition is incalculable. The Germans have shown us a good example of burying their telegraph wires wherever the lines are of great military importance. We must provide against the cutting of the telegraph between Patna and Benares. The Ponwar Rajpoots, who swarm about Bhojpoor, are very disaffected. A buried telegraph wire north of the Ganges, between Monghyr and Benares, would provide against future accidents. I hope that you will urge Government to construct a railway bridge at Roree-Bukhur, and a branch railway from Mooltan to Dera Ghazi Khan, with pontoon bridges over the Chenab and Indus. Do the speculators who are lending large sums to the Portuguese Government hope to induce the British to buy Goa? In page 706 of your paper of Saturday last you inform us that one million sterling is to be expended on a railway line from Goa to Hubli. It is desirable to connect Hubli with Raichore, where the great railway workshops are, and where our troops will be in a position to defend the railway bridges over the Krishna and Toongabuda rivers.—Your obedient servant,

August 2.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At an extraordinary meeting of the Bengal Coal Company, held June 30, the resolution passed at the meeting of June 12 was confirmed. At a general of the New Beerbhoom Coal Company, held July 3, it was resolved that of the sum of Rs.67,252-1-3, appearing at credit of profit and loss account, the managing agents be authorised to pay at once a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. for the half-year on the capital of the company, thus absorbing Rs.57,600, and that Rs.7,586-10-6 be carried to reserve fund, the balance, Rs.2,065-6-9, being carried forward. At the general meeting of the Calcutta Landing and Shipping Company, held July 5, the directors' report having been read, and the chairman having stated that several contracts have recently been made for the landing and shipping of goods by the company with leading companies and firms, at rates which, it is believed, will prove remunerative, and that a considerable portion of the fleet has recently been and is now profitably employed, it was resolved that the report of the directors be received and adopted, and the audited accounts, as submitted, be passed as correct.—Englishman.

A MERITED MEMORIAL.—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have resolved to raise a public drinking fountain in memory of the late secretary of the society, Mr. Colesworthy Grant. Subscriptions are invited for the purpose.—Englishman.

KASHMIR.—The Maharaja of Kashmir, it is reported, intends to abolish the tax on shawl manufacture with a view to revive that industry, and also proposes to make some reductions in State demands on agricultural produce.—Englishman.

THE COMMISSARIAT FRAUDS.—A telegram from Rangoon under date July 13 says:—"Davisagamany has been committed to the sessions on eight counts, involving about Rs.200. Trevor has been committed on sixteen counts for about Rs.400. Weightman has been committed on twelve counts for Rs.800. The defence is reserved in all three cases. Bail has been accepted for each on two sureties of Rs.500 each. Captain Shelly Leigh Hunt has been remanded to 15th, for final committal. Cohen's durwan, the last witness, deposed that he saw money counted in Cohen's office, wrapped in paper, and placed in a box, which he carried to and left in Captain Hunt's house. The defence is reserved. Rungasawmy Naidoo has been arraigned. The inquiry is proceeding.—Times of India.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.—The Hon. C. D. Field has resigned his appointment as a member of the Bengal Legislative Council.

RENT LAW.—The Bengal Rent Law Commissioners have concluded their labours, and the report and a draft bill had been written before the Hon. C. D. Field had taken his seat in the Calcutta High Court.

DEGREES IN SCIENCE.—The Faculty of Arts of the Calcutta University at its last meeting declared it to be desirable to institute degrees in science in connection with the university.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.—Mr. R. B. Yates, having been appointed harbour master in place of Capt. J. V. Falle, deceased, we learn that the appointment of assistant port officer, hitherto held by Mr. Yates, will be abolished.—Indian Daily News.

PRINTING IN GAOL.—It may interest the curious among our readers to know that, out of over 1,100 prisoners who are now undergoing various terms of imprisonment, about 1,000 of them are engaged in the Gaol Press. This press is a very large one, and turns out, in a most creditable and workmanlike manner, the hundreds of thousands of blank forms, receipts, ledgers, dockets, &c., in common use in the different Government departments. Stonebreaking, that most severe of all penal occupations, will, we are informed, be abolished at the end of a short time, or as soon as the stock of stone now in gaol has all been reduced to the regulation size.—Indian Daily News.

ARTS EXHIBITION.—An Industrial Arts Exhibition is to be held at Lahore next Christmas twelve month—in December, 1881. Preliminary prospectuses and explanations may very shortly be expected. The exhibition will be held under official auspices; and is especially designed, we believe, to promote the artistic industries of the Punjab. A similar exhibition on a smaller scale will be held this year at Simla.—Pioneer.

NEW GOORKHA REGIMENT.—The Indian Herald learns that Major Hay, of the 4th Goorkha, has arrived at Naini Tal for the purpose of raising the new 6th Goorkha Regiment.

It is stated to be in contemplation to do away with the convalescent depot at Darjiling as a separate establishment, and in future to attach convalescents who may be sent up to the wing of a European regiment that is to be stationed at Darjiling.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—At date of mail the disengaged tonnage stood at 29,779 tons. For London via Canal space for light cargo only. The market closes strong at £2 10s. for rice, £2 12s. 6d. nominal for wheat, £3 to £3 2s. 6d. for jute, hides, and tea; linseed nominal, rape and poppy nominal. Via Cape: The market closed steady at £1 16s. 3d. for rice, £1 17s. 6d. for wheat, £2 3s. 9d. for linseed, £2 6s. 3d. for rape, £2 7s. 6d. for poppy. Liverpool via Canal: Rice or wheat £2 7s. 6d. to £2 10s. nominal, £3 measurement goods. Via Cape: Rates closed steady, at £1 12s. 6d. nominal for rice and wheat, £1 15s. for linseed £1 16s. 3d. to £1 17s. 6d. for gunnies, oils, &c.; jute nominal.—Englishman.

MADRAS.

EXTRAORDINARY PANIC.—One of the extraordinary and unaccountable panics which every now and then break out in different parts of India appears to be now prevailing in Madras city. A rumour has got abroad, and is firmly believed in by the lower classes of the natives, that the Government is about to sacrifice a number of human beings in order to ensure the safety of the new harbour works, and has ordered the police to seize victims in the streets. So thoroughly is the idea implanted that people are afraid to venture out after nightfall. There was a similar scare in Calcutta some seven or eight years ago when the Hooghly bridge was being constructed. The natives then got hold of the idea that Mother Ganges, indignant at being bridged, had at last consented to submit to the insult on the condition that each pier of the structure was founded on a layer of children's heads.—Times Telegram.

THE MADRAS COTTON CLEANING COMPANY (LIMITED).—At an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the above company, held the 30th June—Mr. Boyson in the chair—it was resolved that this company be wound up voluntarily under the provisions of the Indian Companies Act X. of 1866, and that Mr. C. Simpson, honorary secretary, be appointed liquidator for winding up the company.—Madras Athenaeum.

THE FORT ARMAMENT.—The dismantling of ordnance on the works of Fort Saint George, under orders from H.E. the Commander in Chief, has just been completed, and only those guns which are absolutely required have been retained. They include four eighty pounders for drill purposes, one sixty-eight pounder gun for cyclones, one time-gun, and three signal guns. The dismantled guns have been returned into the arsenal, a few being used to replace guns become unserviceable on the saluting battery. The inutility of so many guns on the works of the fort became apparent when the twelve-ton guns were placed in position on the beach. These last named guns are to be augmented shortly by two more guns of the same calibre being mounted on Clive's Battery.—Madras Mail.

EMIGRANTS FOR THE MAURITIUS.—About three hundred and odd emigrants have sailed on board the ship Mars for the Mauritius.—Madras Times.

RESERVED ACCOMMODATION.—Sanction has been refused to the proposal of the directors of the South Indian Railway for reserved accommodation during feast times being charged for at the ordinary fares leviable for the number of seats the reserved space is constructed to accommodate. The charges at such festival occasions, it has been decided, shall be for reserved accommodation equal to the amount ordinarily charged per seat for the extent of space reserved, the system in force on the Madras Railway.—Madras Times.

PATENTS.—There have been received in the office of the chief secretary to Government copies of the specifications of the inventions of which the following are brief descriptions:—Anglo-American Electric Light Company (Limited), of 74, Hatton-garden, London, England—"Improvements in electric lamps and mechanism for electric lighting." Anglo-American Electric Light Company (Limited), of 74, Hatton-garden, London, England—"Improvements in apparatus for electric lighting." Mr. Thomas Alva Edison, Menlo Park, New Jersey, United States, America—"Improvements in the utilisation of electricity for light, heat, and power, being an improved system and means for the generation, measurement, and translation of electricity into light, heat, or power." Mr. Thomas Alva Edison, of Menlo Park, New Jersey, United States, America—"Additional improvements in electric lamps." Mr. J. St. Joseph, civil engineer—"Light iron plough, especially suited to India." Mr. Frederick Wilkinson, Manchester, county of Lancaster, yarn agent—"Improvements in bleaching and dyeing cotton and other fibrous materials." Mr. Thomas Leavitt, of Everett, Massachusetts, United States of America, machinis—"Improvements in machinery for post-marking, cancelling or obliterating letters, postcards, and other articles."—Gazette.

THE GOVERNMENT FEMALE NORMAL SCHOOL.—Among the institutions in Madras devoted to the education of girls there seems at present to be none so largely resorted to as the Government Female Normal School. Now there is a rage among young women to enter the Government Female Normal School in preference to any other educational institution in the city for girls. It is not surprising, therefore, to hear that there is monthly an influx into the school. The original scheme with regard to the school appears also to have been departed from. At first none but native girls were admitted into the institution. After the scheme had existed for some time it was resolved that East Indians and Europeans should not be admitted until they had passed the certificate examinations, and then only for the purpose of being trained for teachers, the course extending over four years, during which the scholarships rise from six rupees to twelve rupees. Since this resolution was arrived at there has been a further change, East Indian and European girls are now trained for all the grades of the teachers' examination, and even very little girls of the classes alluded to are admitted into the institution. The consequence is that large numbers are flocking to the school and the popularity of the institution is gradually increasing. Such being the present condition of the school, it is time, we think, that the question of providing for the institution a suitable school-house should again be taken up. The school is now located in a dingy building in the midst of a densely populated district, a situation that can hardly comport itself to any one who believes in the maxim mens sana in corpore sano. It is difficult to imagine how the teachers and their pupils ever at all get on in such an unsavoury, unsightly, and undesirable building. The Government at one time had it in contemplation to construct a school-house for the Government Female Normal School, and, if we mistake not, even the site for the building was chosen on the vacant piece of ground between the Central Railway Station and the general hospital. If such an intention has hitherto been deferred it is now high time, considering the present condition and future prospects of the school, that the idea be taken up and carried out to completion.—Madras Times.

FOREST ADMINISTRATION IN MYSOR.—We have just received from the Government of India the progress report of the forest administration in the Province of Mysor for 1878-79, compiled by Mr. C. Rungacharlu, C.I.E., the revenue secretary. In the introduction to the report we are told that the approaching restoration of the province to native rule has necessitated considerable reductions and simplification of establishments and the consequent abolition of the Forest Department as a separate or independent branch of the administration. The budget grant for establishments has been reduced from Rs.1,20,000 to Rs.75,000 per annum. The office of conservator has been abolished, and only three trained forest officers are retained for the management of the great forests in the districts bordering on the western ghats and of the plantations and jungles in the Bangalore district and along the line of the railway. The conservancy of the remaining forests scattered throughout the province, and the promotion of the growth of trees both by Government and by private individuals, will devolve mainly on the district revenue officers. These arrangements, which were approved by the Government of India, were but partially carried into effect in the last months of the year under report. Primarily suggested with the object of preparing the administration for native rule, they seem, on the whole, to be an improvement on the previously existing state of things. Though a considerable amount of good has been done in the conservation of particular forests, the efforts of the separate Forest Department to administer all the forests and to exercise a control over the reserved classes of trees throughout the province was attended with failure. The right of the Government to these trees on occupied lands in some of the taluks had to be forfeited owing to the inability of the department to remove the trees within the period of one year allowed for the purpose. Complications and delays have arisen in other instances. The great defect of the forest administration hitherto was that, whilst the limited forest establishment was unable to cope with the task which it undertook of developing the forest resources throughout the province, the extensive revenue establishments, who possess greater facilities for carrying into effect any measures required for the improvement of the forests, kept aloof from the work for which they no longer considered themselves responsible. The attention of the special forest officers was further so much distracted by departmental details, and was so largely given up to the preliminary process of demarcation, survey, and settlement of rights, that they could not give sufficient attention to the real working of the forests, to the study and development of the forest resources, and to the best means of promoting the reproduction of forest trees. The progress made therefore in the development of the forest resources and in the acquisition of real forest experience was necessarily limited. More useful results are expected by the concentration of the attention of the special forest officers to the working of certain important State forests, whilst the knowledge and practical results attained by them could be applied with facility to the minor scattered forests by the revenue establishments which are spread throughout the province.—Madras Times.

THE WATER TAX.—A bill is to be introduced into the council of the Governor for remedying the difficulty which the municipality finds in regard to the water tax. Suits have been brought against the Madras municipality for not having provided a supply of drinking water in accordance with the provisions of Section 211 of the Act, but it is said to be impossible for the municipality to execute the works required all at once. The object of this bill, therefore, is to afford the commissioners a fair time within which to carry out their obligations, and to relieve them in the meantime from the liability to be sued.—Times of India.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.—Government have passed the following order on the schedule of accidents on the Madras and South Indian Railways for the quarter ending March 31 last:—"The Government notice with dissatisfaction the occurrence of accidents arising from want of care on the part of drivers, such as running over points before they are properly held, and running through gates; both of which classes of accidents are entirely avoidable if proper attention be shown by the drivers."—Gazette.

DR. BURNELL.—Dr. A. C. Burnell, C.I.E., the judge of Tanjore, left Madras on July 11 in the Khedive for Southampton. We regret to add that his condition causes his friends much anxiety. He had a severe premonition of paralysis at Coonoor, and at Tanjore he had a second stroke, which was followed by unconsciousness for several hours, and the temporary loss of the use of his limbs on the left side. Exertions will be made by Col. Yule and other eminent Oriental philologists to persuade the Secretary of State to sanction a relaxation of the pension rules in Dr. Burnell's favour. If he retires at the end of the two years' furlough that he has obtained he will only be entitled strictly to £450 a year, and he must put in a good deal more service to qualify for the £1,000 a year. The case is one that should bring home to the Secretary of State the hardship of refusing a pension proportionate to actual service.—Madras Mail.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.—The Government of India telegraphed on July 14 to the Madras Municipality that the Exemption from Municipal Taxation Bill will not be passed for some time, and that it has been referred to the Madras Government for its opinion. Any memorial should be sent through the Madras Government.—Times of India.

THE HARBOUR.—The official report on the Madras harbour for the month of May states that work was suspended during the greater part of the month owing to the weather; 27½ ft. were added to the north pier and 37 ft. to the south pier. The time was in other respects occupied by the construction of concrete blocks on shore for future use. The total expenditure up to May 31 is given at Rs. 39,91,028.—Englishman.

THE RAMPA REBELLION.—A correspondent writes that, according to the latest reports received from different officers, there are hopes of an early termination of the rebellion. On the arrival of the 36th Regiment N.I. from Coconada seventy-five men were sent to Yellesharam to relieve the party of the 10th N.I.; sixty men were despatched to Chodaveram, and the remainder to Mukeangiri. About 100 men, under the command of Col. Grant, have been ordered to proceed from Wooddegudien to Chintur. Balajee, one of the leaders concerned in the attack on the Poreh police station, has been wounded by a contingent sepoy at Kurti, but he managed to effect his escape to Bustar, where, it is reported, he has been captured. To facilitate communication at certain parts the local Government have accorded sanction to the opening of a post line from Wooddegudien to Motu.—Madras Times.

BOMBAY.

ARRIVAL OF H.M. SHIP "VULTURE."—Favoured by a fair monsoon this well-known vessel has arrived at this port from the Persian Gulf after a stay there of exactly two years, during which time, however, the officers and men, notwithstanding the heat, have done great things. We may say that owing to the pertinacity with which the Vulture followed the pirates they have practically become extinct, and safety and confidence reigns where formerly fear and dread prevailed. Commander J. Eliot Pringle has already received the thanks of the Government of India for his exertions in the Persian Gulf. During her three years' commission only one death has occurred, and that by accident. All on board, both officers and men, seem very pleased at the prospect of meeting their friends in England. The Vulture carries a crew of 110 men and is armed with two sixty-four pounders and one seven-inch gun. Her destination on leaving Bombay will be Aden and thence to Plymouth. The following is a list of her officers:—Capt. George Eliot Pringle, First Lieut. H. H. Jauncey, Second Lieut. F. P. Carey, Third Lieut. W. H. Arnold, Navigating Lieut. Lucas G. Stovin, 1st Engineer Fred. Skelton, and Surgeon Dr. James Lynns.

AN OLD STORY.—At regular intervals the Indian public is roused to momentary interest by the report that Nana Sahib has been captured. The last story of the kind comes from the neighbourhood of Puna, where it is said that the police have arrested a man on the information of his being the arch-rebel and murderer of Cawnpore. There seems, however, to have been little foundation for the belief, as the prisoner has been released on bail of Rs. 500.—Times Telegram.

FOOD FOR POWDER.—The Samachar publishes a letter from Kathiawar in which the writer urges the desirability of admitting the brave and warlike tribes of that province, such as the Rajput, Kathi, Jat, Miani, &c., into the army. A regiment formed of these tribes would be a good acquisition to the native army and would be found extremely serviceable in times like the present. This would be doubly profitable—profitable to the country and the Government alike.—Indian Spectator.

THE DECCAN AGRICULTURISTS' RELIEF BILL.—A Puna correspondent, writing under date the 6th July, says:—"Under the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act Government have appointed four conciliators at Puna—namely, Rao Bahadur Shrinivas Shesho, Rao Bahadur Chintamonrao Hurry Deshmook, Rao Bahadur Sadasew Bullal Goveday, and Tata Sahab Rajmachiker. These conciliators hold their court in the rooms of the Puna Arbitration Court, and commenced business from June 1 last. During the past month about three hundred suits were filed before them, and in the majority of the cases amicable settlements were effected through the mediation of the conciliators, and both the parties were fully satisfied with the manner in which their disputes were settled and the way in which they were treated by the conciliators. I also learn that during the past month not a single suit was filed either in the Small Cause Court, or the Subordinate Judge's Court, in which the parties were agriculturists. In the same way there have been no cases in the courts of sub-judges throughout the Deccan, in consequence of which one or two of the subordinate judges have been ordered to Puna to assist the first-class subordinate judge, but the subordinate judge in the city of Puna has scarcely sufficient work for himself. Let us now see how our old and new subordinate judges with their establishments are to be employed. Perhaps it will be necessary to send them to Kandahar to take charge of the new assigned districts."—Bombay Gazette.

WHEAT AND COTTON.—The wheat shipped from the port of Bombay to foreign external and foreign Indian ports during the month of May amounted to 346,161 cwts., of the value of Rs. 17,83,696. The quantity of cotton shipped during the same period amounted to 103,931 47-98th candies of the value of Rs. 2,24,77,253.

THE BOMBAY EXPORT TRADE.—The annual statistics issued by Messrs. James Mackintosh and Co., which are carried up to June 30, enable us to review the export trade in its principal items for the last twelve months. Although the results are not equal to the prolific trade of 1876 they present a vast improvement over the previous year, which was, on account of the severe droughts and famines this presidency had undergone, the worst on record. The principal item of cotton shows that in the twelve months 875,318 bales have been shipped direct to Europe, as compared with 646,649 bales last year. Great Britain shows an increase of 73,070; Havre, on the other hand, shows a decline of 25,822 bales, which, however, is partially compensated by an increase of 11,000 bales to Marseilles. France this year has been swamped with American cotton, and spinners have preferred cheap Americans to Surats. Italy appears to be on the road to prosperity, for there is a large increase to all her ports—viz., Genoa, 30,771 bales; Naples, 8,503 bales; Venice, 28,331 bales, as compared with 1879. The trade to Odessa appears to have revived again, for 12,770 bales were shipped there as against 500 last year. Russia used to consume Indian cotton largely before the war, and now a revival of trade may be looked for. The shipments to Trieste show an increase of 49,961 bales, which is entirely owing to the energy of the Austrian Government in enforcing favourable railway rates from Trieste into the interior for all foreign produce. The most striking feature in these returns is that Barcelona has taken 38,478 bales, as against 3,150 bales last year. This is owing, we believe, to the failure of the cotton crop this season in the Levant, from whence Spain always draws her supplies. One small ship with 4,800 bales was sent to Gottenburg, which, we believe, is the first direct shipment made to that port we have had for many years. The seed, wheat, and myrabolam shipments exhibit a very large increase. Linseed shows 523,874 cwts., gingelly 94,672 cwts., other seeds 11,808 cwts.; whilst rapeseed shows a falling off of 171,965 cwts., and castor seeds 21,219 cwts. These seeds have all been shipped to Europe, except two cargoes of linseed, in the screw steamers Timsah and Antonio, which went direct to New York. Formerly a large linseed trade used to be done with New York and Boston, but it has disappeared for the last five years from Bombay, although still maintained in Calcutta. It is to be hoped the revival of direct business between Bombay and New York may restore it to its former scale. Last year, owing to the scarcity of food grains, only 20,924 cwts of wheat were exported; this year it figures for 922,584 cwts. The shipments of myrabolams have also increased by 96,943 cwts. These returns are drawn out, we understand, principally for the information of ship-owners, to give an idea of the ocean-carrying trade of Bombay, but they are of great interest also to those engaged in the commerce of the port, and we are sure will be gladly perused, for they show that this presidency is emerging from the great depression of last year, and, with increased railway communications into the Rajputana districts, the increased facilities of the port given in the Prince's Dock, we may look forward to increased trade. The seed and grain trades are no doubt capable of being largely developed if the railway companies in Bombay would only imitate the Americans and foster business by cheap carriage. That our railway charges on produce cannot be justified is proved by the startling fact that, although the export trade has so largely increased this year, to the extent of 153,100 tons above that of 1879, the G.I.P. Railway Company's traffic receipts show a falling off of some 17 lakhs. Indian wheat can be grown in the Nerbudda and other fertile valleys.—Bombay Gazette.

DEATH OF MR. R. D. CAIRNS.—We regret to announce the death, at the early age of thirty-seven, of Mr. R. D. Cairns, agent of the Bombay branch of the Oriental Bank Corporation. His death, which was very sudden, occurred on July 10. The deceased was a warm supporter of the Chamber of Commerce, the meetings of which he frequently attended; but with this exception he took no prominent interest in public affairs outside his official duties. He was, however, an excellent business man, and his upright and unassuming demeanour made him respected by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. A large number of merchants, bankers, and public men followed his remains to the grave as a last token of respect.—Times of India.

ARRIVAL OF THE 78TH HIGHLANDERS.—Three companies of the 78th Highlanders (Ross-shire Buffs), consisting of two hundred non-commissioned officers and men, and two pipers, arrived at the Boree Bunder Station on July 13. The following officers came with the Highlanders:—Major T. Mackenzie, Captain O. Graham, Lieutenant W. de B. Hatton, and 2nd Lieutenant J. A. Brown. The headquarters remain at Puna.—Times of India.

It is notified in the Government Gazette that his Excellency the Governor in Council is pleased to direct that in future the 1st Regiment Light Cavalry shall be designated the 1st Bombay Lancers. The headquarters of this regiment are at Neemuch, two squadrons being stationed at Puna.

DEPARTURE OF THE 2-11TH REGIMENT.—On July 13 the 2-11th embarked for Karachi. The following is a list of officers:—Lieut. Col. Corrie, Captain Street, Captain Marriott, Captain Kinder, Captain Yule, Lieut. Kelsall, Lieut. Davies, Second Lieuts. Watson, Pirie, Smith, Ellicombe, and Wood, Surg. Slaughter, Lieut. and Adj. Park, Quartermaster Evans, and 433 rank and file.—Bombay Gazette.

THE KUSMORE BUND.—Fortunately the sudden collapse of a portion of the Kusmore Bund does not seem so serious as was at first reported, and every one will hope that the expectations of the authorities that the breach can easily be closed may be realised. The report of the Sind Irrigation Department recalls a similar accident which occurred two years ago to the same work. The rainfall of 1878 was unusually heavy, and the floods breached the bund and submerged large tracts of country. Special grants for the repair of the bund were made, and it wholly escaped damage during last year's inundation. The monsoon of 1879 was, however, a comparatively light one, and the Government deemed it advisable not long ago to issue certain orders respecting the maintenance of a sufficient and efficient Abkallani establishment upon the bund, and to direct that these instructions should be most carefully attended to next, that is to say the present inundation. It will be interesting to know whether the present breach has been made in spite of these precautions. It appears that, notwithstanding the disastrous breaches and floods that occurred in 1878, the revenue expenditure during that year was much larger than usual, which is attributed to the increase of the area of rabi cultivation.—Times of India.

MONDAY, AUGUST 9, 1880.

THE INDIAN FAMINE COMMISSION.

AMID the din of arms, the eager expectancy of news concerning our forces in Southern Afghanistan, the report of the Commissioners appointed to inquire into the causes and possible preventive measures which may avert or mitigate famines in India has, to use a trade expression, "fallen flat." All are too occupied with the thought of the defeat of a feeble, though methodical, general, the sacrifice of some hundreds of brave soldiers, to attend to the written record of a series of disastrous conflicts in which the Government of India has been routed by the adverse powers of famine and pestilence, the terrible array of figures wherein millions, not hundreds, express the total of victims. Yet there have been seldom more momentous tasks to which a Government could address itself than that for which the able and experienced members of the Famine Commission have been invited to collect the lessons of experience and formulate the rules of future precaution. To prescribe the means by which it shall be at least reduced to the minimum of probability that in any great section of India the droughts which recur with predictable periodicity shall sweep away the population is a task indeed almost too great for the collective wisdom that any Government could command. The report before us by no means extenuates the tale of past disaster. It is only the first part, and it deals with famine relief. Nearly one-third is occupied with the explanation of the natural causes which render India liable to droughts, and with the historical review of the successive famines which, during the last and the present century, have afflicted the various sections of India. From the consideration of these, or mainly from the more recent experiences during the last twenty years, the Commissioners have drawn certain lessons leading to general considerations on which they base a plan for future famine relief. The successive famines and their terrible effects are made plainer by tables and by maps, and the industry which has been applied to make clear the remote or obscure histories of these calamities cannot be too highly commended. But, after all, there needs no more than the stern fact, so plainly stated by Messrs. Caird and Sullivan, that the last famine cost India the lives of five millions of our fellow-subjects, who perished in spite of charity, in spite of sympathy, in spite of the exertions of officials who spared not their own lives to force upon all the enormous importance of what the Commissioners tell us and to compel attention to their advice. What has been may, nay must, be again. Scarcely any part of our Indian Empire has escaped the visitation of severe famine during the last century, and over considerable portions acute distress has recurred frequently. Of the twenty-one famines and scarcities recorded in the last 109 years there have been seventeen famines, affecting twenty-years, and occurring at an average interval of five years; and there have been eight greater famines affecting eleven years and occurring at intervals varying from two or three to forty years, but which average twelve years. In effect the Government of India must be prepared for the occurrence of scarcity as often as two years out of every nine, and great famines may be anticipated at average intervals of twelve years. There is a careful comparison of the areas and populations affected, which ends in the admission that the preceding famine equalled that of 1876-78 in intensity, though no particular cause is assigned for its being considered reasonable that it is not likely to be exceeded in the future. But, accepting the probability, we have the largest population likely to be severely affected by famine at one time given as thirty millions, and with this possibility before them, and the acknowledgment that during the last famine one-sixth of that total population perished, the Commissioners apply themselves for the present to preparing a plan by which they are of opinion such fearful loss of life may be partially, at least, prevented. An organisation which exists in times of plenty, at least en cadre, will be, when the approach of danger is perceived afar, capable of being reinforced and developed so as to distribute to advantage that State aid which is recognised as needful. The conditions governing the obligation of the State to apply its resources to the relief of want are that the calamity shall be one which places it beyond the power of an individual to obtain the requisite relief otherwise, and that the intervention of the State is likely to produce a practically beneficial result. The Commissioners are somewhat pedantic in their statements; it hardly needs a syllogism to persuade us that the people must not die of famine if it can be helped; and we hasten to see what is recommended as the course to be pursued when the calamity assumed as inevitable comes. We find at once that part of the recommendations, and that a very important part, consists of precautionary measures. In this all the Commissioners concur. We come back to the often-urged need of maintaining a department of agriculture with a chief at the head of a branch of the Secretariat, and with provincial directors, each supervising the labours of a due staff of officials. In times of plenty the duties of this department would be supervision and provision, collecting accurate and timely information, and we presume, though it is obscurely hinted, diffusing advice and instruction. This department would act as an intelligence corps, and be prepared to warn the Government of India of the possibility or probability of drought or famine invading any province or district. The constant collection of vital statistics, the watchfulness over the food stocks, and the condition of the people, would furnish ample occupation for the staff of officials which, when the need came, could be sufficiently reinforced for the carrying out of the plans of local relief already prepared. So far there is a concurrence of opinion in the report, but when we come to the measures of relief we at once find serious difference of opinion. Those who have studied the irksome and painful story of past famines, or who have gone through the fearful experience of struggling with the ever-present death, know how acrimoniously the various measures of relief have been debated. The Famine Commissioners have not succeeded in a unanimous recommendation as to the treatment for a famine-stricken region nor as to the all-important question of food supply. When we find Messrs. Caird and Sullivan, whose names alone make it needless for us to offer any estimate of their experience of qualifications as advisers, differing toto cœlo from their colleagues on the chief point, the main end of the whole inquiry, omitting, that is to say, the question of preventive measures, we are apt to think that the elaborate research into the history and statistics of famines, the careful tabulation of causes and effects, will have done little towards the enlightenment of the perplexed Governments which, in turn, may have to deal with the difficulty of preserving alive the children of the soil when their mother denies them the wanted sustenance. It is something, indeed, to find no discordant opinion as to the duty of Government in times of famine to abstain from collecting the ordinary instalments of the land revenue, or the advisability of making loans at moderate or no interest to enable the richer landholders to maintain their dependents, or the poorer to cultivate their lands. We confess that it is not without shame that we can read the admonitions conveyed under Head VI. of the report as to undue or ill-timed exaction of the revenue or arrears of the revenue. But the recommendations made on this subject are doubtless based on evidence given as to partial and occasional cases of unwise zeal on the part of officials, who, indeed, must have an exceedingly hard task of discriminating the cases in which indulgence should be shown. The very fact of such recommendations being needful, combined with the advice that loans should be systematically made, is an additional and strong argument for the establishment of the Agricultural Department with its machinery of officials collecting data and systematising the results with the same punctilious and minute observation and a corresponding power of generalisation to that which the Meteorological Department displays. The forecast of the probabilities of the seasonable rains, or the unseasonable, yet periodical, droughts must proceed pari passu with the recording of the condition of the agricultural population, and the forecasting of their power of resistance to the danger, or their want of that auxiliary relief which is agreed upon as needful by those who disagree as to the method of applying it.

HER MAJESTY'S SHIP "WOODLARK."—We are happy to say that the report of the death of Commander P. Campbell Johnstone, commanding H.M.S. Woodlark, is erroneous.

THE RAMPA REBELS.—News has been received from Madras that Karam Taman Diosa, one of the leaders of the Rampa insurgents, was shot by Mr. Sweet, of the police, on the 26th ult. Several other leaders have lately been tried and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The rebellion, however, shows no signs of collapsing, and what with the half-hearted measures of the Madras Government, the weakness of the force, and, above all, the unhealthiness of the Rampa jungles, it seems likely to be a source of worry for months longer. Probably the best course would be to withdraw all the regular troops, who are miserably out of place on such service, and substitute for them a force of police selected from acclimatised men used to work in feverish jungles.—Times Telegram.

GENERAL ORDER.—A recent Horse Guards' order relating to the adjutancy of auxiliary forces has been published in the general orders issued at Simla. It is notified that in the event of a vacancy the selection of an officer to succeed to the appointment will be made by the Commander in Chief from the approved list of candidates for such appointments. Priority of selection will, as a rule, be given to the officers of regiments composing the sub district brigade. Commanding officers will report fully their opinion as to the eligibility of the candidates, but will not recommend any officer whom they do not consider fully qualified for the appointment, both as to knowledge of its duties and facility in imparting instruction clearly. When the commanding officer does not recommend an officer who has applied he will state his reasons on the form of application. The practice of soliciting the interest of officers commanding regiments of the auxiliary forces with a view to obtaining these appointments is prohibited.

THE EXTENSION OF BRITISH INTERESTS IN THE RED SEA, ABYSSINIA, AND CENTRAL AFRICA.—A correspondent writes to us on this subject as follows:—"The generally improved condition of Egypt has naturally attracted the attention of our commercial community, and several new undertakings have lately been formed to work business in Egypt. An English company is being formed to develop the trade of the Red Sea, Abyssinia, and Central Africa. The interests of the company are in the hands of serious practical men well acquainted with those parts. The London agent is Capt. James Porter, 63, Fenchurch-street, E.C., for many years engaged in the trade of those countries. With but insignificant competition, and a vast virgin field to work over, this company has splendid prospects before it. It will do good in two ways—the extension of British commerce and the introduction of civilisation contributing to stamp out the slave trade. Having agents and correspondents at every likely point, by their presence and reports, as well as by the force of the introduction of European commerce and habits, it will give an indirect but effective blow to the slave dealers."

APPOINTMENT.—Lieut. Col. J. F. Betty, R.A., who arrived home a few days ago from service in India, has been selected to succeed Col. R. Curtis, R.A., in the desirable appointment of chief instructor at the School of Gunnery, Shoeburyness, the latter officer having been called upon to vacate on becoming a regimental colonel.

DROWNED AT SEA.—The master, Captain Carroll, of the ship Star of the Sea, which has arrived at Calcutta from Liverpool, reports that on May 30, in lat. 38 S., long. 67 E., she encountered a heavy gale and shipped a heavy sea, which washed overboard and drowned the boatswain, an apprentice, and two ordinary and three able seamen.

SOUTH INDIAN GOLD MINING COMPANY.—Capt. Gifford, in his letter dated July 5, reports:—"Heavy monsoons have much retarded the progress in driving tunnels. At the entrance of each tunnel the rain has caused a little damage, the reefs giving way. Hope to have both tunnels secured by the end of this week, when driving will be resumed both day and night. I am pleased to state that labour is becoming plentiful."

CYPRUS.—Two parliamentary papers having reference to Cyprus have been recently issued. The first contains returns connected with the payment to the Porte out of the revenues of Cyprus. From this it appears that for the year 1878-79 we paid to the Porte under Article 3 of the annex to the convention of June 4, 1878, 7,402,625 piastres, but under Article 4 nothing. It is added in a note that a portion of the surplus revenue for 1878-79 was collected before the British occupation by the Turkish authorities, and remitted by them to Constantinople. For the year 1879-80, we have paid, under Article 3, 11,092,377 piastres, and under Article 4 £5,000. In this return is included a copy of the accounts of Cyprus from 1873-74 to 1877-78, as rendered by the Ottoman Government. According to this statement, the average receipts for the five years were 34,822 bourses 2 piastres, while the expenditure varied from 5,803 bourses 299 piastres to 4,993 bourses 383 piastres. A summary of the actual receipts and expenditure of the Porte in Cyprus during these five years is appended, which shows gross receipts 83,950,051 piastres, or an annual average of 16,790,010 piastres; and gross expenditure 13,625,999 piastres, or an annual average of 2,725,200 piastres. These figures do not include the salt tax, which is collected in kind. It is calculated that the annual excess of receipts over expenditure in Cyprus is, on the basis of the present taxation, 11,121,952 piastres. The other parliamentary paper contains correspondence respecting the financial state of Cyprus, consisting of two despatches from Major General Biddulph and a memorandum by the auditor and accountant general, Mr. O'Neill. In his first despatch, General Biddulph transmits to Lord Granville a statement of revenue and expenditure for 1879-80, and in the second he makes some general remarks on the revenue of Cyprus. He points out, among other things, the remarkable fact that the tithes for last year have been almost entirely collected, only 1.4 per cent. being in arrear, a fact almost unprecedented in modern Turkish history. This was due to a new system of collection, in place of tithe-farming, inaugurated by Sir Garnet Wolseley. The cost of collection of tithes for last year was under 9 per cent. of the sum collected, while the Turkish Government could never do it for less than 15 per cent. The expenditure for 1879-80, which was abnormally large, £115,165, but, even so, there was a surplus of £37,000. On the general financial position of the island General Biddulph remarks that reductions have been made in some branches of taxation, but not so many as he should wish. The revenue has, nevertheless, increased, so that though last year was a bad one, it exceeded the average of the five years before the British occupation. The burden on the taxpayer has, however, been greatly reduced. General Biddulph anticipates a further growth of revenue, but points out what a burden the heavy payments to Turkey lay upon the finances of the island.

ROYAL COLONIAL INSTITUTE.—At a meeting of the council of this institute on Tuesday last, Sir Henry Barkly, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., in the chair, the following were elected fellows:—Abul Fazl, Abdur Rahman (India), Mr. Evenor Dupont, Mr. J. S. Finnis, M.D., M. Jules Langlois, M. Hippolyte le Miere, M. Etienne Pellereau (Mauritius.)

CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.—Among the names of the candidates in the official list printed in our impression of the 31st ult., that of Mr. H. D. Chamier was erroneously included. The name of Mr. David Doig Murdoch should instead have appeared at the foot of the list with 1,519 marks.

THE ROYAL MILITARY ACADEMY.—The next examination of candidates for admission to the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, will commence in London on Thursday, November 25 next, the medical examination taking place at the Academy on the previous day. Applications cannot be received unless made in strict accordance with paragraph 5 of the regulations issued with general order 77 of 1880. The successful candidates will be required to join the Royal Military Academy about March 17 next.—War-office, August, 1880.

EASTERN AND AUSTRALIAN MAIL SERVICES.—In addition to eight steamers, aggregating 33,300 tons and 5,950-horse power, now in course of construction on the Clyde and elsewhere, the Peninsular and Oriental Company have contracted with Messrs. J. and G. Thomson, of Glasgow, for a vessel of 4,100 tons and 750-horse power, to be built of steel, and to be delivered to the company in ten months.

THE tenders for Rs. 30,00,000 in bills on India were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England, the whole of which was allotted to Calcutta at an average rate of 18.8 3/4, tenders at 18.8 5/16d. receiving about 23 1/2 per cent. This result marks an improvement of about 1/2 per cent. on last week's price. On Wednesday next Rs. 30,00,000 will again be put up for tender.

H.M.'s TROOPSHIP, Orontes left Portsmouth on Wednesday, August 4, for Malta and Bombay with the 41st Regiment. The total strength was twenty-three officers, ten staff-sergeants, thirty-two sergeants, sixteen trumpeters and drummers, and 630 rank and file, with sixty women and ninety-five children. Colonel William Allan goes out in command, the following officers accompanying headquarters, viz.—Major Haydock; Brevet Major Montgomery; Captains Gray, Torkington, M'Causland, Wade-Dalton, Gordon, Rudman, and Roberts; Lieutenants Quirk (adjutant), Parreidt, Parkinson, Sillem, Reade, Harkness, and Gifford; Second Lieuts. Clarke, Goodwyn, and Tristram; Paymaster (Major) Furlong, and Quartermaster Miller. Brevet Lieut. Colonel Wavell remains in England on leave of absence, and Capt. Huyshe joins the depot. Brevet Major C. J. Bromhead, Capt. Paton, Lieuts. Logan and Birch, sailed for Gibraltar in the Orontes with a draft from the 24th Regiment, consisting of two sergeants and ninety-two men. The 2nd Battalion also proceeds to Bombay in the Orontes. About 250 men for the 98th Regiment, under the command of Major Roper, embarked at the same time. Captains Sharpe, Tyack, and Allen, and Lieuts. Chichester and Trevelyan accompany the draft. The 61st Foot embarks at Malta in the troopship Orontes about August 16. It was last in India from 1845 to 1859, and played a leading part in the Punjab and Indian Mutiny campaigns. Captain Fowler, Lieut. and Adjutant Partridge, Lieut. Humphrey, Second Lieut. Baxter, and Paymaster Sutherland, embarked at Portsmouth in the Orontes with a draft of fifty-six men from the brigade depot at Bristol. Major Heywood, Capt. Dickin and Macdonell, Lieut. England, and Second Lieut. Vines embark at Queenstown to-day in the same ship. Lieut. Colonel Blacket takes the regiment to India. He has been home on leave, but left England on Thursday by the mail steamer for Malta. The 38th Regiment embarked at Queenstown on board the Euphrates on Saturday for Malta to relieve the 98th Regiment, which proceeds to India. A detachment of seven officers and 206 non-commissioned officers and men from the 20th Brigade Depot also embarks to join the service companies of the 98th Regiment. The 1st Battalion Rifle Brigade, now stationed at Aldershot, will embark for India this day week. The battalion has been at home nearly ten years. It returned from Canada on Sept. 19, 1870. H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught bade farewell to the battalion on parade at Aldershot on Thursday. 300 volunteers have joined to complete its Indian strength. Lord E. W. P. Clinton goes out in command. The Himalaya, Captain Harry W. Brent, will be prepared for the conveyance of troops to Bombay, and is ordered to be ready for that service on the 14th inst. Should she require any defects to be made good she will be ordered round to Devonport to complete.

THE E.I. RAILWAY COMPANY.—We are officially informed by the secretary of the East India Railway Company that in the terms of the resolution agreed to at the general meeting held on July 16 last the board of directors will make a distribution of 17s. 4d. per cent. by way of final dividend to the proprietors on the closed register on November 1, 1879. The warrants will be made payable on and after the 21st inst.

THE DEVALA-MOYAR GOLD MINING COMPANY.—It is announced that the share certificates of the Devala-Moyar Gold Mining Company can be obtained at the offices of the company upon the production of the letter of allotment and in exchange for the bankers' receipts.

ARMY MEDICAL SCHOOL.—The summer session of the Army Medical School at Netley terminated on the 2nd August, when, after the preliminary business of winding up the session had been concluded, the prizes at the disposal of the senate of the school were handed to the successful competitors before a large assembly of officers and visitors, by Sir C. K. Pearson, K.C.M.G., C.B., of Ekowe reputation, now Governor of the Royal Victoria Hospital and commandant of the station at Netley. After delivering the prizes Sir C. Pearson gave an interesting and lengthened address on the position and responsibilities of officers of the Medical Department in the different branches of the military services. Sir J. Fayrer, K.C.S.I., physician to the Council of India and a member of the senate of the Army Medical School, and Mr. MacCormac, the eminent surgeon of St. Thomas's Hospital, also addressed some appropriate remarks to the assembled probationers, and the proceedings shortly after terminated. The following are the names of the successful surgeons on probation for her Majesty's army in order of merit and with the numbers of marks obtained by them. In the instances of these gentlemen the marks gained at Netley are not counted, and they retain the places taken by them in the competitive examination at London:—G. H. Sylvester, 1,925; W. J. Macnamara, 1,900; D. O'Sullivan, 1,725; E. O. Milward, 1,710; P. B. Conolly, 1,660; C. R. Woods, 1,600; H. F. Babington, 1,585; W. C. Milward, 1,575; W. H. Bracken, 1,565; M. F. Macnamara, 1,490; J. O. Sandiford, 1,480; R. L. Love, 1,455; H. W. Murray, 1,455; M. W. Kerin, 1,420; A. Peterkin, 1,420; J. Harran, 1,405; W. S. Leckey, 1,395; E. L. Maunsell, 1,375; J. S. Langdon, 1,350; W. F. Hefferman, 1,395; R. W. E. Nicholson, 1,345; J. C. W. Crofts, 1,330; W. Dugdale, 1,325; D. L. Irvine, 1,325; J. Ronayne, 1,320; C. H. Clubbourn, 1,290; E. R. Cree, 1,275; M. O'C. Drury, 1,260; W. Deane-Freeman, 1,245; J. H. Nicholas, 1,200; D. F. Franklin, 1,175; J. L. Curtin, 1,160; H. Saunders, 1,155; J. Battersby, 1,150. The following is the list of candidates for commissions as surgeons in her Majesty's Indian Medical Service in order of merit, and with the total number of marks gained by them at both the London and Netley examinations:—J. Simpson (gained the Herbert Prize and Martin Memorial Medal), 5,635; C. P. Lukis (gained the Parkes Memorial Bronze Medal), 5,483; R. R. H. Whitwell, 5,465; L. A. Waddell, 5,233; H. P. Dimmock, 4,530; G. Shewan, 4,445; D. B. Spencer, 4,396; J. Clarke, 4,391; C. C. Vaid, 4,383; P. D. Pank, 4,303; T. R. Mulroney, 4,115; T. R. Macdonald, 4,094; C. B. Maitland, 4,068; D. F. Dymott, 4,018; R. H. Cama, 3,998; W. B. Browning, 3,980; C. Henderson, 3,896; F. R. Divecha, 3,892; A. P. Adams, 3,864; C. M. Thompson, 3,783; C. S. Rundle, 3,667; J. W. Evans, 3,612; J. Leonard, 3,604.

THE late Major William Joseph Geils, Madras Army, whose death is announced, was one of the several Madras officers who served in Turkey during the Crimean war. He will be remembered as having served on the British staff attached to Omar Pasha's army, and was military and political commissioner with the army of Anatolia from March, 1855, to October, 1856.

HEAVY FAILURE.—Mr. C. B. Dowden, of 19, Cullum-street, and Tuticorin, Madras, East India merchant, lately trading in partnership with J. E. Allen, under the firm of C. B. Dowden and Co., has filed a petition for liquidation, estimating his liabilities at about £55,000. The meeting of creditors is appointed for August 13 at the Guildhall Tavern.

A MISSING SHIP.—A telegram has been received from Aden, stating that H.M.S. Philomel, has returned, after a fruitless search for the Queen Victoria, which was supposed to have been wrecked in the neighbourhood of Cape Guardafui.

THE INDIAN MAIL SERVICE.

On Thursday an influential deputation from Manchester, Liverpool, London, and many other parts of the kingdom, representing mercantile houses, had an interview with the Marquis of Hartington (with whom was Mr. Horace Waterfield) at the India-office, to present the following, the subject of the Indian mail service:—

"Six months' experience of the working of the Indian mails under the new time-tables has afforded abundant proof that the objections to the arrangements which at the outset were expressed regarding it were well founded. The arrival of the mail on Thursday does not allow proper and sufficient time for letters to be replied to by the next return mail. This is found to be the case even in London, where the outward mail closes on Friday; in other commercial cities of the United Kingdom the inconvenience is still greater, as in those places the mail arrives either after or just before the outward mail. As the period for arranging the new time-table for the year 1881 is approaching, we, the undersigned merchants and bankers trading with the East, would respectfully and earnestly request your lordship to restore the system which was in force previously, whereby the arrival of the mail in London took place in the early part of each week. The change from that to the present plan, although due entirely to the decision of the Government of India, has not, we believe, proved acceptable even in India, while in this country it has had the effect of almost completely destroying the advantages of the accelerated service which the Government made such strenuous efforts to secure under the new mail service."

Mr. MAGNIAC, M.P., said that the London houses preferred to have the arrival of the mail in London on Monday, but as an alternative they would accept the departure from Bombay on Tuesday, which would involve departure from Calcutta on Saturday, and arrival in England on the Sunday in the best season of the year. The Sunday arrival would be very convenient to the country, because letters would thus be received in the country on Monday, leaving time for reply by the following Friday's dispatch.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON, in reply, said: I presume that I may understand that the commercial community of this country, who are interested in the mail service, are unanimous in their wish that there should be some change. As far as my limited experience goes, it does not appear to me that the present arrangement is a very satisfactory one, for even in London the time between the arrival and departure is very short. At the same time, it is almost impossible to change the important mails, such as those carrying despatches within a limited time. The attention, however, of the Government of India has been already called to the point by a despatch sent in April last, which forwarded a memorial on the subject from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. But I need not say that I will at once take steps to send out for the consideration of the Government of India, who must be consulted, of course, on the subject, the very strong expression of opinion contained in the memorials which we have received, and I will also add the expression of opinion of this influential deputation. There is already, in fact, a despatch prepared and under the consideration of the Indian Council, in which they have urgently called the attention of the Viceroy to the point, and this despatch, I hope, will go out to-morrow. In sending out the memorials, I propose to inform the Viceroy that, in our opinion, it appears essential that the plan by which the mails used to arrive in London early in the week should be as soon as possible once more resorted to. Of course, the dates of departure will be fixed with reference to the rates of speed and with due regard to the conditions of the present contract, and with as little inconvenience to the general community as possible. I need not discuss how the change will be effected, because it must be arrived at with proper consideration of all parties' interests. Of course, the Government of India, who suggested the present arrangement, must be consulted before any change can be adopted; and I presume it will be necessary for us to consult the Post-office, from which I do not imagine that there will be any obstacle. It seems to me that the Indian community may, perhaps, reasonably object to uncertain dates of departure, which would be necessary if we were to attempt to secure a fixed day of arrival, as long as the main object is secured of effecting the arrival on one of the early days of the week.

Mr. MAGNIAC said he understood the Peninsular and Oriental Company would require four months to bring their steamers into working order to effect the change proposed, so that as there would be that delay the Government might send out by telegraph to India their instructions. The Marquis of HARTINGTON: We can hardly make a proposal by telegraph; but we may be able to make use of the telegraph to convey the Government's opinion at home to that of India. I have asked Mr. Horace Waterfield, secretary of the Financial Department, to be present to take notes of all the points urged by the deputation, and everything that has been said shall be laid before the Government of India. The deputation thanked his lordship and retired.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, AUGUST 2.
AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. PUGH asked the Secretary of State for India whether Afzul Khan, the former Governor of Kandahar, did not accompany Ayoub Khan from Herat; and whether the troops of the Wali Shere Ali were not, owing to their known preference for Afzul Khan, expected to desert and go over to him on the first suitable occasion.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that it was extremely difficult to guarantee the authenticity of news from Herat. The most accurate information came from our agent at Meschid. The latest news, dated April 17, reported Afzul Khan to be at Meschid as a guest of Persia; that a special mission had come to him from Ayoub Khan to join him at Kandahar, but the sirdar had absolutely refused to do so. Whether he did so eventually, or not, was not known. There was no doubt that Afzul Khan was a person of considerable authority and influence, and if it was true that he was with Ayoub Khan his presence was of importance. Col. St. John telegraphed from Kandahar on May 25: "The Wali Shere Ali does not feel comfortable about the fidelity of his troops." On June 30 he again telegraphed that, in answer to inquiries, the Wali had replied that a few of his men were mutinous, but the majority were quite trustworthy. No doubt the Wali was somewhat anxious as to his position and as to whether British troops would be forced upon him. He had no further information to give to the House on the subject of the position of our troops.

In answer to Mr. Ritchie, Sir H. D. Wolff, and Sir H. Verney, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said nothing had come under his notice to corroborate the statement that as far back as the early part of July General Burrows had asked for a reinforcement; that he had no knowledge of further reinforcements after the mutiny of the Wali's troops; but he had already stated that after General Burrows's march reinforcements were ordered up, and that he had no information regarding the wounded.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY, AUGUST 3.

CABUL AND KANDAHAR.

In reply to Mr. Gorst, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that he had received no intelligence either yesterday or to-day as to the progress of events at Kandahar or on the line between Kandahar and the frontier. A private telegram from Viceroy contained some account of the progress of affairs at Cabul up to the morning of the 2nd inst., but there was no mention made in that telegram of any interruption of the communication between Kandahar and Cabul. He had received no further news from Kandahar, but the telegram referred to, as having been received that morning, which he was unable to read to the House, in that it relates to the progress of the negotiations, contained no alarming information whatever, and that up to August 1 the negotiations were proceeding.

In the course of the evening the noble Marquis read other telegrams, which appear in their place.

RICE CARGOES.

Mr. GOURLEY asked the President of the Board of Trade whether his attention had been called to the recent inquiry before Mr. Commissioner Rothery relative to the loss of the missing rice-laden ship Essex; and, if so, what precautionary amendment he intended adding to the Grain Cargoes Bill for the purpose of regulating the stowage and freeboard of wood and iron vessels loading rice in bags from British Burmese ports.

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN had not yet received the official report from Mr. Rothery with respect to the loss of the Essex, and had seen only the report which had appeared in the newspapers. The Grain Cargoes Bill before the House only professed to carry out the recommendation of the committee recently appointed, which confined its attention in the first instance to circumstances attending the carriage of grain. It would not be useful at the present time of the session to attempt legislation which was not contemplated by the report of that committee, which had no evidence before it respecting the carriage of rice from Indian ports. No doubt it was a matter of considerable importance, and it would come under the cognisance of the committee should it be reappointed next year. In the meantime he might call attention to a clause of the bill before the House which expressly threw on shipowners the obligation to take such further precautions as circumstances showed to be necessary. If the recent report showed further precautions to be necessary with rice cargoes it would be the duty of shipowners to take them, whether they were subjects of specific legislation or not.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, AUGUST 5.

EXECUTIONS IN AFGHANISTAN.

In answer to Sir W. Lawson, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said the only information he had relating to executions in Afghanistan came in a report from General Stewart, which was dated the 12th of May, and enclosed a list of prisoners taken in two actions on the 19th and 20th of April. In the first action twelve prisoners were captured, of whom nine were released, one died in hospital, and two were shot by order of General Stewart. In the second action fourteen prisoners were taken, of whom eleven were afterwards released, and three shot by order of General Stewart. In both instances the prisoners who were ordered to be shot had fired on our men when the action was over. The report of General Stewart would be enclosed in the papers which he hoped before long to lay on the table of the House, but it would be presented as an unopposed return if his hon. friend moved for it.

KANDAHAR.

Sir H. D. WOLFF asked whether the noble lord the Secretary of State for India could inform the House in what time the reinforcements under General Phayre were likely to reach Kandahar.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: I am not able to state exactly the time, nor do I think it would be expedient to state it even if I could.

MAHOMEDAN FEELING AND AFFAIRS IN AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. ASHMEAD-BARTLETT asked whether the attention of the Secretary of State for India had been called to a letter from a Mahomedan gentleman of Calcutta, which appeared in the Daily Telegraph, and whether in view of the feeling excited among the Mussulmans of India by their anti-Turkish policy, they will abandon the attempt to coerce the Porte into ceding to other States portions of Ottoman territory. He would also ask whether the report in the papers that afternoon that the British forces had been ordered to retire from Cabul in a week or some short time was true?

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that his attention had only been called to the letter in question by the question of the hon. member. He received no information as to any special excitement at the present moment amongst the Mahomedans of India, but no doubt they are watching with great anxiety and interest the progress of events in the east of Europe. He took exception to the description of the policy of the Government contained in the question, "an anti-Turkish policy," for the Government were of opinion, whether rightly or wrongly, that their policy was in the interest of the Turkish Government itself, as well as of Europe. He had only to say it would not conduce to the security of our dominion in India if the Government were to alter the policy, which on general grounds they consider best adapted to the interests of Europe and England, because of statements utterly unauthenticated as to the supposed opinions of a Mahomedan gentleman. In reply to the latter part of the question, he read the telegram last received.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCENT PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators, also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1878, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates.

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

TEMPORARY OFFICES—7, PALL-MALL, S.W.

PROSPECTUS.

THE want of comfortable accommodation in London, with living on an equality with that of a Regimental Mess and at economical rates, have always been felt by Officers of the Services. This it is now intended to supply, both for temporary use and also in the style of a Residential Club, so that Shareholders may retain Private Rooms or Suites of Rooms with good attendance, and the use of General Dining, Drawing, Club, Smoking, and other Rooms, while they may be either boarded at very moderate rates, or obtain their meals as required in Club fashion, and at charges framed from those adopted by successful public caterers.

The Army and Navy Hotel is established for the purpose of these requirements, and is intended for the use of the Public as well as of the Shareholders, priority being in all cases given to the latter.

The rooms of the Hotel will be plainly yet substantially furnished, avoiding all the glitter which, while adding to the expense, does not add to the comfort of the visitor.

Baths of every description, including salt water, will be obtainable in the Hotel.

Drawing Rooms for Ladies and Billiard Rooms will form an attractive feature in the establishment.

The Reading Rooms will be supplied with the leading daily and weekly papers, and all English and the best Foreign Service journals will be taken in and filed for the convenience of Shareholders.

A Commodious Smoking Room will be attached to the house, and particular attention will be paid to the cigars and tobacco purchased by the company.

Shareholders will be allowed the use of the smoking, reading, and writing rooms, thus providing all the accommodation of a club without any annual subscription.

Suitable Wines and those of the finest vintages will be laid down, and care will be taken to lower the prices of the wine list to within a fractional difference of Store prices.

It is intended to purchase groceries, food, and stores of every description from the various Co-operative Stores and Markets, and to add a small profit to the prime cost of these articles, so that the price of living at the Hotel will be brought within the reach of all Shareholders.

The Cuisine will be under the superintendence of experienced French and English Cooks, and, whilst Bachelors will find all the advantages of a Mess, Married Officers will not miss the comforts of home.

A House Dinner of Six Courses will be served from Six to Eight p.m., at a very moderate charge, in Club fashion, at separate tables.

Special facilities will be afforded to the families of officers proceeding to or returning from abroad, and, if desired, their travelling arrangements can be conducted by trustworthy agents.

Arrangements will be made for a service of small omnibuses to the principal railway stations; on receipt of telegraphic notice these would be sent to meet any train.

The furnishing to Shareholders of carriages, open or closed, park hacks, &c., for the day, week, or season, will form an adjunct to the Hotel.

Special rates will be introduced for Servants' Board and Lodging.

No charge will be made for attendance; all servants of the Hotel will be liberally paid, and visitors are not required to make any douceur.

A staff of Commissionnaires will be attached to the Hotel.

A Post and Telegraph Office will be established in the building, and arrangements will be made by which Visitors may obtain railway tickets to all parts of the world without leaving the premises.

An efficient Hair-dressing Establishment will be conducted on the premises.

A large room with every convenience for Regimental Dinners, Balls, Private Parties, &c., will be attached to the building.

Visitors who may wish to make the Hotel their home during their stay will be received at a fixed and very moderate tariff. It is intended to fix the tariff at as low a rate as is compatible with the declaration of a Dividend, and it is confidently anticipated that Board and Lodging can be provided for about the same cost as is now charged by other Hotels for Rooms alone.

Suites of Residential Chambers, for Bachelors as well as Married Families, will form a distinctive feature in the Hotel. These will be let at a fixed and moderate rental, or the Leases sold for long or short periods.

A List of "Regimental Exchanges Wanted" will be hung in the Reading Room, and all the latest telegrams also exhibited.

It is intended to open the Hotel by the 1st May, 1881.

Application for Shares can be made in writing to the Secretary, by giving the name, address, rank or occupation, and the number of Shares applied for.

Secretary (pro tem.) C. HINTON MOORE.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 13, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 24; Madras and Allahabad, July 22; Calcutta, July 21.

THE reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending July 13 state that the rainfall of the week has been, on the whole, good and general; but in parts of the Burdwan and Patna divisions in Bengal, of the Deccan, and of the North West Provinces and Oudh, the rain has been insufficient. There was no rain in the Peshawur and Dera Ismail Khan districts of the Punjab, where it is required. In the Central Provinces a break is still desired in some districts. In Burma the Ngawoon embankment has been breached, and the floods have done some damage to paddy nurseries. Prospects on the whole remain satisfactory.

THE general health reports for the same week are:—Bombay: Some small-pox and mild fever in Sind; fever in Surat; prevalent in Sholapur, Dharwar, and Kanara. Bengal: Fever in Baripore and part of Moorshedabad District; elsewhere good. N.W.P. and Oudh: Fever abating in Meerut; slight in Agra; prevalent in Kumaon; cholera decreasing in Sitapur. Punjab: Small-pox in Dera Ismail Khan; otherwise health good. Central Provinces: Small-pox prevalent in many districts. British Burma: Good. Assam: Fairly healthy. Reports good from Mysor, Berar, Central India States, and Rajputana. Cholera in Katmandu.

DURING the week ending July 10 the deaths in Calcutta numbered 173, being a death-rate of 21 per 1,000 per annum. In Madras the same week there were 215 deaths, a death-rate of 28.1 per 1,000 per annum. During the week ending July 13 the deaths in Bombay numbered 373, giving a death-rate of 28.00 per 1,000 per annum.

WE have received the following telegrams from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 8.—Following from Griffin, August 7:—'I believe the withdrawal to Gandamak of our troops and Roberts's march to Ghazni will, from arrangements now made with Ameer and tribes, be without any opposition whatever. The Kandahar news has necessarily caused much excitement, but we have counteracted it, and yesterday I received most friendly letters from Mooskh-i-Alam and Mahomed Jan.'"

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 9.—Major White, military secretary to the Viceroy, having joined his regiment (92nd Highlanders) with Roberts's Division, reports magnificent force; could go anywhere."

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 10.—Following from St. John:—'Kandahar, 6th. Ayoub arrived Kokaran, six miles from city. Preparations for defence complete; provisions, except forage, for thirty-five days. Our losses exaggerated in previous reports; do not exceed 1,000 killed and missing, of which 400 Europeans and twenty-one officers. Have had no communication from Khelat or Chaman since 28th. Wali in city with relations. Evacuation of railway line below Harnai completed, but the last convoy for Sibi, consisting of a large number of carts and some treasure, with small escort of sepoy, chiefly sick, was attacked by Pathan and Murri robbers in pass between Kacholi and Gundakin Duff. Treasure and baggage had to be abandoned. A number of robbers reported killed, but of convoy four Europeans, twelve sepoy, and twenty coolies killed. Inquiry being made.'"

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 11.—Cabul news, 10th, reports Ameer moving to Deh Khojak, three miles from Sherpur, with Sirdars and Chiefs, and majority of tribesmen sent to their homes. Ameer comes to Sherpur 11th, to meet General Stewart, who, after interview, follows troops to Butkak, first march from Cabul. Reports from Roberts favourable. Ghilzai country and Northern Afghanistan quiet. Quetta reports letter received from Kandahar, dated 5th. Garrison have abundant water, food, and ammunition. All preparations made to resist attack. Some successful skirmishes with villagers have occurred. Reported that Herati and Cabuli troops quarrelled over booty, and that Ayoub was wounded in quelling disturbance. All quiet at Khojak, whence heliographic communication established with Killa Abdulla."

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 12.—Following from Griffin, Butkak, 11th:—'This morning the Ameer came from Deh-Kojak, where he had encamped last night, to Sherpur, and was met by General Stewart, General Hills, myself, and large number of officers. Short but most satisfactory interview. Ameer expressed warmly his gratitude to Government, and desired his special acknowledgments to be conveyed to his Excellency the Viceroy. Withdrawal of army accomplished with perfect order. The whole country quiet. Letter, dated 8th August, received at Quetta, from British Commandant at Khelat-i-Ghilzai, says they have sufficient supplies, are in no danger, and have not been molested. They had no news from Kandahar since 25th, but had heard reports that force there was shut up.'"

THE Viceroy's telegrams leave little to be added, a loss of treasure to the amount of Rs.170,000, and a quantity of baggage, was sustained by the convoy to Sibi, which was attacked by the Marris. A Quetta telegram, dated Aug. 12, says:—

"Although the outposts of Ayoub Khan appeared at Kandahar some days ago, no report of an attack on the city has been received here. Some native soldiers, fugitives from Khusk-i-Nakhud, state that the defeat of our army was mainly attributable to the enemy's heavy artillery fire. Detachments of troops arrive almost daily from India. Excellent arrangements for their transport through the Bolan Pass have been made by General Phayre. The Khojak Pass and Pishin are now strongly garrisoned, and are believed to be secure from any attack Ayoub may meditate in that direction."

A TELEGRAM from Camp Zargun Shahr, via Cabul, Aug. 10, says:—

"Sir F. Roberts's force arrived here all well this morning. It consists of 10,000 men, including 300 officers. General Ross is second in command. General Hugh Gough commands the cavalry. It is hoped that by great efforts the force may reach Kandahar in twenty-one days. The supplies are the great difficulty already, but Sir F. Roberts is resolute to overcome all obstacles. An effort will be made to send letters from Ghazni, but their safe arrival is uncertain, and this will perhaps be the last news received of the force until their arrival at Kandahar."

THE news from the columns marching to the relief of Kandahar is satisfactory. The Thull Chotiali and Hurnai forces have reached North Chappar without meeting with any opposition.

A Daily News telegram, dated Beni Hissar, through Cabul, Monday, 7.40 a.m., states that the exact strength of force marching on Kandahar is 2,636 Europeans, 7,150 natives, and 8,000 camp followers. General Roberts has issued an order enjoining justice and forbearance towards friendly natives, and reminding the troops that they are marching to the relief of the garrisons of Khelat-i-Ghilzai and Kandahar, which are threatened by a large Afghan army. General Roberts confidently predicts the successful accomplishment of this object.

THE Times correspondent telegraphs from Quetta, Aug. 10:—"The latest news from Kandahar is dated Aug. 5. Ayoub's army had not arrived before the city, which is, however, surrounded by large numbers of tribesmen, who do their utmost to intercept letters, rendering communication with the garrison very difficult. Every preparation has been made to repel the attack of the enemy. Food, water, and ammunition are in abundant supply. General Roberts's force left Cabul on Aug. 9. The troops under General Phayre are assembling rapidly at Quetta. The actual date of the advance has not yet been fixed. All has been quiet in Pishin and in the Khojak Pass for the last three days, but it is possible an attack may be meditated on our advanced post in Chaman, as Ayoub is reported to have detached troops who are going off in that direction."

A BOMBAY telegram states that on Monday Chaman was safe. The 78th Regiment left at noon on the same day for Karachi.

MR. J. W. DANVERS, the Government director of Indian railway companies, has been appointed secretary in the Public Works Department at the India-office, in succession to the late Mr. W. T. Thornton, C.B. Col. E. C. S.

Williams, R.E., late director general of State railways in India, has been appointed an additional deputy Government director of Indian railway companies.

AN Alexandria telegram announces that the appointment of Major General Sir F. J. Goldsmid as Comptroller of the Daira Sanieh was gazetted on the 10th inst.

MAJOR FREDERICK PRATT WORTHY, Bengal Staff Corps, formerly of Bombay Staff Corps, died suddenly of heart disease on July 17 at the Colaba Hotel, Bombay. The deceased officer entered the army in 1858 and became major in 1878.

A MORE recent telegram received from Zanzibar confirms the sad news of the murder of Capt. Carter and Mr. Oadenhead, of the Royal Belgian Expedition to Central Africa, and gives further information that the murder was perpetrated at Nysimbue, by Mirambo, the powerful robber chief (whom we presume the Wrambo of the previous telegram was intended for), allied with the chief Simba. No details have yet been received.

THE Bombay Journal says that not only in Bombay, but in the province of Sind and the Presidency of Bengal, local manufactures are ousting imported articles of the same kind, and that on the east coast of Africa Bombay goods are also largely superseding those of English make. Our contemporary does not, however, seem to think that the Indian mills will be able to compete successfully with Manchester in the production of fine goods.

THE Vaccination Act, 1880—Act No. XIII. of 1880—received the assent of the Viceroy on July 9, and was published for the first time in the Gazette of India of July 10. The Act will come into force as it may be extended, by notification, to any of the territories administered by the Governments of the N.W.P., or the Punjab, or the administrations of Juddh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam, Ajmere, and Coorg.

News has been received from Mr. Ney Elias from Yarkand, saying that he had reached that place, and had been very civilly received by the Chinese. He has gone on to Kashgar. He had not, up to June 7, reported any collision between the Chinese and the Russians.

SIR GEORGE CAMPBELL intends to ask a question as to the abandonment of the Jeddah with her helpless living cargo. It might be as well to cause the inquiry to extend to the construction of this vessel as especially adapted for the "pilgrim" trade.

THE Government of India has offered a prize of £100 for the best manual of hygiene for the use of British soldiers in India. Competitors must send in their primers on or before March 31, 1881.

A RETURN of the earnings and expenses of Indian railways during the second half of last year shows that the net receipts of all the lines amounted to rather less than 241 lakhs. The net receipts of the East Indian Railway are set down at a little under 134 lakhs. The lines which show an excess of expenses over the receipts are the Indus Steam Flotilla, the Sindia, the Khamgaon, Amraoti, and Dond and Manmad. Another return gives the net receipts of all the lines from Jan. 1 last up to June 5 as Rs. 3,01,81,893.

THE Government of India are disposed to appoint a commission to investigate the whole question of free emigration into Assam, both for supplying labourers and permanent settlers. The efforts of the Tea Districts Association appear likely to be rewarded by success, and the results both to Assam and to Bengal, Behar, and the North Western Provinces, will be most beneficial. Instead of chimerical grievances the committee of the association have pressed a real remedy for an actual evil, and have been met by the Government of India with practical encouragement.

IN the official reply to the letter submitting the memorial from the Indian Tea Districts Association the important question of emigration, not merely as affecting the tea interest, but as a matter of imperial interest, as relieving the over populated districts, is dwelt on. We quote the following remarks:—

"Schemes of State emigration to Burma from Bengal and Madras, and to the Central Provinces from the valley of the Ganges, have been tried in former years with little success; and it is frequently alleged that the unwillingness of the people to leave their homes gravely impedes, if it does not altogether frustrate, efforts made by the State to spread cultivation in one province by the agency of the surplus population of another. There are, nevertheless, many circumstances which prevent the Government of India from regarding the experiments hitherto made as conclusively establishing the certainty of future failure. Under pressure of want people in all parts of India do, in point of fact, leave their homes. There is a large free immigration into Ceylon and British Burma from the Madras coast; and recently, in a single famine year, more than 180,000 coolies migrated from the Madras Presidency for work in Ceylon. The failure of the Charwa colonisation scheme was attributed by the chief commissioner of the Central Provinces in part, at least, to mismanagement. It is possible that the ill success of the Burma emigration arrangements in 1874-77 was due in some measure to over regulation, and to the circumstance that the character of the free movements of the population was too little observed."

It may, however, be opportune, to call the attention of those interested in this subject to the official comments on the Assam sanitary report for 1878, which, speaking first of the selection of the sites for stations, says:—

"The general result of all the facts appears to be that low wet sites, having great drainage difficulties, have been selected without any special justification; that in order to protect health the station has been spread out to an unmanageable extent and quite unnecessarily; that, under these gratuitous conditions, the sanitary commissioner, when he visits the stations, scarcely knows what to do with them. The object might have been to show how to construct stations so as to render sanitary work impossible on the score of expense."

The comments on the whole results of the report, as affecting the welfare of Assam, are thus expressed, and must command respect:—

"Low sites and damp heavy atmosphere, caused by excessive rainfall, wet subsoil and jungle, are fundamental causes of predisposition to ill health in Assam. The sites cannot be altered, but much may be done in time by improved land drainage, filling up useless tanks, and opening up jungle districts for ventilation to improve the health of towns, villages, and stations. The water supply requires protection and improvement on the principles which we have long since laid down, and which Dr. De Renzy has made applicable to the local requirements in Assam in the present report. Rigid attention to cleanliness is most necessary in such a climate, together with the application to agriculture of all sewage, in order to diminish the risk of polluting water sources during the heavy rains. The depots to which coolies are sent before proceeding up the rivers to tea gardens require to be carefully examined, as it is highly probable that they are sources whence comes the predisposition to cholera on the voyages."

IN the new edition of the Government Telegraph Rules for July a modification has been made in Rule 19, under which it is left at the discretion of telegraph masters to refuse a message which they consider of an objectionable or alarming character. The new rule, now No. 17, runs:—"Telegraph masters are required to refuse to transmit a message which may be of a decidedly objectionable or alarming character. Should the character of a message be open to doubt, the matter may be referred to a secretary to Government if the message be tendered at the seat of Government, or the chief civil or military officer if at a provincial station."

THE Sind irrigation report for 1878-79 states that there are 163 canals, each having a separate head on the river Indus, under Government management in Sind, aggregating 5,643 miles in length. Of these, 12 canals, aggregating 1,287 miles in length, are on the right bank of the river, and 151 canals, aggregating 4,356 miles in length, are on the left bank. The river is embanked for 174 miles on its right bank, and for 145 miles on its left; the inland bunds, chiefly in connection with the Eastern Nara system of canals, aggregate 135 miles in length. The accumulated balances of revenue at credit of these canals, after deducting working expenses, were increased during the year from Rs.88,62,369 to Rs.94,57,444, and, deducting interest charges, from Rs.47,65,158 to Rs.49,98,269."

THE Government of India is carefully considering measures calculated to put a stop to forgeries of currency notes. In Bombay the evil has greatly increased of late, and in some cases the imitation is executed with skill.

ON Monday evening the Secretary of State for India announced that the Indian Budget, or financial statement, would be taken at the morning sitting on Tuesday next, but at a subsequent sitting the Marquis of Hartington declined to pledge himself to this arrangement.

A correspondent from the North West Provinces wonders that "Efforts are not made to introduce into the Indian Museum in London articles that would give Englishmen some true idea of the way ordinary natives live, move, and have their being. At present, from the descriptions I have read concerning the articles exhibited, it strikes me that they would be curiosities even in India itself. You should have—No. 1: The furniture of an Indian gentleman's house; No. 2: A cocoanut hubble-bubble with coolie attached; No. 3: A native dinner—done at Lucknow in clay—life size; No. 4: Specimen of an ordinary native's dress—dirt included."

THE Times of India supplies the following obituary of the week:—Major F. P. Worthy, Bengal Staff Corps, at Bombay (suddenly); Mr. H. Denny, district superintendent of police (from a cobra bite); Colonel Douglas, R.H.A., retired; Mr. P. McIntosh, of the Public Works Department; Mr. C. J. Barter, a well-known merchant of Tuticorin; Captain Mahomed Hoosain, Sirdar Bahadur, aide de camp to the Governor of Madras (killed by an accident).

EXTRACTS FROM THE "KANDAHAR NEWS."

The following are details of the force of General Burrows:—

"On the 4th July the following troops left for Kokoran en route to the front:—300 sabres 3rd Bombay Light Cavalry, under Major Currie, 200 sabres 3rd Sind Horse, under Colonel Malcolmson, six guns E.B., Royal Horse Artillery, under Major Blackwood, two companies of the 1st Bombay Grenadiers, and 40 Sappers; the whole under the command of Brigadier General Nuttall, with Major Hogg as brigade major. The infantry portion of the Girishk force left Kandahar on the 5th July, and consisted of the following troops:—Six companies of the 66th Regiment under Colonel Galbraith, the remainder of the 1st Grenadiers under Colonel Anderson, Jacob's Rifles under Colonel Mainwaring; the whole under Brigadier General Burrows, with Captain M'Math as brigade major, and Captain T. Harris, deputy assistant quartermaster general. Surgeon Major Edge and Surgeon Earle are in charge of the field hospital; Captain Dobbs has charge of the commissariat; and Lieutenants G. S. Jones and E. E. M. Lawford of the transport. Major Leach, R.E., proceeds in charge of a survey party. The force is also accompanied by Col. St. John and the Nawab Hasan Ali Khan. In consequence of the march of troops to Girishk the following changes have been made at Kandahar, and on this side:—The 19th Native Infantry have taken the place of the Grenadiers in the citadel; a company of the 2-7th Royal Fusiliers have relieved the detachment of the 66th Regiment. The return of the 2nd Beluchis from Kelat-i-Ghilzai has been countermanded. The following troops of the Reserve Division have been ordered forward:—F-2 R.A., 15th Foot, and 1st Madras Cavalry under Brigadier H. H. A. Wood, to Kandahar; and the 9th and 24th Regiments of Bombay Native Infantry to the line of communications, to take the place of the 4th Bombay Rifles and 28th Native Infantry. The headquarters and wing of the 7th Rifles, under the command of Colonel Bannerman, left Quetta July 5, escorting a large quantity of ordnance stores for Kandahar." The Kelat-i-Ghilzai correspondent writes under date 1st of July:—"Information having been received last night that Mahomed Aslam Khan, with a large following, had occupied some villages within a few miles of Kelat-i-Ghilzai, Colonel Tanner ordered the detachment Sind Horse and a wing of the Beluchis to hold themselves in readiness to move out. The cavalry, under Captain Gordon, left the fort at 1 a.m., and crossing the Tarnak river proceeded in the direction of Done. At daylight the flanking party on the right observed some mounted men and footmen some distance off. Being on unfavourable ground Captain Gordon retired to some open ground on his left rear. The mounted men of the enemy advanced, and the number of footmen increased. The Governor of Kelat-i-Ghilzai, with his irregulars, now appeared on the scene with the news that Colonel Tanner and the Beluchis were close at hand, and no further steps were taken until they arrived. Col. Tanner immediately ordered the whole to advance. On reaching some high ground it was seen that the enemy had retired a considerable distance, and as we advanced they kept on retiring. Our cavalry were now ordered to follow up the sowars in the direction of, and, if possible, as far as, Done. After half-an-hour the Sind Horse gained considerably on the enemy, whose numbers had increased to about 150, and who began to close in as if they intended to make a stand. Taking advantage of the cover offered by a low spur, the Sind Horse increased their pace, and prudently appeared within 150 yards of the enemy, who were crossing a nulla at the foot of the hill. Some of the cavalry dismounting opened fire on them, when they bolted, Capt. Gordon pursuing them. On reaching some level ground he gave the order to charge, which ended in a pursuit. The enemy lost fourteen killed, one prisoner, and two horses captured; wounded unknown. Casualties, Sind Horse, one sowar and one horse wounded. It was afterwards ascertained that Mahomed Aslam Khan was one of the party pursued by the Sind Horse, but, unfortunately, Capt. Gordon was unaware of this, otherwise his capture might have been effected.

THE ISSUE OF PAPER CURRENCY.

THE report by the Head Commissioner of the Department of the Issue of Paper Currency on the operations of the department during the year 1878-79 has just been published in the Gazette of India. The average aggregate value of the notes issued by the Paper Currency Department outstanding on the last day of each calendar month in the year 1878-79 was 1,319 lakhs, being less by only six lakhs than the corresponding value in the previous year. The circulation fell off considerably towards the end of 1878-79, and continued low till June, 1879. Since then it has again been rising, and in January, 1880, it attained a figure but little lower than the maximum attained in 1878-79. The maximum circulation was 1,427 lakhs in August, and the minimum 1,147 lakhs in May, a range of 280 lakhs, as compared with 149 lakhs in 1875-76, 202 lakhs in 1876-77, 463 lakhs in 1877-78, and 306 lakhs in 1879-80. In 1878-79 notes were issued for value received at the mints amounting to 598 lakhs, as compared with 1,575 lakhs issued in the previous year. The notes issued by sub-circles that were cashed at the Presidency offices, as required by law, were: Calcutta, 88 lakhs; Madras, 94 lakhs; Bombay, 27 lakhs; total, 209. The reduction in Calcutta since 1873-74, the year of the Bengal famine, is more than 200 lakhs. But the demand on Madras and Bombay is rapidly increasing. The accommodation afforded to the public at treasuries and by encashment of foreign circle notes in Currency Offices was also slightly reduced, as it was found necessary to prohibit the concession in the Allahabad and Lahore offices. The remittances of coin during the year amounted to 411 lakhs, as compared with 525 lakhs in the previous year; this amount was made up chiefly of remittances to Allahabad, Karachi, and Lahore, for the Afghan war. The cost was Rs.1,04,920, as compared with Rs.1,41,147 in 1877-78. The amount negotiated by bills and transfers was 555 lakhs, of which 364 were remitted to Calcutta to adjust the notes issued against bullion in Bombay and remitted by the importers to Calcutta to pay for opium. The premium realised during the year was Rs.74,703. Besides the surplus of the famine silver was withdrawn from Madras and shipped to Rangoon under arrangements with various banks which bore the cost of freight. Thus the sum total of all kinds of remittances was 1,144 lakhs and the net cost Rs.30,217. Notes for the value of 4,284 lakhs and numbering 4,115,911, were cancelled as against 4,551 lakhs in the previous year. The proportion which notes of the Calcutta circle bear to the total cancellations is 59 per cent., as against 62 per cent. in 1877-78. Out of a total amount of 1,173 lakhs held on Dec. 31, 1878, in notes and cash by Government treasuries, Presidency banks and their branches, 321 lakhs or 27 per cent. of the whole, was in notes. In Calcutta the notes were 46 per cent. of the whole amount held, at Allahabad 11 per cent., at Lahore 15 per cent., in Madras 12 per cent., and in Bombay 18 per cent. The Bank of Bengal held 55 lakhs in notes and 24 lakhs in cash, or 69 per cent. on the whole; the Bank of Madras 8 lakhs in notes and 16 lakhs in cash, or 34 per cent. of the whole; and the Bank of Bombay 62 lakhs in notes and 56 lakhs in cash, or 53 per cent. of the whole. The total value of lost notes paid to the end of the year was Rs.14,35,750. Government has as yet suffered no loss by these payments.

AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENTS.

AN Allahabad correspondent sends us an instructive illustration of what he calls the tenacity with which the Hindu sticks to old institutions. "It appears that at a tremendous expense the Government of the N.W.P. got a steam plough out from England in order, I suppose, to induce the richer zemindars to do likewise, and commenced operations with the machine on a model farm they have here. The plough worked badly, so I hear, but the cream of the joke was that after the ground had all been ploughed up, and the natives had expressed their intense admiration of the English machine, they turned to with their common country ploughs and did the whole business over again."

THE ACT FOR APPOINTING KAZIS.

THE Act for the appointment of persons to the office of Kazi, which received the Viceregal assent a few days ago, provides that whenever it appears that any considerable number of the Mahomedans resident in any local area desire that one or more Kazis should be appointed for such local area, the local Government may, after consulting the principal Mahomedan residents, select one or more fit persons and appoint him or them to be Kazis for such local area. The local Government may, if it thinks fit, suspend or remove any Kazi appointed under this section who is guilty of any misconduct in the execution of his office, or who is for a continuous period for six months absent from the local area for which he is appointed, or leaves such local area for the purpose of residing elsewhere, or is declared an insolvent, or desires to be discharged from the office, or who refuses or becomes in the opinion of the local Government unfit, or personally incapable, to discharge the duties of the office. Any Kazi appointed under this Act may appoint one or more persons as his naib or naibs to act in his place in all or any of the matters appertaining to or office throughout the whole or in any portion of the local area for which he is appointed, and may suspend or remove any naib so appointed. When any Kazi is suspended or removed under section two his naib or naibs (if any) shall be deemed to be suspended or removed, as the case may be. The Act further provides that no new appointment shall be deemed—(a) to confer any judicial or administrative powers on any Kazi or Naib Kazi appointed hereunder; or (b) to render the presence of a Kazi or Naib Kazi necessary at the celebration of any marriage or the performance of any rite or ceremony; or (c) to prevent any person discharging any of the functions of a Kazi. The Act extends in the first instance only to the Madras Presidency, but any local Government may extend it to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

PATENTS.

SPECIFICATIONS of the undermentioned inventions have been filed in the office of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home, Revenue, and Agricultural Department:—Paolo Gorini, of Lodi, Italy, for improvements in apparatus for the purposes of cremation. James Hewitt Barry, of Dilkhoosh Tea Factory, Cachar, for an improved method of obtaining a hot gas or mixture of gas and air, and utilising the same for drying tea, coffee, grain, &c. Joseph Nagona, of France, residing at Dehra Dun, N.W.P., for extracting the fibre from the rhea plant in its green and dry state. John Nelson, Arcadia Tea Factory, and William Bell, of Hurbunswalla Factory, Dehra Dun, N.W.P., tea planters, for an improved apparatus for drying tea. Henry Charles Zachary Claridge, colonel M.S.C., Palamcottah, Madras Presidency, for the discharge of firearms by an improved trigger acted on by pressure. John Porter, Pully Coon, Tellicherry, for improvements in apparatus for peeling coffee. Baldwin Latham, 7, Westminster Chambers, Westminster, and John Thomas Way, of Russell-road, Kensington, Middlesex, for improved apparatus for regulating the temperature of water, &c. John Herbert Cox, Bellary Ceded Districts, for the better feeding of horses by means of "The C. D. Compressed Food for Horses." Christopher Nickels, Indigo Planter, of Pussewa Factory, Jaunpore District, North-Western Provinces, for utilising the waste water from indigo vats, &c. Filippo Artimini, of Florence, Italy, for improvements in the preservation of raw meat. William Martin, Indigo Planter and Landholder, Phuppoond and Corara Indigo Concerns, Etawah and Mainpuri Districts, North-Western Provinces, and Sahibgunj, Zillah Kheeree, Oudh, and Serampur Factory, Sarun, Behar, for a combined plough.

LOSS OF THE "MAHABLESHWAR."

ON July 17 a telegram was received in Bombay from Cannanore, stating that the B.I.S.N. Company's steamer Madura, bound from Calcutta to Bombay, when off Calicut that morning picked up the chief mate and six of the crew of the ship Mahableshtar, who stated that their vessel was totally wrecked at midnight on June 15 on the Island of Ancutta in the Laccadive group. The captain and eight men left Bingaro on June 20, presumably bound for the mainland, and five men then remained on the island. The Mahableshtar was bound from London to Bombay with a cargo of Government stores. She was a vessel of 1,304 tons register, built at New Brunswick in 1865, commanded by Captain Fisher, and owned by Mr. W. K. Price, of London. The Mahableshtar left London on Feb. 10, and has been booked as missing for some time. The superintendent of marine (Captain Carew) chartered the s.s. Ash to proceed at once to the island of Ancutta, of the Laccadive group, to rescue the remainder of the crew, to endeavour to save the Government stores, which formed part of the cargo of that vessel, and to search among the neighbouring islands for the master and boats' crew. The commander of the Indian Government ship Czarewitch, Capt. Creagh, accompanies the steamer on her voyage of discovery in order to direct the work, and he takes with him about fifteen lascars and an interpreter. The authorities think there is very little chance of obtaining salvage, but the main object, of course, in sending a steamer is to save the lives of the missing men. The survivors state that the captain had left twenty-seven days before they did. Mr. Hawkins, the chief officer, was able to give, as far as he remembered, the following who are missing:—Capt. McKinnon, John Eustace, the second mate, a steward, a cook, four able seamen, and one ordinary seaman. Those who were picked up by the steamer Madura were James Hawkins, first mate, John Winchester, the carpenter, and five men. Those remaining on Bingaro are:—The sailmaker, three able seamen, and one ordinary seaman. Total twenty-one lives.—Times of India.

THE REINFORCEMENTS FOR INDIA.—A Reuter's telegram from Gibraltar, dated August 11, says:—"Her Majesty's troopship Oryon arrived here this morning and will land the 41st Regiment in the course of the day. She will sail hence to-morrow with the 24th Regiment, for India."

THE LAWRENCE MEMORIAL FUND.—A meeting was convened by Raja Jagat Sulba at the Bijnor Agricultural Institute, on 12th July, with a view to raise subscriptions in aid of the Lord Lawrence Memorial Fund started in London, and the following sums were subscribed on the spot:—Raja Jaikishan Das, Rs.250; Raja Jagat Sulba, Rs.200; Koer Shiam Sulba, Rs.200; Thakur Dalthaman Sulba, Rs.100; Pundit Ratan Lal, Rs.50; Babu K. C. Bhattacharji, Rs.40; Lala Behari Lal, Rs.30; Pundit Sri Lal, Rs.75; M. Vazir Ahmad, B.A., Rs.15; total, Rs.900.—Times of India.

UNCOVENANTED CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.—In reviewing the report of the uncovenanted civil service examinations the Government observe:—Four examinations were held during the year 1879-80 in connection with the uncovenanted civil service; the special test examinations in August 1879; the general test, including the modified general test, and the examination of matriculated students in spelling and handwriting in February 1880; the examination of candidates for the Subordinate Medical Department in September, 1879, and the Middle School Examination in January, 1880. The aggregate number of candidates registered for the several special tests was 4,512; of these, 4,104 were examined and 1,341 passed, against 1,131, 961, and 1,044 in the years 1878, 1877, and 1876 respectively. The result in 1879, though slightly better than in the three preceding years, is still far from being satisfactory. The percentage of successful candidates compared with 1878 shows an increase in 1879 under "Judicial—Civil, higher;" "Translation Test, lower;" and "Precis Writing, higher and lower;" but a decrease under "Judicial—Criminal higher and lower;" "Judicial—Civil, lower;" "Revenue Test, higher and lower;" and the "Pleader's" Test for District Munsif Courts, no candidate passed the "Translation Test, higher," while the decrease under "Judicial—Criminal higher," noticed in the review for last year still continues. The results, with the exceptions noted by the commissioner in paragraph seven, are not satisfactory. The languages in which the candidates passed were:—English 795, Telugu 190, Tamil 278, Malayalam forty, Canarese thirty-six, and Uriya two. No candidates passed in Hindustani or Tulu. The number of candidates declared eligible for the various subordinate offices in the public service was 1,628, against 1,262 in 1878. Fifty-five candidates appeared for the police test, of whom thirty-four passed. The result, compared with previous years, is highly satisfactory. Five thousand four hundred and forty-seven candidates registered their names for the general test; 5,145 were examined, and only 1,056 passed. The commissioner, it is observed, remarks that the result indicates "that the test is in some respects unsuited to the purpose for which it was originally intended." Of the number passed, 227 were in the "Anglo Vernacular Branch," 499 in "English," and 330 in the "Vernacular." Fifty-two were Europeans and East Indians; 972 Hindus; and thirty-two Mahomedans. The Government schools receive credit for 297; schools receiving grants in aid 473, other schools ninety-four; and private tuition 192. Fourteen candidates registered their names for the modified general test; eleven were examined, four passed, and one failed in one subject only. Six hundred and four matriculated candidates applied to be examined in writing and spelling; 544 appeared for examination, of whom 322 passed. One hundred and fifty-seven candidates presented themselves for examination for the "civil medical pupil" grade. For the middle school examination instituted by notification, dated Oct. 17, 1879, 1,987 male and ten female candidates registered their names. Of the former, 1,769 were examined, 196 passed in the first class and 854 in the second class. Of the latter, nine were examined, one passed in the first class, and seven in the second class. The commissioner remarks that owing to the late date at which the notification was published there was not sufficient time for preparation, and that it was found necessary to make the question papers easier than they will be hereafter. One thousand seven hundred and thirty-five candidates registered their names to be examined in optional languages; of which number 1,538 appeared for examination and 940 passed. The languages were Telugu, Tamil, Malayalam, Canarese, Hindustani, Persian, and Uriya. The receipts from fees aggregated Rs.65,333, the charges Rs.49,521, leaving Rs.15,812 to credit, which is an improvement on the preceding years.—St. George's Gazette.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

THE BAYARD OF INDIA.*

GREAT as was the loss to the world of letters occasioned by the lamented death of Sir John Kaye, perhaps in no respect was this more brought home to the minds of the nation at large than by the fact that amongst the works which the hand of death thus cut short was a Life of Sir James Outram. This regret will, however, be tempered to some degree by the excellent biography which has recently appeared from the pen of Sir F. Goldsmid. Well arranged, clear, concise, simple in language, and honest in purpose, the work amply justifies the wisdom of the choice which placed the historian's mantle upon the shoulders of an Anglo-Indian, who has himself earned no small meed of public approbation. The late deeds of the Bayard of India are so well known that an allusion to them seems scarcely necessary; but his earlier exploits will be read with interest. It is perhaps no exaggeration to assert that the greatest of all the incidents in Sir James's career was his pacification of the Bhils of Kandesh—a duty which devolved upon him after he had landed but a few years in India. He found the province overrun by a band of ruthless savages—aptly described as the Rob Roys of the hills—merciless, cold blooded, against whom every man's hand had for years been raised. He left the district, after an interval of eleven years, absolutely pacified, nay, more, the very men who previously had been the terror of the country had been enlisted into a Bhil Corps charged with the preservation of order; and, to crown all, a school had been established for the education both of themselves and their children. All this was the work of a single young officer. It is difficult within the whole range of Anglo-Indian history, teeming as it does with marvellous exploits and well-nigh miraculous results, to find a record of more zealous, more successful, and more humane enterprise on the part of a son of England. All honour to the great and good name of the Bhil captain, James Outram. Marked out, as was then inevitable, for higher employ, he soon made his mark in the political service, to which he was transferred. His manly outspoken language, however, occasioned offence in high quarters; and, ultimately, on the appearance of his famous "khatpat" report in regard to the prevalence of corruption at Baroda, drew upon him the censure of his Government. Withdrawn from his post in that province, his professional prospects marred, if not altogether ruined, he may well have given way to despair, but, "Magna est veritas, et prævalebit"—he fought valiantly on behalf of the sacred cause of truth and triumphed. It was during this period of depression that Outram's soul was cheered with the speech of Sir C. Napier on the occasion of a public dinner at Sakkar, in Sind. "In the fourteenth century," such were the memorable words on that memorable occasion, "there was in the French army a knight renowned for deeds of gallantry in war and wisdom in council; indeed, so deservedly famous was he that by general acclamation he was called the knight sans peur et sans reproche. The name of this knight you may all know was the Chevalier Bayard. Gentlemen, I give you the 'Bayard of India, sans peur et sans reproche, Major James Outram, of the Bombay army." Restored to favour, after being in several high capacities he won his spurs in the Persian Expedition of 1856; barely had he emerged from the campaign as Sir James Outram, K.C.B., than he was summoned by Lord Canning to India; our "best men" were wanted to stem the tide of revolt which at one time threatened to extinguish our rule in the East. How he laboured manfully and successfully during those terrible months of 1857 has been often and well told, and needs no repetition. Honours now flowed fast; he was created a baronet and made a member of the Supreme Government at Calcutta. But his health was precarious, and he was soon compelled to betake himself to England to seek that repose to which a service of forty years had so well entitled him. He came to his mother country, however, but to die, and in March, 1863, his gentle spirit passed from the region of all earthly struggles. He left, however, an undying and imperishable name, which will be honoured and revered so long as there remains in our land that love of truth and integrity of which he was so noble an example. Such was James Outram; such the man whose inner life, with all its aspirations, all its failings, and happily all its successes, Sir F. Goldsmid has so happily placed before the public.

A ROMAN STORY.*

WE have seldom come across a more interesting romance than "Signor Monaldini's Niece." The principal action of the story is carried on within one of the old palaces in Rome, which Signor Monaldini, the owner, lets out in floors, and the inhabitants of these floors form the principal dramatis personæ in the story. The author seems so completely at home with the people occupying this palace of the Naiad, as it is called, that we are led to imagine that she—for the author evidently belongs to the fair sex—has lived among them as Signor Monaldini's tenant and thus gained a thorough insight into their characters.

Camilla, the heroine, in the opening chapters is so extremely ideal that, although she remains fairly consistent throughout the story, sometimes makes such practical remarks, more especially about marriage, that we sometimes wonder at her common-sense views of life and instinctive knowledge of the world. But Camilla is pestered so unmercifully by her relations to choose a husband, when she would rather remain an ideal heroine, that possibly her worldly ways and actions may thus be accounted for. She certainly falls in love in a dreamy, half-conscious manner with one Don Philippo, and his Excellency falls in love with Camilla; which might possibly never have happened if her relations had treated her more kindly. But so it is; and although these lovers seldom meet, and for a time conceal their love from each other, the reader is never allowed to remain long unmindful that a growing attachment exists between them. From the beginning to the end of this story our sympathy is kept wide awake, and, if the end is rather startling and improbable, it has at any rate some pretensions to originality. We cannot give too high praise to the author for some of the descriptions of scenery which are so admirably and artistically introduced into the romance; they are extremely realistic and frequently exhibit a poetic mind of no ordinary power.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"THE RUIN OF AN INDIAN PROVINCE."

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—Mr. E. J. O'Donnell's paper, bearing the above title, is one of a number of publications which have appeared of late calling attention to an all-important fact—namely, that the destitute condition of a large section of the people of India, and the consequent severity of the famines in that country, are the result of the oppressive system pursued in the assessment and recovery of the land revenue. In the province to which this paper chiefly refers, he points to certain immediate causes, such as the oppression of certain landlords or of lessees holding under them; at the same time he shows, by reference to authenticated facts, that similar and even greater oppression is exercised by the Government; and he thus accounts for the otherwise inexplicable fact that, although the illegal exactions and oppressive conduct of zemindars and indigo planters in Behar have repeatedly been brought to the notice of Government by district officers and lieutenant governors, no steps have been taken to check the evil. It can be no matter for wonder, therefore, if, with the encouragement thus offered, the evil in question should have developed itself to the cruel and dangerous extent depicted by Mr. O'Donnell. Nothing, of course, can extenuate the guilt involved in such dereliction of duty; at the same time, it may easily be imagined that a Government who, by its oppressive exactions, has ruined and literally starved millions of its tenantry in Bombay and Madras, would be placed at a great disadvantage in preaching moderation to landlords in Behar. Besides, in the province of Behar itself, the Government, while managing the estates of the minor rajas of Durbhunga and Hutwa, so oppressed their tenantry that some 5,000 farmers of the Durbhunga estates, representing with their families about 20,000 persons, abandoned their farms and emigrated into Nepal; or as Mr. O'Donnell says, "sought refuge from English injustice in the jungles of the Nepaulese Terai." Proofs of serious maladministration in the most important departments in India are almost daily coming to light. Waste and extravagance have characterised the military expenditure; millions have annually been expended upon unsound, and therefore unsuccessful, public works fallaciously designated and treated as reproductive; the revenue, kept up by oppressive taxes of a demoralising nature, has nevertheless fallen considerably short of the expenditure, and constant additions have been made to the public debt. The excessive enhancements made in the land tax have caused much land to be thrown out of cultivation; at the same time, the land revenue, far from showing any increase corresponding with the enhanced assessments, is steadily tending to decline. Large arrears of land revenue are the result of each year's operations, portions of such arrears being annually recovered through the sale of estates and holdings, while other portions, due by cultivators irretrievably ruined, have to be written off as irrecoverable. Deceptive financial statements have been put forward to conceal the actual condition of things, and, while these serious shortcomings are chargeable to the Indian Government, the Secretary of State has, in many instances, been found powerless to control the course of the authorities in India. It is to be hoped, therefore, that Parliament will see the necessity of interfering for the protection of our Indian interests before new complications occur and add to the difficulty of the task of reform.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

A GAME ACT FOR MADRAS.

THE introduction of an effective Game Act or of game laws into this Presidency is a question of some importance both for the sake of the food supply involved and for the revenue to be derived from a proper system regulating the preservation and sale of game. Indeed, there are good grounds for thinking that a very acceptable addition to the State's income could be had from the game licenses, which, in the interests of game preservation, the Government ought to lose no time in introducing. In Bombay an Act of the kind is about to be framed, and in the North West Provinces and the Punjab game laws are actually in operation; but we believe that in the Madras Presidency—the Nilgiri district only excepted—whatever laws there may be under the Arms Act, or local rules, to check the destruction of game are singularly inoperative. There are three primary things to be done in establishing a Game Act for India. 1. To fix a close season, during which period it would be a penal offence to kill or net game of any kind. 2. To make all shikarees and game vendors take out a license for the pursuit or the sale of game; and 3. To make it known to all zemindars, district and village officials, that the Government is thoroughly in earnest in the matter, and intends that the law on the subject shall be strictly enforced. As regards the close season, it would be difficult to lay down any particular dates in which to include a close season. But, as a general rule, what is called the monsoon period is the best for the purpose; first, because it is known that many birds and animals breed at this period, and secondly, because it is the time of year when game is least fitted for human food. If a close season, from the beginning of June to the end of October, were fixed by law, it would answer, we dare say, all the purposes of preservation for those commoner kinds of game which find their way to our markets. Next, as regards licenses, it is well known that every kind of game, great and small, is killed at pleasure in India, and if not with guns and nets, then with dogs, sticks, and stones. A pretty stiff license tax ought to be levied on every shikaree and seller of game, and we imagine that ten rupees a head annually for those that shoot, and fifty rupees for those that use nets, would not be too much at the first to impose. It might be argued that this would be to tax the consumers of game, since the shikarees would, of course, raise their prices to pay for the licenses from Government; but a little consideration will show that a Game Preservation Act, together with the abolition of "promiscuous" poachers, must so tend to increase the stock of game that the cost of it must decrease. If the system were well worked the shikarees could pay the license out of the increased head of game, and the Government would really get its revenue out of the game, not the people. As regards the third point we think it very important that the large and small landowners and the village and district officials should be interested in the matter. If these people liked they could do much to preserve game, to destroy vermin—such as snakes and pariah dogs—and to inform the police of unlawful or unlicensed trafficking in game. There is another reason for a Game Act, which is that, if one is not introduced, game of certain kinds will diminish before shikarees and the markets created by railways till they disappear altogether. Wild fowl—as ducks and snipes—are pretty safe because they migrate, but partridges, quails, and hares have already become extinct in some parts of the country. Deer, too, stand sadly in need of protection. The antelope and spotted deer are slaughtered indiscriminately in and out of season, not for the European markets, but for the natives' own eating.—Madras Times.

THE BENGAL RENT LAW COMMISSION.

THE draft bill which has been prepared by the Bengal Rent Law Commission "to consolidate and amend the law of landlord and tenant within the territories under the administration of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal" contains 225 sections, some of which are of considerable length. The commissioners, however, are of opinion that a bill codifying the statute and case law relating to the landlords and tenants of Bengal could hardly be compressed into much smaller space. They propose to repeal, in whole or in part, seven regulations of the Bengal Code, four Acts of the Bengal Council, and four Acts of the Supreme Council. One member of the Commission, Baboo Mohini Mohun Roy, has expressed a hope that if the bill be brought into council it will be made simple and practicable by cutting out one-half of the sections and sub-sections and all the illustrations and explanations. He adds, "We know by experience that illustrations and explanations too often fail in their object; and, instead of elucidating, raise new and unforeseen difficulties and doubts as to the meaning of the text." With regard to this captious criticism, the report of the commission says, "The majority of us have not this knowledge, and until we read this passage were not aware of its existence. Our own experience has differently informed us. . . . We concur with the modern masters of law-making, who set much value upon illustrations and explanations taken from cases which have actually occurred in practice." Toward the conclusion of their long report the commissioners say, "We indulge in no undoubted confidence that, if the bill which we have framed becomes law, it will ensure to the rural community of these provinces a paradise of agricultural peace and prosperity, undisturbed by litigation and untroubled by famine and all the incidents to which the husbandman's life is especially subject in this country." But the commissioners set forth, in very clear words, the advantages which they do believe likely to ensue from the measures they recommend. They have laid down exact rules—those, for example, relating to mercer and coparceners—where much doubt and litigation has hitherto prevailed. They seek to protect the cultivators from arbitrary and excessive enhancement of rent. They have provided for reasonable instalments of rent, and have secured evidence of payment. They would give to the evicted tenant the crop on the ground which he has sown, and compensation for the improvements he has made. In the landlords' interest they provide rules for the registration of transfers and successions of tenures, under-tenures, and occupancy holdings. The tenant who disclaims his landlord's title is to be ejected under the bill—"a valuable section," say the commissioners, in a country where the person who sets up a hostile title too often hopes to support it by suborning to his side the tenants of the man in possession. Definite rules have been provided for enhancing the rents of tenure-holders; while for the reasonable enhancement of ryots' rent the bill places the executive agency of Government at the disposal of the zemindar. An auction-purchaser has also been provided by the bill. The commission urge, finally, that there can be no doubt that while it lies within the power of the Legislature to redistribute landed property at any time, in the interests of the entire community, there is nothing in their draft bill which constitutes such a case of redistribution, and that all its provisions, so far as these are intended to benefit the ryot, fall well within the powers expressly reserved to the Governor General in Council by the conditions of the permanent settlement. Mr. Mackenzie, in some remarks appended to the report of the commission, observes that in its main features the bill undoubtedly expresses the conclusion of all the members, with the exception of Baboo Peari Mahoun Mookerjee and Mohini Mohun Roy, who specially represented the zemindari interest. "I am afraid," says Mr. Mackenzie, "that the only measure likely to command their unqualified approval would be a bill giving unlimited facilities of collection and enhancement of rent to the zemindars, and curtailing as far as possible the few legally recognised privileges of under-tenants and ryots." With regard to Baboo Mohini Mohun Roy, Mr. Mackenzie writes:—"To our great loss, he only found leisure to attend to less than half of the forty-four meetings of the commission; was seldom able, when he did come, to remain till the close of any meeting; was absent when many of the more important matters were discussed; and gave less aid in shaping the measure which he now criticises than any other member." Mr. Syed Ameer Ali writes in the Nineteenth Century:—"The legislation of the country requires serious attention. It is a pity that no native Indian was included in the late law commission," meaning the commission that sat at Simla. But what will Mr. Syed Ameer Ali and his readers say about the Bengal Rent Law Commission, and its Indian member, Baboo Mohini Mohun Roy?—Pioneer.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

ADDRESSES TO THE VICEROY.—The Calcutta Literary Society have presented to the Viceroy the following address:—"My Lord,—We, the members and the council of the Calcutta Literary Society, approach your lordship to offer you a cordial welcome to our country, and our sincere, hearty, and respectful congratulations on your lordship's assumption of the exalted office of the Viceroy and Governor General of India, to which it has pleased her Most Gracious Majesty to appoint you. The society, which is now in the sixth year of its existence, was established with the view of enabling respectable, intelligent, and influential members of the European and native communities to meet together and confer among themselves on matters connected with the intellectual and moral advancement of their fellow-countrymen, and to further the cause of education in every possible way, and within its humble means and the opportunities of its members the society has sought to make the objects and wishes of the Government known, understood, and appreciated by the people as widely as possible. The society has for a long time enjoyed the confidence, support, sympathy, and encouragement of the leading members of the civil and military services of her Gracious Majesty and the élite, nobility and gentry, of both the European and native communities; and it is for a continuance of this countenance and protection on the part of your lordship that we now venture to address ourselves to your lordship. With our sincere and humble prayer to Him who rules the affairs of men, that your lordship may long be spared to extend the blessings of peace and contentment among the people of this great country by a humane and philanthropic policy, we have the honour to be your lordship's most obedient and humble servants (on behalf of the members and the council), Sham Lal Day, Hon. Secretary." The following is a copy of the reply:—"Government House, Simla, June 30.—Dear Sir,—Your letter (No. 395) of June 14, and its enclosures, have been laid before the Governor General, and I am desired to request that you will be good enough to convey to the members and council of the Calcutta Literary Society his lordship's thanks for their congratulations on his assumption of office. . . . Every effort for the furthering of intellectual culture, and the promotion of social intercourse between Europeans and natives of India, must command his lordship's most cordial sympathy. . . . (Signed), H. M. Durand, Private Secretary to the Viceroy."—Pioneer.

The Bombay Gazette, commenting on the above, says:—"The enterprising young Bengalee who promoted an address to Lord Ripon, on behalf of the Calcutta Literary Society, has got himself into trouble. It appears the society in question is only a mutual improvement society of students, having a doubtful existence, and Babu Sham Lal Dey, the honorary secretary, is 'a young lad of weak capacity, but of vivid ambition, who has been studying for sometime in the School Department of the General Assembly's Institution in the hope of some day passing the entrance examination.' Another qualification of the honorary secretary is that he was once threatened with expulsion from the school on account of 'a grave offence' committed by him in connection with his school work. The Indian Mirror says the foolish boy managed to add some distinguished names to his list of members, and gradually enlarged his ambitious projects, which culminated in the presentation of the famous address which was sent in the names and with the names of all the members, without the sanction of the council, the patron, or the president, but which was simply 'the unauthorised concoction of his own brain and of kindred organs belonging to sundry obscure native friends.' The irrepressible honorary secretary has been expelled from the school."

A PAYING COMMISSARIAT GARDEN.—In order to supply the European troops serving in Burma with good and wholesome vegetables it was recommended that a garden be opened and maintained at the expense of Government and a report of the operations be submitted annually. For the past few years the report has shown a steady increase in the supply of vegetables and also in income. The garden may now be considered a self-supporting one, as the report for the year 1879-80 shows that the quantity of vegetables issued to the troops during the year was something above 32,000 pounds, realising the sum of Rs.1,884 odd, and the amount realised by the sale of vegetables and plantains to private individuals was a little over Rs.220. The total expenditure on the garden is set down at Rs.147-11-0, which, deducted from the gross income, leaves a balance in favour of Government of Rs.1,900.—Madras Times.

THE JUDH AND ROHILKUND RAILWAY.—The last comparative statement showing statistics of the principal commodities carried over the Oudh and Rohilkund Railway is brought down to April 24. There was again a considerable decrease in traffic, as compared with the corresponding period of last year, and the traffic superintendent accounts for the falling off as follows:—"The total exports during April amounted to 463,559 maunds, being an improvement of 57,920 maunds over the month preceding (March); but, as compared with the corresponding month of 1879, there is a net decrease of 122,180 maunds. The inwards traffic under all heads amounted to 191,530 maunds, or 528 maunds more than in 1879. As already reported, the grain crop has proved unusually heavy, and nearly the whole has now been threshed out and housed, but owing to a sudden fall in prices at, and demands from, the sea-ports despatches are very limited. It is also stated that the harvest having been exceptionally dry and favourable for storing grain, local capitalists will take advantage of the low rates to renew the stocks exhausted during the last three years' scarcity."—Pioneer.

A LIBERAL ZEMINDAR.—The Lieutenant Governor of Bengal has publicly commended the liberality of Dewan Ram Koomar Singh, a zemindar of Shahabad, who has offered to withdraw all claim to compensation for damage done to his property by the proceedings of the Irrigation Department in connection with the construction of some canals and their distributaries. Sir Ashley Eden accepts the offer, and expresses his appreciation of the zemindar's public spirit.—Pioneer.

EXAMINATIONS.—With reference to a Home Department notification, dated January 2 last, publishing amended rules for the encouragement of the study of Oriental languages among the junior members of the Bengal Civil Service, it has now been notified that the selections from the "Shah-Namah" for the honour examination in Persian having been prepared and copies being available at the library of the Board of Examiners, Calcutta, these selections will be adopted as one of the text books at and after the examination of July, 1881.—Gazette.

BURMA COURTS BILL.—A bill was passed on the 2nd inst. in the Viceregal Council, called the Burma Courts Bill. It springs out of the recent bribery case at Rangoon. The recorder in his insolvent jurisdiction declared his opinion that certain persons were guilty of bribing certain commissariat officers. The recorder on his criminal side is the only judge in the province competent to deal with them, but he is committed to a declared opinion that they are guilty. To escape from the dead lock it has been necessary to make a special law empowering Government to appoint an additional recorder.—Bombay Gazette.

HORSE FAIR.—A recent Punjab Government Gazette contains reports on the Rawul Pindi and Multan horse fairs of 1880, with observations by the Lieutenant Governor. The number of first-class horses exhibited at the fairs was very large, and shows that the art of horse-breeding is making very satisfactory progress. Great improvements have been effected in the Multan districts—one of the most promising in Northern India for breeding purposes.—Ibid.

AN EXAMPLE TO BE FOLLOWED.—In the list of passengers per P. and O. steamship Teheran, homeward bound, which left Bombay on the 3rd inst., we find, among others, the name of a native gentleman, Baboo Biprodass Pal Chowdry, a wealthy and intelligent young man. If we are rightly informed, the Baboo intends to study physical science in England, and then to make himself thoroughly acquainted with European manufactures. He contemplates visiting all the principal manufacturing towns of the United Kingdom. After his return to India he intends to establish a manufactory for the purpose of training a number of native youths, and thereby to do some practical good to his native country. The Baboo is a member of the well-known Pal Chowdry family of Natoodah, a family noted for their liberality and public spirit. He is said to be an enterprising youth, and to have lately purchased about 700 acres of tea land at Darjiling, of which some 100 beegabs have already been brought under cultivation. It was his elder brother, Baboo Nuffer Chunder Pal Chowdry, we believe, who founded some scholarship in the Krisnaghur College, and gave an endowment of Rs.35,000 for the establishment of a school and a charitable dispensary in his native village. He also caused large tanks to be dug at an enormous expense on his estates for the supply of wholesome potable water to the ryots. During the late scarcity amongst his tenantry the zemindars remitted their rents and distributed large quantities of rice, at a considerable cost to save them from starvation. It was he also, if we remember rightly, who presented the Presidency College in Calcutta with that large tell-tale clock which now adorns the turret of the college building.—Indian Daily News.

WILD BEASTS.—In the Presidency of Bengal 1,264 persons were killed last year by wild beasts and 9,515 by snakes. The number of cattle destroyed was 12,000. In one respect, however, there was a falling off, namely, in the number of persons killed by wolves—83, against 152 in 1878. Probably wolves are less voracious in Bengal than they used to be, but we notice that the shikars, amateur and professional, have not shown more consideration for them than formerly. Indeed, the sportsmen have met with greater success than ever, for nearly 500 more were killed than in the previous twelve months. Altogether 5,543 wild animals were destroyed during the past year. From the statistics sent in to Government it appears that 21,102 snakes were killed, against 24,276 in 1878, but the actual number was probably very much larger. The returns relate only to the snakes for the destruction of which rewards were paid. These rewards are only given for cobras, daboias, and keraits destroyed within the limits of towns, municipalities, and villages in which the Village Chowkidaree Act is in force, and it seems that many persons who destroy venomous snakes even within the limits for which rewards are given never ask for the money to which they are entitled. The total amount paid in rewards last year was Rs.28,370.14.—Times of India.

THE HEALTH OF CALCUTTA.—The health of the port of Calcutta is not what it ought to be. Dr. Lynch's report for 1879 tells us that among the port population who live ashore the mortality is at the rate of twenty per thousand per annum; while among those who live on board their vessels it is fifty-four. This seems, at first sight, unaccountable. When any of the townspeople spend a few hours on board of a vessel in the river they generally enjoy the exhilarating breeze; while those who live on board continually find it anything but exhilarating, as the mortality returns clearly show. Dr. Lynch points out a couple of causes which, in his opinion, go to help on this dire mortality, and they are: the daily washing of the decks with the water of a foul river, and the habit many sailors have of sleeping on deck, exposed to the night air. The latter, we imagine, is a sound reason; but we do not think the former will stand the test of critical examination. We do not think the river is so foul as he imagines. It may not be—and, indeed, is not—so clean as it might be; but we do not think it is so foul that the washing of decks with its water should lead to disease. We all drink the water of this so-called foul river—taken, it is true, from the stream at a considerable distance above Calcutta. At the same time, we must remember that it is not impossible that any impurities which are supposed to exist near Calcutta may not find their way on a flood-tide as high up stream as Fulta, and that any purification this water gets is but a mechanical affair. No chemical action is brought to bear on it for the precipitation of noxious substances, and we do not find it bad; on the contrary, it is conceded on all hands that the introduction of this water has in no small degree contributed to the present comparative good health enjoyed by the citizens. We think one predisposing cause of sickness on board has escaped the notice of the health officer, and that is, the watched accommodation provided on board for the living and sleeping purposes of the sailors. Another point worthy of attention is the exposure the men endure in working in the sun during the hotter portion of the day.—Indian Daily News.

DEATH OF A DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE FROM COBRA BITE.—We regret to hear of the death of Mr. H. Denny, district superintendent of police in the Damah District of the Central Provinces. It appears that on Saturday week that officer, who was very fond of natural history, having captured a cobra, held it in his right hand while he pointed out to some friends the situation of the poison fangs. By a sudden effort the reptile struck his head forward just far enough to touch the point of the index finger of Mr. Denny's left hand. Despite every effort made to save his life, that officer succumbed to the effects of the poison within about three hours. He was a popular and promising young officer, and his untimely end is much regretted.—Times of India.

CASES AGAINST SOLDIERS.—The following rule has been framed by the Judicial Commissioner, Central Provinces, with the concurrence of the Chief Commissioner:—"Criminal cases against European or native soldiers of her Majesty's army in India shall not in future be tried by any magistrate who does not exercise the powers of a magistrate of the first class."—Ibid.

In a letter to one of the Calcutta papers a correspondent mentions that since 1872 the population of that city has been decreasing, and, with deaths in excess of births, there need, he says, be no apprehension of doubling the water supply for two generations to come. The actual population of Calcutta is 429,535.

EARTHQUAKE AT MUNIPORE.—A private letter from Munipore says:—"On the 29th ult., about half-past three in the morning, a severe shock of earthquake was felt in Munipore. The shock lasted about forty-five seconds, causing a good deal of damage throughout the country. The Maharaja's palace and its environs have suffered considerably. The famous old temple of Boejoy Govinda has been destroyed, and two other temples have been seriously damaged. A great many old houses have also been partly destroyed. Two springs have suddenly burst forth—one on the surface of a level plot of ground in front of the Maharaja's palace, used for parading and drilling purposes, another between the second and third east gates of the palace. Water flowed plentifully from the latter, while the former breach discharged a mixture of sand and water."—Statesman.

MURDER OF A NATIVE OFFICER.—At a general court-martial, assembled at Peshawur, under the presidency of Lieutenant Colonel L. De H. Larpent, on June 30, Sepoy Kishen Singh, of the 30th Regiment of Native Infantry, was arraigned for having, at Nowshera, on or about the 14th June, used criminal force towards his superior officer, Havildar Bookun Singh, of the same regiment, by discharging at him a rifle loaded with gunpowder and a bullet, whereby he wounded the said Havildar Bookun Singh and caused his death. The court found the prisoner guilty of the charge and sentenced him to be hanged. The sentence has just been approved and confirmed by the Commander in Chief, Sir F. Haines.—Times of India.

SUICIDE OF A SOLDIER.—A soldier of the 73rd Regiment committed suicide on July 14 by cutting his throat with a razor the man, Private Richardson of G Company, died before the doctor could arrive on the scene.—Lucknow Times.

SUPPOSED MURDER.—A European soldier, attached to the convalescent depot at Nynee Tal, has been arrested on suspicion of having caused the death of a native woman.—Times of India.

The death is reported from Mussoorie of Colonel Douglas, R.H.A., retired.

DUFF JUBILEE MEETING.—The jubilee meeting of the Free Church Institute, founded by Dr. Duff on July 13, 1830, was held in the hall of the institute in Nimtollah-street yesterday afternoon. A very large and appreciative audience of native gentlemen, numbering some two thousand, assembled together to celebrate the occasion, and there was besides a good number of European ladies and gentlemen. The hall was tastefully and modestly decorated, and the building outside was dressed in a profusion of gay bunting. The Rev. Dr. K. M. Banerjee, LL.D., occupied the chair. The chairman, in opening the meeting, said it was a public meeting, which meant that it was a meeting for rejoicing—Jubilate in Domini—a meeting for rejoicing in the Lord for the great blessings which He had vouchsafed, from the commencement, to Scotland's labour in the field of evangelisation in India. Other speeches were made on the occasion.—Times of India.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—At date of mail the disengaged tonnage stood at 26 369 tons. London via Canal: Rates closed very strong at £2 12s. 6d. to £2 15s. for rice and wheat; £3 5s. for jute, hides, and tea; £3 2s. 6d. for linseed nominal, £3 5s. rape nominal. Via Cape: The market closed firm at £1 1s. 3d. for rice and wheat, £2 5s. for linseed, £2 7s. 6d. for rape, poppy, &c., £2 5s. for jute, hides, castor oil, &c. Liverpool via Canal: Rice or wheat £2 10s. to £2 12s. 6d.; nominal, light, or measurement goods, £3 to £3 5s. Via Cape: But little doing. Rates steady at £1 15s. nominal for rice or wheat, £1 17s. 6d. nominal for linseed, £1 17s. 6d. to £2 for oil, guanies, &c.—Englishman.

MADRAS.

CAN IT BE TRUE?—There is another Government institution here that wants looking up. Our Vythery Hospital is in a dreadful state. Economy is desirable, no doubt, and perhaps in a great measure a necessity, when Government has such costly whims as Rampa and Afghanistan to provide for; but it is doubtful if it be a good economy which wastes human life in the way it is wasted in our hospital. The apothecary lately in charge was very well spoken of by his patients as being exceedingly kind and attentive, and doing his best with the small means allowed. But he had to leave Vythery for a short time and no substitute was provided. The hospital is full of sick coolies, and there is no one to look after them but a native in charge of the lamps, a man living in the bazaar, who, according to report, comes up now and again and does them "promiscuous." The death-rate is very large, from two to five daily; the bodies are dragged out by ropes every morning. The state of dirt has been described as awful, and the food provided very insufficient. It is hardly to be wondered, under such circumstances, that our coolies and servants express such horror at the mere idea of going to hospital when they are sick. I have not seen the place myself, so that there may be exaggeration in these reports, but the fact remains that very frequent deaths occur, that at present no competent person is in charge, and that the whole establishment is insufficiently provided in the matter of medicine and food. Considering that Vythery is in such a central position it seems unfortunate that the hospital should be in such a bad condition.—Wynaad correspondent Madras Times.

THE NILGIRI BREWERY COMPANY.—We learn that the committee which assembled at Wellington to report upon the beer manufactured at Ootacamund under the superintendence of a Mr. Bachelor have condemned the pale ale as unfit for use, and reported very favourably upon the amber ale as being of better quality than the beer issued to troops at present. We learn that the local Government have issued instructions for a supply being obtained for the use of the troops by the commissariat as an experimental measure.—Ibid.

THE NILGIRI VOLUNTEER RIFLES.—The commandant, Major J. W. Cleland-Henderson, of the Nilgiri Volunteer Rifles, having represented to Government that many of the members of the corps are unable to pay for the uniforms supplied to them, the local Government, we hear, have accepted the suggestion of the commandant that, as the corps have gained a capitation grant of Rs.1,000, the same be applied as part payment to Government of the Rs.2,000 advanced. We also hear that it has been recommended that an inspection of the corps may be held during the first week in October next.—Ibid.

ATHLETICS IN HIGH SCHOOLS.—In accordance with the order issued by the Madras Government in September, 1879, teachers of gymnastics have been employed in most of the high schools under the Educational Department, and their salaries and other expenses connected with gymnasia will be met by the levy of a small fee not only from pupils of high schools, but from pupils of other Government schools in towns where a gymnasium is to be established, or where the boys may want it. In the Bellary provincial school, which has now been placed on the list of colleges, a gymnastic teacher is employed on Rs.20 per month; it has been decided to have one on the same salary at Calicut and Mangalore, the provincial schools in which towns have also been placed in the list of colleges. A teacher is to be employed at Cuddalore, and the director of public instruction has decided to place the teachers in gymnastics in the Salem, Madura, Cuddalore, and Berhampore Colleges on the same footing, and pay them Rs.15 each. It is expected that in the schools where a teacher of gymnastics is employed the special fees will cover his salary.—Madras Standard.

MARINE POLICE.—A bill is to be introduced into the Legislative Council to amend the law for the maintenance of a police force in the port of Madras, and to extend it to other ports in the Presidency of Fort St. George. The following is the statement of objects and reasons:—"The master attendant of Madras and the inspector general of police have reported to Government that it is necessary to establish a marine police force at Coconada to check plundering by boatmen, and that the circumstances of that rising port justified the measure proposed by them. The rate of 3 annas per boat fixed by Section 1 of the Imperial Act XXVIII. of 1858, with reference to the port at Madras, has been found inadequate to meet the expenditure incurred on account of the Madras marine police. This is due to the rate being uniform without reference to the weight or extent of the boat load. The bill has been prepared to enable the Government to establish a marine police force at such ports as the Governor in Council may deem fit to do so, and to empower the Government to fix and revise the rates as they may deem expedient from time to time, not exceeding certain maximum rates."—Gazette.

THE RAMPA REBELLION.—The monsoons having set in it is generally believed that the rebels will disperse and divert their attention to cultivation. Saman Dora is reported to be in a very unsettled state of mind, as he places little or no confidence in his followers, who are gradually deserting him. It may be remembered that in a recent issue we spoke of the rebels proceeding towards Bustar after killing an inspector and six constables, and it was suggested at the time that the Maharaja of Jeypore should be put on the alert, so that the rebels might be cut off in crossing the river. This we are glad to learn was done, and has resulted in the capture of a large number of rebels who were caught by the Bustar authorities while attempting to cross the river. Colonel (now Brigadier General) Buck considered it advisable to abandon the police stations in Rajamundry if they could not be guarded by a stronger force than at present to act on the offensive or defensive, as the burning down of the Parih station clearly went to show that had there been a larger constabulary force the rebels would certainly have been driven back, and the police exposed to less danger than they had been. The inspector general of police, on the other hand, deprecates the abandonment of any of the police stations. Government concur with the latter officer, and consider that the number suggested by Brigadier General Buck is rather high, as twenty men for each police station is considered unnecessary, and, therefore, think that ten men ought to suffice for each station, so long as the station house is made proof against fire and a smart police officer placed in charge of each party.—Times of India.

RETURNING FROM THE WAR.—The Government of India have inquired of his Excellency the Commander in Chief of Madras whether, in the event of the regiments of Madras Native Infantry at present serving in Afghanistan and Bengal being relieved, he can allot them stations in this Presidency, and he is presumed to have replied in the affirmative. Since the breaking out of hostilities with Afghanistan Rampa has engaged much local attention. Two, or perhaps three, regiments are now required in that district, and, even if the rebellion be put down, we must, for some years to come, re-occupy with troops the stations in the Northern District, which for some time past have been abandoned. As every garrison in the Presidency is miserably below strength, and sentry work is terribly severe, Madras needs all her own men, though one or two stations may perhaps be superfluous. The 1st Regiment Infantry Hyderabad Contingent is at this moment marching from Lingsugur to Raichore. Thence it will come to Madras to be shipped for Coconada, relieving the 3rd Infantry Hyderabad Contingent. Thus Madras is forced to borrow men for the "Duke's own war."—Madras Mail.

THE LATE MR. BARTER.—We regret to learn of the death, at Palamcottah, of Mr. J. C. Barter, a well-known and much respected merchant of Tuticorin. He will be much regretted in the Tinnevely District, of which he was one of the oldest European inhabitants, and there are many people in Madras and the Wynaad who will deplore his loss.—Madras Mail.

BOMBAY.

PUBLIC WORKS IN BARODA.—The Baroda Administration contemplates the prosecution of certain public works of considerable importance in the districts belonging to his Highness the Gaekwar, and has, with that object, secured the services of Major C. Mant on a salary of Rs.3,000 per month, with the consent of the Bombay Government. This officer will doubtless be a valuable acquisition to the Baroda State, as it will only know how to turn his great merits to good account. We trust the gallant and accomplished major, in justice to the native State named, will try as far as practicable to avail of native intelligence and skill in carrying out his plans. He would thus consult the means of ensuring economy to the State employing him and giving encouragement to deserving natives by finding work for them in the public service of their country.—Bombay Chronicle.

EURASIAN CHILDREN.—"With a view to the proper determination of the question of the education of European and Eurasian children in this Presidency" the Government of Bombay have deputed Mr. H. P. Jacob to ascertain and report the number of European and Eurasian children of school-going age in every town and station in the Presidency and the existing provision for their education in the town or station in which they live.—Bombay Gazette.

A NOTIFICATION in the Bombay Government Gazette states that the British Government have been granted full criminal jurisdiction within those portions of land forming the Kathiawar State Railway.

NEW ACT.—At the meeting of the Legislative Council the Hon. Bazett Colvin introduced the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Bill. It is designed to amend the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act of 1876. The rule has hitherto been that all suits in which the Government, or any officer of the Government, is a party shall be brought in the court of the district judge only. It has been found that this rule brings a large number of petty suits into a superior court, and forms a needless exception to the general principle that all suits shall be tried in the lowest court which can properly exercise jurisdiction in respect of the claim made. The existing rule is specially troublesome in respect to suits by municipalities, since a decision of the Bombay High Court has affirmed that in such suits every member of the municipality must be considered a party. The present bill proposes to abolish the old restrictions as far as municipal suits are concerned, and also proposes to assimilate the Bombay law to that of Northern India in reference to the recovery of Tuccavi advances.—Bombay Gazette.

H.H. THE MAHARAJA OF KOLHAPUR.—The Maharaja of

Kolhapur, about whose condition a great deal of mysterious innuendo has appeared from time to time in the native press, has just returned from a short residence at the Nilgherries. His Highness is still in a very delicate state of health. At Puna he has been attended by Dr. Beatty, the surgeon general, Civil Medical Administration, who, in consultation with other medical officers of standing and experience, has recommended that his Highness should remain for a time at Puna, where the best medical advice is obtainable. It is thought advisable that his return to Kolhapur should be deferred for a time. Although great quiet is recommended it is yet satisfactory to know that the Maharaja's state of health will not necessitate the discontinuance of his education. The officer in charge of his Highness' education will take up his residence at Puna, and a physician of eminence will be in regular attendance. The opinion of experts is that by following this course for a little time the nervous malady from which the Maharaja is suffering will gradually disappear as he grows older and stronger.—Bombay Gazette.

POPULATION OF BERAR.—In the month of March last Dr. Little's statistics show that there were 3,729 deaths, against 7,631 births, in Berar. With the increased number of births monthly the population is still estimated as 21,86,988, which was the supposed population in 1847. Hence, I say, a fresh census is necessary. Sanitation is still defective in the villages of Berar, if we may judge from the number that fever has killed (no less than 2,260 people) in the above month.—Bombay Gazette.

THE BOMBAY JUSTICES.—A Bombay Government Gazette Extraordinary contains a "list of gentlemen appointed under the provisions of Section 4 of Act II. of 1869 by his Excellency the Governor in Council to act as justices of the peace within the limits of the town of Bombay," this notification superseding "all previous orders for the appointment of justices of the peace for the said town." Among the justices whose names have not, we believe, appeared in any previous list are:—European: Mr. Alexander Abercrombie, Mr. J. C. Anderson, Surgeon-Major J. Arnott, Mr. A. Barrett, B.A., Surgeon General T. Beatty, Mr. Wilson Bell, C.E., Mr. Howard Bicknell, Surgeon Major H. J. Blanc, M.D., Mr. T. R. Booth, Mr. R. P. Brunton, Mr. F. Chalk, Surgeon-Major T. Cody, Mr. A. A. Conroy, Surgeon Major W. Dymock, Mr. G. H. Farran, M.A., Mr. William Fraser, Mr. E. Freeborn, Mr. A. V. Frere, Mr. E. Gay, C.S., Mr. R. Gilbert, Surgeon J. T. Gray, M.D., Mr. J. Griffiths, Mr. G. H. R. Hart, Mr. A. Harvey, Surgeon W. K. Hatch, M.D., Mr. J. S. Hathornthwaite, M.A., Major General W. S. Hewett, Surgeon Major A. N. Hojel, Mr. W. C. Hughes, Surgeon A. H. Hughes, Mr. J. Hutton, Mr. S. Jackson, Mr. H. P. Jacob, Mr. H. W. Jones, Dr. William Kay, Surgeon Major E. H. R. Langley, Mr. F. A. Little, Mr. C. B. Lynch, Mr. M. Macmillan, B.A., Mr. Stuart Macnaghten, Surgeon Major G. A. Maconachie, Colonel the Honourable C. J. Merriman, C.S.I., Mr. G. W. Moir, Deputy Surgeon General J. W. Moore, Major G. W. Oldham, Mr. A. K. Oliver, Mr. F. A. Owen, Mr. P. Peterson, M.A., Mr. Clement Poole, Mr. C. W. Prescott, Mr. G. K. Remington, Mr. H. A. Richardson, Mr. F. C. Rimginton, Mr. L. W. G. Rivett-Carnac, Mr. J. G. Russell, Mr. L. P. Russell, Mr. R. Lee Sands, Honourable S. D. Sassoon, Mr. C. J. Sharp, Mr. J. H. Slight, Mr. F. Liddell Steel, Major W. H. Stockley, Mr. J. Littleton Symons, Mr. Adam Tait, Mr. G. W. Terry, Mr. C. A. Turner, Mr. A. C. Walker, Surgeon G. Waters, Mr. W. Webb, Mr. Pryce Weedon, Mr. H. J. Whyte, C.E., Mr. M. B. Wyer.—Times of India.

ADEN NEWS.—Three vessels fully laden from Marseilles—one English, one German, and one Norwegian—were lost on Quillemaine Bar in the month of May, and all the wrecks have been condemned and sold. The English vessel was the barque Tarpean of Liverpool. The Admiral Troplong, a French steamer, went ashore between Ras Hafoon and Guardafui on July 5. She was boarded by a swarm of Somalis, who, while the crew were lightening the vessel, proceeded to loot everything they could lay hand on. They rifled the pantry and cabins and all the dresses belonging to two lady passengers on board, attempting even to tear off the garments in which they were dressed. The crew were almost powerless, but the vessel moved off suddenly, and then the three male passengers seizing their guns, which happened to be Winchester repeating rifles, succeeded in shooting some twenty of the thieves before they had time to escape. M. Gilliard de Feri, the French consul at Zanzibar, a passenger to Aden by the B.I.S.N. Co.'s s.s. Java, committed suicide on July 5, twelve hours before the vessel's arrival at Aden.—Ibid.

At the meeting of the trustees of the Port of Bombay on July 15 it was resolved to separate the appointment of dock superintendent from that of traffic manager for the rest of the trustees' property. Mr. Baird was appointed to the post of traffic manager, on a salary of Rs.800 a month, with Rs.100 conveyance allowance, he finding his own house, and the secretary was directed to advertise for candidates for the appointment of dock superintendent, the salary to be Rs.600 a month, with a house at the dock. By these changes it is calculated that a saving of about Rs.450 a month may be effected.—Times of India.

THE NEW COTTON FRAUDS BILL.—The statement of objects and reasons of this bill is as follows:—"It having been determined, in accordance with instructions from her Majesty's Secretary of State for India in Council, to abolish the inspecting establishment entertained under the Bombay Cotton Frauds Act, 1878, and to discontinue the levy of the export duty on cotton by which that establishment was maintained, this bill is introduced in order to give effect to this decision. The bill proposes to repeal Bombay Act VII. of 1878, and to re-enact all the provisions of Bombay Act IX. of 1863, except those which the above-mentioned decision renders no longer necessary. In drawing the bill the language and construction of Bombay Act VII. of 1878 have been followed as being more convenient and clear, but the provisions which it contains are those of Bombay Act IX. of 1863.—Gazette.

CEYLON.

THE following items are from the Ceylon Times of July 13:—

THE WEATHER.—During the past week we had strong westerly winds and frequent smart rain squalls, quite in the old-fashioned style, and altogether, with the exception of there being very little thunder, we are in the midst of proper monsoon weather. A planter writing from one of the northern districts says:—"We have had glorious planting weather for the last week—the best we have had this year, and more like the old-fashioned monsoon weather, than what we had at the so-called burst last May. The rain up-country appears to have been general and abundant, much to the satisfaction of planters and native cultivators."

EXPORTS.—To date the exports of coffee amount to 571,463cwts., of which 531,167cwts. are plantation, and 40,296cwts. are native sorts. At the corresponding period of last year the shipments were 772,994cwts., of which 728,247cwts. were plantation, and 44,697cwts. were native kinds.

PASSENGERS.—The steamship Manora will leave to-day for Europe with the following passengers:—Mrs. Murdoch, four children and European servant; Captain J. Dove and Miss Clay.

THE STAR LINE.—The Mira of this line left on the 10th with the following passengers:—Messrs. E. F. Hopkins, H. Bevan, G. A. de Lambert, Maxwell Simpson, A. B. Braine, J. Walker, W. H. Sprott, H. E. MacMahon, H. W. Layard, Mrs. Chamberlin, two children, Miss Smith and ayah.

COLOMBO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.—Mr. J. Northmore has been elected chairman, Mr. H. Bois vice-chairman, and Mr. C. H. Symons secretary.

THE EVACUATION OF CABUL.

THE criticisms upon the resolution to withdraw our forces from Cabul, which has by this time begun to be carried into effect, by no means deserve the term unpatriotic, and we are glad to see that Sir George Campbell endeavours to remove the impression created by his comments on Sir

William Palliser's interpellation. The extreme gravity of the situation, the anxiety which for some time must await relief, in the shape of news either from Kandahar or from General Roberts, may serve as a quite sufficient apology, if one was needed, for the parliamentary inquiries and comments. Hampered as the Government have been by declarations made before the responsibility of administration was assumed, and even more by the undeniable insistence of a small but influential section on the earliest possible withdrawal from Northern Afghanistan, they can, nevertheless, find much to be said in favour of the evacuation of Sherpur, albeit the arguments on the other side are weighty. Nothing, however, can be said in favour of the attempt in the Lords to anticipate that inquiry into the causes of the disaster at Khushk-i-Nahkud which is sure to take place when the credit of our arms shall have been redeemed, and our prestige in Southern Afghanistan restored with the lost colours of our regiments. We have suffered defeats in India as well as in Afghanistan ere now, and the temporary victors have not derived lasting honour or profit therefrom. Certain it is that, when the due opportunity comes, any shortcoming of the generals and any defects in the organisation of the Presidency army which suffered the defeat, will be brought out in the fullest light. But at present the attention is fixed upon the forces holding or marching to the relief of Kandahar, and the question of the policy of withdrawing the troops which remained behind from Sherpur must be considered in reference to this main issue. The intelligence that Ayub Khan not only failed in the first hours of victory to follow up the successful blow he had struck at Burrows's army, has been followed by sufficiently authentic news that his troops had quarrelled over their plunder, the old feud between Heratis and Cabulis seeming to have broken out again. Nothing can be plainer, if indeed anything in the conduct or policy of Afghan Sirdars can be so spoken of, that common sense refuses to accept any idea of collusion between the Ameer and Ayub Khan. Whatever secret advice, aid, or leading the Herat chief may have had, his attack on our Southern Afghanistan army could be nothing else but a declaration of war against Abdul Rahman. At the least it is plainly a refusal to recognise his claim to the throne or authority over Herat and Kandahar. Our object has been for some time announced to be the establishment of an Ameer approved by the Afghans. Until that was accomplished our forces were compelled to remain at Sherpur. Once it was attained, not merely in appearance, but with some substantial reality, it was both for the credit of our word and for the benefit of our soldiers to withdraw the Cabul garrison. We are not now discussing the rival plans of annexation, of elevation of an Ameer who should be subservient on penalty of dethronement, and, thirdly, of an absolute abandonment of the Afghans to do what was right in their own eyes and enjoy their favourite pastimes of civil war and robbery. The political necessities of the plan that has been adopted seem to render it absolutely essential that Abdul Rahman should be left as soon as possible to himself, free from the overawing or irritating presence of our garrison. As we briefly remarked in our last issue, nothing but the Ameer's express wish should have detained our troops any longer at Sherpur. There have been whispers, loud enough, of the extreme discontent, caused by their long detention, in the ranks of our native troops. The continuous drain of Indian revenue is a more open and obviously pressing cause for the withdrawal, which would have been accomplished without any dissentient voice, or any harassing inquiry in the House of Commons, had it not been for the sudden change in the military aspect of affairs consequent on the victory of Ayub Khan. From a military point of view it is undoubtedly maintained by many men whose word in the matter is worthy of attention, that the removal of the troops, and the consequent abandonment of any base from which to watch or co-operate with the advancing troops of General Roberts, is a dangerous hazard. That the responsibility of the Government of India, which has advised the Ministry at home, which has approved this step, is great, is intensely felt. But it seems hard to believe that General Stewart's opinion would not have prevailed in the ultimate decision, and if Sir Donald Stewart is not a good judge of what are the possibilities of an army marching safely from Cabul to Kandahar, without the simultaneous maintenance of the garrison at Sherpur, we are unable to imagine who is left to advise or control any military movements in Afghanistan. The successful pacification of Kandahar, the march to Ghazni, and thence to Cabul, with its experience of what the Ghazis could effect, have surely proved sufficiently that he is as good a judge of the chances and probabilities as the Government of India could require. The idea that is fostered by many of the original supporters of the do-nothing policy and is being industriously spread abroad, that, in the words of a contemporary, "we shall be unable to influence the action of the Cabulis, the Kohistanis, and Ghilzais," and that the fear that Roberts's force will be "exposed to the onset of the scum of Cabul and the Kohistan" is more formidable in a newspaper column than when subjected to consideration aided by a study of the map and an estimate of the Afghan politics. There is anxiety enough and to spare while Kandahar holds out and expects the presence of the relieving forces, but we need scarcely anticipate that any serious opposition will be offered to General Roberts's advance before reaching Ghazni, and some who know the country remove the probability of attack to the neighbourhood of Khelat-i-Ghilzai. That it would be an excellent measure of precaution to have a force ready between the Shutargardan and Ghazni ready to fall upon any gathering tribesmen who may hang upon and harass the rear of Roberts's force, will be admitted by all. This would be a disposition of forces which would not interfere with our leaving the Ameer free to establish his authority in Cabul. There seems little expectation that General Phayre will be able to reach Kandahar as soon as the Cabul force. The first, and, as proverbially said, the worst, day's march of General Roberts's forces covered sixteen miles, and it is not an unreasonable calculation that he will reach Kandahar by the end of this month, even sooner than the date expected by the War-office, in the first week of September. It may interest some to know that the Quartermaster-General's Department has issued admirable maps, both of Kandahar and its neighbourhood, and of the country between that city and the Helmand. The possibilities of defence, which have been multiplied by the delay of the enemy, and the positions which will be taken by attacking or relieving forces, can be accurately studied in these maps, which, as they present the scene of the defeat, will, we confidently hope, be marked ere many days are past with the name of the place where that defeat was fully avenged.

HOME NEWS.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The tenders for Rs. 30,00,000 in bills on India were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, Rs. 24,96,000 at an average rate of 1s. 8½d.; to Bombay, Rs. 4,97,000 at an average rate of 1s. 8½d.; and to Madras, Rs. 7,000 at an average rate of 1s. 8½d. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 8½d. will receive about 33 per cent. There is thus a decrease compared with last Wednesday's allotment. On the 18th inst. Rs. 30,00,000 more are to be put up for tender.

THE TROOPS FOR INDIA.—The arrangements for despatching the main body of the reinforcements from England are now all but complete, the only exception being the uncertainty which prevails as to the day in next week upon which one of the transports, the Himalaya, will be ready for sea, as she must previously be docked for examination. It has been decided that the first regiment to embark shall be the 23rd (Royal Welsh Fusiliers), who will proceed from Woolwich Dockyard to Portsmouth on Monday next, and go on board the Malabar, which will probably sail the same day. The Himalaya will, a few days later, receive Lord Clinton's battalion of the Rifle Brigade from Aldershot; and on the Saturday following, August 21, the 77th Regiment will go by rail to Portsmouth from Dover and sail in the Sumna. The interesting ceremony of presenting new colours to the 23rd Regiment will be performed previous to the battalion leaving England, and most likely at the point of embarkation, by the Prince or Princess of Wales. The regiment has cherished its old flags, which it carried through the Crimea, until there is scarcely a shred to fly, it being loth to part with them while an officer remained on the roll who had shared their glories, but the retirement of Colonel Prevost from the command, and the transference of the only other Crimean, Quartermaster Knightley, to the 2nd Battalion, have removed the only objection to new colours, and they have accordingly been prepared for presentation in the name of the Queen. It was hoped that the ceremony would have taken place in the sight of the whole garrison at Woolwich, as did the presentation to the gallant 77th a few years ago, but there are reasons of convenience for delaying the event until the arrival of the regiment at Portsmouth. There has been issued from the Army Clothing Store at Pimlico to the rank and file of the reinforcements a frock or jacket of light material, of the regimental colour, and this will be exchanged on shipboard for the thicker garment which it replaces. The 23rd will take their coat with them to India. The men appear to be in high spirits at the prospect of active service, and the list of absentees is below the average. The great bulk of the reinforcements are undoubtedly eager for the exciting work in prospect, and it is probable that even those who escape service for a time will have to follow as soon as they are at liberty to do so.

THE silver market was flat till the prices of the bills was announced, when it became firm at the previous quotations—viz., 52½d. per ounce. The nominal quotation for Mexican dollars remains at 51¼d. Indian exchanges are steady at 1s. 8¾d.; but the Shanghai rate is about ¼d. lower, at 5s. 3¾d. Rupee paper is also moderately steady at about previous quotations.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, AUGUST 9.

THE WITHDRAWAL FROM CABUL.

Mr. STANHOPE asked the Secretary of State for India whether, in view of the calamity which had recently occurred in the neighbourhood of Kandahar, it was still the intention of the Government of India to commence at once the withdrawal of the whole of the troops from Cabul; and whether he could inform the House what arrangements, or at any rate whether any arrangements, had been made in course of the negotiations with Abdul Rahman for the security of the chiefs and tribes who had given assistance to the British forces.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON replied that it was the intention of the Government of India, in accordance with the views of her Majesty's Government at home, notwithstanding the unfortunate defeat recently in the neighbourhood of Kandahar, to commence at once the withdrawal of the whole of our troops from Cabul. He contradicted a statement made by certain correspondents of newspapers that this determination had been the result of the defeat at Kandahar, the withdrawal of the troops from Cabul having been resolved upon long before that occurrence. The House would be glad to know that the withdrawal from Cabul had the entire concurrence of General Stewart, who was in supreme political as well as military command. He read one or two extracts from a private telegram of General Stewart to show how completely he concurred in the policy which dictated this movement. On August 5 General Stewart telegraphed to the Viceroy:—"All our objects here have been attained, and nothing remains to be done but to hand over Cabul to the Ameer, who is naturally anxious to establish himself in his capital and to bring his Government into working order. We shall leave Cabul on the day fixed for that purpose two months ago. The state of affairs at Kandahar renders it highly necessary that we should avail ourselves of the present opportunity while the country is quiet." He had no doubt whatever that arrangements were being made for the security of the chiefs and the tribes who had given assistance to the British forces, but he should not think it desirable to publish them at the present moment, but they were not necessarily arrangements with Abdul Rahman, with whom it had been the policy both of Lord Lytton's Government and that of Lord Ripon to enter into any fair arrangement. He had received no information in corroboration of the intelligence of the capture of Chaman.

AN HON. MEMBER asked whether the opinion of General Roberts was in accordance with that of General Stewart as to the withdrawal from Cabul.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: General Stewart is now in supreme command, and it would not be in accordance with military discipline that an inferior officer should be asked whether his opinion was in opposition to that of his superior or not.

Mr. ASHMEAD-BARTLETT asked the Secretary of State for India whether his attention had been called to the following facts:—That General Skobelev, with a large Russian army, is now marching through the Turcoman country towards Herat and Afghanistan; that Abdul Rahman, whom we have just recognised as Ameer of Cabul, has been for twelve years a pensioner of the Czar, and an intimate of General Kaufmann, and has refused to come within our lines; that a retreat from Cabul at present is extremely undesirable for the health of the troops, and will leave General Roberts's rear uncovered and deprive him of a base of operations in his march to Kandahar; that Ayoub Khan, who has just defeated our forces, is said to have Russian officers with him; that Kandahar is in serious peril, and reinforcements can only be advanced with the greatest difficulty; that a British army has never before been ordered to retreat from an enemy's country in face of a severe defeat; and whether, in view of the above facts, and the probable disastrous effect on our prestige and position in India of a retrograde policy, her Majesty's Government will at once countermand the order for General Stewart's retreat from Cabul.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: It is extremely difficult to obtain accurate or reliable information about the Russian forces in the Turcoman country, but he believed a small, not a large, Russian force was advancing through that country, no doubt towards Herat and Afghanistan, in the same way as General Roberts might be now said to be marching towards Persia or Russian territory. Abdul Rahman, who had been recognised as Ameer of Cabul, had been for twelve years a pensioner of Russia. He was not aware that he had refused to come within our lines, and he did not think that he had been invited to do so. The retreat from Cabul, in his opinion, was not extremely undesirable for the health of the troops, because the troops would return to Gandamak, which was an extremely healthy position. The retirement to India would not take place until, in the opinion of the military authorities, it could be executed without damage to the health of the troops. The retirement from Cabul would not, he conceived, leave General Roberts's rear more uncovered, or deprive him of a base of operations on his march to Kandahar, than it the troops had remained at Cabul. He did not believe it was ever intended to keep up a communication between General Roberts and General Stewart at Cabul. Kandahar, no doubt, was in serious peril, and reinforcements were advancing. The British army was not, in his opinion, retreating from an enemy's country, as General Roberts and General Phayre were advancing to meet the enemy. Under these circumstances he did not think the execution of the deliberate policy of her Majesty's Government was in any way discreditable to the British army.

KANDAHAR.

AN HON. MEMBER asked who was in supreme command at Kandahar.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: General Primrose.

Mr. OTWAY thought there was a misapprehension with regard to the relative positions of General Roberts and General Primrose. He wished to ask the noble lord whether he was correct in saying, in reply to a question, that General Primrose would be in command after the arrival of General Roberts.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said he understood the question put to him as relating to General Primrose and General Phayre. General Primrose would be in command after the arrival of General Phayre. The arrival of General Roberts at Kandahar would not take place for a considerable time, and he could not answer that question without notice.

THE SHERPUR CAMP.

Sir W. PALLISER asked the Secretary of State for India whether her Majesty's Government would consider the question of leaving a detachment in charge of the Sherpur camp until the result of General Sir Frederick Roberts's expedition was known.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON had already informed the House that, in the opinion of the Government, it was not desirable to interfere with the competent military authorities in command in India and in Afghanistan with reference to the details of military movements. The position of Sherpur could not be occupied with safety by a detachment of less strength than 6,000 men of all arms. He failed to see what advantage would be gained by leaving a detachment of that strength in that position.

Sir W. PALLISER said that, as he wished to say a few words on this subject, he should conclude with a motion. He was aware that the course he was taking was one not generally approved, but at the same time he must remind the House that he had not unduly trespassed upon their time this session. Her Majesty's Government had stated that the decision to evacuate Cabul had been arrived at on the advice of Sir Donald Stewart. He must, however, say that the advice so given was at variance with the first principles of war and military strategy. He did not desire to set up his own unsupported opinion against that of Sir Donald Stewart, but he had taken the opinion of a considerable number of military officers, for whose judgment he had the highest possible respect, and they one and all agreed that he was perfectly right in the view he had taken of the matter. It so happened that he had studied at an institution which had produced such men as Sir Garnet Wolseley, Sir Evelyn Wood, and others, and he could say, without fear of contradiction, that one of the first principles of military strategy was that, when an army was invading an enemy's country, the first endeavour should be to establish a secure base of operations. The Sherpur camp offered us a magnificent base. They were told that if Sir F. Roberts had a force of 8,000 and twelve light field guns, and he had to march that force through an enemy's country a distance of 300 miles in some thirty days. In the course of his march he would have to pass by two fortresses held by the enemy, and would finally have to face a force of 20,000 and forty-two guns. He had not sufficient force to either force or mask those fortresses. If General Roberts arrived at the end of his march with his provisions expended and communications cut off there would not be even one man left to tell the tale of the disaster that would happen in such a state of things. He thought her Majesty's Government were incurring a tremendous responsibility in taking away the base of operations from General Roberts. (Hear.) If any disaster happened to General Roberts there would be a cry throughout the length and breadth of this land. The fabric of our Indian Empire would be shaken to its lowest foundations. This was not a political, it was a military, consideration. He regretted that political views had been largely imported into it. What possible harm could it do to remain at Sherpur for a few weeks or only for a few days longer? Could we not remain there till we knew what had happened to General Roberts? We were told that the Afghans were rendering us every assistance at Sherpur, but he feared the Afghans, even when they were friendly. The hon. and gallant gentleman concluded by moving the adjournment of the House.

Sir W. BARTHELOT was bound to say that the noble lord at that moment the leader of the House had not satisfied the general public with regard to the state of Afghanistan. A large force had been detached from the army occupying Cabul, and that army had been sent for the relief of Kandahar. There could be no doubt that his hon. and gallant friend had expressed the great anxiety of all soldiers that that army should be in absolute safety and security. But what had been done? The very moment that the order was given for that army to advance to Ghazni on its way to Kandahar you took away the base of its operations. The disaster at Isandhlana happened because the army there had no proper support and was too far from the base of operations. He hoped the noble lord would give every consideration to this matter.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON declined to enter into military discussions raised in this irregular manner. The Government thought they would best discharge their heavy responsibility by leaving the management of military affairs to the military authorities in India, in whom they have confidence, and not by attempting to regulate those matters by the imperfect knowledge which they might possess here, and certainly not by discussing the details of this movement in a debate in this House. He denied the imputation that the movement of our troops from Cabul had been dictated by political and not by military considerations. It was impossible to say that the movement of General Roberts was not attended with risk; but the retirement of General Stewart from Cabul had not been urged upon that officer by the Government of India or by the Government at home from any political considerations, but had been suggested by himself, as an operation most desirable under the circumstances. They would not interfere with the discretion of the Government of India and their military advisers. He had already, for his own satisfaction, asked the Government of India whether, in view of General Roberts's removal, they thought it desirable that the withdrawal of troops from Cabul should be delayed for a certain time, and received a positive and distinct answer that in their opinion the movement of General Stewart was most desirable. I would remind the hon. and gallant member, if it were necessary—and it had not been deemed necessary—that General Roberts should be left in communication with a base of operations. It would be far better that he should have communication with the force under General Watson at Kuram Valley than with that under General Stewart.

Sir G. CAMPBELL entirely concurred in the action of her Majesty's Government. He felt no such unpatriotic anxiety as had been expressed.

Mr. ASHMEAD-BARTLETT said that the hon. member for Kirkcaldy had remarked that history repeated itself. He sincerely hoped that that would not be the case in regard to the present expedition. Most military authorities were agreed that to cut an army off from its base of operations was a most dangerous proceeding. He had understood that the retreat from Cabul had been dictated by political and not by military motives, and it would have been better to have deferred it for a few weeks until they knew so nothing of General Roberts's progress. Another reason for keeping a force at Sherpur was that they had just established an Ameer who might require their support.

Sir S. NORTHCOTE thought the hon. member entirely misrepresented the spirit in which his hon. and gallant friend addressed the House. The observations so temperately and so ably made by his hon. and gallant friend in no way justified any remark of that kind. What his hon. and gallant friend was chiefly anxious to ascertain was whether the movement now in progress on the part of the force which had been occupying the neighbourhood of Cabul was a movement dictated purely by military reasons, or whether it was one dictated by political reasons. The noble lord assured them that it had not been dictated by political but by military considerations, when weighed with those who were responsible for the conduct of our military affairs in India, and that the Government were prepared to accept the full responsibility of the decision at which they had arrived. In those circumstances he did not see that we could do otherwise than leave entirely on the Government the responsibility they have so assumed.

Sir W. PALLISER then withdrew his motion.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY, AUGUST 10.

BRIGADIER GENERAL BURROWS.

Lord DORCHESTER put a question, and hoped to get some clear information. In Afghanistan one of the oldest and bravest of her Majesty's regiments had suffered grievously, and an explanation of the circumstances in which they were exposed to the attack was essential. No British soldiers had ever been exposed to greater dangers from a warlike and treacherous foe and a hot climate than were our troops now in Afghanistan. The Bengal Army, the Madras Army, and the Bombay Army were three distinct armies. Such an arrangement might have been necessary in former times, but in these days of telegrams it was inadvisable, and the question arose whether the army of India should now be overhauled. He believed that in addition to the forces he had named there was another called the Frontier Force, in which, if he were not mistaken, the appointments were made by the Governor General independently of the Commander in Chief and the Governors of the Presidencies. He was surprised that the vanguard of an army had been allowed to advance under the command of an officer who, from all that he had been able to ascertain on a search of the usual records, had had no military experience but that which he had gained in the orderly room and on the staff of the Bombay army. When in the army himself he felt how difficult was the position of any officer against whom anything was said when he was absent and was unable to defend himself or to communicate with his friends. But that was not the question here. He spoke of this matter because there were several brigades and divisions in Afghanistan commanded by men who had had no recent military experience and but little, if any, experience of war. It was hard that soldiers who had been in war should be commanded by such men. He put the question of which he had given notice without any knowledge whatever of Brigadier General Burrows or of the authority by which he had been placed in high command at a period of the greatest difficulty. He asked the Under Secretary of State for War or her Majesty's Government by whose nomination or authority the appointment of Brigadier General Burrows was made to command a brigade of the British forces before Kandahar; and what were the antecedents of that officer's professional career to justify such nomination to a very responsible command in presence of an enemy.

The Duke of SOMERSET wished to express his opinion that the noble and gallant lord had made an unjust and ungenerous attack on an officer placed in a position of much difficulty. Some of the bravest and most competent commanders had sustained defeats and suffered disasters, and we should all be careful how we make imputations against men in the command of troops. He regretted extremely the course taken by the noble and gallant lord on the ground that no man ought to be condemned before he was heard. It was right that there should be a full and careful inquiry into this disaster, but we should not before such an inquiry pass an adverse opinion upon Brigadier General Burrows merely because a misfortune had overtaken him.

Lord ELLENBOROUGH, having commanded the 66th Regiment, wished to say that he thought the force inadequate, but suspended his judgment as to the cause of the disaster until after an inquiry.

The Earl of MORLEY protested against the question of the noble and gallant lord as most unfair and ungenerous. We were as yet without accurate details as to the unfortunate catastrophe, and yet the noble and gallant lord, if not explicitly, at least implicitly, cast a censure on Brigadier General Burrows. On behalf of her Majesty's Government and the War-office he wished it to be understood that they did not appreciate censure either avowed or implied before any inquiry at all.

Lord DORCHESTER begged leave to deny that he had brought any charge.

The Earl of MORLEY continued: If the noble lord's observations and question had any meaning they conveyed that the officer in command was unfit for the post, and under cover of a question pointed as to one general in particular the noble and gallant lord included in his attack a number of other gallant officers. He did not wish to go into the question. Indeed, he declined to go into a discussion of the qualifications of Brigadier General Burrows. The only answer he had to give to the question was that Brigadier General Burrows was nominated by the Commander in Chief at Bombay, and that the appointment was confirmed by the Governor of the Presidency. He believed he would best consult the wishes of the House if he did not add anything further.

Lord DORCHESTER wished to again disclaim the idea that he had brought any accusation, whether "explicitly or implicitly," to use the terms so frequently applied by the Under Secretary.

The Earl of NORTHBROOK said that if the question of the noble and gallant lord had any meaning it meant that in a military point Brigadier General Burrows had misconducted himself, and that somebody was responsible for having made such an appointment. He might tell the noble lord that some of the most distinguished officers in Afghanistan, including General Roberts, had served on the staff at Bombay.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY, AUGUST 10.

THE MAIL CONTRACTS.

Replying to Mr. Cheetham, Mr. FAWCETT said that so far as the records have yet reached the Post-office the number of voyages between Brindisi and Bombay made by vessels of the Peninsular and Oriental Company since the 1st of February had been 21 outwards and 23 homewards. Of the 21 outward voyages all, except three between Suez and Bombay, and of the 23 homeward voyages all, except two between Bombay and Suez, were made by ships which had incurred penalties for unpunctuality during the time the old contract was in operation. In 10 out of the 21 outward passages the contract time was exceeded. The excess varied from 50 minutes to 53 hours 53 minutes, and the average excess was 23 hours 34 minutes. In two of the voyages, where the contract time was exceeded by 25 hours 42 minutes and 53 hours 53 minutes respectively, the vessels were detained by the Government at Suez and Aden to take in stores for Afghanistan. In 14 out of the 23 homeward voyages the contract time was exceeded. The excess varied from 50 minutes to 44 hours 15 minutes, the average being 18 hours 31 minutes.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY, AUGUST 12.

KANDAHAR.

The Earl of CAMPERDOWN, in asking her Majesty's Government to lay upon the table the papers relating to the separation of Kandahar from the kingdom of Afghanistan, observed that the state of things in Afghanistan at present interested every part of the British Empire. Some four or five years ago the late Government announced a new policy of a strong, friendly, and independent Afghanistan. The result had been to leave her Majesty's Government a legacy than which none was more difficult or more perplexing. Shere Ali, who had been on the Afghan throne, had been driven from it, and he was succeeded by Yakoub, who was now our prisoner. Thousands of valuable lives had been sacrificed in the Afghan war, a British envoy and his staff were murdered, and now there was on the Afghan throne, with the consent of the British Government and a guarantee of some kind from us, Abdul Rahman, who, at the time when that policy was announced, was an exile in Russian territory and was in Russian pay. That was not all. The town and district of Kandahar had been separated from Afghanistan. From 1865 or 1866, when Shere Ali succeeded in setting himself on the throne in Cabul, that place, Herat, and Kandahar had been under the rule of the Ameer of Afghanistan. Of the three Cabul was the most mountainous, and Kandahar the richest in point of revenue. Having regard to the fact that the Wali of Kandahar had not been able to prevent a mutiny of his own troops it seemed questionable whether he would be able to govern the people entrusted to his care; and another serious question was whether the Ameer of Afghanistan would have sufficient revenue now that he was deprived of the most valuable portion of his dominions. It was only fair to her Majesty's Government to say that all that could have been done by the way of warning and prediction had been done by the noble duke (the Duke of Argyll), the noble earl (the Earl of Northbrook), and the late Lord Lawrence. He thought it was desirable that the country should have all the information possible in respect of our position as to those matters, and he therefore asked her Majesty's Government to lay upon the table the papers relating to the separation of Kandahar from the kingdom of Afghanistan.

Earl GRANVILLE begged to acknowledge the friendly tone towards her Majesty's Government of his noble friend who asked the question. He was quite sure their lordships would feel that it would be very difficult for her Majesty's Government to go into the subject at the present moment. He had communicated with his noble friend the Secretary for India, and found that papers were being prepared in the India-office for this and the other House of Parliament; but it would require careful consideration what amount of the information asked for by the noble earl could at the moment properly be produced.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, AUGUST 12.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE.

Mr. PUGH asked the Secretary of State for India whether the orders of the Governor General of India, No. 13, of January 3, 1880, Military Department, and No. 150, of March 13, 1880, Home Department, did not contravene the provisions of section 56 of the statutes 21 and 22 Vic., cap. 106, in that they altered the terms of service and the title to pay, pensions, allowances, privileges, and advantages as regards promotion of the officers of the Indian Medical Service; whether such orders were not so far illegal and void; and what redress it was proposed to grant to such officers of the Indian Medical Service as had already been prejudicially affected by the operation of these orders, and what steps it was proposed to take to prevent their further operation.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said he was under the impression that the orders referred to did not contravene the provisions of the Act mentioned in the question of the hon. member, but he had, in order to be certain on the point, referred the matter to the Indian Government, and requested that full and early information might be forwarded to him in reference to the subject.

THE KANDAHAR RETREAT.

Sir H. HAVELOCK-ALLAN asked the Secretary of State for India whether, in view of the recent grave disaster to our troops near Kandahar, which was stated to be mainly attributable to the native troops having been unable to hold their ground after having lost nearly the whole of their British officers, and in view of the opinion held by many competent authorities that a system which leaves native Indian regiments with only six or seven British officers is not calculated to make such troops efficient for modern war, or in the presence of breech-loading arms, he would cause a searching inquiry to be made into the causes of that disaster, and especially as to whether the experience of the late campaign in Afghanistan was favourable to the retention of a system which is liable to leave native troops, at critical moments, entirely deprived of the example and leading of British officers.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON was of opinion that a searching inquiry ought to be made into the cause of the reverse met with by our army in the neighbourhood of Candahar, and would shortly be instituted by the Government of India. He was also of opinion that at the close of the war the experience gained during its progress should not be lost sight of when we were endeavouring to ascertain whether any improvement could be made in our existing Indian military system.

Sir G. CAMPBELL was understood to remark that the accounts which had reached this country with regard to the conduct of the troops on the occasion were deficient in details.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that the House must be aware that the only accounts of the affair which have reached us are telegraphic ones, which were necessarily exceedingly brief in their details.

THE EVACUATION OF CABUL.

Mr. A. BALFOUR asked the Secretary of State for India whether, in the arrangements made between the Government of India and Abdul Rahman Khan previous to the disaster to General Burrows's force there was an understanding that General Stewart should evacuate Cabul on or about August 11.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: I have no knowledge of and I do not think there were any negotiations or arrangements with Abdul Rahman Khan as to when the evacuation of Cabul was to take place. As I understand, the policy of the present Government, and also the policy of the late Government, was to establish, if possible, something in the form of a native Government capable of preserving order in Cabul and its neighbourhood, and that as soon as that object was accomplished the evacuation of Cabul by the troops should take place as soon as was consistent with the health of the troops. It is probable that, in the communications which passed with Abdul Rahman Khan, he has been made aware that the troops would evacuate Cabul as soon as he was prepared to enter on the government; and in conformity with that arrangement, as I have already stated, under the recommendation of General Stewart the evacuation has proceeded.

AFGHANISTAN.

In answer to Sir H. D. WOLFF, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said: I have to remind the hon. member, as I have just stated, that almost all the information I have received from India with regard to these events is contained up to the present time in telegraphic despatches, which are necessarily not at all complete, and I am therefore able to give very little further information. As soon as despatches arrive I cannot imagine there will be any objection to lay them on the table, and as far as I am concerned I shall be anxious that the House shall have complete information of all the circumstances of the case. All I can state now is that, as far as I am aware, the orders for the advance of General Burrows to General Primrose were given by the Viceroy in Council on the suggestion of Colonel St. John, the political officer. Those orders were given after communication with General Stewart. I have no knowledge of orders given by the Viceroy, or of any orders given to General Primrose or General Burrows, after the mutiny of the Wali's troops. The hon. member appears to be under the impression that the Wali's troops were acting as part of General Burrows's force. That was not the case. The instructions from the Secretary of State were that under no circumstances was General Burrows to co-operate on the other side of Helmund with the Wali's troops, but that the operations on the other side of the Helmund were to be conducted by the Wali himself.

CASUALTIES.

A cablegram from Singapore, dated August 10, states that the Whittler (United States ship), from Batavia for Cebu, struck on Saracen Reef, and filled with water; she will probably be a total loss.

The Kilwa (British India Steam Navigation Company's steamer), which grounded outside Amherst, has been got off and taken into Moulmein.

The Galley of Lorne (s), from Hankow, put into Malta, with high-pressure crank web broken; she would at once repair and proceed in a few days.

The Hindostan (s), bound from Calcutta to China, put back to the former port, August 11, with boilers out of order. The repairs will require about fourteen days.

The Hereward (Norwegian barque), from Liverpool for Galveston, put into Holyhead, August 11, after colliding with the Weston Hall (s), from Bombay for Liverpool. The former carried away head gear and cutwater.

The County of Sutherland (s), in passing down the Thames, grounded in Erith Reach, but was got off on the evening tide and proceeded.

Lloyd's agent at Aden, telegraphing under date August 11, 8.40 p.m., announces that the report of the steamer Jeddah having foundered off Guardafui on August 8, and that upwards of 1,000 lives had been lost, is erroneous. The Jeddah has been towed into Aden by the steamer Antenor, belonging to the Ocean Steamship Company. Crew and passengers saved. The Jeddah, a screw steamer of 1,541 tons, was built at Dumbarton in 1872, and owned by the Singapore Steamship Company, and classed 100 A1.

ROSS' NEW PATENT SIMPLISSIMUS CHIMNEY SWEEPING APPARATUS

Will Sweep all Chimneys in which the PATENT SHEAVE and WIRE are fixed, which can be done by any Bricklayer in a few minutes. It does not cause soot in the room or on the person using it, and a child can operate with it as well as an adult.

PRICES.

SWEEPING MACHINE for whole House 0 17 6 | COMPLETE for 8-ROOMED VILLAS 2 17 6

Thus for £2 17s. 6d. you have an apparatus which can be used by anyone and will endure your lifetime, and should you remove can easily be applied to your new home; no alteration in the construction of your chimneys, and unseen from in or outside; no damage to furniture, carpets, or curtains, and always at hand for its purpose; preserving soot for roses and other plants and flowers—a most powerful fertiliser. Chimney Cap, 15s. extra, for smoky chimney.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Cramp, Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manila, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was

CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st Dec., 1864.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, 18th July, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 14d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanied each bottle.

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

This Company has been formed for providing Public Lavatories, Retiring-rooms, and Toilet accommodation for both sexes in the Thoroughfares, Squares, Parks, Gardens, and other open Spaces of the Metropolis, and of the chief Towns and Cities throughout the United Kingdom, of an ornamental character, in the form of a Swiss Chalet.

The separate Cloak-rooms and Lavatories, under the charge of capable attendants, will be fitted with all necessary furniture and toilet accessories. Arrangements will be also made for the reception of small parcels, as at the Cloak-rooms of the various Railway Stations, for the convenience of the shopping public.

In continental cities, especially Paris, public accommodation of the description now referred to has been in use for some years with the greatest success.

Whilst strongly recommending the present enterprise for official recognition and public support on philanthropic grounds, the Directors, after due investigation, estimate that, taking the daily receipts at only 5s. per day, the working of 100 Chalets will show a return of 15 per cent. They have already contracts on hand and are in treaty with various Corporations and Municipal bodies for the further erection of Chalets throughout the United Kingdom, for which purpose public subscription is now invited.

It has been decided to limit the first issue of Shares to 5,000, the Directors feeling assured that this number will be sufficient to carry out the contracts already entered into, and to realise such a dividend as will warrant them in issuing the remainder of the Shares at a premium.

Applications for Shares can be made by letter, addressed to the Secretary. Prospectuses and Forms of Application can be obtained from the Bankers and at the Offices of the Company.

A YAB for BOMBAY.—Can be strongly recommended, and she is never sea-sick. Passage from Brindisi preferred, as she is now with a family in Italy.—For particulars apply to X. Y. Z., 66, Parliament-street.

A RIDE TO KHIVA

BY
CAPTAIN FRED. BURNABY,
Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 18:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheikh, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five

COCKLE'S PILLS

will never fade from my memory; and a friend of mine, who passed through the same district many months afterwards, informed me that my fame as a 'medicinemani' had not died out, but that the marvellous cure was even then a theme of conversation in the bazaar."

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, AUGUST 23, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 31; Madras and Allahabad, July 29; Calcutta, July 28.

The following is the report on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending July 20 :—In the North West Provinces and Oudh, where the rainfall had hitherto been scanty, it has now been fairly abundant. In Guzerat and parts of the Central Provinces rain has been very heavy, and a break would be welcome. In parts of the Deccan and Berar, and in the Peshawur district of the Punjab, more rain is much needed. Rain is also required in parts of Madras, Bengal, and Mysor. Agricultural prospects and the public health remain good on the whole, though in some places there has been an insufficiency of rain.

The following telegrams from the Viceroy have been published :—

"SIMLA, AUGUST 14.—(Personal.)—With reference to question asked in House of Commons, Roberts strongly in favour of despatch of force from Cabul to Kandahar and simultaneous withdrawal of Stewart from Cabul."

"AUGUST 14.—With reference to yours of 11th (Roberts's supplies), Stewart telegraphs :—'There is no ground for alarm about supplies on road. Sheep, grain, and forage plentiful at this season. Roberts has all European supplies for a month. There will probably be a difficulty with regard to tea, sugar, and rum at Kandahar; but the troops can do very well without these for a time, though every effort should be made to push them on from Sind.'"

"AUGUST 15.—No (?) telegram to-day. Cabul news. Country quiet. Not a shot fired last night at Seh Baba. News from Cabul of yesterday states city quiet. Ameer had occupied Sherpur."

"AUGUST 15.—Following from St. John :—'Kandahar, 11th. All well. Defence and demolition complete. Enemy throwing up siege works, at present insignificant; he has about thirty-seven guns, of which six 12-pounder Armstrongs; 4,000 or 5,000 infantry, 2,000 cavalry, and varying number of Ghazis, perhaps averaging 5,000. Provisions, except fresh meat and forage, abundant. News from Khelat to 4th. All well there, and quiet. Rumours having reached tribes of advance from Cabul, no general rising appears to have taken place yet, except immediately round Kandahar. Wounded officers doing well. One or more officers said to be captives in Ayoub's hands; have written to ask him. Cabul army encamped at Jagdalak to-day.'"

"AUGUST 16.—Following from Agent, Governor General, Quetta, dated 16th :—'The military post at Kach Amadan was attacked at four this morning by Pathans, who were beaten off, losing eighty killed; troops pursued enemy two miles. Telegram from Chaman last night stated letters arrived there from Colonel Tanner, Khelat-i-Ghilzai, August 12; country was quiet, and supplies in fort abundant.' Tanner says he will be able to help Roberts with supplies."—(Read in the House of Commons.)

"AUGUST 18.—Griffin telegraphs, Gandamak, 18th. Trustworthy correspondents report situation at Cabul generally satisfactory, though some slight disturbances in city. Mushk-i-Alam is using all influence on behalf of Ameer. General feeling said to be not at all unfriendly to English, except among lowest of city population. No gathering in direction of Ghazni. Improbable Roberts will have any fighting north of Khelat-i-Ghilzai."

"AUGUST 18.—Following from Gandamak to-day. The last brigade has just arrived at Gandamak from Pezwan without a single shot having been fired at the rear guard."

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 20.—'General Hughes's brigade arrived at Fort Battye, 19th, with headquarters, all well.'"

The distribution of the force returning to India under General Hills is thus described in a telegram from Agdalak :—

"A division is now marching to India, under the command of General Hills, composed of three brigades. The first brigade is under the command of Brigadier Charles Gough, and consists of the 9th Regiment, the 28th Punjab Native Infantry, the 45th Sikhs, three troops of the 1st Punjab Cavalry, the Guides Cavalry, four guns of the 11th Battery 11th Brigade Royal Artillery, and half a company of Sappers. The second brigade, which is under the command of Brigadier Hughes, consists of the 59th Regiment, the Guides Infantry, the 3rd Goorkhas, a squadron of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry, and two guns of the 11th Battery 11th Brigade Royal Artillery. The third brigade, under the command of Brigadier Daunt, consists of the 67th Regiment, the 5th Punjab Infantry, three troops of the 1st Punjab Cavalry, and G Battery 4th Brigade Royal Artillery. In addition to these troops there is an unusual number of camp followers, extra men left behind by the Kandahar force, sundry sirdars and their followers, and Hindoo traders, who are afraid to remain in Cabul after our departure. Several Central Asian pilgrims, who are also taking advantage of the escort of the army, combine to make a total of not less than 30,000 men, with, perhaps, 20,000 animals."

A TELEGRAM from Jellalabad says General Stewart and the headquarters of the army retiring from Cabul, with the 2nd Brigade, under General Hughes, arrived on the 21st. General Daunt's brigade have left Gandamak. To-day General Gough's brigade leaves, and Gandamak will be abandoned. The march so far has been altogether successful; the tribes have been quiet, if not friendly, and not a shot has been fired by the rearguard. A few thefts or attempts at theft were a matter of course, but the prophecies which had been freely made that the retiring army would be harassed along the line of its road by Ghilzais and Khugianis have been signally refuted. General Stewart leaves Jellalabad to-day, on the arrival of Major General Hills and the 3rd Brigade. He remains for a day or two at Lundi Kot to arrange regarding the location of the Khyber Brigade and to determine several important points regarding the military occupation of this important place. Mr. Lepel Griffin and the headquarters of the political staff have left by a raft for Dakka.

THERE is little accurate intelligence by way of Quetta from Kandahar, for the safety of which no fear seems to be felt in India. General Roberts' force was not expected to meet with opposition until nearing Khelat-i-Ghilzai, and the prediction is apparently fulfilled. According to the Simla telegram General Primrose is acting wisely on the defensive, notwithstanding the comments made by some on the pusillanimity of continuing cooped up with so large a force. The Herati troops must be thoroughly disposed of when caught between the relieving and besieged forces. We quote the most recent telegrams :—

"It is reported from Quetta that the Kandahar garrison has made a sortie, inflicting losses on the Herati troops. The casualties on the British side are not known. It is believed that the tribes to the north of Khojak have gathered with the intention of attacking the communications with Pishin."

"The Kakars have apparently learned that Kuch has been reinforced, and that a fresh attempt to take it would be attended with even more disastrous consequences to them than it was upon the last occasion. It is reported that the gathering has dispersed, and the tribesmen have returned to their homes. The 15th Hussars marched in on Saturday in splendid condition, fit to take the field at once. Colonel Phayre is on the point of starting for the Khojak with a portion of the force. It is reported that the word has been passed for the tribes between Chaman and Kandahar to assemble, but rumour says that their intention is not to oppose the advance of our troops but to harass our rear and line of communication. The natives have brought in the news that Ayoub is not only raising works against Kandahar, but that he is entrenching his own position, and that he intends to give battle when the reinforcing columns arrive. This is regarded as excellent news by the troops, whose fear has been that after their long march they should arrive at Kandahar only to find that Ayoub had retreated upon Herat."

"The Sirdar Mehrulla Khan, chief of the Murrees, has written to Sir Robert Sandeman and sent his son to express his regret for the attack made by his tribesmen on the railway convoys near Sibi ten days ago. There seems a prospect of at least a portion of the lost treasure and stores being recovered, and hopes are entertained that the fear of punishment and the appearance of the reinforcements now passing up daily will keep the Murrees and other turbulent hillmen quiet for the future. General Phayre, with his staff, was to have started for Khojak on Saturday. Sir Robert Sandeman follows to-day. The march of the southern relieving force will probably commence in about a week. The cavalry brigade, under the command of General Wilkinson, will consist of the 15th Hussars, the 2nd Bombay Cavalry, and the 2nd Sind Horse. The artillery will consist of one horse, one field, and one mountain battery. The infantry brigade will comprise the 11th and 15th Foot, the 8th, 10th, 16th, 19th, and 27th Regiments of Bombay Infantry, and two companies of Sappers. The Government would seem to think it had been too precipitate in ordering reinforcements forward, as the 2nd (Queen's) has now been directed to remain at Bareilly and the 78th Highlanders at Karachi. Only medical officers are now being called for, and, as the Bombay supply is exhausted, Madras has been ordered to send to the front ten surgeons and a number of hospital assistants. Col. Henderson, of the 24th Bombay Infantry, succeeds General Phayre as commandant of the line of communication. He will utilise the troops now being sent to the front in establishing a line of posts below Quetta, and two days after General Phayre sets out a large convoy, strongly escorted, will follow, and will drop garrisons at various posts between Quetta and Kandahar. A deputy quartermaster general will be stationed at Sukkur for the purpose of passing on supplies for the large force which will be assembled at Kandahar when General Phayre and General Roberts arrive."

A BOMBAY telegram to the Standard says that the Government has published an official denial of the assertion that General Primrose wished to recall the force under General Burrows after the desertion of the Wali's troops; but that he was interfered with, or prohibited from giving such an order, by the Government of India.

THE Kandahar News of July 13 says that the headquarters 4th Rifles had arrived at Kandahar with the following officers:—Col. Bannerman, Major Seton, Major Marshall, Lieut. Harrison, and Surgeon Worgan, and Lieut. Adys of the Transport. Three companies of the 9th Native Infantry had been brought safely across the break in the railway near Mittri, and have arrived at Sibi. Another detachment of the 4th Rifles left Quetta yesterday, escorting ordnance stores.

THE Indian papers received express the profound sensation felt throughout India at the news of the battle of Khisk-i-Nakhud. The Times of India feels no alarm at the position of General Primrose at Kandahar, but expresses the expectation that the withdrawal of troops from Sherpur would be delayed. The idea of complicity between Ayoub and Abdul is scouted as incredible. Ayoub is as much Abdul's enemy as ever Shere Ali was. We shall give the details of the defeat when received from India; only noting that the recent accounts give our loss on the 27th ult. as twenty-one officers and 300 Europeans and 700 natives killed and missing, and five officers and ninety men wounded. According to report some officers are prisoners with Ayoub Khan's army. The reports seem to leave it beyond doubt that European officers directed the Afghan operations, and it is stated that one at least is an Austrian in the Persian service.

LIEUT. COL. R. S. CLELAND, of the 9th Lancers, died on the 6th inst. at Murree, from the effects of the wounds he received at Cabul last December. Recent accounts gave reason to hope for the recovery of this officer. Col. Cleland entered the army in 1857, became lieutenant in 1859, captain in 1864, brevet major in 1877, and lieutenant colonel of his regiment June 27, 1879.

A COMMITTEE, consisting of the Earl of Lytton, Lord Napier of Magdala, Generals Sir Henry Norman, Sir Samuel Browne, Sir Michael Biddulph, Sir Charles Keyes, and Sir Richard Pollock, have issued a strong appeal for aid, to provide for the wants of the widows and orphans of all those who have fallen, or may yet fall, in the Afghan War. Contributions should be sent to Messrs. Cox and Co., Craig's-court, S.W., and all communications addressed to Captain James Gildea, 20, Stafford-terrace, Kensington, W.

THE Siamese Ambassador and suite, accompanied by the Consul General, D. K. Mason, and European secretaries, left London on Wednesday en route for Siam.

THE Queen has approved the appointment of Mr. F. Napier Broome, C.M.G., colonial secretary of the Mauritius, to be lieutenant governor of that colony.

CHUNG HOW, the negotiator of the Kuldja Treaty with Russia, has been set at liberty.

A COMMITTEE, consisting of Mr. C. W. Aitchison, Mr. Lyall, and Mr. R. B. Chapman, have been appointed at Simla to consider the question of Simla allowances to Government clerks, and an alternative proposal of Mr. R. B. Chapman's to keep the majority of the clerks at Simla all the year round.

THE Mahomedans in India have subscribed upwards of £20,000 towards the improvement of the Zobeida Canal at Mecca.

ACCORDING to the Daily News the Earl of Rosebery has been obliged, through ill health, to decline the offer of the office of Under Secretary of State for India.

A PARLIAMENTARY paper just issued contains a report of the discussion in the Legislative Council of the Governor General of India, on March 2, on Sir J. Strachey's motion to consider the report of the Select Committee on the License Act Amendment Bill. This reprint from the Gazette of India, we may remind our readers, contains Lord Lytton's speech in extenso.

A CONTEMPORARY states that a statue of Lord Lawrence is to be erected at the south east corner of Waterloo-place, opposite the statue of Sir John Burgoyne, to which, as regards size and effect, it will bear a considerable resemblance. Mr. Boehm is engaged upon the designs. The committee have received subscriptions towards the cost of the memorial to the amount of £3,500.

LADY RIPON will leave England to join the Governor General of India at Simla by the steamer of October 27. Earl de Grey, Captain and Lady Clough Taylor, Mr. Arbutnot, and Dr. Anderson accompany her ladyship to India. The whole party will proceed via Brindisi, and will make a short stay in Egypt.

THE Governor of Bombay presided on Tuesday at a large meeting of natives and Europeans who had met for the purpose of raising a patriotic fund. Fifty-four thousand rupees were subscribed, the Thakoor of Bhavnagar contributing Rs.10,000.

THE Bombay Gazette says that the notice which has just been issued of the institution of a patriotic fund for the relief of soldiers of all ranks disabled, and of the families of men killed in the Afghan war, comes at an opportune time, when the public sympathy has been newly touched by the intelligence of the sad disaster to General Burrows's column at Khushk-i-Nakhud. Three lakhs of rupees have already been contributed, but this sum comes from a few influential native dignitaries (chiefly in Bengal) only; and the appeal is only now made to the general public, from whom, no doubt, a free and hearty response may be expected. Of the amount already contributed, the Maharaja of Bulrampore and the Nawab of Rampur each give one lakh; the Behar Landholders' Association Rs.62,000 (Rs.20,000 each from the Maharajas of Durbhanga, Hutwa, and Bettiah, and Rs.2,000 from the Maharaja of Dumraon); Raja Madhao Singh, of Amaitee, Rs.20,000; the Maharaja and Maharani of Baroda, Rs.10,000; the Maharaja Holkar, Rs.5,000; and Thakur Partab Rudr Singh, of Sitapur, Rs.400.

THE secret understanding, if not concert, asserted by some foreign correspondents to exist between Ayoub Khan and the new Ameer has been rendered more credible to some by the denials contained in the St. Petersburg official journal. Mr. Marvin, in a letter to a daily contemporary, points out the antecedent probability of it, and says that General Kaufmann is an unrelenting adversary, who will not lose an opportunity of injuring British credit or interests. The want of any accredited envoy or agent at Cabul will leave ample opportunity for secret hostile intrigues at that capital.

LORD HARTINGTON's reply to the Indian deputation on the subject of the repeal of the Vernacular Press Act is unfavourably commented upon by all the native papers.

THE latest approximate returns of the business done by the Indian railways, guaranteed and State, so far this year, are on the whole satisfactory, and compare favourably with the figures for 1879. While the receipts of some of the lines are smaller than they were last year those of other lines are larger, and the general result is beneficial to the companies and the State. The total amount received by all the railways from January 1 to June 12 was Rs.6,17,29,230, and as the gross estimated expenses during the same period are calculated at only Rs.3,02,47,323, the net receipts, therefore, are Rs.3,14,81,907, or Rs.2,45,264 more than they were in the corresponding time last year.

THE Daily News publishes a telegram from Alexandria stating that the certificate of the captain of the Jeddah had been suspended for three years. The second mate and ten natives are reported as lost. Is there no further penalty for such criminal neglect of duty resulting in loss of life?

ACTIVE preparations are now in progress for the census of British India, which is to be taken next February, and which will be the first attempt at synchronous enumeration of the population of the whole of British India and the feudatory States. The work will be one of great difficulty, not only on account of the vast area which the operations will cover, but even more by reason of the ignorance and prejudices of the people. There has been some doubt as to what information should be required, and it is now decided to record the names, condition, sex, age, religion, mother tongue, birthplace, occupation, education, infirmities, such as blindness, deafness, dumbness, insanity, and leprosy. Hindoos will also be required to give their castes.

A NEW German grammar, by H. Sachs, is announced by Messrs. W. B. Whittingham and Co. The method adopted differs materially from any grammar hitherto written. The author proposes to teach the German language in a natural way—i.e., first to learn to speak, and afterwards to write.

With the vast increase of the metropolis and with the multiplied means of locomotion many public needs have sprung up, and reforms supplying them have slowly but surely been brought about. That the promoters of the Chalet Company, a fuller account of which will be found in our advertising columns, have devised an admirable plan for benefiting the public, must be patent to all observers of the changed conditions of life which have affected the population of our great cities within recent years. The enterprise may well claim official recognition and public support on philanthropic grounds, but shareholders will have substantial reason for expecting that the development of this scheme will carry with it a satisfactory reward in the shape of a fair margin of profit.

DURING the week ending July 17 the deaths in Calcutta numbered 179, giving a death-rate of 21.7 per 1,000 per annum. During the same week in Madras the deaths numbered 266, giving a death-rate of 34.07 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay for the week ending the 20th idem the deaths reached 363, a death-rate of 27.43 per 1,000 per annum.

THE Times of India contains the following obituary of the week:—Lieut. E. G. Osborne, R.H.A.; Capt. W. Roberts, 66th Regiment; Lieut. W. C. Astlet, 1st Bombay Native Infantry; Capt. H. F. Smith, Lieut. D. Cole, and Lieut. W. N. Justice, 30th Bombay Native Infantry; Lieut. Owen, 3rd Bombay Cavalry (the above officers were all killed in the engagement at Kushk-i-Nakhud); Dr. Burges (killed by an accident at Meerut); Mr. E. I. Eville; Capt. A. P. Begbie, Retired List; Mr. Gunesh Wassudeo Joshi.

THE SIEGE OF KANDAHAR.

A TELEGRAM, despatched from Quetta last Tuesday, states that a messenger had got out from Kandahar and brought a letter from General Primrose, dated the 11th inst. The enemy had opened fire with his Armstrong guns at a distance of two thousand five hundred yards from the city. The damage so far was very slight. In the morning and evening a musketry fire was opened at the walls from the villages situated on three sides of the town. A fusilier had been killed and two others wounded. Several of the natives had been wounded. There was a good supply of provisions water for the garrison for forty-five days. The strength of the garrison was as follows:—Twelve hundred and forty-three effective European soldiers and three thousand three hundred and eighty-six native troops besides a total of three hundred and eighty-two sick. According to a Reuter's telegram, August 18, the latest intelligence received at Simla on 10th inst. from Kandahar stated that Ayoub Khan's army in three divisions had taken up positions on three sides of the city.

THE WAR ESTIMATES FOR INDIA.

THE following further correspondence relating to the estimates for the war in Afghanistan has been printed:—

"TELEGRAM TO THE VICEROY, JULY 14.—How do you explain that during last year 5½ crores were expended beyond estimate, but cash balance only reduced by 118 lakhs? Where did remainder come from?"

"TELEGRAM TO THE VICEROY, JULY 16.—Explain basis of calculation of war estimate 15 millions, if evacuation begins October. Does it assume total withdrawal from Cabul; and, if so, when completed? Does it assume retention of force in Khyber, Kuram, and Kandahar, or Pishin, and how long? Does it include half-million batta?"

"TELEGRAM FROM THE VICEROY, JULY 17.—June military issue only 139 lakhs. Fifteen millions may be taken now as an outside estimate."

"TELEGRAM FROM THE VICEROY, JULY 20.—Estimate fifteen crores based on (1) actual treasury issues to end of June; (2) assumption that we shall have completed evacuation of Northern Afghanistan by the end of October, present rate of expenditure continuing meanwhile. On this assumption there will then remain at least two crores, which, with the proceeds of the sale of surplus carriage and stores, should certainly cover all remaining expenditure till end of March, including batta. Whatever may be decided about Kuram and Khyber, no subsequent serious expenditure probable on our north-west frontier. Kandahar prospects uncertain, but any probable expenditure there and in Pishin will be fully met from the balance aforesaid."

"TELEGRAM FROM THE VICEROY, JULY 25.—Yours 14th. Of remaining 432 lakhs, 230 disbursed in advances (in) 1878-9. We cannot fully explain remaining 202 till accounts closed, but betterness public works explains part. We anticipate other improvements, item 43 lakhs less bills paid than drawn. More hereafter."

THE WRECK OF THE "DUKE OF LANCASTER."

THE P. and O. steamship Australia has brought a few particulars regarding the unfortunate Duke of Lancaster. Between Colombo and Aden she had rough weather, the sea washed over her deck and injured some of her boats, and her passengers had to remain below deck. But before she entered the Red Sea she again had fine weather, and the night she struck was fine and clear with but little haze, and the sea was calm. A little after midnight between Monday and Tuesday, 12th and 13th ult., off the coast of Jebel Zukur, where the Admiralty chart showed no reef, she struck on a reef all round which there were twenty-seven fathoms of water. The shock was a severe one. Captain Whittle, a most careful and skilful commander, in whom every confidence is felt by all who know him, at once sent the carpenter below, who reported seven feet of water in the hold and more rushing in fast. The engines were immediately reversed, and the ship's stern run aground on the island within her own length of the shore. The captain called all hands on deck, and the ship turned a little on her port side, and her head and some of her deck went under water. The passengers came up in their night clothes, and could save next to nothing besides. One lady is said to have secured a little money. It was fortunate that it was the port side of the ship that sank, for it was on that side that the boats had been injured by bad weather. There was, of course, some difficulty in lowering the boats on the other side owing to the position of the ship, and when they were lowered the lascars tried to make off with them, but were prevented. The passengers were landed with difficulty, for the shore was rocky; and all—ladies and children included—lay down on the sand and shingle, while the captain sent back to the vessel for provisions and sails and spars to rig up a tent. But early the next morning the P. and O. steamer Australia, outward bound, came in sight, and, seeing the flag of the Duke of Lancaster at half-mast, took the captain and unfortunate passengers on board, and gave the latter such clothing as could be got together by the crew and passengers of the Australia. The next morning they reached Aden, where Capt. Whittle arranged for passages home in the P. and O. ship Nepaul, and a good Samaritan in the shape of a naval commander—we offer our readers the choice of Hutton, Hulton, or Walton for his name—gave the passengers a cheque for £150 to procure clothes. It is this that the owners of the Ducal Line must have undertaken to reimburse. A Mr. Stevens, a Bengal civilian, and another, a passenger to Australia, gave to individual passengers such help in money as was in their power at that place. We are sorry to hear that the loss of some of the passengers of the Duke of Lancaster was rather heavy in money and jewellery. They then went ashore, and put up in the Hotel de l'Europe, and the Australia came on her way, and Capt. Whittle returned to the wreck to try and save some of the cargo and luggage. It is a matter of surprise and regret that a reef known to the captains of the P. and O. ships should not be marked in the chart of the Admiralty.—Times of India.

BRIGADIERS GENERAL.

ACTING upon the understanding that the Bengal troops would shortly be released from duty in Afghanistan, the Commander in Chief has been rearranging the posts of his brigadiers general. His Excellency has approved of the following transfers and postings:—1. Brigadier General H. T. Macpherson, C.B., V.C. (who before proceeding on field service held the command of the Rawul Pindi Brigade, to which Brigadier General Massy has since been posted), is transferred to the Presidency district, vice Brigadier General Sir C. Ross, K.C.B., whose tenure of command has expired. Brigadier General Macpherson will retain his command in Afghanistan so long as his services are required, and the senior officer in the Presidency district will officiate in the command there until Brigadier General Macpherson joins. 2. Brigadier General A. H. Cobbe, C.B., is transferred from the Agra Brigade to the Saugor district, vice Major General H. R. Browne, whose tenure of command has expired. 3. Brigadier General J. I. Murray, C.B., is transferred from the Mooltan Brigade to the Rohilcund district, vice Major General J. E. Michell, C.B., who vacates on promotion. Brigadier General Murray will continue to officiate in the command of the Lahore Division until relieved, and the command of the Rohilcund district will be exercised by the senior officer present until Brigadier General Murray arrives. 4. Brigadier General R. J. Hughes, half pay, late 63rd Foot, who has been brought on the brigade staff, vice Major General H. R. Browne, is posted to the Mooltan Brigade, vice Brigadier General Murray, transferred. Brigadier General Hughes will continue in command of a brigade in Afghanistan so long as his services are required, and the senior officer at Mooltan will continue to officiate in the command there until Brigadier General Hughes arrives. 5. Brigadier General C. R. O. Evans, Royal Artillery, who has been brought on the brigade staff, vice Major General J. E. Michell, is posted to the Agra Brigade in place of Brigadier General Cobbe, transferred. Major J. Jopp, assistant quartermaster general, Puna Division, has been transferred to the Reserve Division, Kandahar Field Force. The question of the rights of the Presidential Staff Corps is engaging much attention, but no public steps have yet been taken with reference to the proposed Staff Officers' Defence Fund. Bombay officers, on furlough or retired, will be pleased to learn that Sir James Fergusson has re-appointed Subadar Shaik Cassim, who was for a long time a member of Sir Richard Temple's staff, as aide de camp to his Excellency. Facilities are to be afforded to officers on service to be examined in Persian, a language which every young man intending to join the Indian Staff Corps ought to make up his mind to acquire.—Times of India.

MR. O'DONNELL'S PAMPHLET AND THE INDIGO PLANTERS.

THE Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, who is now on a tour of inspection in Behar, received at Mozufferpore on the 10th inst. a deputation of indigo planters, who presented an address, complaining of certain statements regarding their body contained in a pamphlet in the form of a letter to Lord Hartington, recently published by a junior member of the Bengal Civil Service. These statements, which charge the planting community with a high-handed defiance of authority, lawlessness, rack-renting of their tenants, and so on, they met with an indignant denial, and they asserted that the writer had exaggerated the facts and suppressed the truth. Sir A. Eden, in reply, said he was not surprised that the planters should have hastened to protest against the statements of a very junior and a very inexperienced subordinate officer of the Government. He regretted that so much importance had been given to the paper. Had the matter come up, as it ought to have done, through the ordinary channels, it would have at once been shown that the statements of this young officer were inaccurate. His views were hasty and crude and his motives were open to question; but it would not have answered the purpose of the writer to submit his statements to the test of experience and responsible criticism before he made an attempt to excite public indignation against those against whom his remarks were obviously levelled. It was true that great abuses had existed in indigo planting, but during the past years the planters had been making strenuous efforts at reform, and the reports of the district officers showed that much had been done to place the industry on a sound footing. In attempting to lead the public to believe that nothing had been done to remove the abuses since 1877, the writer of the pamphlet must have either intentionally misrepresented the truth or shown himself so ignorant of the subject as to disentitle his remarks to a moment's consideration. His honour said, in conclusion, that when the proper time came the planters would have the fullest opportunities of replying to the calumnies published.

The administration report on the Patna Division for 1879-80 affords a striking answer to some allegations in Mr. O'Donnell's recently-published pamphlet, "Ruin of an Indian Province." The Divisional Commissioner thus states his general conclusions as to the material condition of the people:—

"I have made unusually full quotations from the district and subdivisional reports, because they seem to me to show, in spite of considerable variations of opinion, that the keenest and closest observers discern a decided improvement in the condition of the people, and this coincides with the result of my own observations. Of course, in dealing with so large and complex a subject as this there is great danger in making untrustworthy generalisations from insufficient data, and the difference so often found in tracts neighbouring to one another warns us of the folly of making sweeping statements to cover all the facts of an area so great and varied as that of Behar. Still, while keeping these considerations fully in view, I can state with some confidence that all the available evidence seems to point to a steady improvement in the material condition of the people throughout the division. In some places this improvement may be scarcely appreciable, and in most it may be slow, but in others, again, it is well marked and comparatively rapid. I would ascribe this mainly to the improvement of the communications, but I think it also in some measure due to the gradual, but very real, awakening of intelligence among all classes."

The Lieutenant Governor, in his remarks on the report, expresses a hope that there are really symptoms of amelioration in the State of Behar, though it may be long before the condition of the province becomes thoroughly satisfactory. Forces are, however, he says, undoubtedly at work that must in time bring about a decided change. Education, trade, the railways, and the canals are producing their natural effect.—Times Telegram.

THE NAGA HILLS EXPEDITION.

"In conclusion, it is my pleasing duty to bring to his Excellency's notice the praiseworthy services rendered by the troops engaged, namely, the 42nd, 43rd, 44th Native Infantry; and, latterly, the 18th Native Infantry. Officers and men deserve my warmest commendations for the soldier-like and ready way in which they have invariably done their duty, and for the patience with which they have endured hardships and privations of no common kind. The work throughout has been of an exceptionally arduous nature, chiefly owing to the very difficult country in which we have had to operate; and all ranks have worked well and willingly throughout. But I must bring to his Excellency's special notice the very valuable services performed by the 44th Regt. (Sylhet Light Infantry). The part taken by them in the capture of Konoma on Nov. 22 last has already received Sir F. Haines's approbation; and from the long list of their casualties (which have been greatly in excess of those of other regiments engaged) it will be apparent that in all operations the 44th always took a prominent part; and to both officers and men of this gallant regiment I beg to express my sincerest thanks. In addition to the officers mentioned in my letter of the 23rd December last I beg most strongly to recommend to his Excellency's consideration my personal staff. Major Evans, officiating deputy assistant adjutant general, has at all times afforded me the most valuable assistance, and has proved himself a very efficient staff officer. Major Evans's rapid move from Dibrugarh to the relief of Kohima has been already specially reported to his Excellency; and, had he only received two days' earlier notice than he did, he would have run Colonel Johnstone and the Manipur troops very close in the honour of relieving the garrison. Captain Macgregor, deputy assistant quartermaster general, is a very hard working officer, and, from his previous knowledge of the Naga Hills, was of great assistance to me. He was always ready, and volunteered for any duty that was of a particularly arduous nature; and he made some very trying marches through the hills to obtain me information. Lieutenant Wingate, the only commissariat officer with the force, also did excellent service under most trying transport difficulties, and has my best thanks. To Surgeon O'Brien, 44th Native Infantry, is due great praise for the admirable arrangements that were at all times made for the large number of sick and wounded throughout the operations, and I beg to recommend him to his Excellency. The great political abilities displayed by Captain Williamson, the chief political officer with the force, have gained my greatest admiration, and will, I feel sure, be duly acknowledged; but as in addition to his civil duties he invariably accompanied any force that took the field, it was more due to his personal knowledge of the hills and tribes that success attended our operations than from information obtained elsewhere, and therefore I beg to most specially recommend him to his Excellency's favourable notice; as also Lieutenant Maxwell, his most able assistant, who was wounded in two places at the attack on the village of Sephima in November last."

NOMINAL RETURN OF CASUALTIES OF THE NAGA HILLS FIELD FORCE DURING THE OPERATIONS FROM OCT. 14, 1879, TO APRIL 22, 1880.—Staff—Major C. R. Cock, gunshot wound (since dead), on Nov. 22, 1879, at Konoma; and Lieut. H. St. P. Maxwell, two slight gunshot wounds, on Nov. 16, 1879, at Sephima; 44th N.I.—Col. J. M. Nuttall, C.B., slight gunshot wound; Lieut. R. K. Bridgeway, severe gunshot wound; and Lieut. H. H. Forbes, spear wound (since dead), on Nov. 22, 1879, at Konoma.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—Your article in your paper of the 9th inst. shows how the question of preserving millions of souls from death by famine is forgotten amid the din of arms. A fault in our national character is to overlook dangers until we are likely to be overwhelmed by them, and the Madras famine is an instance of this. If Government had taken the alarm when the public did, in August, 1876, millions of lives would probably have been saved; with boundless sources there was no reason for our failing to introduce temporarily a systematic poor law into India. From the beginning of the year 1876 merchants had been importing large quantities of food into Madras. From the district of Ganjam alone 500,000 bags of rice had been shipped to Madras. In August the public mind was much disturbed by reports of prevailing distress, but what did Government do? In the official papers there is no trace of it having done anything to relieve distress between July and October. Towards the end of October prices of corn rose to double and even treble the ordinary rates, and famine at one attacked impoverished millions. Let us consider for one moment the state of the labour market in India. In some districts a labourer can only earn 4lb. of coarse food in a day. In England an uneducated and unskilled labourer can earn nearly 20lb. of good wheaten bread in a day. Out of 4lb. of bajra for himself and family a man is unable to save anything, and, when thrown out of employment by failure of crops, starves more or less quickly. "I have fasted for three days" is a common expression among the poor. Under these circumstances hungry multitudes see long lines of railway trains carrying away the food of which they are in such urgent need. Of what use is it to tell them that Government is making wonderful preparations for relieving their distress, and is going to expend crores of rupees with this object? Their simple reply will be—"Under native Governments all exportation of food would be prohibited, and, under a rich British Government, why is the exported food not purchased on the spot and distributed? What is the use of the cumbrous machinery by which grand purchases of corn beyond the seas are made? Before such corn can reach us we shall be dead and burnt, or our carcases will have been eaten by jackals and vultures." The natives will also say—"In former times the land of India was devoted to the production of food crops: now the best land is taken up by Government or by private individuals for the cultivation of the poppy, of cotton, of jute, and of indigo, which the great British nation requires." Whatever the intentions of the Government may have been, the effect of its measures has been to enslave the nation; the peasant, who is forced by hunger to labour in the cotton fields, sooner or later starves when thrown out of employment; and the peasant proprietors have been consigned to the tender mercies of usurers, who have no interest in keeping alive the men whose land has been appropriated by themselves. And what do the merchants say?—"The Government tried to throw the entire risk upon us; it delayed till the last moment to buy the corn which we at great expense had imported. It established a system of pretended secrecy, by which those in the confidence of Government and others made fortunes, while the rest of the mercantile community were perplexed by the variety of rumours spread abroad by grain speculators." In page 33 of vol. 1 of Digby's "History of the Famine" I read that the rumours of secret purchases by Government were magnified ten times, and that, instead of 30,000 tons, 300,000 tons were supposed to have been secretly bought. How could an honest merchant manage his grain trade under such circumstances? His only chance was to pay for information, and then he found that the railway would not carry his corn at the prescribed rates, so he had again to make presents before he could get his property transported. Circumlocution offices are not the proper means of administering the affairs of India. Mr. James Caird and Mr. H. E. Sullivan (page 64 of the Famine Report) have shown how the absence of due preparation led to frightful confusion, wasteful expenditure, and untold misery and death. Our famines in India are caused by the general and chronic poverty of the labouring classes, and not by want of corn. The two commissioners recorded, in page 66—"Already their wages bear a less proportion to the price of food than in any country of which we have knowledge."—Your obedient servant,

"THE RUIN OF AN INDIAN PROVINCE."

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—Referring to my letter of the 11th on Mr. O'Donnell's paper bearing the above title, I find in yesterday's Times a Calcutta telegram, in which the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal is reported to have said that Mr. O'Donnell's statements were inaccurate; but this cannot apply to all the statements in his paper, since his Honour added:—"It is true that great abuses existed in indigo planting, but during the past three years the planters have been making strenuous efforts at reform." Moreover, the charges of supineness and of great oppression exercised in the estates of wards, which are brought against the Supreme Government of India are neither refuted nor even denied. His Honour certainly denied that "nothing had been done to remove the abuses since 1877;" but this might refer to his own admonitions to zemindars and planters, at all events, it seems insufficient to exonerate the Government of India from the abovementioned serious charges which are directly brought against it.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant, Edinburgh, August 17.

ASSAM AND EMIGRATION.

THE tea-planters have been troubling the Government of India regarding the immigration question, and thus it is that that Government has had its eyes opened to the fact that there is room in Assam for the whole surplus population of India, provided that surplus population can only be persuaded to pack up bag and baggage and betake itself to a region where it will find plenty of breathing space. We are told that the investigations of the Famine Commission have stimulated discussion upon over-population of some parts of India, and that it has been urged there "are no sufficient outlets for the normal increase of numbers; that in many localities the class of landless labourers tends to grow; and that the Government should intervene to promote emigration from densely-peopled regions to those where population is sparse." Already State emigration to Burma has been tried, but with little success; whether it is owing to the dislike of the people generally to leave the districts in which they have been reared, or to other causes, it is difficult to say with any great degree of confidence, but the fact is well known that emigration on an extensive scale does not take place. When the matter is fully inquired into by the commission that is to be appointed to visit the various recruiting districts the real truth as to why the people do not gladly avail themselves of the opportunity offered them to emigrate will probably be ascertained. There is one great reason—the poverty of the people—which we think all will admit to be too palpable. Those who emigrate from this country are invariably very poor. They have no capital of their own, so that they naturally refuse to go to places where their labour will not be in demand. The coffee-planters of Ceylon find no great difficulty in obtaining as much labour as they require from South India, and tea-planters of Assam will be in nearly as good a position. Why is this? We believe it is altogether due to the fact that there are capitalists settled in the places named who are not only ready and willing to employ all who choose to work, but who actually bear the cost of the passages of such labourers. A man going to a country, like many portions of Assam and Burma, without capital, goes to certain starvation, except he be ready to labour as a cooly. He cannot cultivate the land for himself, since he has no resources to support himself and his family until such time as he can grow certain crops. If, then, he cannot at once meet with employment when he gets there, he must starve. If all the immigrants of Assam and Burma carried with them enough money to support them until they could get a certain area of land under cultivation, the case would be entirely altered. Now, if we read aright the letter of the Government of India to the Chief Commissioner of Assam, this point has been overlooked in the previous experiments that have been made to get rid of the surplus population of India. "Assam, a country of bounteous rainfall, with a fertile and vigorous soil, apart from its special claims as a tea-producing province, labours under serious disadvantages from the scarcity of population and the need for a much greater supply of labour for its ordinary wants." This we fully endorse, but labourers by the million would not do much good in Assam or anywhere else unless capital accompanied them or was already there. At the same time, we think the Governor General in Council is acting most wisely in inviting attention to the question of extending free emigration into Assam, "not only in view to increase the supply of labour on the tea plantations, but also equally with the object of settling emigrants as cultivators on available land." The Government asserts publicly, on the strength of the reports in its possession, that free emigration to Assam is not only practicable but successful; that it is gradually extending, and that it is not attended with any grave risks. Thus, then, we have here a partial solution of that great problem which has been troubling the heads of our country for years back. Can this free emigration into Assam be developed and extended? If so, no doubt, the Government of India would be justified in the eyes of all men in sanctioning the expenditure of money to secure such a greatly to be desired result. The Government of India does not lose sight of the fact that none of the safeguards for the protection of the labourer must be relaxed, at least for the years immediately following his arrival in a strange land.—Madras Times.

The advocates for the extension of the period of service of labourers engaged for the tea districts from three to five years appear to have overlooked a very important point. Section 492 of the Indian Penal Code, which appears to be the only section under which a coolie's breach of contract of service can be punished, lays down—"Whoever, being bound by lawful contract in writing to work for another person as an artificer, workman, or labourer, for a period of not more than three years, at any place within British India to which, by virtue of the contract, he has been, or is to be, conveyed, at the expense of such other, voluntarily deserts the service of that other during the continuance of such contract, or, without reasonable cause, refuses to perform the service which he has contracted to perform, such service being reasonable and proper service, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding one month, or with fine not exceeding double the amount of such expense, or with both, unless the employer have ill treated him or neglected to perform the contract on his part." If the extension of the term of service to five years involved inability to criminally enforce the contract the benefit derived would be at most problematical. Section 2 of the Code provides that every person shall be liable to punishment under this code, and not otherwise, for every act or omission contrary to the provision thereof of which he shall be guilty, &c., so we do not see how a five years' contract can be criminally enforced. The matter is, we deem, worthy of the most serious consideration, alike from those embarked in the tea enterprise and from Government. There is no doubt that the shortness of the period of service operates most unfavourably and heavily handicaps an industry, the ultimate success or failure of which may depend on the decision of this very question, and whose present condition is one of the gravest anxiety to all concerned. The Government would do well to ponder over the concluding words of the Calcutta telegram, which appeared in the Times of June 14, which do not exaggerate by one iota the gravity of the situation.—Englishman.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

DEATH OF A MISSIONARY.—Intelligence in the shape of a telegram from Calcutta has been received by the directors of the London Missionary Society containing the announcement of the death of the Indian missionary, the Rev. M. A. Sherring, M.A., LL.B., of Benares. He was the author of the following works:—"The Indian Church during the Rebellion," "The Sacred City of the Hindus," "The Tribe Castes of India as represented in Benares," and "The History of Protestant Missions in India." He married a daughter of the Indian missionary, the late Rev. R. Cotton Mather, LL.D., whom he leaves a widow. The deceased was in the fifty-fifth year of his age.—Daily News.

DESTRUCTION OF WILD ANIMALS IN 1879.—The number of wild animals destroyed was 5,543, against 4,650 in 1878. The increase is most noticeable under the heads of "Wolves" and "Other Animals." The number of wolves killed rose from 919 in 1878 to 1,466 in 1879; and the number of "Other Animals," i.e., animals other than tigers, leopards, bears, wolves, and hyenas, from 1,613 in 1878 to 9,914 in 1879. In the Bhagulpore division alone, 1,031 wolves were killed, against 377 in 1878. This great increase is explained by the arrival in the district of Monghyr of a large number of professional shikarees from Gya and other neighbouring districts, who killed the animals merely for the sake of reward. The number of snakes destroyed is 21,102, against 24,276 in 1878, the decrease being most marked in the Bhagulpore division, where the number fell from 8,649 in 1878 to 4,220 in 1879. No explanation of this decrease has been given. The returns for Calcutta and the districts of Manbhoom, Dinagepore, and Julpigoree are blank, and those for Rungpore, the suburbs of Calcutta, Darjiling, and Lohardugga give one, three, four, and ten respectively as the number of snakes destroyed. The returns of snakes brought in for reward do not, however, afford any indication of the number actually destroyed. Rewards are only given for cobras, daboias, and keraits destroyed within the limits of any town, municipality, or village in which the Village Chowkedares Act is in force, and many persons who destroy venomous snakes, even within the limits for which rewards are granted, do not claim the small rewards to which they are entitled. The total amount paid in rewards was Rs.28,370-14 against Rs.23,583-7 in 1878. Of this sum, Rs.24,929-11 was paid for the destruction of wild animals against Rs.18,971 in 1878, and Rs.3,441-3 for the destruction of snakes against Rs.4,612-7-6 in 1878. Of the total amount paid for the destruction of snakes, Rs.559-13 was contributed by municipalities. No reward was paid in the suburbs of Calcutta. In the districts of Howrah and Bogra the amount of reward paid was below Rs.10. The largest amount of reward was paid in the Bhagulpore division.—Government Gazette.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—At date of mail the disengaged tonnage in port stood at 29,399 tons. London via Canal: The market closed quiet, but steady, at £2 15s. for wheat; £3 2s. 6d. to £3 5s. for jute; at £3 5s. to £3 10s. hides and tea; linseed nominal. Viâ Cape: The market closed firm at £2 5s. nominal for rice and wheat, £2 7s. 6d. for linseed, £2 10s. for rape and poppy, £2 7s. 6d. for jute, £2 7s. 6d. to £2 10s. for light and for measurement goods. Liverpool via Canal: No inquiry for tonnage; quotations nominal at £2 12s. 6d. to £2 15s. for rice or wheat, and £3 5s. for light or measurement goods. Viâ Cape: More inquiry and more business doing. Saltpetre at £1 17s. 6d., wheat at £2, linseed and jute at £2 5s., gunnies and oil at £2 7s. 6d.—Englishman.

POTATOES.—With a view to introduce the cultivation of potatoes of a better species at Darjiling than those generally found in Lower Bengal, and to encourage the cultivation amongst the hillmen, a proposition has been made by the Government of Bengal to lease a plot of land on the hills for the purpose. Dr. King, superintendent of the Botanical Gardens, has been requested to make the necessary arrangements and to import potato seed from England and Australia. The sum of Rs.2,000 has been placed at his disposal.—Indian Daily News.

MUSSOORIE AND THE MONSOON.—On July 13 Mussoorie had had fourteen hours of rain consecutively, and had gauged forty-six inches. The result of this state of things in the hills has been that bridges have been carried away, roads damaged, streams flooded, and a general discomfort. Kangra has been particularly unfortunate. First, its post was delayed for twenty-four hours; then, the Ool-bridge was carried away, and for five days the daks accumulated on the wrong side of the stream.—Indian Daily News.

BHOOTAN AND THIBET.—We understand from the Bhooteas that the quarrel which existed between Bhootan and Thibet is in a fair way of being amicably adjusted. We have not, however, heard how this happy result has been attained. Our information goes on to say that the Deb Raja—i.e., the head of the Executive Government of Bhootan, who was elected to his office only last year, died recently, and that his successor has not yet been elected. Probably this may have something to do with the resumption of friendly feelings between the two countries.—Darjiling News.

THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATIONS.—It is satisfactory to find from the report published in the Calcutta Gazette that the Government cinchona plantations in British Sikkim continued to flourish. Nearly three quarters of a million of young trees, covering an area of about 196 acres, were planted out, of which 644,222 were of Succirubra. The efforts made to propagate the Calisaya and hybrid varieties have at last begun to bear fruit. Of the hybrid species, 39,400 were planted during the year at Mungpoo, and 36,680 at Sittong, and of Calisaya 12,782 were planted out at the latter plantation. The nursery stock of all three kinds has also been kept up, the year ending with a total of 16,000 stock plants and 403,000 young ones. The entire produce of the plantations for the year was 361,590lb. of dry bark against 261,659lb. in 1878-79; of this, 29,520lb. were yellow and the rest red bark. The new plantation of Sittong grew its first crop during the year, and, of the bark gathered, 15,850lb. represented the yield of that plantation. The aggregate yield of bark in former years amounted to 1,134,901lb. so that the total produce of the plantations since their opening, including the crop of the past year, has been 1,496,491lb. In accordance with the orders of the Government of India, 14,240lb. of the yellow or Calisaya bark was sent to England for sale towards the close of the year; but, as Mr. Gammie has now succeeded in making sulphate of quinine of excellent quality from his bark, it will probably not be desirable to send any more away. The total outturn of the febrifuge factory for the year was 9,434lb. 13oz. against 7,007lb. in the previous year. 2,757lb. 8oz. of the febrifuge was sold to the public during the year, realising Rs.46,803, being an increase of 358lb. over the sales of the previous year, whilst the total disposed of was 8,164lb., valued at Rs.1,36,773. This, however, by no means represents the real saving to Government by the use of the febrifuge. The amount of it used in substitution of quinine in Government hospitals and dispensaries during the past year was 5,400lb. Calculating the average price of quinine in Calcutta at Rs.90 (a rather low estimate), the saving effected by this substitution during the year has been very nearly four lakhs of rupees, and the total saving since the factory commenced working aggregates 11¼ lakhs of rupees, or more than the plantations have cost since their opening.—Englishman.

THE DELHI COLLEGE.—A deputation from the committee engaged in efforts to procure the re-establishment of the Delhi College had an interview with the Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab at Simla on the July 16. In reply, Sir Robert Egerton said that the reduction of the Delhi College had been made only under pressure of financial necessities, and that he would promise a supplementary grant from the provincial revenues to assist the movement.—Pioneer.

THE BURMA COMMISSARIAT FRAUDS.—The first of the commissariat fraud cases, that of Sergeant M'Dermott, has been tried at Rangoon before Mr. Allen, the additional recorder. The prisoner was convicted of taking bribes, and was sentenced to one year's imprisonment and a fine of Rs.500.—Times Telegraph.

THE ARMS ACT.—The Bengal Government has issued a return of the number of persons killed by wild beasts before and since the Arms Act of 1878 was passed. It appears that for three years before 1878 the deaths from this cause averaged 1,601 annually; in 1878 they were 1,374, and last year 1,264. The number of beasts destroyed in the three previous years averaged 3,924. This increased in 1878 to 4,690, and last year to 5,543. These figures go far to answer the main argument of the opponents of the measure; but, on the other hand, it should be mentioned that the number of cattle killed by wild beasts is steadily increasing.—Times Telegram.

THE DEHRA DUN RAILWAY.—Reference has already been made to the proposed new metre gauge railway in the district known as the Dun. The proposal has now assumed a tangible form, and a preliminary prospectus has been issued. The line will start from either the Deoband or the Nagal station of the Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway, and terminate at the foot of the Rajpur Bazar, below Mussoorie. The exact length of the line is still uncertain. The projectors say it may be $76\frac{1}{4}$ miles or only $72\frac{1}{4}$; for the preliminary estimate it has been taken at 75 miles. It is proposed to start a company called the Dehra Dun Railway Company (Limited), with a capital of Rs.35,00,000, in shares of Rs.100 each. The terms asked for from Government are:—1. An annual subsidy for twenty years, or until the line shall steadily earn 5 per cent., of Rs.40,000, which is the estimated saving that will be effected by the roads being superseded by the railway, Rs.30,000 plus the present cost of carriage of the mails—Rs.10,000. 2. The free use of such roads as can be utilised in the construction of the railway; other Government land free of cost; and the acquisition and transfer at cost price of other land not belonging to Government. 3. That Government shall construct a new or improved cart road from the terminus of the proposed railway, at or near Rajpur, to a central part of Mussoorie. 4. The right to take sleepers of suitable woods, from the Government forest, free of forest dues. 5. The monopoly of all carriage of passengers and goods for Government at rates charged to the public. 6. A postal subsidy of Rs.10,000 annually. 7. The right to charge as maximum rates—for passengers, upper class, 3 annas, lower class 4 pie, for goods 1 pie per maund per mile. The sources of revenue include, besides the special and general trade of the neighbourhood, considerable passenger traffic, including the annual migrations to the hills and the great Hardwar pilgrimage. In a single week during the fair last year the third-class return traffic alone on the Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway is said to have amounted to 854,000 persons. The whole of this traffic both ways will, it is expected, be carried on the proposed railway, a fact which, however seductive to the promoters of the new scheme, will not, we should imagine, be quite so gratifying to the shareholders of the Sind, Punjab, and Delhi. The average of five separate estimates of the earnings of the Dehra Dun Railway is Rs.6,30,334, and it is calculated that, after paying the working expenses, the sum available for dividend will be at the rate of 7½ per cent. on the capital.—Times of India.

THE "BREHILDA-AVA" COLLISION.—Re Brenhilda-Ava collision judgment was given on July 23, in the High Court, in the cross appeals in the above case. The Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Pontifex confirmed the judgment of the Lower Court, being of opinion that the collision was the result of negligence on the part of each vessel. Therefore both appeals would be dismissed. The Ava was valued at £50,000, half of which will have to be paid by the owners of the Brenhilda. The judges directed that an inquiry be held before the registrar of the High Court to ascertain the damage done to the Brenhilda, and one-half that amount will be allowed as a set off against the £25,000 due on account of the Ava. Each party to pay its own costs.

THE FUNERAL OF GEORGE NAIRNS.—The funeral of George Nairns took place on the evening of his execution at the Scotch burial ground. There were present at the cemetery, some time before the funeral cortege arrived, about fifty ladies and gentlemen. On the arrival of the hearse, the coffin, which bore the inscription of "George Nairns, executed July 23, 1880, aged 29 years," was covered by a Union Jack, and was shouldered by six of Nairns' shipmates and carried to the foot of the grave. The Rev. Mr. Gillan officiated, and in the first instance read out those portions of Scripture which Nairns was most fond of hearing read to him after his condemnation. He then referred in general to the terms of the statement made by Nairns on the scaffold, and, more particularly addressing the sailors present, he warned them to take example from the fate which had befallen Nairns, and earnestly advised them to avoid the low native liquor shops. The usual prayers were then offered up. On the coffin being lowered into the grave many a sod was thrown in pityingly, and many a merciful womanly hand flung in a bunch of flowers, and many a head was turned aside to wipe away a tear for the shameful end of a young man whose career had promised such better things. At the conclusion the Rev. Mr. Godwin, assisted by several ladies who were present, sang the hymn, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."—Indian Daily News.

WE have been authorised to state that Mr. Anderson Souttar has undertaken to receive any sums of money that may be sent him for the benefit of the widow of George Nairns.—Englishman.

SIMLA FINE ARTS SOCIETY.—The exhibition will be opened on September 18, and intending exhibitors are requested to let the hon. secretary, Colonel F. Massey, know as early as possible the number, description, and full titles of the works they propose sending. Prizes will be given by his Excellency the Viceroy, his Honour the Lieut. Governor of the Punjab, his Excellency the Commander in Chief, the Hon. C. Grant, an amateur, for lady amateurs only, and by the society. The Viceroy's prize is for an original picture in either oils or water-colours, and is open to all amateurs.—Times of India.

ACCIDENT AT THE SANDHEADS.—A melancholy accident took place at the Sandheads on the evening of July 25. Mr. Walker, pilot, who had been ailing for some time, jumped overboard in a state of delirium. The vessel was immediately hove to and a boat lowered, but all efforts to save him proved ineffectual. The body has not been recovered. He leaves a widow and five children.—Times of India.

SHIPPING.—The Lieutenant Governor of Bengal has sanctioned the abolition, in the case of vessels carrying no passengers, of the statement hitherto required to be submitted to the protector of emigrants by the commanders of vessels bound for emigration ports, on the understanding that the commanders themselves certify to that effect to the collector of customs on applying for port clearance.

KIDNAPPING.—At the Howrah magistrate's court, before Rungo Lal Bannerjee, Esq., deputy magistrate, there were arraigned a man, his wife, his daughter, his son, and a native of Bhowanipore, charged with having kidnapped from lawful guardianship three girls belonging to three separate families residing in Howrah. It appears that the wife and daughter of the first-named accused were in the habit of visiting the girls and managed to entice them away. Having done so they made them over to the first defendant, whose son took them over to Bhowanipore and handed them over to the fifth defendant, who attempted to sell them to a coolie recruiter. While negotiations for the sale were going on the police received information and arrested the delinquent. Subsequent inquiries led to the arrest of the other defendants. His worship, on the facts before him, convicted and sentenced the man, wife, and daughter to two years' and the son and the native who attempted to dispose of the girls to one year's rigorous imprisonment each.—Statesman.

BANK OF BENGAL.—From the directors' report of the above bank just issued it appears that during the past six months' business, both at the bank's head office and its branches, has been dull, and the demand for money inactive. The bank's rate for demand loans during that time fluctuated between 3 and 7 per cent. The net profits made during the six months amounted to Rs.9,92,907-4-2, which, with Rs.41,835-0-3 brought forward from the previous half-year, made a total of Rs.10,34,742-4-5. The directors disposed of from the above total Rs.9,00,000 in payment of a dividend at the rate of 9 per cent. per annum; transferred Rs.15,000 to gratuity fund; and carried forward Rs.1,19,742-4-5 to profit and loss account of the current half-year. The directors had the satisfaction to state that no provision was required in respect of bad or doubtful debts. During the half-year Mr. J. J. Keswick and Mr. F. J. Fergusson were appointed directors by the board in place of two of the directors, who had resigned on proceeding to England.—Times of India.

CHANGES IN THE COMMISSARIAT DEPARTMENT.—Various rumours and speculations are rife regarding the changes to be effected in the Commissariat Department, in conformity with the suggestions made in the report of the Indian Army Commission. A large amount of work of the commissariat is to be detached and separated from the department. The kheddah establishments are to be made over to the Civil Department, and all supplies are to be made by regimental arrangements. It is said that there will be two commissaries general in the Bengal Presidency, viz., one for the Presidency and the other for the Punjab division. A director general of stores is also to be appointed. As several senior officers of the department are likely to retire next year it is rumoured that Lieut.-Col. J. V. Hunt is to be the commissary general of the Presidency division, and Major A. R. Badcock is to be the commissary general of the Punjab circle. Both of these officers are now on field service.—Indian Daily News.

SPECIAL PENSION.—On the recommendation of the Government of Bengal the Secretary of State has sanctioned the grant of a special pension of Rs.6,000 per annum to Mr. J. Mackenzie, the late collector of stamps and land revenue and excise superintendent in Calcutta.—Ibid.

MADRAS.

MADRAS WIDOWS' AND ORPHANS' FUND.—A memorandum of operations of the Madras Widows' and Orphans' Fund for the half-year ended June 30, 1880, just issued to subscribers, shows very satisfactory results. There have been nine removals and one admission of subscribers in the widows' branch; and thirty-three removals of nominees with six admissions in the children's branch, thus reducing the number of subscribers in the widows' branch by eight, and the number of nominees in the children's branch by twenty-seven. On the other hand, there have been four admissions of incumbents to pension in the widows' branch (including one case under disposal) and six removals; and in the children's branch, one admission (which is under disposal) to pension and ten removals; thus reducing the number of widows by two and the children incumbents by nine. From the usual statement of receipts and disbursements from January to June, 1880, it appears that the opening balance on January 1 was Rs.1,677-3-8, and the closing balance on June 30, Rs.4,303-13-8; income has therefore exceeded expenditure by Rs.2,626-10-0. Mr. Perrett's scheme came into operation on January 1, 1880, and nearly half of the whole body of subscribers have availed themselves of the opportunity of electing to pay the higher rates of subscription in order to secure the higher rates of pension.—Madras Times.

THE MADRAS COTTON CLEANING COMPANY (LIMITED).—At a general meeting of the shareholders of the above company, held on July 20, the special resolutions which were passed at the meeting held on the 30th June, anent the company being wound up voluntarily under the Indian Companies Act X. of 1866, were carried. Mr. C. Simpson, of the firm of Messrs. Binny and Company, has been appointed liquidator.—Ibid.

MILITARY DESERTERS.—Private John Barnes of her Majesty's 43rd Light Infantry, Gunner William M'Donald of the 19-9th Royal Regiment of Artillery, Fred. Coyle of the B-4th Royal Artillery, Private John Harding of her Majesty's 43rd Light Infantry, and Private Edward M'Donald of her Majesty's 43rd Light Infantry, are reported to have deserted from their several corps.—Gazette.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO A NATIVE OFFICER.—On July 21, as Captain Mahomed Hussain Sirdar Bahadur, subadar major of the 4th Light Cavalry and A.D.C. to H.E. the Commander in Chief, was proceeding to meet the Governor at the railway station he met with a fatal accident in crossing the S.I.R. line near the General Hospital. His phaeton was struck by the engine of a train proceeding to the harbour works and capsized into the Coom. The deceased officer was severely injured and died soon after his removal to the hospital. He was eighty years of age and had seen much service.—Madras Times.

LAWRENCE ASYLUM AT OOTACAMUND.—This institution, we are glad to state, is making steady progress in education, &c. We hear that the principal and secretary of the asylum has made a representation to Government recommending that the military staff be maintained at the following strength:—One sergeant major Rs.45-4-3; two junior sergeants each Rs.45; one quartermaster Rs.60; one gymnastic instructor Rs.75; one master tailor Rs.55; one bandmaster Rs.70; and one master carpenter Rs.20. The matter, we hear, has been referred to the Commander in Chief and Controller of Military Accounts for report.—Madras Times.

MADRAS IRRIGATION AND CANAL COMPANY.—The latest news regarding the affairs of this company is that a few days ago the chief engineer of the company applied for funds, when he was informed by telegraph by the Secretary of State that the company were bound to keep the canal in proper working order, that Government were only bound to advance them the amount of their half-yearly earning, and that if more money was wanted they should look to their own resources; if the company did not keep the canal in working order a notice should be served upon the company's representative in India under a section of the contract. The chief engineer has therefore been compelled to dispense with the services of his assistant engineers, with the exception of one, who has come out from England under a special covenant.—Madras Times.

ABOLITION OF THE SOUTHERN COMMAND.—We hear that the Government of India have at length sanctioned the proposal for the permanent withdrawal of British troops from Trichinopoly and the abolition of the southern command in the Madras Presidency, the station duties at Trichinopoly being performed by a staff officer of the third class. It has also been decided that in future the detachment of British Infantry at Maliyapuram shall be relieved from Fort Saint George instead of from Cannanore.—Madras Times.

PENSIONERS FOR GARRISON DUTY.—With a view of employing pensioners for garrison or field service we understand that Sir Neville Chamberlain has recommended that, on the men next presenting themselves to draw pay, they should be examined by a combatant and a medical officer appointed for this duty. The Madras Government, tailing in with the views of the Commander in Chief, have ordered that steps be taken at Vellore, Madras, and Bangalore for the examination of native military pensioners to ascertain the number fit and unfit for garrison duty and field service.—Madras Times.

THE RAMPA REBELS.—Some appeals have been preferred to the High Court by some of the Rampa rebels who were sentenced to be hanged. In the Appellate Side of the High Court, before Sir Charles Turner and Mr. Justice Kernan, Mr. Wedderburn appeared on behalf of the Government pleader, in an appeal preferred by one of the insurgents, named Ambal Reddy, who was sentenced to be hanged for having been one of the parties concerned with Damadora in murdering some police constables near Chodaveram. Mr. Wedderburn detailed the several exploits carried on by the insurgents in the Rampa district, and said that Ambal Reddy was one of the ring-leaders. As there were other cases of appeal of a similar nature their lordships reserved judgment.—Madras Standard.

REINFORCEMENTS.—A regiment of the Hyderabad Contingent after embarking at Madras July 30, for the scene of the Rampa disturbance, was stopped. This countermand is supposed to have something to do with Kandahar trouble.—Times of India.

OXFORD INDIAN INSTITUTE.—Among the contributions towards the Indian Institute Fund recently received by Professor Monier Williams are Rs.1,000 from the Hon. Morarjee Goculdas, C.I.E., Rs.500 from the Maharaja of Hutwa, Rs.500 from the Nawabs Ahsanallah and Abdul Ghanni of Decca, and £100 from Mr. Edward Cazalet.

BOMBAY.

THE KUSMORE BUND.—A good deal of anxiety has lately been expressed about the state of the Kusmore Bund, on the stability of which the existence of the railway through Jacobabad to Sibi and towards Kandahar is well known to depend. There was a report the other day that this bund had given way, and many people imagined that the new railway was thus menaced with imminent destruction. The situation, however, is as follows:—The bund in question runs parallel to the river Indus along the right, or western, bank from Kusmore—about eighty miles as the crow flies, above Sukkur—the greater part of the way to that place from which the new railway strikes across country towards Jacobabad. At the head of the bund, at Kusmore, there is a short piece of embankment at right angles to the main line of the bund, which runs up to the neighbouring hills. A part of this minor bund has been cut through to make a canal, and it was at this point and in connection with these operations that the recent fracture took place; but its effects were of a very local and unimportant kind. There has been no reason to apprehend any catastrophe along the main line of the bund, on which the security of the country between the river Jacobabad, and perhaps of that station itself, depends. Along the railway some temporary mischief has been done lately by storm water from hill streams at a point about ninety miles up the line from Sukkur; but this little mishap had nothing to do with the Indus or the great bund, and was so soon repaired that it scarcely interrupted the traffic. There is free communication now along the new line from Sukkur as far as Sibi.—Pioneer.

DEATH OF A LEADING HINDOO.—Mr. Gunesh Wassudeo Joshi, a leading Hindoo of the Deccan, and one of the founders of the Puna Sarvajanic Subha, died on July 25. The funeral was largely attended, and a native professor of the Deccan College delivered a funeral oration on the banks of the Moota.—Times of India.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS.—The B.I.S.N. Co.'s Government hired steamship Ellora, 1,513 tons, Commander J. W. Seaward, arrived in harbour on July 25 from Karachi, and sailed on the following day for the same port with the 8th Regiment Bombay Native Infantry.—Times of India.

The collector of Surat, Mr. A. Keyser, is going on furlough for a year in September next.

Mr. J. ELPHINSTONE becomes collector of Colaba in the place of Mr. T. Bosanquet, resigned.

CAPTAIN FENN, commander of the Indian Government steamer, May Frere, has been appointed marine storekeeper at Bombay.

It is rumoured that the Indian Government steamer, May Frere, will shortly be put out of commission.

The provisions of Indian army circulars, clause 15, 1880, have been made applicable to the Bombay Presidency.

THE LATE MR. RYAN.—The friends of the late Mr. John Ryan, consisting of some influential native merchants, assembled at the Carnac Bunder on July 23 to consider the best means of commemorating his memory. About three thousand rupees were subscribed on the spot, and, after some discussion, a resolution was unanimously passed expressing deep sympathy with the members of the deceased's family. A representation, signed by a large number of merchants, has been sent to the secretary of the Port Trust recommending Mr. Ryan's eldest son for the appointment of superintendent of the Prince's Dock.—Times of India.

MAJOR GENERAL HATCH.—We understand that Major General Hatch, the inspector general of ordnance and magazines, retires from the service in September next.—Deccan Herald.

THE LATE MR. WILLIAM THOMAS KINCHELLA.—We regret to announce the death of Mr. W. T. Kinchella, who has served Government for upwards of thirty years in connection with the Military Board-office in Bombay, and on retiring from the service on a pension came to reside in Puna.—Deccan Times.

PAN SOOPARI MEETING.—Pan Soopari meetings are becoming popular on this side of India. Mr. Ramsey, collector of Nassik, invited the leading European and native residents, official and unofficial, to a pan soopari meeting on July 19. The guests, we read, conversed in a friendly way for about an hour, and after receiving pan soopari, nosegays, &c., took leave of Mr. Ramsey.—Times of India.

THE KUSHK-I-NAKHU D. DISASTER.

GENERAL BURROWS' FORCE.

THE force under the command of Brigadier General Burrows consisted of one battery of Royal Horse Artillery, two regiments of Native Cavalry excepting one squadron employed elsewhere, one company of Sappers and Miners, a considerable part of a British regiment, and two regiments of Native Infantry. We give below details compiled from the most recent sources of information, but as changes are frequent the names may not in all cases be quite accurate:—

E.B. ROYAL HORSE ARTILLERY.—This battery was commanded by Major G. F. Blackwood, who rejoined, we believe, from furlough in England just after it was ordered on service. The other officers of the battery were Capt. J. Ramsay Slade, Lieut. Newton Plomer Fowell, Lieut. Hector Maclaine, Lieut. Edmd. George Osborn, Surgeon Major Charles H. Harvey, M.D., Veterinary Surgeon George Augustus Amos Oliver. A battery of Royal Horse Artillery serving in India consists of 1 major, 1 captain, 3 lieutenants, 1 surgeon, 2 staff sergeants, 6 sergeants, 6 corporals, 6 bombardiers, 76 gunners, 54 drivers, 2 trumpeters, 1 farrier, 2 shoeing smiths, 1 collar maker, and 1 wheeler; total number, 163. Horses, 178. E.B. Battery before proceeding on service was stationed at Kirkee.

3RD (QUEEN'S OWN) LIGHT CAVALRY.—The commandant of this distinguished regiment, Lieutenant Colonel C. E. Stack, went home on furlough for two years, last April twelvemonths, and Major A. P. Corrie was officiating as commandant and Captain J. R. Willoughby as 2nd in command. The other officers were Captain M. W. Stevens, Captain M. Mayne, Lieut. W. C. Owen, Lieut. T. P. Geoghegan, Surgeon Major C. J. F. S. McDowall, Surgeon A. W. F. Street, and Lieut. J. H. E. Reid, 25th, a probationer and officiating as a squadron officer. The effective establishment of a native cavalry regiment consists of 6 troops, and of 1 commandant, 3 squadron commanders, 3 squadron officers, 1 medical officer, 1 russaldar major, 2 russuldars, 1 wordee major, 3 russuldars, 6 jemedars, 1 kote duffadar major, 1 farrier major, 6 kote duffadars, 30 duffadars, 6 trumpeters, 30 naiks and 400 sowars. Total 487. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is honorary colonel of the 3rd.

3RD SIND HORSE.—Commandant: Col. J. H. R. Malcolmson. Squadron Commanders: Capt. J. E. Gordon, Lieut. E. D. N. Smith, Lieut. E. V. P. Monteith, Lieut. A. M. Monteith, Surg. G. E. Burroughs. One squadron of this regiment was at Khilat-i-Ghilzai.

NO. 2 COMPANY SAPPERS AND MINERS.—The officer in command of No. 2 Company of the corps of Sappers and Miners was, we believe, Lieutenant T. R. Henn, R.E.

66TH (BERKSHIRE) REGIMENT OF FOOT.—This regiment, which, it will be remembered, was a year or two ago stationed in Bombay, was commanded by Lieut. Col. James Galbraith. Two companies being at Khelat-i-Ghilzai did not accompany the regiment on General Burrows' ill-fated expedition. Some of the officers of this regiment are on leave or in other employ. Thus Major S. G. Hogg holds the appointment of commandant of the Deolalee Department. Capt. G. W. M. Hall took six months' leave on medical certificate in May last, another officer is adjutant of a militia regiment in England, two officers are at the Indian depot, another, Capt. C. B. Adams, is attached as a probationer to the marine battalion in Bombay, and another is a probationer for the Madras Staff Corps. The name or names of the officer or officers left in charge of the two companies at Khelat-i-Ghilzai are no. mentioned separately in the last Army List, so we give the names of all officers appearing as on duty with the regiment at the beginning of the month:—Lieut. Col. J. Galbraith, Major C. V. Oliver, J. T. Ready, Captains E. S. Garratt, J. Quarry, W. H. M'Math, W. A. D. Mackinnon, F. J. Cullen, A. J. Price; Lieuts. W. J. de la Poer Beresford-Pierse, E. M. Rayner, F. N. Bruce, G. de la Motte Faunce, J. W. H. Fitzgerald, R. T. Chute, M. L. O'Donel, C. M. Edwards; Second Lieuts. H. Lynch, W. A. B. Loneragan, G. L. Melliss, A. Honywood, R. E. T. Bray, W. R. Oliver, H. J. O. Barr; Surgeon Major A. F. Preston, in medical charge.

1ST REGIMENT NATIVE INFANTRY (GRENADIERS).—The two wing officers of this regiment, Major J. Affleck and Major W. R. Trevelyan, appear to be both on furlough. Lieut. Colonel F. S. Anderson is the commandant, Lieut. Colonel C. M. Griffith officiating second in command and wing commander, Captain J. Grant officiating wing commander, Lieut. C. W. Hinde, adjutant, Lieut. W. C. Aslett, quartermaster, Lieut. F. Whittuck wing officer, Lieut. C. G. Whitby, 17th Foot, on probation, Surgeon A. H. C. Dane. The effective establishment of a native infantry regiment consists of eight companies with commandant, two wing commanders, four wing officers, one medical officer, eight subadars, eight jemedars, forty havildars, forty naiks, sixteen drummers, 600 sepoy, or 712 of all ranks (native). The non-effective staff is one subadar major, one native adjutant, one drill havildar, one drill naik, eight pay havildars, one drum major, and one fife major.

30TH REGIMENT NATIVE INFANTRY, OR JACOB'S RIFLES.—The officers on duty with this regiment were:—Commandant, Colonel W. G. Mainwaring; officiating second in command, Major J. S. Iredell; wing commander, Capt. W. C. Harrison (officiating); wing officers, Capt. H. F. Smith, Lieut. D. Cole, Surgeon K. R. Kirtidar; attached, Lieut. W. N. Justice and Lieut. M. B. Salmon. One of the pukka wing commanders, Lieut. Col. F. T. Humfrey, is on furlough, and another, Lieut. Col. Bell, is officiating as commandant of the 27th N.I. There are in all thirty native infantry regiments in the Bombay army. It is somewhat remarkable that both the first and the last should have been engaged on this occasion.

THE SOUTHERN AFGHANISTAN FORCES.

OFFICERS ON FIELD SERVICE AND IN RESERVE.

The following is the list of officers of the Bombay Army on field service and in reserve on July 1:—KANDAHAR FORCE: Lieut. General J. M. ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, AUGUST 23, 1880.

THE INDIAN BUDGET.

As the overcrowded state of our columns testifies, India and Indian questions, great and small, have occupied a large amount at least of the time of the Imperial Legislature during the past week. It would, perhaps, be inconsistent with senatorial dignity if the Secretary of State for India could post in a conspicuous place the last bulletin—we mean telegram—and thereby save the questioning of which we heartily endorse Sir A. Gordon's opinion. But, after all, the task of appeasing the thirst for information, or of politely evading the absurdly inopportune inquiries which appear to turn the House into a tea party of gossips, has been scarcely as heavy as that of expounding the Indian Budget, which is not what it was, and of which not even the hereditary and acquired financial power of Major Baring can predict what it shall be. The portentous mistake as to the war expenditure, which might have occurred under any Viceroy, and under the dominion of any political party, made it needful for the Secretary of State to separate the war expenditure from the statement of revenue and expenditure, and to deal with each separately, though in themselves they are inextricably connected. Taking first what, in order of statement, stood last, we notice with satisfaction that Lord Hartington seized the opportunity of repudiating the wanton charges brought against the late Government of wilfully "cooking the accounts." Mr. Stanhope, with his wonted clearness and ability, showed that the authorities of the India-office on their side were fully warranted in accepting the estimates furnished to them from the Government of India. His explanation of the telegrams relative to the council drafts, which some months ago were brought forward as having contained warnings which should not have been neglected, was complete. The explanation of the error, which, arising out of the deficit in the military accounts, described by Sir John Strachey, grew to such a magnitude, was not in any way held by him to extenuate the blunder committed. We quoted recently an opinion expressed by a competent correspondent as to the results likely to follow from officers, otherwise able and experienced, being placed at the head of departments where the experience of a thoroughly good accountant is required, and the gigantic blunder, of which the causes can only be approximately shown, may, perhaps, lead to reforms in this direction. The system, so called, of military accounts is being now made the subject of inquiry, and the fact that it has been so defective as to mislead Sir John Strachey, and to overwhelm the otherwise financially successful administration of Lord Lytton with the discredit of this startling disclosure, shows the need of thorough reconstruction. The present state of the war expenditure is thus summed up. The charges in 1878-79, estimated at £676,000, amounted actually to £2,926,000 in 1879-80. The estimate was £3,216,000, and the expenditure was £6,466,000. In the current year the original estimate was £2,090,000, whereas the amended one is £5,590,000. Thus the expenditure, which was estimated at about £6,000,000, really must be taken as £15,000,000. The whole cost of the war, including the outlay for the construction of the frontier railways, was reckoned by Lord Hartington at £18,000,000. It may be instructive to recall that the cost of the first Burmese War in less than two years amounted to nearly £12,000,000, which was the price to India of Assam, Arakan, and Tenasserim. As yet we know neither the limit of the cost of the operations in Afghanistan, nor what will be the substantial gain which will remain. The charge brought against the late Government of having underrated the difficulties and underestimated the probable outlay of having embarked on the enterprise in a sanguine and thoughtless spirit, might, some will think, have been omitted, at all events, until it is seen whether premature economies and hasty decisions to y into effect foregone conclusions may not result in a larger increase of expenditure. It is certain that those who advocated a stronger and sterner method of dealing with the Afghans, who urged long ago that it was better to work at once thoroughly, by asserting our power over the whole country and each of the chief cities, will be able to point to the continuing outlay and the protracted warfare, with its recent defeat, and its present anxiety, in proof of the correctness of their views. But as the late Ministers and the present Government divide between them the responsibility for the plans pursued, only independent members could be found to boldly argue the pressing necessity of securing a substantial and permanent security for India, as the value to be received for the millions expended. And it is to our minds a much more important issue than wrangling over the exact amount of blame for an arithmetical blunder to be distributed among military financiers. Lord Hartington has declared that the Afghan War has been carried on, not solely in the interests of India, but in pursuance of an Imperial policy. We should have thought that as India is an Empire the adjective would apply to Indian interests, but in either the limited or the comprehensive sense both India and the rest of the Queen-Empress's dominions may expect that the security of the part and of the whole shall not be impaired by the final settlement. The pessimist assailants of the prosperity of India can gather but small comfort from the fact that while they have been demonstrating the financial weakness of India, the last three years have shown a surplus of revenue over ordinary expenditure of eleven millions. The Secretary of State might, indeed, speak of the opium revenue as uncertain; but, as a matter of fact, the revenue has been realised, and, at all events for the present, there does not seem any great probability that the revenue from that item of Indian production will be like some of the American silver mines and "peter out." Mr. Stanhope might well argue in the face of the actual facts, that there was no pressing need for England to impose upon English revenue a charge for the war expenses. His criticism, that if such a measure were true in principle and expedient in policy, the English Treasury ought to defray the whole cost was unanswerable. There are two ways of losing India, and one is by making the British taxpayer feel that magnificent possession to be a burden. But we must remember that along with this announcement there were made two others, both unpalatable to a very loquacious party in India and a very influential section at home. Little hope was held out of those reductions in expenditure, especially in the military expenditure, which have been looked upon as almost certain; while the petitioners against the license tax must thoroughly sympathise with Balak, and find small comfort in the promised new departure in Indian finance. The declaration that it is not probable that any great reduction can be made in the normal expenditure of the Civil Service would seem to be a distinct negative to the propositions for abolishing the Presidential appointments, and the recommendations of the Military Expenditure Commission are expressly relegated to the limbo of empirical reforms. Perhaps the most surprising statement to many will be that referring to the restriction in public works, with which Mr. Stanhope dealt as the advocate of the economy which the Government, of which he was an illustrious member, initiated. But it is certain that the plans for reduction which he advocated were not approved of by high officials in India, notably by the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, although they were made pursuant to the recommendations of the committee which reported on the subject.

HOME NEWS.

MEDICAL OFFICERS.—The officers of the Army Medical Department ordered to proceed to India to increase the establishment are Surgeons Major W. Ashon, E. J. Boulton, C. M. Douglas, C. A. Innes, H. M. Macbeth, Thomas Murtagh, and M. L. White; Surgeons A. L. Browne, J. D. Day, C. E. Dwyer, C. R. Egan, Richard Exham, S. J. Flood, W. C. Grant, W. R. Henderson, David Leekie, Robert H. Robinson, O. S. Ward, James Watson, and D. Williams.

OBITUARY.—Major General Vincent John Shortland, late of the Madras Staff Corps, and formerly of the 19th and 24th Madras Native Infantry, whose death occurred a few days ago, obtained his first commission June 19, 1842, and became lieutenant April 16, 1847. He served in the Burmese war in 1852 and 1853, and was present at the capture of Pegu. He also commanded the detachment of Sappers and Miners which accompanied the land column under Major General Steel from Martaban to Tonghoo, and was present at minor affairs on the frontier beyond Tonghoo and elsewhere. He received the medal, with clasp, for Pegu. He attained the rank of brevet captain June 19, 1857; became captain Jan. 1, 1862; brevet major, June 19, 1862; major, Sept. 12, 1866; lieutenant colonel, June 19, 1868; brevet colonel, June 19, 1873; and major general on retired full pay, Nov. 30, 1878.—Major General John Singleton, formerly of the Royal Regiment of Artillery, who died after a long illness and much suffering at his residence, Quinville Abbey, Clare, Ireland, a few days ago, in his 54th year, obtained his commission as second lieutenant in 1845. He served in the eastern campaign of 1854-55, including the affairs of Bulganac and M'Kenzie's Farm, the battles of Alma, Balaklava, and Inkerman, the siege and fall of Sebastopol, and the repulse of the sortie on Oct. 26, 1854; and for his services was rewarded the brevet of major, the medal with four clasps, knighthood of the Legion of Honour, the fifth class of the Meejidie, and the Turkish medal. He served in India in 1858, and commanded the artillery in the repulse of the mutinous sepoys at Mooltan on March 31 in that year.—Major General Charles Osbaldiston Lukin, on the retired list of the Madras Army, who died at Henley-on-Thames on Wednesday, at the age of 59, was the third son of the late Mr. Robert Lukin, of the War-office. He entered the service of the Honourable East India Company in 1838, and served in China in 1843-4; but on the amalgamation of the East India army with that of the Queen he retired from the service on the full pay of a lieutenant colonel of the Madras Infantry and became a retired major general in 1874.

HER MAJESTY'S INDIAN TROOPSHIPS AND RELIEFS.—The Himalaya sailed for Bombay on Aug. 14, with the 77th Regiment, consisting of twenty-three officers and 880 men. The women and children are left at home in view of the danger of the Red Sea passage. The following officers accompanied the battalion:—Lieutenant Colonel Colquhoun, Brevet Lieutenant Colonel Bengough, Major Hoskins, Captains Gatacre, Tickell, Foote, Marryatt, Rogers, Thornton, Dawson, and Graham; Lieutenants Lumley, Law, Barnardiston, Lempriere, Savill, Singleton, and Morton; Second Lieutenant Oliver, Adjutant Schuyler, Inspector of Musketry Foley, Quartermaster Hope, and Paymaster Haldane. The individual officers who go out are Surg. Majors Douglas, V.C., MacBeth, White, Murtagh, and Ashton, and Surgs. J. Watson, Henderson, Wood, Dwyer, Egan, Day, Webb, Grant, and Flood, of the Army Medical Department; Majors Mertelli, James, and Colquhoun, Capts. Alleyn, and Georges, and Lieut. Kellie, Royal Artillery; Capt. Nutall, 63rd Foot; Lieut. Murray, 1st West Indian Regiment; 2nd Lieut. Fuller, 34th Foot; 2nd Lieut. Meason, 2-4th Foot; 2nd Lieut. Maasy, 62nd Foot, and Lieut. M'Mullem, 99th Foot. There were no other troops on board. Her Majesty's troopship Malabar sailed on Monday evening from Portsmouth with 1-23rd Fusiliers, consisting of twenty-five officers and 880 non-commissioned officers and men. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales presented new colours to the regiment and afterwards went on board the Malabar, and on her getting under weigh, led the farewell cheers from the Royal yacht Osborne. The officers were Lieut. Col. C. Elgee; Majors J. Tilley, J. Williamson, J. H. Tulloch; Captains L. E. W. Hadden, A. R. Hutchinson, A. Taylor, R. T. Webber, E. G. A. Mayhew; Lieuts. H. E. Baker, A. S. Chapman, Sir R. A. W. Colleton, J. H. K. Griffiths, G. F. W. Walker, R. H. W. Dunn, O. De B. Carey Evans Morris; Second Lieuts. W. H. R. Beresford, E. C. Lysons, Lyle Knight; Lieut. and Adjutant R. B. Mainwaring, Quartermaster P. M'Cormick, Paymaster G. Bampffield. In addition to the officers already mentioned the following received orders to embark at Portsmouth:—Capt. Rowbotham, 64th Foot; Major Trevor, 16th Bombay Native Infantry; Major Phillips, 1st Sind Horse; Capt. J. Grant, 27th Bombay Native Infantry; and Surgeons Dymott, Henderson, Divecha, Adams, C. M. Thompson, Rundle, Evans, and Leonard, of the Indian Medical Department. As several of them received only twenty-four hours' notice, the result was that Capt. Rowbotham was just enabled to board the ship at Spithead, while Major Trevor, Capt. Grant, and Surgeons Henderson and Rundle failed to arrive in time, and were left behind. The 1st Battalion Rifle Brigade embarked on board the Yumna, Capt. Parsons, on Saturday for India. The following is the correct list of officers that embarked with the battalion:—Lieut. Col. Lord E. W. P. Clinton, commanding; Major C. T. Bunbury, Brevet Major Edward J. Fryer; Capts. C. Vernon Eccles, the Hon. Thomas Charles Scott, Edward A. P. Burnell, James W. Lord Torphichen, Villiers S. Bagot, C. Hawtrej, B. Norcott, and the Hon. Cospatrick D. Home; Lieuts. H. Pelham Burn (instructor of musketry), Arthur Henry W. Hervey, J. F. Wegg-Prosser, Charles T. E. Metcalfe (adjutant), Charles A. Lamb, William Percy Drummond, and Bertram F. Astley; Second Lieuts. Charles Roderick Hunter, William James Lascelles, the Hon. Richard Baillie-Hamilton, Leonard G. Russell, P. A. Vans Agnew, and the Hon. A. C. E. Somerset; Paymaster W. H. Mitchell; and Quartermaster J. Markland. The following officers will embark for India next month to join the battalion—viz., Major Henry C. G. Dugdale, Capt. Maurice FitzGerald, and Lieut. Thomas Lord Ribblesdale. The depot of the battalion will proceed to Winchester to join the Rifle Brigade Depot at that station. The Yumna also takes out a draft of the E Battery B Brigade Royal Horse Artillery, under the command of Major Knox and Lieutenant Cunningham, and the following individual officers:—Captain W. J. Tydd, R.A.; Surgeon H. Martin, A.M.D.; Second Lieutenant Cox, 77th Foot; Lieutenant Macmullen, 99th Foot; Surgeon Majors E. J. Boulton, R. H. Robinson, D. Williams, A.M.D.; Major Deeds, Captain W. Stratford, 4th Battalion Rifle Brigade; Lieutenant W. H. Burn, 14th Hussars; Second Lieutenant Usher, 80th Foot; Second Lieutenant A. Thomson, 13th Hussars; Captain Tilden and Second Lieutenant Eaton, 60th Rifles; Lieutenant T. A. Steele, 17th Lancers; Lieutenant Hamilton, 99th Foot; Second Lieutenant Kinloch, 4th Battalion 60th Foot; Captain Sargent, 78th Foot; Captain W. Taylor, R.A.; Surgeons C. B. Hill, G. W. Robinson, Dorman, Inman, Cooker, Myles, and Moffatt, of the Army Medical Department; Veterinary Surgeons J. Rowe, R. Day, E. Moore, H. A. Woodroffe, H. T. W. Mann, and F. J. Short, of the Veterinary Department.

COUNCIL DRAFTS FOR INDIA.—The tenders for Rs. 30,00,000 in bills on India were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs. 28,69,000, at an average rate of 18. 8-2d.; to Bombay, Rs. 1,11,000, at an average rate of 18. 8-187d.; and to Madras Rs. 20,000, at an average rate of 18. 8-187d. Tenders on all Presidencies at 18. 8-3-16d. will receive about 74 per cent., all above that price in full. This result shows a slight falling off from last week's allotment price. Next week thirty lakhs are again to be offered.

SHIPS BURNED AT SEA.—A Lloyd's telegram states that the captain, second mate, and eleven hands of the Dundee (British barque), 1,269 tons, of and from Dundee for Bombay with coal, arrived at Rio Janeiro on July 24 in the first lifeboat. They reported that fire broke out in the cargo on the morning of July 13. All airholes were immediately filled up, the hatches well battened down, and all sail was set, and the vessel put about for Rio Janeiro. The fire, however, became so serious the next day that preparations were made for abandoning the vessel, and on July 15 at eleven a.m. she was abandoned in lat. 25 long. 32 W. The captain, second mate, and eleven hands took the first lifeboat, and the first mate and eight hands took the second lifeboat, provided with compass, chart, &c., and well provisioned. It was agreed to make for Rio Janeiro, and the boats kept company for two days, but the second boat was lost sight of on the following evening.—Another Lloyd's telegram states that the Carlsburn, from Dundee, May 28, for Bombay, has been burnt in the Mozambique Channel; crew saved. The Carlsburn was an iron ship built in Greenock, 1868, and owned by Messrs. R. Shankland and Co., Greenock. Her register tonnage was 1,312 gross; her dimensions were—length 220ft. 2in.; breadth, 35ft. 2in.; and depth, 22ft. 5in.; her class at Lloyd's star double A1.

PACK SADDLES FOR INDIA.—The War Department is transmitting from the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich to the British forces in Afghanistan, at the charge of the Government of India, a fresh supply of pack saddles of the most recent pattern. These saddles, samples of which are displayed in the Ordnance storehouses on dummy mules, loaded with light field guns, gun carriages, ammunition boxes, field forges, artificers' tools, entrenching implements, litters, and panniers for sick and wounded men, and all other necessities for transit through a difficult and mountainous country, have been the objects of many improvements of late years, and are very much superior to those used in former campaigns.

ROYAL INDIAN ENGINEERING COLLEGE.—The following, in order of merit, and with the total number of marks gained, are declared by the Civil Service Commissioners to have been the successful candidates at the recent open competition for admission to the Royal Indian Engineering College, Cooper's-hill, Surrey:—Samuel Page Herschel Dyson, 3,073 marks; Henry Robert Hackman, 2,967; Adolphe Ernest Orr, 2,624; Henry Etienne Pellereau, 2,118; Cyril Edward Arengo Jones, 2,095; Thomas Herbert Clowes, 1,890; Edward Herbert Scott Napier, 1,691; Henry Matthew John Bacon, 1,686; John Netterville Albert Eaton, 1,475; Henry Hennis Green, 1,451; Fredric James Robinson, 1,411; James M'Cord Jamieson, 1,393; Thomas Temple Bonhote, 1,374; Alfred Rowland, 1,371; George Walton Appleby, 1,370; Cyril Vernon Joakim, 1,168; Benjamin Douglas, 1,145; Thomas Robert John Ward, 831; Henry Sydney Jones, 790 marks.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY, AUGUST 17.

the people of that country, and have not always sufficiently considered the habits and customs of the people, but these subjects were at this moment under the consideration of some of the ablest servants of the Indian Government. They had not occupied so much the attention of the Indian Government itself during the last few years as they should have done, as during a period of war the Government had little time to consider questions affecting the well-being and prosperity of the country.

Mr. OTWAY moved as an amendment, "That the public expenditure in India and the charges on the Indian revenues defrayed in England are excessive, and that in the interests of the people of India it is desirable to effect a prompt and large diminution of such expenditure." He expressed his surprise that the late Government could have believed that the war in Afghanistan could be carried on for the sum originally stated. He urged a large reduction in expenditure in India, especially by abolishing the useless Governments of Madras and Bombay, as well as the Commander in Chief of those Presidencies. He pressed the necessity of a reduction in the armies of the native provinces and a larger employment of natives in the public service.

Mr. E. STANHOPE said that the statement of the noble lord would be the more reassuring from the moderate terms in which it was expressed. It proved that, putting aside the extraordinary expenditure on the Afghan war, the general condition of the finances of India was prosperous. It had frequently been said by persons who ought to know better that the late Government had plunged the finances of India into irretrievable confusion, but he hoped that, after the statement of the noble lord, they would be able to consider this matter without prejudice. It became his duty, as the representative of the Government of India in this House, to explain and defend certain estimates that were put forward by the Government of India as representing the cost of the Afghan war. These estimates were not only utterly inadequate, but so completely out of proportion to the real expenditure as to make it difficult to understand how on any system so gigantic a blunder could have occurred. He would not apportion the blame, but it appeared to him that the root of the evil lay in the difficulty which the Indian Government experienced in knowing the actual condition of its cash balances. They had in this way more than once led the home Government into difficulty. There was no man in this country who was more pained at the mistake which had occurred than Lord Lytton. He and his Government had undoubtedly been the means of misleading the people of this country, but it was fair to remember that the noble lord and his Government were equally misled themselves. He (Mr. Stanhope) could not but deeply sympathise with one who, at the close of a career in which he had rendered brilliant financial services to India, which the calmer judgment of the country would yet recognise, had been startled by the discovery of a mistake for which he and his Government were responsible, but which came upon them as a complete surprise. He had seen it suggested that there was something suspicious in the time at which the Indian Budget was brought forward, in February last, and that it had some reference to the dissolution. Neither the Viceroy nor any member of his Government knew anything more about the immediate prospects of a dissolution than any member of that House. This was proved by the fact that the information was given by the Indian Government that the financial statement would be made earlier than usual to the Government in England six months before the statement was actually made. It was not generally known that the financial control of India was not vested in the hands of the Secretary of State, but in the Financial Committee of the Council which drafted the answers to all letters and telegrams, and suggested any inquiries or orders thought necessary. Therefore to talk of the Secretary of State keeping back financial information for political purposes was to show an imperfect conception of the manner in which the business was conducted. War expenditure meant, not the normal cost of troops, but the excess of cost, which was very difficult to estimate. These charges could not be estimated in this country, and the India-office were obliged to rely upon those who were appointed to deal with the finance. The first estimate of the cost of the war received in December last was superseded by the annual Budget statement in February, which showed a considerable improvement in the financial condition of the country, and contained what professed to be a careful estimate of the cost of the Afghan war. The first Afghan war had cost £2,676,000, and it was estimated that the second would cost £3,306,000. In March, 1879, the annual budget statement for the year was received, and it then appeared that the cost for 1878-9 was taken at £670,000, but the Budget statement in this present year showed that the cost was £676,000, showing a singular approximation to the estimate. The estimate for 1879-80 was £2,000,000 for the portion of the war which would fall into the accounts of the year and in the Indian financial statement for the present year. The Finance Minister said that if the war had ended with the Treaty of Gandamak the estimates would not have been exceeded. The noble lord had noticed some disposition on the part of the late Government to underestimate the magnitude of the Afghan war, but when last year it was proposed to pass a vote of thanks to those who had been engaged in the war, there was no disposition in hon. members opposite to magnify the extent of the operations. They had been asked why warning had not been taken from the specific statements of the present Prime Minister. What were those statements? The second referred to the completion of stores in the arsenals, but the first charge was against the authorities in India of having deliberately cooked the military accounts in order to conceal the cost of the Afghan war. The right hon. gentleman gave that as a statement which had been made. It was put forward in the month of November last, it was known in India before Christmas, and was capable of examination in India, but all the evidence which the Government possessed was in direct contradiction of it, and in a speech the Viceroy himself went into the matter and indignantly repelled the accusation. He (Mr. Stanhope), knowing that it was being used for party purposes—he would not say improperly—seized the opportunity in March of again denying it. It was true that in March the Government of India requested, as a matter of convenience, that the drawings from home should be reduced until the autumn; but no suggestion was ever made that the reduction had any connection with the cost of the Afghan war. He was glad that a minute which he had made on this question shortly before he left office was included in the papers before the House, but he regretted that there was no minute from the Financial Department of the India-office as to the views which they took of the despatches and the telegrams. He would come now to the cost of the Afghan war, and see in the first place how it could be met by India alone. The expenditure on the war was estimated altogether at £18,000,000, and it was also estimated that during the three years of the war there had been borrowed as nearly as possible £18,000,000. Out of that sum £12,000,000 had been borrowed for reproductive works and for loans to native Governments. The net amount borrowed for the Afghan war was £6,000,000, and he was not sure whether from that there ought not to be deducted the cost of the frontier railway, which would have had to be made in any case. The noble lord told them that the Imperial funds were to contribute a solid and substantial amount towards the cost. The late Government had to deal with an estimate of £6,000,000 for the cost of the war, and, looking to all the circumstances, they thought they ought to hesitate before departing from those sound principles of finance which had always been observed as between England and India. The noble lord said that this was an Imperial question; but if the argument had anything in it it meant that England ought to pay the whole cost of the war. He did not, however, think the noble lord was unreasonable in asking for time until further information and the opinion of Lord Ripon had been received before stating the proportion that should be borne by this country; but waiting indefinitely was very much like giving a blank cheque to the Government of India, and might increase rather than diminish the expense of the war. He had heard with great satisfaction the time had come for extending the license tax to the official and professional classes. He thought the noble lord had somewhat misrepresented the object and intention of the famine insurance fund. It was intended to provide a surplus of income over expenditure which would be sufficiently in excess to meet the charges of a famine year, but it was announced from the beginning that circumstances might apply this to general purposes. Surely war was one of these unexpected circumstances, and he did not think that in applying the fund in the way they had that the Government of India could be very severely blamed. It was not difficult to show that there had been a steady increment in revenue in recent years. He should have been surprised at any other result after all the security our rule had given to the country, and the development supplied to its trade by the extensive system of public works. There had been this steady increase in the revenue, independently of the additional taxation, to the annual average of about £400,000. But if the revenue had increased so had the expenditure, though not in the same proportion. This increase, however, was caused by the famines and the loss on the exchanges, but if allowance was made for these exceptions, it would be found that it was maintained at a tolerably steady rate. The hon. member for Rochester had referred to the extravagant manner in which the Five per Cent. Loan was converted into a Four per Cent. Loan. It was perhaps unfortunate that the India-office did not take the hon. gentleman's advice, but the people they did not consult were the highest authorities on the Stock Exchange. Since it was performed the India-office had received nothing but congratulations on the way in which that dangerous and difficult operation had been brought about. The noble lord had disappointed him by the discouraging terms in which he had spoken of the possibility of a reduction in expenditure. When the reductions were brought about by the late Government he (Mr. Stanhope) took care to explain that it was impossible to promise that any specific reduction would be made in the then current financial year, but he did hope that they would soon begin to show themselves. He quite understood that the noble lord required consideration before he could give effect to that report of the committee which had been appointed on the subject, but the account he had given was of a somewhat discouraging character. He thought sufficient mention had not been made of what was to be done in regard to public works. He gathered that he was in favour of increasing the amount to be expended on productive works. The amount asked on the present year for the purpose was not excessive, but he trusted the noble lord would give very careful consideration to any proposals for an increase. The success of the recent gold loan in India was most encouraging, and, in his opinion, gave them some idea of how the charge for remittances from home could in the future be reduced. He thought some amendment was required in the form of keeping the accounts, in order that a greater facility might be given for making comparisons. The statement of the figures in rupees instead of pounds sterling would have the double advantage of making the assets more clear, and, at the same time, of reducing the rupee debt.

Sir D. WEDDERBURN seconded the amendment and advocated the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire in India into the administration of the country since the transfer of the Government to the Crown, and, on the motion of Mr. ASHMEAD-BARTLETT, the debate was adjourned.

At the evening sitting, the debate on the Indian Budget was resumed by Mr. ASHMEAD-BARTLETT, who proposed to discuss the relations of Russia and England in Asia until stopped by the Speaker, and proceeded then to recommend the occupation of Afghanistan as the most effectual and lasting mode of stopping the Russian advance.

Mr. J. K. CROSS repeated his strictures on the mode of raising loans in India, on the reductions in the Public Works Department, and also in the exaggerated stress laid on the losses from exchange, and referred in detail to the telegrams, which, he contended, ought to have made the late Government aware that the war expenses had been underestimated.

Mr. ONSLOW declined to attribute the fault to the system, and insisted that the members of the Government, from the Viceroy downwards, were responsible.

Mr. FAWCETT maintained that if the expenditure could exceed the estimates by 180 per cent. for a year and a half without anybody finding it out, some radical change in the present system of divided responsibility must be urgently needed. He urged, therefore, the appointment of a strong committee to overhaul the working of the Act of 1858, and especially the financial control of the council at home. Discussing the salient features of the Budget, he expressed his approval of Lord Hartington's declaration with regard to the contribution to be given to India, enforced the necessity for economy, and predicted confidently that, among other measures, a complete reorganisation of the Indian military system, dissociating it from the short-service system, would be needed.

Lord G. HAMILTON attributed the mistake which had occurred to the difficulty the Indian Government always found in ascertaining its cash balances. There were always telegrams passing on this subject, and that was the reason why the Home Government did not take alarm at the telegrams of March. He recommended the despatch of a small commission to India to inquire into the causes of the error. The discussion was continued by Sir G. Campbell and Mr. O'Donnell, and the debate was then adjourned, Lord Hartington remarking that it was not possible at present to fix any day for resuming it.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, AUGUST 19.

THE KANDAHAR REINFORCEMENTS.

Sir H. WOLFF asked the Secretary of State for India if he could now confirm the statement which he made a few days ago that one regiment, if not two, had arrived at Kandahar.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: No, Sir. I believe the fact is that the headquarters and a wing of one native regiment have actually arrived at Kandahar, and that the others were on their march when the defeat of General Burrows took place. It was not possible afterwards to advance towards Kandahar unless the force was strong enough to resist any attack that might be made upon it.

THE STRAITS OF MALACCA.

Sir J. HAY asked the Under Secretary of State for the Colonies what progress was being made in establishing lights in the Straits of Malacca, and whether the first-class light on the north west point of Penang, and the second class light at the fort at the harbour, and the second-class light on Palo Remo were likely soon to be completed, and whether the floating light off the Formosa Bank and that at Outer Waters Island would soon be in position and lighted.

Mr. GRANT DUFF: replied that certain recommendations made in the month of May by the Board of Trade and the Trinity House were now under the consideration of the Straits Government. The lightship for the Formosa Bank was being built at Singapore, and the lantern in hand in England, as also the light for the Outer Waters Island.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY, AUGUST 20.

THE BEHAR PROVINCE.

Lord STANLEY of ALDERLEY asked her Majesty's Government to disallow, or at least to delay till further inquiry, the carrying out next year of an order of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal enjoining the substitution of the Nagri character for the Persian character in the courts of justice in the Behar province.

The Earl of NORTHBROOK said this was not a matter of legislation, but a matter which by law was left with the local Government. The change to which his noble friend objected was made in the interests of the natives of Behar, who understood the Nagri better than the Persian characters. He would lay on the table the resolution of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, which gave the fullest information on the subject.

INDIAN ADMINISTRATION.

The Earl of CAMPERDOWN rose to call attention to a petition of the British Indian Association praying for an inquiry into the system of administration which has been in force in India since 1858, in conformity with the periodical parliamentary inquiries on each renewal of the charter of the East India Company; and also praying for certain reforms and a representation of the Indian people in the councils of the empire. Under ordinary circumstances he should have invited attention to the details of the petition, as the subject was of a most important character; but recently the noble marquis now the Secretary of State for India had made an important statement, in the course of which he touched in detail on almost all the questions mentioned in the petition. The noble lord stated that decentralisation and the increased employment of natives were, in his opinion, about the only effectual means of promoting true economy. With regard to public works, he stated it as his opinion that, however useful they might be in themselves, they should not be carried out at such a rate as to outstrip the financial capacities of the country. With regard to the expense of the Afghan war, the noble lord made a statement which was most just, and could not but give satisfaction to the petitioners, for he said that the Imperial Government were prepared to bear a portion of the cost, and that as a matter not of charity, but of justice. As an individual he received the statement with the greatest gratification, for the Afghan war was not undertaken solely from an Indian point of view, and if the cost had been borne solely by the Indian Exchequer this country would have had entailed upon it everlasting disgrace. He could not believe that the taxpayers of this country would disapprove in the slightest degree of the proposal made by the Government. Another member of the Government, Mr. Fawcett, whose interest on all subjects relating to India, and whose services to India were so much appreciated, speaking as an individual, said that, in his opinion, the time had come when the Act of 1858 required to be thoroughly overhauled. The Secretary of State, in reply to a deputation, had observed with regard to the Vernacular Press Act and some elective representation of the Indian people on the Supreme and the Provincial Councils and other subjects—speaking in a general way and without binding himself or fettering his future discretion—that these important subjects were under his careful consideration; and the deputation felt that they might infer that the views of the noble marquis were in harmony with their own. Under these circumstances he would content himself with bringing the matter under the attention of the Government and moving that the petition do lie upon the table. It was drawn up in such a loyal spirit that it furnished a valuable indication of the wishes and desires of their fellow-subjects in India.

The motion was agreed to.

THE NATIVE REPRESENTATIVE AT CABUL.

Sir H. TYLER asked the Secretary of State for India whether arrangements had been made with Abdul Rahman for the reception of the native representative whom her Majesty's Government proposed to maintain at Cabul, and what escort and protection would be afforded to him, so as to avoid the risk of a fresh massacre and the expense of another advance upon Cabul to avenge it.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON had not received any information as to the arrangements which have been made with respect to the native representative at Cabul. The details of the arrangements which had been made with Abdul Rahman had not yet been received, but it was not proposed that a regular representative should be appointed there on the present occasion.

THE REPORTED ATTACK ON KANDAHAR.

Sir W. BARTELOT asked the noble lord whether any news had been received confirming the account of an attack by Ayoub Khan on the Shikarpur gate of Kandahar.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: No confirmation of that intelligence has been received by us.

CASUALTIES.

The Farnley (s), of Newcastle, arrived in the Tyne from Bombay, reports that during the voyage she experienced high seas, which washed away some of the hatches, and, while endeavouring to replace them, one of the crew, named James Thompson, was washed overboard and drowned. Life buoys were thrown to him, but were of no avail, and, owing to the lifeboat being stove in, and to the high sea running, no further assistance could be rendered.

A telegram from Bassein, August 14, reports that the Birchvale (British barque), which sailed from Samarang for Sourabaya June 20, had gone ashore on Alguada Reef, and will become a total wreck.

The Golden Fleece (ship), from Liverpool, is reported from Calcutta to have got ashore at Budge-Budge, in the river, and remains.

The Mahratta, British India Steam Navigation Company's steamer, from Burmah for Calcutta, is reported, July 21, to be hard aground above the mouth of the Chittagong River, she being thus imperilled in rendering assistance to a brig, also aground, laden with salt, in the same vicinity.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCENT
PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators, also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1875, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates.

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY, AUGUST 13.

THE RED SEA NAVIGATION.

Sir J. HAY asked the President of the Board of Trade whether he would inform the House whether any progress had been made this year in completing the lights necessary for safe navigation of the Red Sea and its approaches, especially Cape Guardafui, Ras Hafoon, Socotra, Ailkel, and The Brothers.

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN said that the Board of Trade were in communication with the India-office and Admiralty, and also with the Foreign-office, who state that negotiations are proceeding with both the Turkish and Egyptian Governments on the subject. The whole question involved considerable care, in consequence of the difficulty in making satisfactory arrangements for the care and permanency of the lights.

THE MARCH OF GENERAL ROBERTS.

Mr. ONSLOW asked the Secretary of State for India what arrangements had been made by her Majesty's Government to obtain accurate information from day to day regarding the march of General Roberts from Cabul to Kandahar. The hon. member also asked whether arrangements had been made for supplying General Roberts with food and forage on his march.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that General Roberts would, in his march from Cabul, send as full information as possible by means of special messengers; but he would hardly find it possible during the whole of his march to keep up communication with India. He could not give any detailed statement as to the arrangements for the supply of food and forage to General Roberts's force, but he had been informed that Generals Stewart and Roberts had made all the arrangements that they considered necessary. No reply had been received to a request that General Stewart would furnish more detailed information on the subject. The march of General Roberts was perfectly well known to General Stewart, and at this time of year there would be no difficulty in procuring supplies on the line of march.

Sir H. TYLER asked the Secretary of State for India whether Sir Frederick Roberts, marching on Kandahar, was under the orders of Sir Donald Stewart, retiring on Gandamak, as would be implied from his reply to a previous question; or whether Sir Frederick Roberts, being cut off from communication with Sir Donald Stewart, as stated in another recent reply, exercised an independent command.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON replied that Sir Frederick Roberts, in his march on Kandahar, would be in independent command of his force. Up to the time of the commencement of the march he was under the orders of General Stewart.

Sir H. TYLER asked whether, being in independent command, Sir Frederick Roberts had expressed any opinion as to the wisdom of the course which Sir Donald Stewart had taken regarded in the light of a military operation.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON had no reason to suppose that Sir Frederick Roberts is in the slightest degree indisposed to undertake the duties which have been assigned to him.

THE AMEER OF CABUL.

Sir H. TYLER asked the Secretary of State for India whether it was the intention of her Majesty's Government to maintain a representative at the Court of the new Ameer of Cabul, Abdur Rahman.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON had already informed the House that Abdur Rahman had been told he would not be required to receive a British Resident at Cabul; but for the sake of maintaining friendly relations between his Government and that of India, it would be desirable to have the Government of India represented at his Court by a native agent.

CAPTAIN CHATTERTON.

Captain AYLMER, in the absence of Mr. Grantham, asked the Secretary of State for India, whether he would inquire of the proper authorities in India, and report to the House early next session, whether, by the report of a medical board dated September 5, 1868, signed by Surgeon Major Peckett, Surgeons Lowdell and Condon, and Assistant Surgeon Walsh, at Nynee Tal, Captain Chatterton was not recommended to take twelve months' leave of absence for the purpose of returning to England to undergo an operation—viz., the division of the left tendon Achillis—on the ground that it was not safe to perform the operation in India; whether Surgeon Major Powell, acting as garrison surgeon in Fort William, Calcutta, did not afterwards, in April, 1869, confirm the above recommendation on the same ground; whether the only report on which the despatch of January 5, 1869, ordering the compulsory retirement of Captain Chatterton, was founded, and which practically alleged that he was shamming, was not that made in November or December, 1868, by Assistant Surgeon M'Dermott, who was shortly afterwards removed from the medical charge of that and other cases previously under his care; and how it was that Captain Chatterton was dismissed the army in April, 1869, on the report of an assistant surgeon, when Captain Chatterton was acting on the reports of more eminent surgeons made both before and after the report of the assistant surgeon.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON had no objection to make the inquiry suggested by the hon. and gallant gentleman, but he must repeat what he had said some time ago, that the case of Captain Chatterton had been repeatedly under the consideration of several Viceroys of India and of successive Secretaries of State at home, and, therefore, he could not hold out any hope that the decision come to would be reversed.

THE MARCH OF GENERAL ROBERTS.

Sir W. PALLISER asked whether her Majesty's Government will allow Sir D. Stewart to have a discretionary power to move a strong force upon Ghazni, or some other suitable point, with the view of forming a depot and base of operations, and of acting as a support for General Sir F. Roberts during his advance upon Khelat-i-Ghilzai.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON understood and appreciated the anxiety felt as to the march which is being conducted by General Sir F. Roberts by hon. members as well as by the Government, but he could not conceive anything more unwise or more calculated to prejudice the operations now in progress than attempt at home to control operations adopted on the advice and recommendation of experienced military officers on the spot, in whom we have confidence. General Roberts's advance upon Khelat-i-Ghilzai had been ordered by the Commander in Chief in India on the recommendation and with the assent of General Sir D. Stewart himself. He could not consent to send out directions or even a discretionary power such as had been suggested, because such directions from the home Government would imply a doubt and difference of opinion upon the propriety of the movement which has been ordered by the advice of Sir D. Stewart.

Replying to Lord R. Churchill, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that the march of General Roberts to Kandahar would probably take twenty-eight to thirty days; but he hoped to receive information as to the progress of the force soon. Replying to Mr. Onslow, he said that General Roberts would be in command of all troops at Kandahar.

Sir A. GORDON hoped the noble lord would answer no more of these questions, a remark which was deservedly cheered.

AFGHANISTAN.

Sir H. D. WOLFF asked the Secretary of State for India whether he could state the dates at which orders were given for the advance of General Burrows's force and the consequent order for reinforcements from Sind, together with the respective dates of the revolt of the troops of the Wali, the defeat of General Burrows, and the orders for General Phayre to advance on Kandahar; and whether he could inform the House if any explanation had been received at the India-office from the Governor General of the omission to order the advance of reinforcements to Kandahar on the receipt of the intelligence of the revolt of the Wali's troops, which formed more than one-half of the force at the disposal of General Burrows, and about three-sevenths of the troops under the united command of Generals Burrows and Primrose, and of the reasons which induced the delaying of such orders until intelligence had been received of the disaster to General Burrows.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said the date at which orders were given for the advance of General Burrows's force and the consequent order for reinforcements from Sind was July 1. The revolt of the troops of the Wali occurred on July 14. The defeat of General Burrows happened on July 27, and orders were given to General Phayre on July 28 to the effect that he was to advance when he could do so with security. He expected to be able to do so on August 15 or 20. He had already stated from the best information that the Wali's troops never formed part of the force of General Primrose or of General Burrows. He was not aware that any orders for reinforcements were issued on the receipt of the intelligence of the mutiny of the Wali's troops, because a battery of artillery, the 15th Foot, the 1st Madras Light Cavalry, and the 9th and the 24th Native Infantry had been ordered up from Sind ten days previously, while two regiments of Native Infantry on the line of communications were under orders for Kandahar, the headquarters, one of which reached Kandahar on the 13th of July. As there had been some misapprehension as to the Kandahar force, he might state that, including the troops at Kandahar, Khelat-i-Ghilzai, and on the line of communications, there was a force of no less than 11,000 men. He did not wish to make any imputation on the late Viceroy, but the House would recollect that the orders as to the forces deemed necessary for Kandahar were not made by Lord Ripon, but were made by the late Viceroy, and within a fortnight after the arrival of Lord Ripon in India the first authentic intelligence was received of the march to Kandahar. In further answer to Sir H. D. Wolff, the Marquis of Hartington said that when General Burrows advanced to the Helmund orders were given by the Government of India to send reinforcements to Kandahar, which were all that were deemed necessary by the Commander in Chief, and which were more than were asked for by General Primrose.

CIVIL SERVICE (INDIA).

In answer to Mr. Gibson, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said only one covenanted civil servant (North and West Provinces and Oudh) retired up to March 31, 1877, under the graduated scheme of pensions sanctioned by Lord Salisbury in 1877. But, in all, seventeen serving under the Government of India, and thirteen under that of Bombay, retired under that scheme; because, owing to the pressure of work arising from the famine, the limit of time originally assigned for the retirements was extended to 1878, and in one exceptional case (that of a gentleman selected for a high appointment in the India-office) to 1879. Other measures were adopted to remedy the block of these promotions, and these were—the grant of a bonus on retirement to every military officer of a certain standing in civil employ, and to uncovenanted officers holding appointments in the non-regulation provinces. Besides these measures to aid promotion, the condition of civil servants was further improved by the grant to many of them of personal allowances for a limited number of years. Lord Salisbury's despatch of July 13, 1876 (No. 70), referred only to the civilians in the North West Provinces, but the rules laid down in it were subsequently extended to all parts of British India except the Presidency of Madras.

GENERAL ROBERTS'S MARCH.

In reply to Mr. Gorst, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said the Government did not think it necessary to undertake that Parliament should not be prorogued until the result of General Roberts's march had been ascertained.

In answer to Sir W. Barttelot, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said he had sent the last account of the losses he had received to the newspapers. He thought they showed that the losses first reported were exaggerated.

In answer to Mr. Cowen, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said he believed it was improbable that any understanding existed at this moment between Abdur Rahman and Ayoub Khan, whatever understanding might have existed between them at a former period. He did not feel any great confidence in the trustworthiness of Afghan chiefs, but he thought it must be evident that as the interests of Abdur Rahman and Ayoub Khan were perfectly divergent at this moment, it was not likely that any understanding existed between them.

In answer to Mr. S. Leighton, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that the warlike stores of the late Shere Ali included Armstrong guns. He believed that part of them, at all events, were manufactured at Cabul.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY, AUGUST 17.

THE GOVERNORSHIP OF MADRAS.

The Earl of CAMPERDOWN rose to ask her Majesty's Government whether in their opinion it was necessary for the good government of Madras to maintain a governor and council in that Presidency, and whether, in view of the large financial saving which would accrue to India by the substitution of a lieutenant governor or officer of similar rank, it was not desirable to abstain from appointing a governor on the retirement of the Duke of Buckingham until a final decision should have been arrived at on the subject. India had not repaired the loss caused by the famine of 1876 and 1877, and it had been determined that a famine insurance fund should be established, at a cost of £1,500,000 a-year. Economy in the Indian expenditure was necessary, and there was no use in trying to effect that by a reduction here and there of the number of sepoys. The salary of the Governor of Madras was £13,000, and the salaries of the civil members of his council amounted to £25,000 per annum, while Bengal was governed by a lieutenant governor whose salary was £12,000 a year, and who had no council. There seemed to be no good reason for maintaining the arrangement of the three Presidencies as it was 200 years ago when there were no railways nor telegraphs. He had heard it stated that the Governor of Madras was used as a check on the Viceroy. There lordships knew there had been differences of opinion between those two high officials; but he doubted whether his noble friend (Earl Northbrook) thought that the Governor of Madras was of any use as a check on the Viceroy. The Viceroyalty of India was a despotism limited only by control from at home. Neither the Governor of Bombay nor the Governor of Madras could do much good, but in some instances they had done much harm with respect to the Viceroy. The Army Commission had recommended that the armies of Madras and Bombay should be placed under the command of lieutenant generals who should be under the Commander in Chief of India. He might be answered that the Governor of Madras was appointed under statute, but a temporary appointment might be made to bridge over the time between the retirement of the Duke of Buckingham and the repeal of the statute. Their lordships might depend on it that the natives considered these matters, and the more we studied economy in their favour the higher would they appreciate our rule.

Lord STANLEY of ALDERLEY thought that some economy might be effected by the diminution of salaries; that the disadvantages arising from the abolition of the office of Governor of Madras would be more commensurate with its advantages. The province of Bengal was inhabited by a homogeneous people, while in Madras there was a large number of castes and of people who spoke different languages.

Earl NORTHBROOK need not assure his noble friend that her Majesty's Government were as anxious as he could be to make any proper reduction in the charges on India. In some observations he had recommended the abolition of the office of First Minister to the Viceroy, and that the recommendation had been carried out, at a saving of £8,000 a year. He himself was of opinion that the question of a reduction of our expenditure on the Governorship of Madras and Bombay was well worthy of consideration; but what the result of that consideration ought to be he should be sorry to anticipate. But the question whether the Government would be better conducted by an officer brought up from his earliest career in the Indian service and acting without a council or by a statesman sent out from this country acting with a council was a more serious one. A lieutenant governor without a council could, perhaps, act with more vigour; but, on the other hand, a council was a check against precipitate or unadvisable action on the part of an individual. He thought it premature to express an opinion now as to which form of government was best suited to Madras. The lieutenant governors of Bengal and the North Western Provinces and the Punjab had, on the whole, administered their provinces with great ability and success; but the Presidencies of Madras and Bombay were more distant from the central Government than Bengal and the North Western Provinces, where the Governor General spent a great portion of the year, a circumstance which limited the amount of official correspondence. As to the present state of affairs, the late Government a few months ago appointed Sir James Fergusson to be Governor of Bombay, and her Majesty's Government did not think it would be right to leave the Government of Madras in a state of uncertainty during the consideration of the question; and therefore they did not intend to suspend the appointment of a successor to the Duke of Buckingham until it had been considered. At the same time it was a question on which her Majesty's Government would be glad to receive the opinion of the present Viceroy. As to the remark that the Viceroyalty was a despotism tempered with control from home, he wished to point out that the Government of India was the Government of the Governor General in Council. His Council had power to record their opinion. He thought it absolutely necessary that there should be a Council attached to the Government of India, who gave their advice, and who occasionally offered objections to the course which the Governor General proposed to take; and he had never found the powers of the Council used in any manner detrimental to the public service. There was a statutory power given to the Viceroy to overrule the majority of the Council in case he thought the interests and safety of the Empire were at stake. His noble friend had alluded to the recommendation of the Commission on the Organisation of the Army of India that the armies of Madras and Bombay should be placed under the command of lieutenant generals, who should be under the Commander in Chief in India. He had not had an opportunity of perusing the report of the commission, but his opinion was, and he believed the opinion of some of the wisest statesmen was, that it would not be well to take any step which would diminish the esprit de corps existing in the armies of Madras and Bombay.

Lord ELLENBOROUGH remarked that the systems of the three armies of India were distinct and separate; and having served in the three Presidencies, he begged to express his opinion that the Madras system was best. He believed its superiority was owing to the pensions in the Madras army. Some alteration might perhaps be made in the Government of Madras with a view to economy; but he concurred with the noble earl in thinking that the question required careful consideration before any determination was come to.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY, AUGUST 17.

PETITION.

A petition was presented by Mr. Peddie, from Samuel Jardine Wyndowe, M.D., surgeon major Indian Medical Department, that steps be taken for the investigation of facts and redress of grievances set forth in petition.

JEDDAH.

Mr. A. ARNOLD asked the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs whether, in view of the frequent loss of life outside the port of Jeddah, and of the fact that half the expense of the Consulate at Jeddah was borne by India with reference to obtaining protection for her Majesty's Indian subjects resorting to that port as Mahomedan pilgrims, and that heavy duties were levied upon Indian imports at Jeddah, the Government would press upon the Porte the obligation of reducing, as far as possible, the great dangers which beset the navigation of that part of the Red Sea.

Sir C. DILKE stated that the question was one under the consideration of the Government. It involved a matter of extreme importance, and was surrounded by great difficulties.

LAND LAW ADMINISTRATION OF BEHAR.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked the Secretary of State for India whether his attention had been directed to a telegraphic summary of a speech by the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal in the Times of the 16th inst., in which a recent letter on the alleged abuses of land law administration in Behar was spoken of as the work of a "very inexperienced" officer; whether it was not the fact that the officer in question had spent several years of service in the districts referred to, and was the author of three volumes of reports on Behar in the official "Statistical Account of Bengal;" and whether he could inform the House that a thorough and searching investigation had been ordered into the land law administration of Behar.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON said that his attention had been called to the telegraphic summary of a speech by the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal in the Times of the 16th inst. It would not be possible for a considerable time to receive a full report of that speech, and, therefore, he could not give the hon. member a full answer to-day. It was a fact that the officer referred to in that speech had spent several years of service in the districts alluded to, and it was also the fact that he had been employed in collecting materials for a statistical account of Bengal in the same capacity as other officers in the districts to which they were attached. He had already stated that the subject of land law administration of Behar had been undergoing a thorough examination, and that a bill was in course of preparation as the result of the report of the commissioners appointed for that object. That bill related to the recovery of rent in the Presidency of Bengal, and embraced, he believed, the leading provisions referred to in the question.

THE MAHARAJA DHULEEP SINGH.

Mr. BRADLAUGH asked the Secretary of State for India, in reference to the East India home accounts, page 20, whether the loan of £13,000 to the Maharaja Dhuleep Singh was made in pursuance of any, and, if any, what treaty or engagement; whether there was any correspondence as to the conditions upon which the said loan of £13,000 had been made, and as to the eventual repayment thereof, and as to any security for such repayment; and whether there was any objection to lay such correspondence upon the table of this House.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON, in reply to Mr. Bradlaugh, said that the loan of £13,000 to the Maharaja Dhuleep Singh had not been made in pursuance of any treaty or engagement. The Maharaja Dhuleep Singh had been for some time in embarrassed circumstances, and much correspondence had passed between himself and the India-office with regard to his financial position. That correspondence was still continuing with the object especially of securing the effectual repayment of the loans which have been made to him; but until the negotiations were completed it was not desirable to lay that correspondence upon the table.

INDIAN ORDNANCE CORPS.

Lord ELCHO asked the Secretary of State for War what had been and what was proposed to be done as regards certain retired officers of the late Indian Ordnance Corps, whose petitions for inquiry into their claims against the Army Purchase Commission had lately been presented to Parliament.

Mr. CHILDERS replied that the retired officers to whom he refers had no representations to the War-office. He had communicated with the commissioners, and saw no valid ground for disturbing their award.

Lord ELCHO said a petition on that subject had been presented to the House.

Mr. CHILDERS said it was a most inconvenient practice for officers having grievances to present petitions relating to them to that House, instead of to the department. If they applied in the first instance to the department and were dissatisfied with the answers they received they should then have recourse to Parliament.

THE ADVANCE OF GENERAL BURROWS.

In reply to Sir H. Wolff, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that the advance of General Burrows on the Helmund was ordered upon the responsibility of the present Viceroy. When the order was given the forces of the Wali were supposed to be friendly to British interests, but no great reliance was placed upon the assistance which it would be in the power of the Wali to give to the British troops. The hon. baronet asked "whether at that time it was known to the Viceroy that in case of a disaster the forces at Quetta were not in a state of preparation immediately to advance to the relief of a small garrison of 1,700 men which was left in Kandahar." He could not state what was known as to the state of preparation of the force in Quetta, nor how many reinforcements had reached the line of communications. The hon. baronet further asked "if there was any reason against ordering General Phayre to march towards Kandahar when it became known to the Viceroy that the troops of the Wali had mutinied and become enemies instead of friends." It was necessary for General Phayre, being in command of the forces, to maintain the communications with Kandahar and not to despatch such a body of troops as might unduly weaken that line of communications. As the reinforcements arrived from Sind it was the duty of General Phayre to send them on to Kandahar. That was done, and probably two had already arrived at Kandahar.

THE INDIAN BUDGET.

On the order of the day for considering the East Indian revenue accounts, the Marquis of HARTINGTON said that he was in a peculiar position, as presenting accounts and estimates for which he was not responsible, as vibrated by a policy which he had condemned. Nor was he certain as to the extent of the inaccuracy nor the adequacy of the corrections made in the estimates. As he did not wish to take too strong a view of Indian finance, he presented the accounts and estimates separate from the war charges. The audited accounts for 1878-79 showed the estimated surplus of about £2,000,000, the final accounts for the year showing a revenue of £65,199,000, against an expenditure of £63,165,000. These accounts showed the uncertainty of Indian finance. The figures on each side of the account exceeded by £2,000,000 in the audited accounts the sum estimated in the Budget of two years before. Only £676,000 was estimated for the extraordinary contingencies of the war, and, but for the unexpected improvement in the revenue, the receipts would only have given about £700,000 instead of £2,000,000 anticipated of this surplus. £1,150,000 was an increase on the estimate of £8,250,000 of the opium revenue, or an increase of 14 per cent. This was an unreliable source of revenue, on which an estimate could not be based. After deducting the charge for the war, which was credited to the accounts 1878-79, the result would have been a surplus of £2,700,000. For the year 1879-80 the Budget estimate framed in 1879 was an estimate of revenue £64,562,000, against an expenditure of £65,916,000, showing a deficit of £1,354,000. According to the regular estimate, framed in February of the present year, the revenue was £67,650,000, while the expenditure was estimated at £67,285,000, showing a surplus of £330,000, instead of a deficit. These figures again showed the uncertain character of Indian finance. The revenue in 1879-80 had increased by £3,050,000 over the estimate. The chief source of this increase from the opium revenue, which shows an increase of £1,459,000 in the receipts on an estimate of £9,000,000, or 16 per cent, while the charges in connection with the revenue were reduced from an estimate of £2,500,000 to £2,059,000, or a reduction of £441,003, giving altogether an improvement in the net revenue of £1,900,000 on an estimate of £6,500,000, or 29 per cent. In the regular estimates as to public works there had been an improvement, as compared with the Budget estimate, of about a million and a half. Nearly half a million was due to the reduction of expenditure on ordinary public works such as railways and canals, but one million was due to an increase of revenue derived from productive works. Excluding charges due to the war this year, which gave £3,208,000, and £1,304,000 for the frontier railway, there would have been a surplus but for the war of revenue over expenditure of £4,552,000. Taking the Budget estimate for 1880-81 as compared with the regular estimate of the present year, the revenue was estimated at £66,746,000 as compared with the other estimate of £67,615,000; while the expenditure was estimated at £66,329,000 as compared with £67,285,000. The principal alterations on the reverse side were the productive works, estimated at an increase of £899,000; the salt duties, £194,000; the provincial rates, £55,000; while the land revenue had decreased by £370,000, owing to the suspension of the collection of the famine arrears. The assessed taxes were less by £247,000, the customs by £59,000; while the opium revenue had been prudently estimated at £1,150,000 below the amount taken for the preceding year. On the expenditure side there was a diminished charge of £358,000 for the frontier railway; for the army (excluding the war), £556,500; the provincial balances £381,000; while it was estimated that the exchange will cost £310,000 more; ordinary public works, £45,000; and miscellaneous items, £278,000. Referring to the statement made last year by the Under Secretary as to the proposed reduction of expenditure on public works and otherwise, Lord Hartington did not think that these reductions had been possible, as the saving on public works one year would be balanced by additional expenditure in another. The other economies would amount to only £70,000; nor did it seem possible to make any great reduction in the normal expenditure of the Government of India apart from local economies. With regard to the army commission, its recommendation could not be considered at present, nor could there be any large measure of economy intended as regarded the Indian army, especially the native army, which, after the severe strain put upon it by the war in Afghanistan, would require very considerate and generous treatment. He gave full credit to the late Government for a sincere desire to enforce economy and to effect a reduction of expenditure; but these economies could be pushed to any great extent, and any considerable reduction must be through changes which can only be of gradual operation, such as decentralisation and giving of increased employment to the natives of India. Some progress has been made, and will be continued, in that policy; but the immediate economy effected by it will be but small, and the policy can only be brought into operation. Summing up the anticipated results for the year 1880-81, the estimated charge for the war for the year 1880-1 was £2,090,000; the cost in respect of frontier railways was £2,040,000; and the total was £4,130,000. Making the necessary deductions the net result was £3,830,000. Without reckoning the charge for the war it was estimated that there would be a surplus of £4,247,000. The actual surplus was thus £417,000. In the years 1878-9, 1879-80, and 1880-1 there would have been surpluses respectively amounting to £2,700,000, £4,232,000, and £4,247,000, amounting in all to the sum of £11,179,000. Those surpluses had been in part realised by the taxes, imposed new for the purpose of creating what was called a famine insurance surplus. These produced for the year 1877-78, £1,228,000; for 1878-79, £1,184,000; and the amount estimated for 1880-1 was £982,000; the total amounting to £3,394,000. Supposing the original purpose of the Government had been carried out, and the sum of one and a half millions had been annually devoted to this purpose or to the construction of works, which were supposed to be of an especially protective character against the recurrence of these famines, there would have been realised a sum of £4,500,000. If this sum had been devoted to purposes of that kind, and the surplus had been realised which was anticipated for 1877, the Government would have had at its disposal a sum of £6,679,000. He would not discuss the policy of "famine insurance fund, of which the principle was a sound one, viz., to provide a nominal surplus of one and a half millions." But the promises and engagements made ought to be fulfilled. Sir John

Strachey thought the famine insurance policy had succeeded, and the taxes imposed had been received, and without them the financial portion would have been worse. But during the three years there had been no annual surplus, but an increased deficiency. Many of the natives of India demanded the removal of the license tax, but he could not anticipate the Budget estimates of next year, nor indicate any intentions of remitting that tax, which ought to be extended to official and professional incomes. With regard to the sums expended upon productive works which had been raised by borrowed money. For the three years beginning in 1878, and ending in 1880-81, the total amount was £11,258,000. The time was almost if not already, arrived at when these works would be a source of revenue. The capital expenditure on the East Indian railways, including the estimate of the present year had been £31,690,000, on the guaranteed lines £67,198,000, and on the State lines £26,712,000, showing a total of £125,602,000. On irrigation works there had been expended, on State works £13,000,000, on the Madras Irrigation Company £999,000, or a total on both of about £14,000,000. Thus the total capital expenditure on what are called productive works had been £139,000,000. For the present year the receipts from the railways, including the net traffic receipts of the guaranteed lines, and the gross earnings of the State lines were estimated at £7,152,000; the charges, inclusive of interest and surplus profit on the guaranteed lines, and the working charges on the State lines are £7,604,000, showing a deficiency of £92,490; and the receipts from the irrigation works were estimated at £1,383,000, the charges for maintenance at £443,000, and the interest and expenditure on State works at £569,000, showing a total of £1,012,000, or a net result on the irrigation works of a surplus of £370,145, or on the whole of the productive works a surplus of £277,655. In the surplus on the irrigation works are included a sum of £700,000 transferred from the land revenue. He was inclined to believe that if the accounts were accurately adjusted between the land revenue and the irrigation works, the land revenue might be found to give a still greater amount than is here estimated to the irrigation expenditure. In 1868-9 the net charge on the revenues of India for interest and other charges in connection with the guaranteed companies and the State railways was £6,859,000; while for 1880-1 the same charge was estimated at £3,301,000, while there had been a capital expenditure on State works of £37,000,000 down to March, 1880, in thirteen years the charge for interest on debt had increased by £482,000, against which the receipts from the guaranteed and State railways and other productive works had increased by £40,040,000, showing a net improvement of £3,557,000; deducting £703,000 the net improvement would be about £2,855,000. The committee which sat last year adopted the view which had already been adopted by the home Government in prescribing a limit of two and a half millions as that which might properly be laid out each year from borrowed money on productive or public works. It had been held that sum should be exclusive of the capital required for the East Indian Railway. The Government had also been allowed to reallocate in the coming year any expenditure which was sanctioned last year and not expended, so as to secure on the whole an average expenditure year by year. To the general assignment of two and a half millions was this year to be added £630,000 for the East Indian Railway, and £182,000, the unspent balances of 1879-80, bringing the total up to £3,312,000. The hon. member for Mid Lincolnshire referred last year to a reduction on the public works establishments. Consequent on this 243 civil engineers and 149 subordinate officers of the subordinate branch had retired, which should produce a yearly saving of £247,500, but pensions amounting to £59,700 had to be granted, and an expenditure of £266,100 had been incurred in the commutation of pensions. On the whole, the surplus of £11,000,000 over the ordinary expenditure did not show an unsatisfactory state of things in India. Turning to the war expenditure, Lord Hartington showed that the estimate had been framed on the audited accounts of 1878-79 and, as far as known, of 1879-80, and not on actual expenditure. In 1878-9 the estimated charge was £676,000, the actual charge £2,926,000, the addition to be made £2,250,000. In 1879-80 the estimated charge was £3,216,000, the actual charge was £6,466,000. In 1880-1 the estimated charge was £2,090,000, the actual charge £5,590,000, and the addition to be made £3,500,000. The total estimated charge for the war for the last three years was £5,982,000, the actual charge was £14,982,000, the total addition that had to be made being £9,000,000. If the true war expenditure had been known in each year, the year 1878-9, instead of closing with an apparent surplus of two millions, would have closed with an equilibrium, or a slight deficit; the year 1879-80, instead of closing with an apparent small surplus, would have closed with a deficit of nearly three millions; and the year 1880-1, instead of closing with an apparent small surplus, would have closed with a deficit of about five millions. But for the war a surplus of £11,179,000 would have been obtained in the three years. Taking the gross cost of the war during those years roughly at £14,000,000, after allowing £1,000,000 for the increased revenues from the railways and the telegraphs, and adding £4,000,000, the cost of the frontier railway, the total war expenditure was £18,184,426. Deducting £11,179,000, the amount of the surplus, we had a deficit for the three years of £7,005,000. After quoting Sir John Strachey's minutes, which laid the blame on the system of military accounts, Lord Hartington said that he could not acquit

the members of the Indian Government of responsibility, and he charged them with negligence of a trustworthy basis of calculation and blindness as to the necessary outlay on the military operations. He imputed no political motives, and repudiated the idea of charging any wilful miscalculation, both on the grounds of honour and expediency. But he thought that the magnitude of the war had been all along underrated by a reckless, if not deliberate, determination, and neither in pecuniary provision nor reserves for the forces had due preparation been made. Lord Lytton's resignation had been followed by that of Sir J. Strachey, and the present Viceroy having informed Sir Edwin Johnson that the present Government could not help visiting upon him some part of the responsibility, he had resigned his appointment in the Council. With regard to the ways and means of the present year, of the £9,000,000 of excess estimated £5,500,000 was said to have been paid, though that excess over estimated expenditure would have decreased the estimated balances. But the balance in India on March 31, 1880, estimated in February at 14 crores and 19 lakhs of rupees, was only actually reduced to 13 crores and 18 lakhs. But the late Government of India still maintained that their statement is an accurate one. If so, all that remained to be provided for the present year—supposing the estimate of the charge for the present year would be adequate—about £3,350,000 over the excess of £2,090,000. If the loan was sanctioned for productive public works it would produce three crores and 13 lakhs of rupees, and that, with the reduction of the drawings upon London by the Government of India, through the Secretary of State, from £16,900,000 to £15,000,000, would give a relief of two crores and 28 lakhs of rupees, and raise the balance in India by five crores and 41 lakhs, and raise the balance estimated for March 31, 1881, from 11 crores and 44 lakhs to something over 12 crores and 30 lakhs. By the loans for public works and the reduction of the Secretary of State's bills, the Indian Government would, notwithstanding the additional expenditure expected on the war, be at the end of the present financial year in a slightly better position with regard to its balances than it was at the beginning of the year. If the war should cost more than is actually estimated, it would be necessary to provide additional funds, but the Indian Government would have to raise an additional loan in India. The estimated balance at home for March 31, 1881, was £1,085,000. The reduction of the drawings by the amount mentioned will absorb that balance, and assistance of some kind or other will be necessary; but the Government at home has power, if necessary, to raise £5,000,000 by loan, and, looking at the intended relief granted by the Imperial Government, it was not intended to make any permanent addition to the Indian debt, and any assistance that may be required for the present year would be of a temporary character. The Government could not at present state the form or amount of the contribution in aid of the Indian revenue which would be given, but it was a matter of justice to bear a part of the expense of a war which was entered into for the furtherance of an Imperial policy. The import trade of India showed a revival in 1879-80 from the depression of the previous year. The total imports of all kinds into England in 1878-79 were valued at £44,000,000; and those in 1879-80 at £52,000,000; while the exports had increased from £64,000,000 in 1878-9 to £69,000,000 in 1879-80. He saw ground for satisfaction in the large surplus of revenue over expenditure as apart from the expenses of the war. The increase in the productiveness of the public works showed not only the strength of the financial position of India, but also that its industrial position was being improved. It was unsatisfactory to consider the yearly increasing amount of the home charges. In 1870-71 the amount required by the home Treasury was £9,500,000, and in 1879-80 it was £17,290,000, and in the present year it was estimated at £16,900,000. However necessary may have been the objects for which this expenditure was incurred, a drain of this magnitude from the resources of India—not like a national debt, the interest of which is paid to the inhabitants of the country, but rather resembling a foreign tribute—could but inspire any one who is responsible for the finances of India with anxiety. But the increasing amount of these charges was continually producing a disturbing effect on the revenues and on the trade of the country. He had no panacea to propose as a remedy for this unsatisfactory condition of Indian finance. The lesson to be learned was that he should spare no effort while the revenue is prosperous of procuring a substantial surplus, and avoid all unnecessary sources of expenditure. He did not doubt for a moment the ability of India to defend herself in times to come, as she has done in times past, against all dangers, external or internal, with which she may be threatened; but he thought India ought not to be called upon to do more than provide for her own security. If India is to take part in great schemes of Imperial policy, Parliament and this country ought distinctly to understand, whatever assistance India may render in men and material resources, that upon this country sooner or later the financial burden of the war must fall. He was aware that there were many of those in office in India whose minds were not so completely absorbed as may be supposed with the routine of their official duties as to keep them from studying these important foreign questions. It might be that we had made changes in the laws and tenure of property in India which had gone somewhat beyond the wants and interests and customs of

C. H. SHARP AND COMPANY,
 PATENT INLET.

PURE AIR VENTILATING WALL FILTER.
 C. H. SHARP AND COMPANY call special attention to their new Wall Inlet, which is admirably adapted for the Ventilation of Private Dwellings, Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Hospitals, &c.

It is constructed upon sound scientific principles, and is superior to any other vent later yet introduced.

ADVANTAGES.
 1. It is simple in its construction.
 2. It is sensitive in its operation.
 3. It is liable to get out of repair.
 4. The air being pure the atmosphere is more healthy and agreeable, as a fog, smoke, dust, and other foreign particles in which the atmosphere of towns abound, are kept back by the Filter, which allows only a supply of pure air to pass through the regulating spaces in an upward direction into the room without causing a draught. The supply of air can be regulated by partially opening or closing the valve. When closed it is flush with the inside wall, and can be papered or coloured to match the same, which renders it scarcely noticeable. Fixed at 6ft. 6in. from the floor, with an ordinary air brick in the outside side of filter.

A RIDE TO KHIVA

BY CAPTAIN FRED. BURNABY,

Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 18:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physio—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cocker's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheikh, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five will never fade from my memory; and a friend of mine, who passed through the same district many months afterwards, informed me that my fame as a 'medicine man' had not died out, but that the marvellous cure was even then a theme of conversation in the bazaar."

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, August 7; Madras and Allahabad, August 5; Calcutta, August 4.

The reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending July 27 state that there has been general, and for the most part moderate, rain during the week; but the want of rain is still felt in parts of the Deccan and of Berar, and in the Peshawur district of the Punjab. In some of the Central India States, also in parts of Madras, Bengal, and Mysor, and in the Prome and Tharrawaddy districts of British Burma, the rainfall has as yet proved insufficient. In the Central Provinces a beneficial break has occurred. General prospects continue fairly good on the whole.

The health reports for the same week are:—Bombay: Measles in Karachi, fever in Hyderabad and Surat, and prevalent in Dharwar. Bengal: Public health generally good; cholera in Chittagong; some fever in Satkhira and Rungpore; some cholera in Patna, N.W.P., and Oudh. Allahabad: Cholera much less in interior, forty-seven deaths; severe in city, twenty-six deaths. Meerut: Fever in places. Sitapur: Cholera slight. Punjab: Health generally good. Central Provinces: Small-pox still prevalent in some parts. British Burma: A few cases of small-pox, but health generally good. Assam: Healthy. Mysor and Coorg: Health good. Central India States and Rajputana: Health generally good.

We have received the following from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 24.—Following from St. John, Kandahar, 21st:—Sortie took place, 16th, against village on east face of city; has secured us from further molestation on that side, but loss very heavy. Brigadier General Brooke, Capt. Cruickshank, R.E., Col. Newport, 28th, Major Trench and Lieut. Stevenson, 19th, Lieuts. Marsh and Wood, Fusiliers, and Rev. Mr. Gordon, killed. Wounded—Col. Nimmo, 28th, Major Vandeleur, 7th, and Lieut. Wood, Transport, all severely; Cols. Malcolmson and Shewell. Casualties among men about 180. Lieut. MacLaine, Royal Horse Artillery, reported missing after Maiwand, prisoner in Ayoub's hands, but well treated. Enemy throws a few shells into city occasionally, and keeps up fire on ramparts from sharp-shooters, but does little harm. Investment entirely trusted to Kandahar troops and Ghazis, the Cabulis being encamped round Ayoub three miles off on Herat road." A letter, dated 20th, from Col. Tanner, commanding Kelat-i-Ghilzai, received at Chaman, August 24, begins:—"I have heard from Roberts to-day. He is four marches off and will be here 24th. We are all well. Collecting supplies for Roberts and on Kandahar road. Well off for supplies here. Roberts expects to be near Kandahar on 29th."

"FROM VICEROY, AUGUST 26.—Letter received at Killa Abdulla, from General Primrose, says:—On 16th we attacked village Deh Khwajee, and got through it, but, finding it strongly occupied and reinforced by contingents from villages, had to retire to fortress. Enemy's loss heavy; our cavalry made two charges and cut up good many. Ayoub's main position faces east, and is between high hills on west and Argandab, covered by canals in front; some regular infantry in villages east and south of city, supported by large contingents of Ghazis."

A BOMBAY telegram states that a great sensation has been produced by the news that General Stewart has been ordered to halt his troops at Jellalabad owing to the defection of the Ameer's troops, and a great demonstration of Yakoub's party against him. The cholera is raging in Peshawur.

A CHAMAN telegram, dated yesterday, is as follows:—

"A messenger has just arrived from Kandahar. All was well there on the 23rd, the day on which he left. The messenger reports that he had great difficulty in making his way from Kandahar owing to the numerous gatherings of tribesmen on the road. Forage is terribly scarce here, and the cavalry are now being sent forward to collect it in the country in front. From the rear we have bad news. The Khan of Kelat's troops have mutinied, and in consequence of the rising a wing of the 78th Highlanders has been detached from our column and ordered to Kelat to assist the Khan. The mutineers are reported to be several thousand strong, and it is greatly feared that they will be joined by some of the tribes, especially those in the direction of Shorawak. We have now authentic information that the reported gathering of the Suleiman Khel Kakars on the Toba plateau, which lies on the right flank of the Khojak Pass, has really taken place. A force is moving out to disperse them. It is reported that Ayoub has sent to Herat for more ammunition, and that he has a force of six thousand men as a reserve at Farrah."

The Standard correspondent telegraphs from Thayetmyo as follows:—"Reports from Mandalay state that an attempt has been made to assassinate King Theebaw. A Phoongyee entered the palace and made his way to the King's apartments without exciting observation. There, however, he was stopped and questioned as to his business. Failing to give any satisfactory account of himself, he was seized and removed by force. In the struggle a short dagger dropped from his garments. It is stated that he had twelve associates, one being his nephew. The Phoongyee and his nephew have both been put to death."

WITHOUT the least desire to impute any bad faith to a West of England contemporary, the Examiner must say "that we should very much like to see the original of the telegram which appeared on Thursday morning, and was thought important enough for reproduction by some of the evening papers in London on that day. Afghanistan is a large address, and, when we find that there is absolutely nothing in the wordy despatch which might not have been imagined by anyone having at his disposal the maps recently issued by the Intelligence Branch of the Quartermaster General's office, we naturally proceed to analyse a few of the details, and we want to know how it could possibly have been known in England on Thursday that Gen. Roberts was at Kelat-i-Ghilzai, except from Col. Tanner's anticipations to that effect; and, still more, how it could have been known that Ayoub Khan's cavalry preceded Roberts on the march from Kelat-i-Ghilzai to Kandahar. Thursday, it must be remembered, was the 26th, and the telegram, therefore, must have left 'Afghanistan' on the 25th. The nearest wires are at Killa Abdulla, as we know, three days by express messenger from Kelat-i-Ghilzai; therefore the news must have left there or Kandahar on the 22nd at latest. But Roberts was not expected by Col. Tanner to reach Kelat-i-Ghilzai until the 24th, 'which is absurd,' as mathematicians have it. We fear the Western Morning News has been hoaxed by some adventurous person, and we shall know in a few days how far its despatch 'from its correspondent in Afghanistan' has been corroborated by official and other news."

REFERRING to the action of Khushk-i-Nakhud the Indian papers state that General Burrows is said to have behaved with great gallantry, doing his best to rally the infantry when the formation was lost.

THE contribution from India to the Princess Alice Memorial Fund is equal in amount to the collection made in all other parts of her Majesty's dominions.

THE gold medal of the United Service Institution has been awarded to Lieut. E. G. Barrow, 7th Bengal Native Infantry, for an essay on "A Transport Service for Asiatic Warfare." The subject for next year's essay is "Military Deductions to be Drawn from the late Campaigns in Afghanistan," the conditions for which are published in the journal of the United Service Institution.

MR. WHITLEY STOKES's Petroleum Bill is published in the Gazette of India. If the Act is passed the provisions relating to dangerous petroleum and the importation of first and second class petroleum will apply to the whole of British India; the rest of the Act applying only to such areas as local governments may from time to time direct. Any person who, in contravention of the Act or of any rules made under it, imports, possesses, or transports petroleum, "shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months or with a fine extending to Rs.1,000, or with both." Section 10 of the bill enacts that all petroleum which is kept, transported or sold, or exposed for sale, shall be contained in vessels which bear an indelible label stating what kind of petroleum it is. The penalty for offending against this section is a fine extending to Rs.100. Should this section become law a good many Indian households will be liable to the fine. But the Pioneer thinks a fine is, of course, a lesser nuisance than an explosion.

WE notice elsewhere the extension of poppy cultivation ordered by the Government in the North West Provinces. Commenting on the anti-opium deputation, and their frivolous objections, the Pioneer says that "there can be no doubt whatever as to the extreme popularity of the industry with all classes of cultivators, great and small. The accounts from the various districts all agree on this point; so far from the people showing any reluctance to grow opium for the Government market, it is becoming every year less possible to comply with all the applications for licenses. It appears rather that the real difficulty the opium agency has to contend with does not lie in securing cultivators, but in endeavouring to comply with all the applications for permission to cultivate. In other words, the general disposition of the industry is to spread, and not to shrink."

THE Department of Finance and Commerce have issued samples of stamped newspaper wrappers, manufactured of coarse strong paper at a cost admitting of their being sold wholesale at the price of the half-anna stamp only. Mr. Lawson, of the Madras Mail, has calculated that the demand would amount to twelve million wrappers per annum, or an abnormal value of Rs.3,75,000. The Bombay journals recommend the issue of overland wrappers also at the value of 1 anna 6 pies.

EXTENSIVE reform is contemplated by the Indian Postal Department. It is stated that the designation of inspectors is to be done away with, and that of superintendents to be substituted in its stead. There will be some sixteen superintendents of postal accounts in all India, to be selected from the superior grades of the present inspectors, on a salary of Rs.500 each per mensem, and a travelling allowance of Rs.5 per diem, or 8 annas per mile. A number of inspecting officers, to be designated divisional superintendents, and selected from all classes of the present inspectors, on the same pay that they now draw, are also to be appointed. Mr. J. Owens, the present supernumerary inspector of the Presidency division, is to be personal assistant to the Postmaster General of Bengal.

AN up-country paper bears "on excellent authority" that one of the first acts of Lord Ripon's Viceroyalty was his lordship's review of our several military positions in Afghanistan, and that foremost among the many sensible remarks recorded in his minute will be found a strong expression of his views on the insufficiency of the force, as he found it, in the neighbourhood of Kandahar.

IT has been notified to the troops at Cabul that six months' batta and compensation will be given to native cavalry for their losses on service.

SOME notes on the Afghan tribes from Kandahar were recently contributed to the journal of the Asiatic Society, Bengal, by Lieut. R. C. Temple, of the 1st Goorkhas, from which we find that nearly all the Afghans living in the Kandahar district are Duranis of the Populzai and Barakzai sections. The Populzais, for the most part, occupy the valley of the Tarnak River as far as Shah-i-Saffa, and the Barakzais the whole valley of the Arghasan up to Meruf. Beyond Shah-i-Saffa, as far as Jaldak, the Alikozai section of the Duranis are found, the Ghilzais not being met with till the neighbourhood of Khelat-i-Ghilzai is reached.

IMPROVEMENTS in the matter of cultivation are being gradually introduced amongst the native farmers. In a recent report on the work of the Cawnpore Experimental Farm, Mr. Wright, of the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, N.W.P. and Oudh, states that the superior results of "ploughing" in the European method to "grubbing" with the native implement have been proved beyond a fear of question. Numbers of applications for as well as inquiries about the "Kaiser" plough (an implement used on the Cawnpore Farm) are received by the department, and its use is extending gradually over the whole province. The farmers, too, are showing their desire to take advantage of other improvements which various kinds of agricultural machinery in common use in Europe would afford them. For instance, applications for winnowers are often made to Mr. Wright's department, and threshing machines, also, are inquired about, but the cost of the latter is too great to allow of the department as yet taking any steps towards their introduction.

THE efforts to improve the British Burma police force have not borne any very satisfactory fruit so far. During 1879 the number of policemen was increased, and the pay of the lower grades was raised with a view to securing a better class of men. But the report on the police administration of the province for the year shows that the proportion of dismissals was even higher than in the previous twelve months, and the departmental punishments continued very numerous. It does not appear that the fault lies with the lower grades only, as we read that "the proportion of officers punished was still much higher than that of men." There is no lack of police work in the province, to judge from the statistics contained in the report just to hand. During 1879 there were ninety-nine murders investigated. The motive in the majority of cases was plunder, and the next most prolific cause was jealousy. Of attempted murder there were eighteen cases, and of culpable homicide fifteen. Dacoities found work for the police in twenty-five instances; robberies in 103; house-breaking (evidently a favourite form of crime with the Burmese), 586; cattle thefts (another much affected pastime), 741; and "ordinary thefts," 7,920. And a point repeatedly insisted on is that "detection was not good."

The accounts of the trade and navigation of British India for the first three months of the current financial year, as compared with those for the corresponding period of last year, show that the value of merchandise imported was Rs.11,53,59,008 as against Rs.8,44,04,430, and that of merchandise exported Rs.20,46,96,474 as against Rs.17,13,48,637. The value of treasure imported was Rs.2,92,23,272 as against Rs.3,24,93,950, and that of treasure exported Rs.35,31,592 as against Rs.1,09,38,861. The gross amount of import duty collected was Rs.96,16,981, as against Rs.92,49,875, and that of export duty collected Rs.17,59,650 as against Rs.16,69,561.

DURING the week ending July 24 there were 161 deaths in Calcutta, being a death-rate of 19.5 per 1,000 per annum. During the same week deaths in Madras numbered 256, a death-rate of 33.4 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay during the week ending 27th ultimo, there were 359 deaths, a death-rate of 27.27 per 1,000 per annum.

THE Times of India contains the following obituary of the week:—Lieut. A. E. Dobson, R.E., Afghanistan; Lieut. H. H. S. Spoor, 25th Regiment, Afghanistan; Dr. Watson, 13th Bengal Lancers, Peiwar Kotal, Afghanistan; Surgeon Noad, A.M.D., of cholera, at Allahabad; Mr. Alfred Pengelly, deputy conservator of forests, Punjab; Mrs. Greaves, wife of Major General Greaves, adjutant general; Mr. C. Grant, Darjiling; Mr. G. E. Cornelius, Allahabad; Mr. S. Bagram, Madras; Mr. W. H. Jackson, Dharmasala.

THE OFFICERS KILLED IN THE SORTIE.

Brigadier General Henry Francis Brooke, late 109th Foot, received his commission on June 6, 1854; became a lieutenant May 15, 1855; captain September 4, 1858; major February 15, 1861; lieutenant colonel December 29, 1871; colonel February 3, 1877. He was field adjutant general, Bombay, with local rank of brigadier general. He landed with the 48th Regiment in the Crimea on April 21, 1855, and served at the siege and fall of Sebastopol (medal, with clasp, and Turkish medal). He served throughout the campaign of 1860 in China as aide de camp to Sir Robert Napier, and was present at the actions of Sinho and Tangku, the assault of the Taku forts (several wounded), and the final advance on and surrender of Pekin (brevet of major, medal, with two clasps). Captain George Macdonald Cruickshank, of the Royal Engineers (late Bombay Engineers), received his commission as first lieutenant on June 8, 1860, and became a captain on September 1, 1871. He was executive engineer, 3rd grade, D.P.W., Satara. Lieut. Col. William Henry Newport, Bombay S.C., of the 28th Bombay Native Infantry, received his commission on December 7, 1855; became a lieutenant October 4, 1857; a captain December 7, 1867; brevet major December 8, 1867; major December 7, 1875; and brevet lieutenant colonel December 16, 1876. He became second in command and wing commander of the 28th on June 1, 1878. He served in the Indian mutiny campaign, and was present at the siege and capture of Ratghur, action at Baroda, relief of Saugur, capture of Garrakota, forcing of the Muddenpore Pass, siege and storm of Jhansi, battle of the Betwa, storm of Lohari (severely wounded), actions at Koonch, Muttra, Galowlee, capture of Calpee, battle and capture of Gwalior (medal, with clasp, and brevet of major). Major Richard John Le Poer Trench, of the 19th Bombay Native Infantry, and of the General List of Bombay Infantry officers, became an ensign September 3, 1859; lieutenant January 1, 1862; captain October 31, 1869; and major Sept. 3, 1879. He was appointed wing officer and quartermaster of the 19th, July 6, 1875. He was officiating second in command and wing commander. Lieut. Francis Charles Stayner, Bombay S.C., also of the 19th, late of the 5th Foot, received his commission February 12, 1877. He was officiating wing officer and adjutant of the 19th. The telegram from the Viceroy gives among the officers killed the name of Lieut. Francis Stevenson instead of that of Lieut. F. C. Stayner, as reported by the Times correspondent and by Reuter. Lieut. Francis Stevenson, Bombay S.C., also of the 19th, late of the 105th Foot, received his commission Feb. 8, 1870, and became a lieutenant Oct. 28, 1871. He became wing officer and adjutant of the 19th, March 2, 1878. He was officiating wing commander in the regiment. Second Lieut. Frederic Philip Foster Wood, of the 7th (Royal Fusiliers), received his commission Jan. 30, 1878. Second Lieut. Edward Swaine Marsh, also of the Fusiliers, received his commission Jan. 22, 1879. The Rev. George Maxwell Gordon was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, where he took his B.A. degree in 1861, and M.A. in 1864. He was ordained a deacon in 1862, a priest in 1863. He became a missionary of the Church Missionary Society in 1866; was chaplain at Madras from 1866 to 1871; and in 1871 was moved to North India, and stationed at Pind Dadun Khan, Punjab.

THE LATE GENERAL BROOKE.

THE Kandahar News of July 22 says:—"Yesterday morning, as General Brooke and Major Adam, assistant quartermaster general, with eight troopers of the Puna Horse, were returning from the Argandab up the Moorcha Kotul, they were fired upon by some men from behind the rocks above. The general, Major Adams, and half the men dismounted, and, taking each a carbine, slowly ascended the pass, returning the fire of their assailants and thus forced their way through the Kotul, driving the enemy up the hill-side. A trooper was now sent off to camp to fetch some infantry, and ere long a company of the 4th Rifles arrived, and climbing up the sides of the hill, searched everywhere for the ruffians, but without success, owing to the numerous caves about, and the precipitous nature of the mountain at its summit, which is quite inaccessible to any one but mountaineers. Only four men were seen at any one time, but, judging from the rapidity of their fire, there must have been many more—probably the band who stole into camp on Sunday night last and fired into the cavalry patrol. One horse, belonging to the escort of Puna Horse, was killed, the men of which worked admirably; two of them accompanying Major Adam as near the summit of the mountain as the precipices would allow. It was the firing at Moorcha Kotul which produced the scare in the city yesterday, everybody thinking that Ayoub Khan had arrived and was forcing his way into Kandahar."

MILITARY MOVEMENTS.

MAJOR WHITE, military secretary to the Viceroy, has left Simla to rejoin his old regiment, the 92nd Highlanders, and two other members of his Excellency's staff, Captain Barrington Foote and Captain Muir, have volunteered and been accepted for service. The 5-8th R.A. Mountain Battery, which has been under orders for the front some time, left Kirkee for Sibi on Aug. 1 by rail, and another brigade of troops was despatched from Bombay via Karachi on Aug. 9. The Bombay Brigade will consist of the 78th Highlanders, the 13th N.I., and the 15th N.I. One battery of artillery, two regiments of British infantry (2-2nd and 63rd), one regiment of native cavalry, and four regiments of native infantry, Bengal and the Punjab, have received orders to be in immediate readiness for active service. The Pioneer says that the reinforcements for Kandahar include from Bengal H.I. R.A. Mooltan; 15th Hussars, Meerut; 63rd Foot, Umballa; 3rd Bengal N.I., Dinapore; 4th Bengal N.I. and 8th Bengal Cavalry, Mooltan. General Phayre's command will include 2-11th Foot, 2-15th Foot, D-B R.H.A., F-2 R.A., 5-8th R.A., No. 2 Bombay Mountain Battery, 2nd Bombay Light Cavalry, 2nd Sind Horse, 1st Madras Light Cavalry, 3 companies Sappers, and 5th, 10th, and 16th, 8th, 9th, and 27th Bombay N.I. These will remain on the line, and at Quetta 23rd and 24th Bombay N.I., 4-9th R.A., and 1st Sind Horse.

THE PRINCESS ALICE MEMORIAL FUND.

ON this subject the following letter has been addressed to the private secretary to the Viceroy by Admiral Horton, treasurer to the London Committee:—"Dear Sir,—I write to acknowledge the receipt of a letter with enclosure from you by the last mail, dated Simla, May 31. On behalf of the London Committee of the Alice Memorial Fund I take the first opportunity of expressing the high sense of obligation under which the zealous efforts of those who have co-operated with us in India have placed us, and to offer you our best thanks, as well as to all concerned in making the collection, which will have been duly acknowledged by Messrs. Coutts and Company. I will only add the remark that the contribution from India is equal in amount to the collection made in all other parts of her Majesty's dominions, completes the amount sought for the purpose in view, and will enable the trustees, with the concurrence of his Royal Highness the Grand Duke of Hesse, to place the Alice Hospital on a permanent basis. Other charities founded by the late Princess Alice have also received the support which was required to ensure their continuance in memory of her Royal Highness."

CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

THE following are the names of the gentlemen selected in 1878 who, after two years' training in this country, have passed the final examination:—

I. CANDIDATES SELECTED AT EASTER, 1878.

Order of merit.	Names.	Presidency or division of presidency to which assigned.
1 ...	John Denman	N. W. Provinces.
2 ...	Paul Gregory Melitus	Lower Provinces.
3 ...	Thomas John Kennedy	N. W. Provinces.
4 ...	Ramsay Douglas Broadfoot	Madras.
5 ...	James Richard Holt	N. W. Provinces.
6 ...	Arthur Stephen Moriarty	Bombay.
7 ...	Leslie Melville Thornton	N. W. Provinces.
8 ...	Henry Moberly	Madras.

THE ISSUE OF PAPER CURRENCY.

IN his report on the operations of this department for the year 1878-79 Mr. Waterfield states that the net profit for the year amounted to Rs.18,76,585-8-10, against Rs.19,64,654-12-10 in the previous year, showing a decrease this year of Rs.88,069-4. But another indirect profit derived by the State from the management of the currency balances became important in the year under review, and has been still more so in 1879-80. It may be safely assumed that the circulation is not likely again to fall to eleven crores, which it last surmounted in June, 1876, while only six crores of the value can by law be invested. The remaining five crores and upwards sufficed to provide for the perfect convertibility of the notes, in addition to purchasing the enormous amounts of bullion imported in 1877-78. When there is no such abnormal strain upon the reserve there is a very large sum which cannot be really wanted until the head commissioner has had ample warning of an approaching pressure, and time to strengthen the threatened post. Until then the reserve, provided it is kept intact and solely under the orders of the currency officers, may safely remain in any part of India that happens to be convenient. This is made useful in two ways: first, passively, as, for instance, the revenues of the Madras East Coast come in after the crops are harvested and purchased; the silver is not required on the spot until next year, nor can it be removed except at considerable cost; but Government cannot afford to let the balance lie idle—it is therefore paid into the Cocanada Currency office, and the head commissioner, on being advised of the credit, pays a corresponding amount into the Calcutta Treasury. When silver is again wanted by the Madras merchants, they pay the Madras Currency Commissioner, who gives them bills on the Cocanada Sub-Circle, or, if the silver is not needed on the spot, the Comptroller General can pay money into the Calcutta Currency-office, and obtain an order for Cocanada to ship silver for Rangoon, where it can be sold at a profit which will cover the cost of freight. Again, the Behar revenues, collected from the cold weather crops, will be wanted on the spot in spring for opium payments. They must therefore lie there idle, or bear the expense of carriage to Calcutta and back again. They are paid into the Behar Currency chests, and the Calcutta Treasury gets the use of an equivalent from the head commissioner, repaying the Currency Department when the opium season comes round, upon which the head commissioner can give an assignment on one of his branch chests. The second mode of assisting the revenues is active. The head commissioner despatches a large portion of his surplus to any province in which he expects large expenditure, such as Sind or the Punjab. When money is needed, the Accountant General telegraphs his wants. The Comptroller General pays a corresponding sum into the Calcutta Currency, and the head commissioner telegraphs to his deputy to issue the sums required. This arrangement is amply safe if carefully managed, for almost all the offices are connected by railways, and money can, on any emergency, be called in and concentrated; while, but for this assistance, the Treasury business of the State could not have been carried on this year without a far larger cash balance than would have been easily provided.—Gazette of India.

REPORT ON THE LINE OF COMMUNICATIONS.

KARACHI, AUGUST 6.—The following details regarding the disposition of our troops on this side of Kandahar have been received by the Commissioner of Sind:—A convoy was attacked while returning from Killa Abdulla to Quetta very early on the 3rd instant. A large number of tribesmen assembled near Dinar Karez, when the havildar of the 10th Native Infantry, who was in command of the escort, showed much skill in resisting the attack. They lost one naigue, two sepoy, and three cartmen, who were killed. Sixty Beluch Guides and 100 infantry under Capt. Mosby marched from Quetta on the 3rd to punish marauders near Gazabund Pass on the 4th. A skirmish took place near Chaman, and twenty of the enemy were killed. We had three men wounded and five horses killed. At the entrance to the Khojak Pass on the south side the tribes have built strong sanghars. Major Westmacott while en route to Killa Abdulla was attacked, but beat the assailants. At Gulistan Karez the field telegraph is now at work. Col. James has proceeded to the Khojak Pass with 100 men of the 2-11th Regiment and 200 of the 10th Native Infantry. Two hundred rifles 10th Native Infantry and fifty sabres 2nd Sind Horse under Major Blowers reached Killa Abdulla on August 4, and proceeded to the crest of the Khojak Pass. Two thousand five hundred transport bullocks reached Sibi safely via the Murrree Hills. The Karachi Civil and Military Gazette states that from Shorewak supplies are going freely to Gulistan. The Chaman post has been made strong. Colonel Lindsay had reached Killa Abdulla, and the crest of the Khojak is already occupied by 200 men of the 11th, 300 of the 9th Native Infantry, and two mountain guns. There are 200 of the 10th at Gulistan, the headquarters of which are at Quetta. The two small posts at Nasik and Shor have been withdrawn. Near Poongi the Nasik party was attacked by eighty Pathans. Of these two or three were killed, and one sowar on our side. A convoy near Spentangi was also attacked, but the attacking party was beaten with eighty killed. Lieut. Tobin, 23rd Native Infantry, has received the thanks of the general for his admirable tact and management. The Madras Cavalry left on 5th for Kushdil Khan. On the 6th it was reported from Quetta that all was going on well, and that the excitement among the tribes had abated. Between Killa Abdulla and Shaman skirmishing took place in the Khojak Pass, Major Morse, 9th Native Infantry, being slightly wounded. The enemy were easily driven out from their sanghars by our mountain guns. Everything has been stopped on the railway line between Sibi and Quetta. A new extension to the Bolan is being constructed by Storey, executive engineer. Armstrong builds the bridge over Narford, and Monk does the platelaying.—Times of India Supplement.

THE BANK OF BOMBAY.—The annual meeting of the Bank of Bombay was held on August 4, under the presidency of Mr. J. Thorburn, who, in moving the reception and adoption of the report, spoke hopefully of the condition of the bank. He remarked that although the past season had not been what he would call a money-making one for the bank, the average rate of interest throughout the year on short loans on Government paper not having exceeded 5½ per cent., the reported increase in both their exports and imports indicated that the Presidency was rapidly recovering from the disastrous effects of the famine years, and he thought, favoured with a succession of good average seasons, they might look forward with some degree of confidence to more prosperous times. Mr. Dinshaw Manesjee Petit seconded the motion. In reply to Mr. Nowrozjee Furdoojee, the chairman, stated that the suggestions made by Mr. Payne at the last annual meeting of the bank had been fully considered; and the remarks he then made forwarded to Government, but no reply had yet been received. The motion for the reception and adoption of the report was carried unanimously, and after several formal motions had been put and carried, the meeting separated.—At the annual meeting of the Bank of Madras the other day the president explained that the dividend was comparatively small because low rates of interest prevailed last year. He considered it a matter of congratulation that the gross profits were well sustained.—Times of India.

THE HARBOUR OF KARACHI.—In his recent speech at the meeting of the Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway Company, Sir Richard Temple said that if Karachi only had a first-rate harbour, like Bombay or Calcutta, it would become one of the greatest ports in all Asia, for it was the port for the communication—military, political, and commercial—between England and Upper India and India and the Afghan frontier. The Civil and Military Gazette (Sind issue) says "there is no occasion for Sir Richard to take a despondent view of this port. The influx of tonnage into it, both square-rigged and native craft, has been greater this year than it was last year, and there has not been a single casualty among them. There are men among us whose prejudices carry them to the extreme of obstinate scepticism, and induce them, in spite of their convictions, to look at the black side of the picture, and to ignore altogether the existence of the bright one. Can anything more conclusive than the recent reports of the harbour engineer be adduced in refutation of the ridiculous idea which seems to have got hold of some people that our harbour is too small for the admission of large ships? We have now a direct channel 500 feet in width, 20 feet deep at low water, and half a mile in length, which is sheltered by the Manora breakwater, and through it vessels with a draught of 22 feet can, as we have repeatedly stated before, pass without the slightest difficulty during the south-west monsoon, and during the fair season up to 24 feet draught, that is, two feet more than her Majesty's Indian troopships."

PERMANENT OCCUPATION OF KANDAHAR.—A memorial for general signature has been issued by the Patriotic Association, urging upon her Majesty's Government the great importance of a permanent military occupation of Kandahar and of such other points in Afghanistan as are strategically important. The retention of such a military centre as Kandahar, the memorial points out, would not overstrain our resources; whilst the advantages that would result to British commerce could not be overestimated. The following signatures have already been obtained:—Duke of Wellington, Earl of Denbigh, Earl of Romney, Lord Blantyre, Lord Waveney, Lord O'Neil, Sir H. Hoare, Sir F. Knowles, Sir J. Gardiner Baird, General Sir C. Reid, Admiral Sir G. Broke Middleton, Lieutenant General Sir G. Lawrence, Major General Sir Henry Green, Colonel Malleon, Mr. H. Trafford, Mr. Basil Fitzherbert, and Mr. W. P. Andrew. The list is open for signature at 46A, Pall-mall.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.—The returns of accidents on Indian railways for the months of October, November, and December last show, we regret to say, a very considerable increase in the number of deaths, owing chiefly, however, to the alarming catastrophe which occurred to a mail train on the Madras line. Altogether 110 persons, including railway servants, lost their lives, and 160 were injured, against eighty-four killed and 103 injured during the corresponding three months in 1878. Of the thirty-two deaths of passengers, twenty-two are attributed to the Chinnamapet accident, and the remainder are said to have been due to "misconduct or want of caution" on the part of the passengers themselves. In the same way the forty-nine persons who were injured on the Madras Railway were injured "from causes beyond their own control," but the other fifteen were, according to official report, themselves to blame. Seven railway servants were killed from causes beyond their own control, thirty-four from misconduct or want of caution, two persons whilst passing at level crossings—whether from "causes beyond their own control" or from "misconduct or want of caution" the companies concerned do not explain—thirty persons killed were trespassers or suicides; and the remaining five are dismissed as "other persons," no cause as to how they came by their death being assigned. The accidents to trains, rolling-stock, permanent way, &c., are placed at 594 against 711, but it is explained that the returns of minor accidents on the East Indian Railway have been eliminated from these returns. Eighteen collisions between passenger and other trains occurred, but they were not attended with any loss of life, and only two persons, railway servants, were injured. Among other "accidents" enumerated are twenty-six collisions between goods trains, seven cases of passenger trains leaving the rails, eighty-nine of goods trains, engines, &c., leaving the rails; fourteen of trains or engines travelling in the wrong direction through points—from, we suppose, causes beyond their own control; two of trains running into stations or sidings at too high speed; twelve of bursting of boilers or tubes of engines; forty-seven failures of engine machinery, one of tyres (a similar failure caused a fearful accident in England four years ago), ten of axles, and fifty-four of couplings. There were sixty-four cases of fire in trains; but happily the fires were discovered in time to prevent any loss of life. It should also be mentioned that, besides the list of killed from the working of trains referred to above, eighty-five additional passengers met their deaths either in carriages or at railway stations.—Times of India.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

DISPUTED POINTS OF INDIAN FINANCE.*

THE pamphlet which has been published by Mr. Cunningham can certainly claim to be a most timely one. The occurrence of the singular error in the estimate of the outlay incurred by the Government of India has served in the minds of many half-informed people to confirm the views confidently and loudly expressed as to the imprudent and unskilful handling of the Indian finances, resulting in a sort of bankruptcy, and accompanied by an increasingly intolerable pressure of excessive taxation. Mr. Cunningham disdains the use of needless verbiage, and avoids what he might well be tempted to indulge in—viz., scathing censure of those who wilfully or ignorantly deal in the customary misstatements of the pessimist Indo-maniacs, as the Indian journal elsewhere quoted justly styles them. In the pages of the little work, the size of which bears the same relation to the information contained in it that the bulk of the most compressed form of Kopf and Co.'s food does to the nutriment therein contained, Mr. Cunningham simply presents an array of facts and figures, before which whole articles of sensational monthly writers recoil in confusion and rout. The state of things with which the Finance Minister was called upon to deal after the mutiny is taken as the point of departure, but the degree to which the resources of the Government for forty years previous to the mutiny and during that event, i.e., up to 1860, sufficed to establish an equilibrium between revenue and expenditure, is shown in a table which enables the reader to start with a clear idea of the subject. From the year 1860 the relation between revenue and expenditure is clearly shown; the distribution of the items of the public debt of India is made plain, and the large amount expended on productive public works, and on public improvements, the returns from which cannot be estimated in money, but are almost inestimable in material benefit, is patiently and exactly analysed. Mr. Cunningham carries the reader on to the conclusion that Indian finances have, since the establishment of the budget system, succeeded in maintaining an equilibrium between revenue and expenditure, that the debt has been increased only for purposes, remunerative to the Government and beneficial to the country, and that the charge for interest does not increase, and that the Government is solvent and in no danger of ceasing to be so. Turning to the question of the incidence of taxation, Mr. Cunningham reviews successively the several items which make up the forty-one millions of revenue which he justly considers, as representing the actual taxes paid by the population of India. The land revenue, taken as a percentage on the estimated gross value of crops, is shown to be 3.9 per cent. in Bengal, a little over 7 per cent. in the North West Provinces and Oudh and in Bombay, while the real comparative lightness of the burden is made evident by comparison of the value of the land. But for those who like simple facts we may quote the statement that, assuming the landowning classes to be 55 per cent. of the population, the incidence of the land revenue and provincial rates is about 4s. per head, while that of the salt tax, computed on the population who pay it, is 7d. per head, and the much-petitioned-against license tax oppresses the trading classes, numbering twenty-eight millions to the effect of 4d. each. We leave to our readers the profitable task of discovering the actual state of the Indian finances as arrived at by the author of this timely and useful work, for which he deserves the thanks of all who wish to know the best and the worst, and prefer facts to sensational fictions.

FROM SAMARCAND TO HERAT.*

IN December, 1878, the Foreign-office received information from the British Minister at Teheran relative to the passage of a Russian officer from Tashkend, via Balkh and Herat, to Meshed. With curious inaccuracy in details the name of the said officer was described as resembling "Kerdinoff." The actual facts concerning the ride of Col. Grodekoff have been translated from the Russian original of that officer's narrative by Mr. Marvin and presented with instructive comments to that portion of the English public who pay attention to the increasing efforts which Russia is making to assert her influence over the territories bordering upon our Indian Empire. Col. Grodekoff unquestionably deserves all the credit due to the man who undertakes a gallant enterprise whereof the endurance and the hazard fully rival our own Col. Burnaby's ride to Khiva. That his success obtained the recognition it deserved from the Czar is almost a matter of course, just as much as it is that enterprises like that of Col. Burnaby, or Major Butler should meet either with scant acknowledgment, or, as in the case of the latter, with quasi punishment. Mr. Marvin deserves credit and thanks for the bright and clear version in which we are enabled to learn so much of the gallant Russian officer's experiences as it was thought fit and proper to make public. Nor does he deserve less thanks for the comments which he has added by way of correction to the statement of Col. Grodekoff, that Merv is not the key of Herat. It is instructive to learn that Col. Grodekoff, who makes so little of the importance of Merv, has been attached to the expedition of Gen. Skobelev, after being detained at St. Petersburg for the purpose of consultation. Mr. Marvin remarks that once the Russians obtain possession of Merv it will not be long before the road to Herat undergoes such improvements as will make it fit for the advance of an army in time of war; and, although Col. Grodekoff insists strongly on the insurmountable difficulties of the road from the Murghab, observes, "that the best answer would probably be given by Col. Grodekoff himself were he military governor of Merv, and under orders to capture Herat." The narrative of the journey is instructive, not only on account of the difficulties overcome and the roads traversed, but for the comments which, whether based on actual experience or not, showed the purpose and intention approved by Gen. Kauffmann, who thoroughly approved and offered in every way to assist the adventurous officer. The history, though briefly given, of the recent subjugation of the Khanates which constitute Afghan-Turkestan serves to make more impressive the repeated statements that the Uzbeks are longing for the advent of the Russian deliverer. To be subjects of the Government of Tashkend is represented as the one hope of the subjects of the Ameer. So, again, the misdeeds of the Turkoman marauders are made the most of, not, indeed, that they can be said to be exaggerated. The object, however, is to show that the success of the Russian expedition against the Tekke tribes will be hailed with thanksgiving by the inhabitants of the countries exposed to their predatory incursions. The light thrown upon the opinions and feelings of the Afghan tribes of Turkestan is well illustrated by the conversations held with Khosh Deel Khan, the Lueenaib, or Governor General of Afghan-Turkestan. About this personage there is a controversy going on, or, rather, contradictory statements are made. Some assert that he is at present with Ayub Khan, assisting by his counsels the campaign against Kandahar. Mr. Marvin has elsewhere stated his opinion that Gholam Hyder Khan, who succeeded to the governorship of Afghan-Turkestan after Col. Grodekoff's Lueenaib had been compelled to flee, is the chief who is the connecting link between our newly-appointed Ameer and our chief enemy in Afghanistan. We confess to a certain feeling of Didymus-like disbelief of Col. Grodekoff's statements, both as to their positive and negative value, but they have an unquestionable use in showing us what Gen. Kauffmann wants to be believed, and the concluding remarks of the translator on the future contact and relations of Russia and England in Central Asia receive our thorough approval for showing, on the other hand, what our statesmen ought to believe and carry into practice.

* "Col. Grodekoff's Route from Samarcand to Herat." Translated by CHARLES MARVIN. WM. H. ALLEN and Co.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE PUBLIC WORKS REDUCTIONS.

THE following letter has been addressed to a daily contemporary, and the case detailed can doubtless be taken as a type of many others:—

"Sir,—Lord Hartington, in his speech on the Indian Budget, mentions the retirement of 243 civil engineers from the Public Works. He does not say, as was really the case, that those officers were retired in violation of their covenants, on very inadequate terms, and that the highest pension granted was £160 per annum, with a gratuity of one month's pay for every year's service not exceeding twelve. Thus, officers who were drawing comfortable incomes, varying from £600 to £2,000 per annum, have been dismissed to keep a roof over their heads, feed themselves and families, and educate their children, on rather over £3 a week. Without discussing generalities, however, I will, with your permission, state my own case, which may fairly be taken as one of average hardship. At this time last year I was in the receipt of over £1,200 per annum. I had served Government over ten years. In another five years, according to the terms of my covenant, I should have been entitled to a liberal pension. My health was good, my character irreproachable, my experience large and varied, and further, my qualifications as an engineer had been attested by the Government of India in a special resolution; yet without any warning I find my name, though I was in active employment at the time, gazetted as compulsorily retired on the pittance I have mentioned. I at once appealed to the Governor General in Council. I have every reason to believe that my appeal got no further than a head clerk in the establishment branch of the Public Works Department, though the right of appeal is secured to every officer by Act of Parliament. I appealed a second time with no better result. I then came to England and saw the late Under Secretary for Public Works at the India-office, and showed him my covenant, which stated that I was brought on to the permanent establishment, with all its contingent advantages of pension, leave, &c. This official, after looking at my covenant, was pleased to inform me that when Government covenanted to place me on the permanent establishment it did not mean what it said—in short, that when permanent was mentioned temporary was intended. I humbly ventured to suggest that whatever might be the interpretation of permanent employment, at all events it was evident that employment was guaranteed me till I had served for pension, provided I was capable of fulfilling the duties of my situation; that I had served ten years out of the fifteen requisite to obtain it; and that thus in any case I was entitled to employment for another five years. I was then told not to argue, and my interview was then closed. I am told that the law is open to my fellow-sufferers and myself, and that our case is so strong that it must go against Government; but how are we to raise the money that is to give us justice? Dismissed in violation of our agreements at a moment's notice, we had to sell our property in India at a great sacrifice, and had to find our way back to England, some from Rangoon, others from the extremity of the Punjab, at our own expense, and every sixpence we have is wanted to purchase food and raiment for our families.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

OFFICERS' REMITTANCES.

MILITARY officers serving in India have as many grievances as the Egyptians laboured under in the plague time. The only difference is that one affliction is not removed before another is imposed; the unfortunate officers have to bear the accumulated pressure of the whole at once. We have heard a good deal lately about the several grievances peculiar to the Staff Corps, which have raised a storm of indignation that threatens to culminate in an organised opposition; and there are numerous other causes of complaint which apply generally to all officers serving in this country. Not the least of these grievances are those arising out of the depraved conduct of the rupee in obstinately refusing to be worth the two shillings to which our schoolbooks confidently assured us the coin ought to be equivalent. The argument that the pay of Government servants should not be allowed to be affected by fluctuations in exchange, but that deficiencies so caused should be made good by Government, meets with less and less sympathy, but where there is an express contract the Government is bound to abide by its terms. A blow which is keenly felt by military men was struck at their privileges, or, to speak more correctly, their rights, when the order was issued putting a stop to the drawing of furlough pay at the rate of two shillings to the rupee, and making it payable at the current rate of exchange only. This step appears to be a deliberate violation of the contract between Government and its officers. In another direction cheese-parings have been going on which are very distasteful to those affected by them. Officers of the Indian Army are allowed to send home a certain proportion of their pay at the Government rate of exchange, which this year is 1s. 8½d. The scale is—in the case of a lieutenant, £70 a year; a captain, £100; a major, £150; a lieutenant colonel, £200; a colonel, £300; and a major general, £400. Such remittances have always been supposed, according to the strict letter of the order sanctioning them, to be made for the use of the families of the officers who send them; but the amounts mentioned, in the case of the junior officers particularly, are so small that it has not been considered a culpable evasion of the rules to take advantage of various little contrivances for transmitting larger sums. Now, however, Government has determined to restrict the privilege to the letter of the order. A notification has just been issued, under the heading "Pay and allowances—family remittances to England and the Colonies," in which it is set forth that the Secretary of State has called the attention of the Government of India to the fact that the rules have been frequently disregarded by remitters. Amongst the means of evasion described as having been adopted are—remitting money to banking or other firms, the remittance being described as for the benefit of the remitter's relations, but actually made with a view to being placed to the credit of the remitter's account or invested for his benefit; remitting sums for the purchase of goods to be sent out to India; and remitting more than the full amount allowed by the regulations, by means of the assistance of brother officers or comrades who have not availed themselves of their full privilege. The notification, after describing the irregularities which it seeks to prevent, goes on to define the relationships recognised by the military authorities as being sufficiently close to warrant the sending of remittances. It is interesting to know that "commissioned and warrant officers and chaplains" are permitted to class as "immediate relatives" their wives, children, grandchildren, parents, grandfathers or grandmothers, father-in-law, or mother-in-law, step-fathers or step-mothers, brothers or sisters, half-brothers or sisters, and brothers-in-law, or sisters-in-law, while "other relatives" such as uncles, nephews, and cousins are excluded. The sting of the new regulation is in the last paragraph, which contains a requirement that remittances must in future be certified by "the responsible officers" to be for the benefit of the persons specified, and not for the payment of purchases, or of debts, or for the personal benefit or use of the remitters; and further, that the amounts are strictly sent by the remitters named and not on behalf of any other individuals."

INDO-MANIACS.

THE Indo-maniacs at home are giving Lord Hartington a great deal of trouble. Happily he has so far opposed to them a resolute front. They seem to expect that he will at once issue a series of orders overruling, without inquiry or hesitation, the various institutions in this country which the free lances of the Liberal party have employed as fulcra for hoisting the Tories out of office. But the noble marquis, though politician enough to have accepted the help offering itself in the shape of agitation against the Vernacular Press Act, the Afghan war, flogging in Indian gaols, and the opium revenue, is statesman enough to handle these subjects carefully as soon as he comes to power, and to find evasive answers for the excited champions of inconsiderate abolition. The opium crotcheteers have had their innings in Parliament and have not put up any score worth notice. The anti-flogging party, as we see by the papers last received, has been pecking at the Secretary of State in turn, and asking questions as to the precise distinction between flogging as understood in Europe and whipping as known to the Indian law, which the discreet Minister seems to have shrunk, either through modesty or ignorance, from differentiating in the way desired. He could only undertake to consult the Government of India on the subject. Finally, he has boldly thrown over the troublesome allies who concern themselves specially with the Arms Act and the Vernacular Press Act. He could not agree to any hasty reversal of legislative measures of the former Government, and only admitted that the operation of the Vernacular Press Act must be carefully watched. Lord Ripon himself—he told the deputation—deprecated a hasty repeal of this measure. And the assurance is comforting to the friends of intelligent progress in India. To convert British hobby-riders in a matter of this kind would be a hopeless task; but it has probably been easy for his advisers out here to show a cool-headed Viceroy that the object of the Vernacular Press Act and its effect have not been to cramp the legitimate liberty of the Press, but simply to provide for the growth in this country of an intelligent conception of what liberty of the Press really means—to restrain, meanwhile, the scandalous system of extortion by slander, on which some of the native papers used mainly to subsist, and to guard an ignorant and impressionable people from the poisonous falsehoods concerning the facts and motives of British administration in India which were formerly disseminated with an impunity which roused the righteous indignation of everyone capable of understanding the consequences of what was going on. It would be difficult to imagine, in reference to the minor details of government in this country, a policy which would be more idiotic than one involving the reckless destruction of the careful and moderate safeguards against seditious agitation which the Vernacular Press Act set up. The evil dealt with was bad enough when the Act under discussion was passed; it would spring up with redoubled intensity if, by the abolition of the Act, the mischief-makers, the treason-mongers, and the coiners of false accusations, who have been silenced of late, were formally invited to resume their operations, and invested with the dignity of political martyrs restored to freedom. Almost without the specific application of its penalties, the Vernacular Press Act has sufficed, by the mere force of the warning it conveyed, to cleanse the current literature of the Indian people from some of its worst impurities. A report on the working of the Act, prefaced by a clear account of the evils it was intended to redress, would carry on its face a triumphant refutation of the nonsense to which the Secretary of State was no doubt treated by the recent deputation.—Pioneer.

WHIPPING AS A PUNISHMENT IN INDIA.

WHILE good-natured philanthropists and politicians in England are disposed to bring about the abolition of whipping as a punishment in India, judges out here generally are alive to a sense of the fact that whipping is the only powerful deterrent of crime in the eyes of hardened offenders in this country. Mr. Justice Kernan, who is now presiding at the High Court sessions, has had considerable experience with the criminal classes of this Presidency and as to the sort of punishment best suited to them. During his seat on the bench of the High Court, extending nearly over ten years, he has tried both imprisonment and transportation as a means of repressing the criminal proclivities of the prisoners standing at the bar before him and the mode of dealing he has adopted at the present sessions shows that his shrewd observation has led him to the conclusion that, after all, whipping is the right form of punishment to be had recourse to, if the real object of punishment is to deter others from crime, or cause a reformation in the criminal himself. In a recent issue we took occasion to contrast the comforts of a criminal in the gaols with the hardships of a ryot who is honestly endeavouring to earn his daily bread, and out of that earning has to pay for the comforts enjoyed by the criminal. His lordship's sentiments in the matter appear pretty much to agree with the opinion we have expressed, for yesterday, in sentencing a hardened old offender, who had spent nearly ten years of his life in gaol, to receive one hundred lashes, his lordship hoped that the punishment would make the prisoner see the value of honest labour, and that it was not right for him to wish to live on the industry of others. In the magistrates' courts, also, the use of the cat has recently been freely resorted to than formerly, and there can be no doubt that if this mode of punishment is persevered in, notwithstanding the hubbub now and again occasioned by some maudlin philanthropists, the registers of crime will soon show a marked improvement.—Madras Times.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

DEATH OF A MISSIONARY.—News has been received by telegram of the death, in Calcutta, of the Rev. Dr. Wenger, which took place on the 20th inst. Dr. Wenger was one of the oldest and most prominent missionaries in Calcutta, and he had given his special attention to the work of Biblical translation in the Sanskrit and Bengali languages. He was an accomplished Sanskrit scholar, and completed the work commenced by the late Dr. Yates. He translated the historical and prophetic books of the Old Testament and the Gospels and Acts into Sanskrit, putting the poetical parts of the Old Testament into Sanskrit verse. His labours in this department have received high praise from such scholars as Dr. Rajendralala Mitra and the late Professor H. H. Wilson. In Bengali he executed one or two revisions of the translation of the Bible, and parts of it he translated afresh. His version is used by all denominations of Christians in Bengal. Dr. Wenger was a Swiss by birth. He went out to India in 1839, and, with the exception of about three years spent in two visits in Europe, he passed the whole of the intervening period in India. He belonged to the Baptist Missionary Society. Dr. Wenger was in his sixty-ninth year at the time of his decease.—Daily News.

THE BENGAL CANALS.—At the end of the financial year 1878-79 the capital expenditure on the three series of works—Orissa, Midnapore, and Sone—had been Rs.4,93,10,013, and the interest due for the year was Rs.21,59,507. The gross receipts for the year were Rs.8,51,133, and the charges for maintenance and working, Rs.8,05,610, so that the net revenue to set off against interest was only Rs.45,523. Distributed over the several series of works, the net results were, exclusive of interest—Orissa, loss, Rs.57,086; Midnapore, profit, Rs.35,487; Sone, profit, Rs.67,122. This does not sound very encouraging, but if we compare the present results with the past there seems good reason for hope. The gross receipts have more than doubled in the last three years, and the irrigated area has more than trebled. The figures are given below:—

		Gross receipts.	Area.
		Rs.	Acres.
1876-77	...	3,29,760	98,882
1877-78	...	4,94,772	360,104
1878-79	...	8,51,133	366,999

This increase seems to point to a permanent growth in canal irrigation, and not to be due to the seasons; for the rainfall of 1878-79 was an average one, while that of the two preceding years was deficient.—Pioneer.

EXTENSION OF OPIUM.—The Government of India has ordered the extension of poppy cultivation to the Agra, Muttra, Aligarh, and Moradabad Districts of these Provinces, in addition to an increase in the area in districts where the cultivation at present exists. A considerable increase in the staff of the department, European and native, has also been sanctioned. Mr. H. Rivett-Carnac, C.I.E., the opium agent, to whom the necessary measures have been entrusted, is now on tour, arranging, in communication with the local officers, the details of the new scheme.

PATENTS.—There have been received in the office of the Chief Secretary to Government copies of the specifications of the inventions of which the following are brief descriptions:—Mr. Richard Morris, superintendent, oil factory, Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway Company, Lahore—"Improvements in the machinery and methods employed to pull punkahs and drive thermantidotes," Messrs. Louis and Josef Bollmann, Penzing, Vienna, Austria—"Improvements in overhead sewing and apparatus for that purpose," Mr. Francis Daniel Taylor, of Aston, Birmingham, county Warwick, England—"Improvements in apparatus for washing or cleansing linen and other fabrics, clothes, and other articles."—Gazette.

NORTH WESTERN PROVINCIAL STATE RAILWAY.—With regard to the progress of the Provincial State Railways in the North Western Provinces, we learn that the short line, twelve miles long, from Dildarnagar on the East Indian Railway to Ghazipur, will shortly be opened. The Kanpur-Farakabad line is also making strides towards completion. It is eighty-six miles long, and, of this, over sixty miles are now laid with rail, and trains are running. All other structures are completed or near completion, except the large bridges over the Issan and Kali Nadia. These will be some few months longer in hand, but there is every hope that the line will be open for traffic soon after the rains, or, at any rate, before the close of the present year. The Muttra-Achneyra line is also in progress, and may be expected to be far advanced towards completion by the end of 1880-81.—Englishman.

A CAPTAIN DROWNED.—Captain Gibson, the commander of the B.I.S.N. Company's vessel the Medina, has unfortunately been drowned by the upsetting of his gig whilst going alongside his vessel in the Rangoon river. Captain Gibson's body was not recovered for four days. This was the unfortunate deceased's first voyage as commander.—Englishman.

LITIGATION IN SYLHET.—The deputy commissioner of Sylhet, in his administration report for 1879-80, institutes a comparison between the litigiousness of the people of Sylhet and of other parts of India, from which it appears that, taking the number of suits instituted per 100 persons, Sylhet shows the same result—viz., 6, as is shown by Lower Bengal, Madras, and the North-Western Provinces. But Mymensingh shows slightly, and the 24-Pergunnahs and the Punjab show considerably, greater litigiousness.—Bombay Gazette.

THE JEWISH MINOR QUESTION.—The question of the custody of the Jewish female minor Rachael Solomon, which formed the subject of a somewhat extraordinary order by the deputy commissioner of Amritsar, has, we hear, been settled by Mr. Harun Joshua Gubboy, the warden of the Calcutta Bethel Synagogue, undertaking the charge of the girl, with the consent of her parents. The Chief Court at Lahore has accepted Mr. Gubboy's offer, and ordered the girl to be made over to him on his furnishing an indemnity for her suitable maintenance.—Englishman.

EXCESS OF PASSENGERS ON A STEAMER.—The steamer Rajpootana, which left Rangoon for Madras at 8 a.m., did not pass Elephant Point till half-past 4 p.m. We learn that the vessel was stopped at the Hastings at the instigation of the Assistant Quartermaster General, who objected to the large number of deck passengers as detrimental to the comfort of the sick soldiers and sepoys, of whom there were a good number on board. The result of the protest made by this officer was that out of the 650 passengers on board 250 were sent ashore. We are glad to see that the Assistant Quartermaster General took the step he did, for we are in hopes that it may be the means of calling attention once more to this and other evils connected with the passenger traffic on the seas.—Rangoon Gazette.

THE SINDIA FLAG.—The old flag of the Sindias was of orange colour, but it has now been changed into a kind of Union Jack, with the figure of a serpent in two patches of orange colour. Sindia has the privilege of having eleven symbols borne in procession in front of him. They are a representation of a crocodile's head, two ostrich's eggs, a representation of the sun, of the moon, of a fish, two representations of an open hand, one of a tiger's head, and two of a crescent adorned with Arabic inscriptions.—Indian Daily News.

THE CALCUTTA PORT COMMISSIONERS.—It appears that the idea of taking over charge of the Bengal Pilot Service and the Calcutta Port Establishment by the Port Commissioners has been abandoned for the present; but rumours have been heard to the effect that the commissioners contemplate taking over, at no distant period, the management and control of the light vessels and also of the river survey vessels. But to this there are many objections. The Port Commissioners have quite enough to do as it is, and it ought to be ruled, once for all, that they will not be allowed to absorb any Government department.—Indian Daily News.

THE CAWNPORE MEMORIAL CHURCH BELLS.—A correspondent writes from Cawnpore:—"A peal of bells for the Memorial Church at Cawnpore arrived in Calcutta in June and were forwarded by rail to Cawnpore. The carriage of the same, which amounted to close on Rs.200, was generously refunded by the E.I.R. Company without any application having been made by the committee of the Memorial Church."—Pioneer.

THE ROYAL FAMILY OF OUDH.—A matter will shortly come before the Supreme Legislative Council which is of interest to the members of the scattered family of the late King of Oudh. About fifty years ago his Majesty lent the East India Company sikkas Rs.62,40,000 on their agreeing to pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum to certain persons during life in specified proportions. Among the pensioners was Nawab Taj Mahal, one of the King's wives, whose portion was Rs.6,000 a month. It was stipulated by an article in the treaty that upon the death of any of the pensioners, leaving any heir or heirs, the English Government might continue, as before, the pension to the heir or heirs of the deceased, or to make over to them the principal sum proportionate to the pension in question according to the rate above mentioned. After the King's death Nawab Taj Mahal is said to have re-entered the married state, and to have become the mother of two girls by the second marriage. Of those two daughters one died without children; the other married and had a daughter, who is now living in the neighbourhood of Baghdad. Her grandmother, who migrated thither after the mutiny "in order to pass the remainder of her life near the sacred shrine of Kerbela, died three years ago, and since that period disputes have arisen, and more are expected to arise regarding the right to succeed her. One of the claimants is the granddaughter Begum Ku'sumissa, who, although successful in a suit brought at Lucknow by a person who describes himself as the brother of Nawab Taj Mahal's, is threatened with further litigation. Other persons have, it seems, come forward, who allege that she is not Nawab Taj Mahal's granddaughter at all. The Government are naturally anxious to settle the question, and with this view Mr. Colvin has obtained leave to introduce a bill directing all persons claiming to have a better right than the young lady of Baghdad to come forward and make good their claims if they can. The hon. gentleman has intimated that Government will at once pay off the principal of its debt if any person can be found competent to give a valid receipt for the money.—Times of India.

KILLED BY A BEAR.—News has been received that Mr. Alfred Pengelly, deputy conservator of forests in the Punjab, was killed on the 29th July by a black bear while demarcating forests in the Chamba State.—Times of India.
